BRITISH TROOPS TAKEN ON THE "ARCHANGEL FRONT"—A BOLSHEVIK WIRELESS

ARCHANGEL FRONT

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A Bolshevik wireless despatch from Moscow claims that the remainder of Admiral Kolchak's southern army has surrendered, raising the total of Bolshevik captures from Kolchak forces within a week to 45,000. The same despatch announces the capture of a number of prisoners in northern Divina region on the "Archangel front," including some British troops.

THE RAID IN IRELAND

TWO MEMBERS OF HOUSE OF COMMONS DETAINED IN DUBLIN

DUBLIN, Sept. 12. — Two Sinn Fein members of the House of Commons were detained in Dublin after a search here, while the houses of other Sinn Fein members of the Commons are under visitation. Sinn Fein clubs in Cork were raided this morning by armed police, who conducted searches while soldiers stood on guard outside. Unoccupied Sinn Fein headquarters were also broken into, but it is understood that nothing of importance was found there.

At Skibbereef, County Cork, armed police raided a newspaper office and also a number of private residences.

DUBLIN, Sept. 12. — Two Sinn Fein members of the House of Commons were arrested. They are Earnest Blythe, member for Monaghan North, and Patrick O'Keefe, member for the northern division of Cork County. Military lorries carrying prisoners from the outskirts of Dublin are arriving in the city.

Disorder followed a mass meeting of protest against conspirators, who had plotted to attack President Leguia, after the government had ordered the imprisonment of several of the conspirators.

Stone Thrown.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDONDERRY, Sept. 12. — While the police were seizing arms in a house on Rossville street here to-day a stone was thrown. The officer in command ordered troops to fix bayonets. The crowd thereupon dispersed. Reports from various districts in Donegal say the large parties of military are arriving. Details also have reached Nenagh and Hallinailo, where rifles and shot guns were captured. While troops were carrying to the barracks arms which had been seized in Londonderry, the crowd on the streets threw stones at the soldiers, upon which a charge took place clearing the thoroughfares. Sinn Fein members of the House of Commons spoke to the crowd from a motor lorry opposite the barracks. The police broke up this gathering also.

Houses Searched.

(Canadian Press.)

BUNCRANA, Ireland, Sept. 12. — Police and soldiers in full marching order searched houses and factories here this morning, but reported that they found nothing of moment.

(Canadian Press.)

BELFAST, Sept. 12.—Military and police activity was everywhere in evidence to-day against Sinn Fein organization. Raids were carried out in Belfast, at Lisburn, Derry, Dundalk, Louth and Enniskillen.

(Canadian Press.)

GALWAY, Sept. 12.— Large body of police and soldiers searched the houses of Sinn Fein leaders here today. Documents of a political nature were seized.

(Canadian Press.)

A quantity of high explosive, gelignite was seized at the Derry Sinn Fein headquarters. In the same town the occupant of the house which was being searched confronted the police with two revolvers, but was overpowered.

MR. J. J. PRESTON, M.P.P., WAS AGAIN NOMINATED BY THE EAST DURHAM CONSERVATIVES

A NEW SETTING

Millbrook, Sept 12.—For the sixth time within the past eighteen years the Conservatives of East Durham met yesterday afternoon in the town hall here, at a Provincial convention and with impressive formality nominated Mr. J. J. Preston, M.P.P. of Bethany to contest the riding at the forthcoming Provincial Election. Mr. Preston's opponent will be Mr. S. S. Staples of Ida post office, a U. F. O. candidate of Conservative stock, who, on Tuesday last was elected to carry the U. F. O. banner in the contest. It was stated that the Liberals will not put a man in the field preferring to let the issue rest between Mr. Preston and Mr. Staples in the hope that the latter will be elected. If the expressed hopes of yesterday's convention materializes, there will be nothing to do after the election but back the political hearse up to the door and cart away the remains of the U. F. O., and its defeated candidate. Yesterday's convention presented an entirely new setting from that of Tuesday's U.F.O. convention. Only three or four farmers took in both conventions and yesterday's gathering was less enthusiastic than the Tuesday representation. Besides the ladies were absent yesterday. They may have been there in spirit but not in the flesh. Two ladies stood on the first landing of the stairway and listened to the Hon. George Henry, Minister of Agriculture, as he thundered the praises of the Government, which he represents and attempted to shoot a few holes in the U.F.O. platform. Mr. Henry concluded his oration with an extended exposition of the many virtues of the Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Educatin.

Nominee's Address.

In a brief address, Mr. Preston thanked those present for the nomination. He described the present political situation as unique due to the entry into the arena of the U.F.O., "The U.F.O. platform and propaganda is directed largely at the Dominion Government and very little fault is found with the Hearst Government and its administration," said Mr. Preston. The U.F.O. should state clearly what legislation they object to, and show in what respect I have failed as the representative for East Durham. The Ontario Temperance Act has caused some dissatisfaction throughout the country, but the liquor question has now been taken out of politics and its fate will be decided by the people in the course of a few weeks. For my part I intend to vote No on all Four questions. If prohibition is good enough for war times it is good enough for peace times. In conclusion I would ask the electors of East Durham to do their utmost to secure the return of the Hearst Government which is a safe and sane administration.

Ex-Warden James Armstrong of Manvers who followed Mr. Preston, said he was still in favor of the Hearst Government, and knew of no reason why the Government should not be returned to power.

Ex-Warden Joseph Hickson of the same township, said there were two great issues in connection with the present campaign. One was the temperance issue, and the other was the United Farmers. The former would be decided by the people at the polls. "In regard to the farmers, said Mr. Hickson, "I think they have been pretty well treated during the past few years and if they are not satisfied they are pretty hard to satisfy."

Hon. George Henry.

The Hon. George Henry who was the next speaker, characterized the present situation as a peculiar contest in which the farmers are "clamoring" for more representation. Not a question is ever discussed or passed in the House without consideration is given to the farmers' interest in the matter. We look upon the farmers as the backbone of the country. This week you had Mr. J. J. Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the U.F.O. here telling you how the coun-

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 11. (Delayed). — The National Assembly of the Union of South Africa, ratified the peace treaty to-day by a vote of 84 to 19.

General Jan Smuts in defending President Wilson against the charges of bad faith in connection with his fourteen points, declared that Wilson had done more than any other statesman toward the restoration of world peace.

MR. CHRISTIE'S STATUS STILL UNDEFINED

ALDERMEN ADJOURNED AT MID-NIGHT AFTER A LENGTHY DEBATE

It was midnight, Engineer Frank Barber still attempting to show the Committee of the Whole Council why they should pay the salary of Mr. Christie, Mr. Barber's representative at the work on the bridge, and sometimes described as an engineer-inspector. Last week's controversy opened up again, but nothing was done and the Council still retained their former opinion that as the agreement distinctly provides that Mr. Barber must superintendent the work or have a representative on the work, that Mr. Christie, who telephones often to Mr. Barber in Toronto for instructions, is Mr. Barber's representative, and therefore he should be paid by Mr. Barber.

Mr. Charles Townsend, who is superintending the construction here for the Russell-Townsend Company, was asked by Ald. Edgar if there were any delays on the construction that should be remedied. Mr. Townsend stated that he wrote Mr. Barber asking if a storm sewer is going to be constructed from Burnham street down the hill. He has received no answer so far, although Mr. Barber has the authority to answer these things. He cannot take directions from Mr. Christie now, as he is only an inspector, Neither Mr. Christie or Mr. Townsend have plans in their hands.

Revised Plans.

Mr. Barber asked why there was a delay in drawing up the revised plans of the bridge stated that there was no delay and that he has had two men working on them for fifty days and that they would be ready in ten days and that a copy of them would be placed in the hands of the Quaker Oats Company and that he hoped that the city would not object to paying at the rate of $16 for each man per day working on the revision of the plans.

Then the discussion veered back to whether Mr. Christie is an engineer or only an inspector, and Mr. Barber stated that he wished that Mr. Christie was present, but Ald. Turner promptly replied that it was a good thing that he wasn't.

Ald. Phelan —"We were satisfied that the engineering was all right as long as Mr. Christie was on the job, but now that he is an inspector, who is the engineer?"

Mr. Barber — "He has the same powers as before. Mr. Christie is vested with the whole power of an engineer except that he can't revise the plans in any detail. Many things are referred by him to me. I am the engineer. Christie is an inspector, but on an important bridge like this, inspectors are always fully trained engineers. If the construction of the bridge runs on for two years, as it very well might, instead of eighteen months, and I had to pay Mr. Christie roughly $800 a month or $4,800 for the whole time, which is nearly $5,000, I would be doing the work for practically nothing, as you will find that my commission of two per cent. amounts to about $5,000.

Mayor Duncan wanted to know why the city was called upon to pay Mr. Barber two per cent. for sitting in his office, and paying Mr. Christie, who is doing Mr. Barbers' work.

Pound of Flesh.

Mr. Barber suggested that the matter be brought before Ont. Railway and Municipal Board for settlement and that each side pay their own solicitor to represent their case. This was Mr. Barber's ultimatum.

Ald. Turner was in a compromising mood, either that or very weary, and he suggested that the city pay half of Mr. Christie's wages and Mr. Barber the other half, but Mr. Barber did not see the matter in the same light and repeatedly urged that the matter be brought before the Ontario Railway Board. The city declined to take up Mr. Barber's challenge because they thought that it was a matter that they were capable of settling themselves.

Ald. Edgar—"If Mr. Christie gets instructions from Mr. Barber over the 'phone, Christie is the representative of Mr. Barber on the work Perhaps Mr. Christie does some inspecting work. Let's split 50-50 as Ald. Turner suggested and settle it.

Mr. Barber—"Gentlemen, I'll abide by the decision of the Ontario Railway Board. Will you extort the pound of flesh?"

Ald. Duncan abruptly called for an adjournment and the matter was left still unsolved.

Can Go Ahead.

Engineer Frank Barber explained to the members of the Council last night that the reason that the work of construction of the new bridge on the west side of the river had not been commenced was that the Dominion Railway Board had not given permission, but that he was given permission to go ahead with the construction by the Assistant Engineer of the Dominion Railway Board over long distance yesterday, and that he has given Mr. Charles Townsend instructions to go ahead with the work, and that it would likely be started this week.

ARTHUR HENDERSON WAS ELECTED

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, Sept. 12 — Arthur Henderson, the labour leader, who was defeated for reelection to Parliament at the general elections last winter, was elected in the House of Commons to-day at a bye-election in Widness, Lancaster.

Mr. Henderson polled 11,040 votes against 10,417 for his opponent, F. H. Fisher, a coalitionist candidate.

BOARD OF TRADE MET YESTERDAY

INTERESTING ADDRESS ON TRANSPORTATION BY MR. W. G. CAMPBELL

The commencement of special functions of the Board of Trade was marked by a luncheon held in the Empress Hotel at noon yesterday. It was very encouraging to note that approximately fifty members were present including representatives from the local branches of the C. P. R. and the G. T. R.

During the luncheon conservations on matters relative to the interests of business and general interests of the city were marked. After all present had finished the luncheon, the president, Mr. J. J. Turner, introduced the speaker of the day, Mr. W. S. Campbell, chairman of the Transportation Committee. In his short remarks he was pleased to note the number present and he hoped that on future occasions of this kind that the members of the board would turn out in such an encouraging way as he could see before him on this occasion.

The speaker opened his address by outlining the general transportation facilities that we are pleased to have to-day in the Dominion of Canada. This was then followed by a thorough explanation of the use of the bill of lading, which proved to be helpful and instructive to all who were present.

Instances of losses by business interests were cited, which proved the value of understanding the contract between shippers and carriers as covered by this document.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker by the president, and by the applause it could be readily noted that the meeting was thoroughly appreciated by all.

REPORT WILL BE READY IN WEEK

ALD. EDGAR INSISTS ON A LITTLE ACTION

Last night Ald. Edgar scored the council for their dilatoriness in the matter of a sewage disposal plant. He asked that the city get busy at once. He was afraid of action by the adjoining townships, and the Ontario Municipal Board have already ordered a hearing on the 18th of this month.

City Solicitor C. R. Widdifield stated that the city has been putting sewage in the river illegally for a period of ten years and that when the hearing opens if the city has not done something definite it will receive a black eye. What the city was going to do would not avail before the Municipal Board.

Mr. Phelan—"If Ald. Edgar will have a little patience we will have something to report along these lines. The system that we were going to adopt is now old and obsolete and we have something away ahead of it. We have to go over the whole matter again. We will report something substantial and the system will have a great deal to do with the selection of a site."

Ald. Edgar—"That isn't satisfactory. What I am worrying about is the action that the townships may take. Why do we need to send Engineer Parsons down to Milwaukee to inspect a sewage disposal plant, when we can read the report of a previous committee that went to that city some years ago"

Ald. Phelan—"Mr. Parsons stated that it is absolutely necessary that he go back to Milwaukee."

"Send him to-morrow then." demanded Ald. Edgar impatiently, "so that we can tell the Municipal Board that something has been done."

Mayor Duncan — "Dr. T. P. McCullough, the Provincial Officer of Health, said that something had to be done right away although he agreed that the farmers were holding us up for a huge price for a site. Dr. McCullough stated that he thought the city would have to pay more for a site than for ordinary purposes.

Ald. Phelan—"We will have a report in a week."

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street.

SOME OF THE REASONS WHY A NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL IS REQUIRED IN WEST WARD

MORE ACCOMMODATION REQUIRED TO RELIEVE OVERCROWDING—SUNDAY SCHOOL ROOM USED IN SOUTH END.

THE ENROLLMENT

Mr. E. G. Patterson, Chairman of Building Committee of the Board of Education, read the following letter to the Aldermen last night from Mr. A. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools.

Dear Sir:—The following are some of the reasons why a new Public School building should be erected in the South Central district:

1.—The present South Central Building is most unsatisfactory in many respects for school purposes. The lighting is very bad and is injurious to the eyes of the pupils; some of the rooms, on account of their very high ceilings, are hard to teach in; the halls are dark and narrow; there are no basement playrooms for the boys to assemble in during the winter; the lavatories are very small; the play-ground is entirely too small for a school of this size; the heating is by means of hot air and is very expensive—hard coal has to be used and there are five furnaces. The pupils in the other districts of the City attend bright, comfortable school-buildings and the pupils of the South Central district are entitled to a better school-building than they have at present.

More Accommodation

2.—More accommodation will have to be provided to relieve the overcrowding in the King Edward and South Central districts. At the present time the overcrowding at the King Edward is being relieved by having one class in the basement of the St. James Sunday School building, and the overcrowding in the South Central has been relieved by transferring one whole class to the Central and Queen Mary Schools Should the increase of pupils continue normal, by January 1921 there will be need of 14 or 15 class-rooms to accommodate the pupils of the South Central district and at the same time relieve the overcrowding at the King Edward.

3.—An addition to the King Edward would not relieve the situation as the present Northern boundary of the King Edward district is Wolfe street and this is as far north as it should go. It is not possible to erect an addition to the South Central building.

On account of the lack of accommodation, it has been impossible to introduce the work of Household Science and Manual Training in the King Edward and South Central schools. It is very necessary that these subjects should be introduced and their introduction will, in all probability, soon be compulsory.

5.—The Building Committee decided upon one large building which would accommodate the pupils of the South Central district, relieve the overcrowding at the King Edward, afford accommodation for Household Science and Manual Training classes for both schools, and still provide accommodation for future growth.

Present Enrollment.

South Central, 10 rooms, 413 pupils; Queen Mary, 13 rooms, 506 pupils; Central, 13 rooms, 500 pupils; King Edward, 12 rooms, 530 pupils.

(b) 45 pupils of the South Central district who were transferred are not included in the 413.

I remain,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) A. Mowat,
I.P.S.

PETERBOROUGH BACK TO STANDARD TIME

WILL REVERT ONE WEEK FROM SUNDAY NEXT

The city will go back to Standard time at twelve o'clock, midnight, on Sunday, September 21st. The Mayor brought the matter to the attention of the Aldermen last night and thought that as the railroads do not change back to Standard time until the first of November the city could not wait that long and now was a good jumping off place and the Council agreed with him. Mayor Duncan proposed midnight of Sunday, September 14th but some of the aldermen thought that it would be better to allow the citizens an extra week to get used to the idea of remaining in bed an extra hour in the morning.

BUNGLED HANGING IN MONTREAL JAIL

(Special to Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Sept. 12. — Antonio Spracage, the Italian who murdered Alfred J. Roberts of Stratford, Ont., the foreman in the G. T. R. yard at Turcot, was to have been hanged this morning at 7.45 in the Bordeaux Jail. An hour after the bolt was released which shot his body into space, he was still alive, the drop failing to break his neck. Ten minutes after the man was cut down the jury went to see the body but found him alive although half strangled. He was taken to the jail hospital in a dying condition, and was pronounced dead by Dr. Benoit, the jail dortor, at 9.02.

SCHOOL BOARD SECURED MONEY

ALDERMEN IMPRESSED WITH NEEDS OF CITY FOR MORE SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION

Messrs. A. A. Fowler, Mendel Greene, R. Deane, G. O. Cameron, A. McKone, Dr. Frank Neal, E. G. Patterson and J. W. Worth of the Board of Education waited on the Committee of the Whole Council last night with a request for $240,000 to build the proposed new school. Mr. E. G. Patterson, chairman of the Building Committee of the Board of Education stated that the new school would not be completed till 1921 and that the whole twenty rooms would be occupied as soon as the school was opened. Both of the aldermen and the school board agreed that there was no way out of the matter, that school accomodation had to be obtained and that there must be no delay. Mr. Patterson stated that even now pupils were being turned away from the South Central School, the King Edward and the Collegiate Institute, and the Board was not only to build a new school, but that they would in the near future ask the Council for money to make an addition to the Collegiate and start some kind of a Technical school which was absolutely necessary. He asked for enough money at once so that the foundations for the new school could be finished this fall so that next autumn would see the school finished.

Mr. Patterson forecasted that a bill would be submitted to the Ontario Legislature by Dr. Cody, the Minister of Education, making it compulsory for a child to attend school up to eighteen years of age and that if the new school is not built the City Council will be soon looking about for an up-town building in which to teach children up to eighteen who are now working.

There was no objection whatever in the Council to the granting of the money and Ald. Turner's motion was unanimously carried.

"That the City Solicitor be authorized to prepare a by-law to grant the Board of Education the sum of $240,000 for erection and equipment of a new public school and that 30 year debentures be issued to bear interest at 5½%.

RATIFIED THE TREATY

FIELDING AMENDMENT WAS DEFEATED ON A STRAIGHT PARTY VOTE

CANADA'S RIGHT

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, September 12. — At 1.30 this morning the House of Commons rejected the amendment of the Hon. W. S. Fielding, providing for a reservation to Canada's approval of the peace treaty, to the effect that approval should not be held to imply surrender of Canada's right to determine what part this country should take in any war.

The amendment was defeated on a straight party vote of 102 to 70.

The ratification of the treaty was then unanimously agreed to.

C.P.R. VISITORS TO THE EXHIBITION

HOW TO KILL DANDRUFF SO IT WON'T RETURN

BY A SPECIALIST

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well-known fact. We appreciate, therefore, the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. For this reason it is a pleasure to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found after repeated tests, will completely destroy the dandruff germs in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be put up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you—6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces of Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favourite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its orginal colour.

ANOTHER GOLD FIND IN WEST

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 12.—Rich beams of gold have been discovered by Toronto explorers in the great Winnipeg water district, eight miles from the intake of Shoal Lake, and a company will be organized to develop the claim according to information at the City Hall. Prof. D. E. Lary, Prof. of Geology at the University of Manitoba, assayed samples from the find at $130 a ton. Gold was discovered ten miles south of Ingolf, H. W. Lay said. A. B. McClelland, F. X. Hohn, George Nathanson, Jas. Hicks and F. C. Carter of Toronto, were members of the party that made the discovery.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks, who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and atttractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. When ever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through you hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

CURRENT BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

Reverting to Serious Terms.

Literary people who know Jerome K. Jerome through his "Three Men in a Boat," and one or two other similar books, were rather astonished when "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," with its distinctly religious flavor was issued from his pen. There is a whisper among Jerome's friends that something happened in his life to turn his ideas and consequently his literary type, to more serious themes. In any event, strength is given to this theory in a new book to be published by The Ryerson Press this fall titled "All Roads Lead to Calvary." Peculiarly enough, a title like this covers the story of a brilliant and beautiful girl who attempts to lift the world and gain fame by entering journalism.

Literature As a Help in Religion.

Rev. Dr. Trevor Davies, who came to the Metropolitan Church, Toronto a couple of years ago, after some considerable pastoral experience in England, has adopted a very novel plan to meet the needs of the cosmopolitan congregation in his down-town church, for the Sunday evening service last year. He hit on the scheme, for instance, of picking on some of the masterpieces in literature, most of which are certainly not well known to the man on the street in Canada, of telling the story involved, and of drawing a religious or moral truth from these. The addresses made up in this way have been put in book form by The Ryerson Press, and, as it may be of interest to note, are being brought out simultaneously also in Great Britain and the United States. In these addresses, Dr. Davies touches, for instance, on the fundamental truths contained in such literary gems as Ibson's "Peer Gyat," Francis Thompson's "Hound of Heaven," Morley's "Life of Gladstone," Browning's "Pippa Passes," and others. They give unusual encouragement in the facing of life's battles.

A Tower of Mystery.

Of course, a tower, a castle, and a mystery have to be included in any of Anthony Hope's studies, a la "The Prisoner of Zenda." Hope has not produced a book for a little time, but his new novel, "The Secret of the Tower," to be published this fall, has all the earlier characteristics including, of course, the tower and the mystery. This one in a most timely fashion also includes a returned soldier and a female doctor, the latter of whom is used in a remarkable way in the solution of the mystery.

A Nine-Year-Old Authoress.

Unusual interest and curiosity has been stirred up in London, and indeed rather widely in England, in a new novel, "The Young Visitors," by Daisy Ashford, a little London girl of nine years, who must certainly have been brought up in a literary atmosphere. Some little time ago the child's work, written purely for the love of the thing, was submitted to Sir James Barrie, who was interested enough to write an introduction and recommend it to a publisher. Sir James had evidently told some of his friends about it, for when the book was issued in London some little time ago, one bookseller took 1,500 copies, and the whole edition prepared for the world's metropolis was sold out before noon on the day of issue. The book is being published, by the way, by The Ryerson Press, this fall.

Hugh Walpole says: "The technique is admirable. Adventure follows adventure, quite breathlessly—there is no time for pause. But it is in the creation of character that Miss Ashford especially excels. Mr. Salteena, her hero, is admirably done. His first note to his friend announcing his visit should become classic. He thus declares himself: 'I do hope I shall enjoy myself with you. I am fond of digging in the garden and I am parshial to laides if they are nice. I suppose it is my nature. I am not quite a gentleman, but you would hardly notice it, but can't be helped anyhow."

Characteristic Byron Stauffer.

A man named Byron Stauffer, who says and writes pertinent and sticking-to-the-memory things, is pretty well and favorably known all through Canada, but particularly in Toronto, where for years he held a church full every Sunday night in one of the down-town churches, and in Winnipeg, where he is doing somewhat similar work now. No one would take Stauffer for a preacher either if one met him on the street or on first looking at his literary material, but after one talked with him or after one read his matter for ten minutes, the punch toward something of a better life comes and leaves its impression. Some of Mr. Stauffer's writings for the last year or so have been put in book form by the Ryerson Press, and are now being published this fall under the title "The Battle Nobody Saw." Chapter Eight, headed "Who Cut That Man's Hair?" is somewhat indicative of Mr. Stauffer's methods, this one dealing, by the way, along lines one certainly has seldom seen, with Samson and his life tragedy.

From Our Own Northwest.

Many an author looks longingly at the stored-up romance of our great Canadian West, wishing that time and opportunity would allow him to collect the incidents and local color necessary to a new novel. Just this has been done by Bertrand W. Sinclair in "Burned Bridges," (The Ryerson Press) who puts an inexperienced missionary in a sparsely-settled district and has him travel through a considerable section of the West. The difficulties of a love affair with the inevitable crooked happenings but a happy ending and the picturing of real men and women with strength both of fists and character gives assurance that the book should be, to a considerable extent at least, popular.

BEWARE OF DECEPTION

Statistics show that when egg albumen is used as a constituent of baking powder, the amount so used is too small (usually 15/100 of 1%) to affect the quality or effectiveness of the baking powder containing it, and when so used, is plainly for the purpose of fraud. Intelligent buyers will not permit themselves to be deceived by the water glass test.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

contains no alum or egg albumen and is guaranteed to be composed of the ingredients printed on the label—and none other.

TRIFLES LIGHT AS THE AIR

(By H. F. GADSBY)

The speech from the throne indicates that it is to be all meringue and no pie. The mover and seconder of the address in reply had an unusually hard time of it because there was nothing to reply to. Brother Rowell, I understand, was the mentor who coached Messrs. Whidden and Macintosh in the soft art of answering nothing.

Brushing aside for the moment the twenty-five hundred dollars which is to be each member's unearned increment, Parliament says with a straight face it has met to ratify the Treaty of Versailles and that it will take at least 32 days and perhaps more to do it. Authenticated copies of the document have been distributed which no doubt will have a news interest to many of the members who are unaware that there is any difference between the armistice terms and the final covenant signed by the Allies in the Hall of Mirrors.

There is a difference of course, a considerable difference, which does not meet with the favor of good old Tories like Editor Maxse of the National Review, but I am informed that Parliament, so long as it gets the money and gets back home inside of six weeks, is not disposed to be critical. It will not stand on nice points, or insist that the war be fought over again because the Treaty is a little kinder to the Germans than the armistice was. It will ratify the Treaty as it stands, being convinced that Lloyd George and President Wilson, and Clemenceau, did the best they could. Of course ratifying the treaty will put Brother Rowell in a hole because when the treaty is ratified peace is officially inaugurated and we have always understood that the war could not end until Mr. Rowell said so. I suppose they will fix it up with an order in council declaring that while the war is closed for advertising purposes it is still open as far as Union government is concerned and therefore cannot be considered won until December, 1922, when the five year mandate expires.

Almost as elusive as the speech from the throne is the condition of the Cabinet with one Minister — Public Works—off the job altogether, and two more, Finance and Agriculture on the outside, looking in. Messrs. Drayton and Tolmie lack seats and are consequently to be regarded as astral bodies which, as everybody knows, do not need anything to sit on. As astral bodies they are competent to give absent treatment to any questions concerning their departments which may arise in the House.

Sir Henry and Dr. Tolmie appear almost every day in the public gallery and occupy seats in the front row from which they can watch the game. A code of signals has been arranged between them and the floor leader so that everything goes with the precision of a good game of baseball. Whenever Premier Borden is in doubt he looks up to the gallery and Sir Henry gives him the sign for the squeeze play or whatever manoeuvre may be necessary at that stage of the battle. I haven't mastered all the signs yet but I notice that when Sir Henry turns his right thumb down Premier Borden shows 'em no mercy.

A disturbing feature of Parliament is the cross benches. The cross benches are so called because they are a heavy cross for Union Government. It is hardly conceivable that the cross — which is constantly taking on weight — may ultimately become so heavy that the Government will collapse under it. How cross does one have to be before one shifts to the cross benches? I do not know. But I do know that the cross benches are getting crosser every session of Parliament. They are crosser this session by one Conservative—Burnham of Peterborough—and two Liberal recruits—Buchanan of Lethbridge and Douglas of Strathcona—from the Unionist party. These with Mr. Crerar's Wee Frees make a cross-bench colony of fifteen, all save one of whom are drifting toward the Liberal party. They are not there yet but they are on their way. It is hard to see how Western Liberal Unionists can avoid the attraction of gravitation to a party whose tariff resolutions admit that the voice of the Western farmers is the voice of God.

The cross benches will probably get every Liberal Unionist from the West with the possible exception of Richardson of Springfield who is forming a Grape-Nut party of his own. I cannot vision the Eastern Liberal Unionists flocking to the cross benches or following the example of Mr. Fielding and re-uniting with the Liberal party because most of them are satisfied to remain where they are knowing that for them to-morrow is as yesterday—that is to say all gone. So far there have been two Conservative-Unionist defections— Nickel, of Kingston who resigned when the war was officially won and Burnham of Peterborough, who seeks the cross benches not to get nearer the Liberal party but to get further away from the camouflaged Unionists. Burnham is impatient of disguise. He is a party stalwart and he wants to get back where he knows what he is fighting about. When Premier Borden looks at the cross benches he feels like the little Dutch boy who tried to keep the Zuyder Zee out by sticking his finger in the dyke. The cross benches represent the insurging ocean of human nature which Premier Borden is trying to hold back.

Leader Rowell is another uneasy sign of the times. The President of the Privy Council is obviously nervous. He jiggles about like a hen trying to cross the road in front of a funeral. He looks as distressed as a Union Jack upside down. Something is eating our crusader. I am told that he will introduce his cold-water bill again this session and that the Senate will treat it in the usual way. This will make three times and when a man goes down three times he is supposed to be finished unless the subsequent operation of rolling him over a barrel calls him back again.

It may be that Leader Rowell sorrows at the prospective fate of his bone-dry baby but it looks to me as if the matter went deeper than that. He seems to have lost his old home with the Liberal party and the Unionist party hasn't got its roof on straight. Presently he may have nowhere to lay his head. The man ought to be in good health for he has just returned from a holiday in British Columbia where he filled up on Okanagan apples. An apple a day, as we all know, keeps the doctor away, and Mr. Rowell was long enough out there on his cider ranch to build up a strong constitution. But for some reason or other he fidgets.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acids and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

THE EAST DURHAM FIGHT.

J. J. Preston, who was nominated by the Liberal-Conservative Association of East Durham at the convention in Millbrook yesterday, faces something new in his long parliamentary career, the opposition of a numerous and united body of farmers. This is Mr. Preston's sixth nomination and for eighteen years he has been undefeated at the polls, the constituency, largely a rural one, having been strongly Conservative, especially in the Ontario elections. In the coming elections the veteran standard-bearer faces new conditions. The farmers whose vote used to make his election sure, are arrayed, many of them under a new and strange banner, that of the United Farmers of Ontario. The old campaign speeches will have to be discarded and the contest fought out on novel lines. The campaign in East Durham looks like a real test of the strength of the farmers' movement. The riding, usually Conservative in tendency, is a rural one—the candidates are well known and popular, and from all appearances there will be no Liberal nominated, so that the Government and U. F. O. nominee have the field to themselves. The situation is similar to that in East Peterborough, where the sitting member is being opposed by a United Farmers' candidate.

A BID FOR THE SOLDIERS.

The speech of the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. T. W. McGarry, favouring larger gratuities for soldiers, was calculated to provide excellent campaign material for the Ontario Government in the coming election. Canada's ex-service men, however, are not so easily carried away. They realize that talk is cheap and know that the Ontario Government will not be called upon to provide any of the money for the bigger bonus, so that Mr. McGarry was quite safe in talking as he did. The Provincial Treasurer's remarks in connection with the gratuity question were made, significantly enough, at a political convention at Walkerton. It was quoted verbatim in the chief government organ, the Mail and Empire, and prominently displayed under the heading, "Ontario Government Behind the Returned Soldiers." The object is plain, Mr. McGarry's speech was a bold-faced bid for the vote of the returned soldiers. The latter, however, realize that if the Provincial Treasurer was not seeking political capital and was really anxious to help their cause along, he would not have made the subject the feature of a political address, but would have made his representations to his friends of the Union Government at Ottawa, who alone have the power to do what the soldiers are asking.

MORE DUBIOUS ADVERTISING.

The individual who writes the advertisements for the Citizens' Liberty League is to be congratulated upon his ingenuity if not upon the honesty of his methods. In the League's latest advertisement, headed "The Reason for the Referendum Ballot," the writer starts out with the statement, "The Government realizes that the Ontario Temperance Act is unsatisfactory, both to the great majority of the people and as well to the officials sworn to carry out its provisions." In support of this declaration the advertisement quotes from a speech made by Premier Hearts, in an effort to give the impression that Sir William was not satisfied with the whole Temperance Act and had provided the referendum ballot to relieve the conditions. As a mater of fact the words of the Premier as quoted were not used in connection with the referendum at all. Mr. Hearst was introducing a bill to emend the Ontario Temperance Act, and was dealing solely with the question of the sale of liquor for medicinal purposes. In this connection he used the expressions quoted by the Liberty League. The publicity man for the latter organization, by printing only part of the Premier's remarks on this subject and by stating that they were used in connection with the referendum, is endeavouring to make people believe that the Government itself had pronounced the Temperance Act a failure and that therefore the referendum ballot had been arranged.

"During the past year the methods provided by The Ontario Temperance Act for dispensing such liquors as may lawfully be sold, have not proven as satisfactory as the Government would like. The Government is most anxious, as far as possible, to remedy any abuses and relieve any inconveniences that exist."

The full text of Premier Hearst's statement in this connection throw a different light on the question. In introducing a Bill to amend the Ontario Temperance Act—not the Referendum Act, be it remarked, which was not commented on until later in the Premiers address—Sir William said:

"During the past year the methods provided by the Ontario Temperance Act for dispensing such liquors as may lawfully be sold for medicinal and other purposes through licensed vendors, have not proved as satisfactory as the Government would like. A number of causes have contributed to this result. Chief among these are the prohibition of the importation of liquor into the province by the Dominion Order-in-Council, unprecedented demand for liquor for medicinal purposes arising out of the epidemic of influenza that spread over the country last fall, and the improper conduct of a few, and I am glad to say very few, medical men in the Province. The government is most anxious as far as may be possible, to remedy any abuses and relieve any inconveniences that exist. To this end the Bill to which I have alluded (amending the Ontario Temperance Act) will provide for the abolition altogether of the sale of liquor by private vendors and will provide means for handling this business direct by the government."

To make use of words employed by the Premier in introducing a measure to provide a change in the method of selling liquor for medicinal purposes, as if they had been used in a general condemnation of the Ontario Temperance Act itself, is a characteristic bit of Liberty League advertising.

HEARST AND TEMPERANCE.

Interesting light upon Sir William Hearst's connection with the temperance question is furnished by the following letter which appeared a day or two ago in the columns of the London Advertiser. It needs no comment other than to say that it was written by Mr. J. W. Oakes, of Guelph, who for nearly two years was organizing secretary of the Committee of One Hundred and Social Reform Service Council of Ontario. Mr. Oakes writes as follows:

Sir,—Letters have appeared in the press recently, also an editorial in the Christian Guardian, containing some unfavourable and unfair comment on the Ontario Liberal leader, Mr. Hartley Dewart. Mr. Dewart is well able to take care of himself, but coupled with these attacks on Mr. Dewart are some comments regarding his supporters, which are nothing short of gratuitous insult to the electors of Ontario.

Being one of the delegates at the Liberal convention, who very heartily supported Mr. Dewart, I may say that my reason for doing so was this fact—Ontario requires at this time an able, virile, courageous, resolute man at the helm, a man who will fearlessly grapple with the questions that so seriously affect the masses of the people, such as the trusts, combines and profiteers, and give a sane square deal to the soldiers settling in Ontario, and also to see that the statutes of the province are honestly and impartially enforced, which is not the case under the present premier. I challenge any man who speaks for the premier, or those associated with him, to say that there has ever been an honest effort made to enforce the Ontario temperance act impartially. Mr. Dewart is the one member of the Legislature of outstanding ability and possessing the essential qualities for leadership, and we have his pledged word that should he become leader of the Government, the will of the people shall be vigorously and impartially carried into effect.

Premier Hearst is held up to the electors by the writers of the letters referred to and the Christian Guardian, as the star which they should follow. I trust that no elector, Liberal or Conservative, will be misled by this sophistry. Premier Hearst on more than one occasion has shown himself to be a painted lath, a man with feet of clay. Have we forgotten what occurred in the Legislature in 1915, when the member for South Wellington, Mr. S. Carter, made repeated efforts to have the hours lessened in which liquor might be sold? The war was then raging, and Canada had been at war for nearly twenty months. Efficiency and conservatism were urgently needed. Did Premier Hearst (then a member of the Government) have the courage of his convictions, and take a stand for the curtailment of the liquor trade? Did he rise in his place in the Legislature and champion the prohibition cause? Did he so much as raise his voice or finger to lessen the ravages of the liquor traffic? No. Premier Hearst at that critical time when the test was applied sat in the seat of the scornful. He sat with those who mocked and jeered at the efforts of the member for South Wellington. Where then was Premier Hearst's vaunted courage, and from whence came his so-called courage in 1916? The answer to that is simple. A petition praying for prohibition had in the meantime been signed by about 75 per cent. of the electors of the province, and Premier Hearst had the remarkable courage to decide that it was safer politically (at least for a time) to forsake the 25 per cent. (his former friends) and associate himself and his Government with the 75 per cent. of the electors.

A few months later Premier Hearst again revealed himself in his true colours, leading the faithful in devious ways and paths. A by-election was held in South-west Toronto. The Conservative candidate, Mr. James Norris, declared himself in favour of beer and wine licenses for Ontario, and Premier Hearst, the leader whom the Christian Guardian, forsooth, would have all the faithful follow, accepted Mr. Norris, the champion of beer and wine licenses, as Government candidate, thereby implying that Mr. Norris was a good-enough temperance man for him. Also two members of the Hearst Government virtually promised the electors of South-west Toronto beer and wine licenses if they would give Mr. Norris three, four or five thousand of a majority. And the premier and his Government have been playing a double game with the Ontario temperance act since that time, watching each constituency to see on which side of the fence the majority was to be found.

Having personal knowledge of how the Ontario temperance act is being administered in all parts of the province, I would be doing violence to my conscience and stultifying myself if I supported the group of timble-tricker politicians now in control in Queen's Park.

Dear Sir:

We have yours of the 3rd inst., with 2 lines of Women's Dongola Bals returned.

We think that you will find that you were exceedingly unwise in returning these shoes, which we will be glad to get. The best price that we can to-day quote on the one line is $9.75, while the price to you was $6.50.

The same thing applies to the other shoe which is worth $1.50 more than the price you were charged for it.

Yours very truly,
WRITERS NAME ON REQUEST.

The above is an exact copy of a letter which we received from a wholesaler to whom we returned two lines of Women's boots which were unsatisfactory to us. These boots were bought two weeks ago and in that time have gone up in price $3.25. The above letter is published to illustrate the advance in shoe prices and to serve as a comparison between the prices which we have to pay for boots and the list of items appearing below. Our stock which was bought long ago is now large and complete, so we would advise early buying of all fall and winter footwear.

Cooking Puff Balls.

Now that puff-balls are in season frequent inquiries are made about cooking this delicious edible fungus. The skin may be white or brown, it matters not but see that the flesh is white—no tinge of either green or brown, peel, slice, throw into salted water for a few minutes, take out, roll in flour, or cornmeal. (Mix beaten egg with flour if you like) and fry slowly till a golden brown in plenty of dripping, or it may be dried and simmered slowly and with butter, pepper and salt added and a little parsley and served as a stew. It may be broken in tiny bits and added to almost any gravy. Added to stewed tomatoes with onions, it is delicious.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

BARBARA DISCOVERS DISTURBING NEWS IN THE PAPERS

CHAPTER LXIV.

It had been an evening paper in which I had read of Carter, the oil promoter. Just why I should hunt through the next day's morning paper for more news upon the same subject I cannot explain. Yet I did. I skipped the things I usually read and looked carefully for more about this promoter. I found it. A scathing arraignment of the man and his methods.

As I read I unconsciously put the name Forbes in the place of Carter. How dreadful it seemed. Why could not I abide by the decision I had made the night before that Neil was not dishonest just because other men in the same business were. I kept saying that over to myself as I restlessly roamed about the house, with none of the pride and delight in my beautiful home which had possessed me for weeks. I did not see the things which had given me so much joy when I purchased them. My mind was wholly taken up with Neil, his business affairs.

"How I wish he had talked over his business with me," I said aloud. "Then I should have known what to say to Lorraine when she accused him of being crooked in his methods; and I should know what to do about my plans."

Suddenly I stopped in my restless pacing. An idea had occurred to me. I would go down to Neil's office I was his wife and they would tell me anything I wanted to know. So I thought ,showing how little I knew of business, and business ethics.

I dressed plainly in a dark tailor suit and rode down. There was no one in the outer office but the fluffy haired stenographer and bookkeeper. I walked toward the private office, after speaking to them, saying I was Mrs. Hyde, I found the door locked.

"Please open the door," I said to the girl.

"I haven't any key," she returned looking at me in a queer way that made me decidedly uncomfortable.

"Will you kindly unlock the door of my husband's office. There are some papers there I must get," I turned to the bookkeeper.

"Mr. Hyde has the key with him. When he is away his private office is always locked," the man returned civilly.

"But surely someone has a key Who cleans it?

"It is never disturbed during his absence."

I had not realized how much I had hoped to find something to put my mind at ease until I was thwarted in my plan. I turned and went down to the car, almost ready to cry. If Neil only would come home. He would tell me all I wanted to know.—But would he? Why did he lock up his office whenever he was not there if everything was all right? Perhaps business men—big business men always did. Of course they wouldn't want the clerks meddling with their papers. But locking the desk would obviate that.

Suddenly I stopped the car.

"Go back to the office, Thomas," I ordered my chaffeur.

There would be mail there of course. In Neil's absence some one had to read it. I would ask to look over the mail, giving as an excuse that the paper I was looking for might be in one of the letters which had arrived after he left.

Both the bookkeeper and stenographer looked surprised to see me back. I saw them glance knowingly at each other and it made me speak more coldly than otherwise I should have done.

"I do," the bookkeeper replied.

"Where do you keep it? That paper I was looking for may have come in a letter. I will look over the mail which has arrived since Mr. Hyde's absence,"

"That will be impossible madame. The mail is all put through the slide in Mr. Hyde's private office door as soon as it arrives. His orders, strict orders ma'am," he had pointed to the slide in the door. I had not observed it until he drew my attention.

Baffled, I once more left the office. This time angry tears did fill my eyes. I wiped them away, then, because I was so reckless, I told Thomas to drive to Lorraine Norton's. I would call upon her for half an hour. Perhaps I would feel better, after a chat with her. Lorraine was always delightful company.

Bird Reserves.

It is something for one bird to tell another that Canada has created a series of reserves in the Province of Quebec where birds are safe from man-made troubles. Unlike most bird refuges, Perce Rock, a picturesque island near Perce Village; the east and north cliffs of Bonaventure Island, three miles further away; and the northernmost of the Magdalen Islands, 124 miles out to sea, have been set apart specifically to protect birds whose value to mankind is chiefly their beauty as a part of nature. There is no attempt to argue, for example, that the gannet, the kittiwake, or the razorbill auk should be protected because they "help the farmer"; they are protected simply because they are birds. No human being may steal an egg from their nests; no weapon dangerous to their welfare may be brought within a mile of their island sanctuaries. Naturally all other birds are equally safe, and the three refuges will be a help toward carrying out the purpose of the international treaty for bird protection.

Handle Tubers Carefully.

Potatoes should be handled carefully and not as though they were cobblestones. The potato is a living thing, with a protective skin, which it is able to keep intact if it has a fair chance.

"The Bells of St. Clement's."

The Bells of St. Clement's are, it seems, doing great things in the way of earning money to pay for their own restoration. So large have been the numbers that attend daily to see the old bells as they group themselves, rather awkwardly, it must be confessed, round the porch of St. Clement Danes, that sundry extensions have had to be made in the hours they are on view. Even at the popular price of sixpence each and half price to parties of twenty, the bells are simply coining money.

"When will you pay me?"
Said the bells of old Bailey.
"Oh, I'm sure I don't know,"
Said the big bell of Bow.

Such petulant uncertainty, it may be taken, has no part in the outlook of "the Bells of St. Clement's," even if they have, perforce, to remain silent as regards "oranges and lemons."

He Rose From the Ranks

"TED'S the sort of fellow that know's what's what," remarked a comrade when he was recounting the rapid rise of Major Edward Hooper Birkett, M.C., D.S.O., from the ranks to his present position in the Canadian Engineers. "I remember that when he was in our company serving as a non-com. he was the brightest of the boys and the life of the bunch. With all of that though he had his engineering work down cold. One night during our first few months in France after placing a night working party in their positions he was called away for a few moments. Meanwhile a high staff officer dropped in on us and ordered that Ted's dispositions be altered. Very soon afterwards we could hear Ted stumbling through the darkness and pouring maledictions upon the man who had dared to change his men. He isn't a very big fellow, but he went up to the officer and it gave us fellows a good laugh to hear him telling a colonel off while he was only a lance-corporal. Of course he had his nerve right with him, but he knew that he was right and that the officer had no right to change his dispositions."

And so it was throughout his term of service in France that Major Birkett's faculty of knowing "what's what" brought him steady promotion. He graduated from the School of Mining at Queen's University in 1909 as a mining engineer and had had considerable experience in Western Canada, Mexico and New Ontario when he was summoned back to the university to join the student company of engineers — the Fighting Fifth — which was being organized for service under one of the professors, Major Alexander McPhail, C.M.G., D.S.O. In the second week in August he trudged into Valcartier as a sapper, and his company was absorbed into the 2nd Field Company, Canadian Engineers, C.E.F., for active service.

In October he was transferred to the 1st. F.C.C.E. and reached France in February. After taking part in the battles of St. Julien, Festubert and Givenchy in April, 1915, he was promoted to lance-corporal, and in June his good work secured for him the rank of corporal. In December, 1915, he was granted his commission, and a year later he was promoted to captaincy. Meanwhile on June 13, 1916, he was awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery in the recapture of Mount Sorel. In the face of repeated enemy attacks he organized his company and helped to rally infantry troops. On that occasion he was on duty for twenty-four hours and was wounded in the left hand. During the whole of his long period of service in the war this was his only injury.

He served in all the principal engagements of the Canadians, including the shows at the Somme, Vimy Ridge, and Passchendaele. In August, 1918, he was rewarded with his majority, and in addition he was mentioned in despatches on no less than five occasions for splendid service, and invested with the D.S.O.

Major Birkett is a son of John Birkett, treasurer of the Canadian Locomotive Co., Kingston, and Mrs. Birkett, and another brother, Lieut. Leonard Birkett, M.C., served for many months in France.

"Making Over" a Climate.

The latest suggestion toward "making over" a climate deals with that of Eastern Canada, which many people think would be improved if it were made milder. Mr. H. T. Elliott, a Canadian engineer, thinks such a change could be brought about by closing Belle Isle Straits. Among the results, in his opinion, would be that Montreal would become an open port during the whole year, the banks of the St. Lawrence would be in perpetual blossom of flowers and shrubbery, and, incidentally, people all the world over would long to live there. As an engineering problem, there seems no reason to doubt that the Straits could be closed, although at an expense which Canada might not care to assume just at this time. Whether the seasons would be so greatly changed is another matter, not conclusively settled by theoretical probabilities.

"Just can't work any more." The jaded, jaded over-worked woman, with pains here and there should ask her neighbor for advice. Tom-to-day she was dragged down by the pains and ailments of her sex, and was completely cured by that temperance tonic made from wild herbs and roots, and known for 50 years as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When a woman complains of backache, dizziness or pain—when everything looks black before her eyes—a dragging feeling, or bearing-down, with nervousness, she should turn to this "temperance" herbal tonic, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It can be obtained in almost every drug store in the land and the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper. Put up in tablets or liquid. Dr. Pierce, of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send a trial size for 10 cents.

Toronto, Ont.—"In Pierce's Medicine I have found a wonderful help in time of need and I recommend it in hope that others may be benefited as I was. When I was a girl I was always sickly. My mother thought she could never raise me. As I got older I grew worse; doctors said I must have to have an operation. I suffered at time untold agony. My mother started giving me Favorite Prescription' and it finally cured me of all my trouble. After I married I used it again. My children are all healthy and strong. This medicine did wonders for me, saved me pain, suffering, and I can highly recommend it to women or those raising a family."—Mrs. A. W. Lott, 151 Tecumseh Street.

THE REFERENDUM BALLOT

What Each Question Means—and Why You Should Vote "YES" on All Four Questions

Vote "YES"

1. Are you in favor of the repeal of The Ontario Temperance Act?

The repeal of The Ontario Temperance Act does not mean a return to the general sale of spirituous liquors, as the Premier, in his speech of April 7th, said: "Now, practically no one suggests a return to old conditions. The distillers in a recent manifesto say that they themselves are opposed to it. Many hotelkeepers say they are opposed to it. The brewers say they are opposed to it. Honourable gentlemen in the House and people out of the House, who are opposed to the present Act, say they are equally opposed to the old order. The labor men who ask for stronger beer, say they don't want the sale of hard liquor."

The Premier and the Government, realizing this, would not be parties to a continuance of the general sale of spirits as under the old license system, but would amend the License Act in accord with public sentiment. This would be in keeping with the policy of the Provincial Governments of the past fourteen years, which have from time to time amended the License Act to conform to the wishes of the people. To vote "Yes" to question number one would enable the Government to provide for the sale of beer and light wine in the hotels, and beer and spirits in Government stores for home consumption.

The Citizens' Liberty League does not want a return to the conditions under the old License Act and the sale of liquor over the bar. It does ask, however, for the general sale of beer 2.51% alcohol by weight (non-intoxicating) and light wines, and that the Government should only allow the sale of heavier beers and liquors through agencies established and maintained under Government supervision and control. It is therefore necessary that question one should be answered "Yes," repealing The Ontario Temperance Act and making it possible for the Government to enact a new temperance measure in accord with the expressed will of the people.

By voting "Yes" on question number one you will be in agreement with Premier Hearst when he said: "Many good and conscientious citizens, as good and conscientious as there are in the Province, do not approve of the Act as it stands today." Vote "Yes" on question number one and repeal the unsatisfactory Ontario Temperance Act.

Vote "YES"

2. Are you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than 2.51/100% alcohol weight measure through Government agencies, and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?

Vote "Yes" on question number two. This provides for the sale of light beer in Government stores for home consumption and removes the necessity of procuring a doctor's certificate.

Remember — Every voter must vote on every question, or his ballot will be spoiled.

Vote "YES"

3. Are you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than 2.51/100% alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by majority vote favor such sale, and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?

Vote "Yes" on question number three. There can be little doubt that the majority of people will vote "Yes" on this question. There is a demand for a beer of good flavor and body that is non-intoxicating, and the public want to obtain it by the glass as well as by the bottle.

A beer of 2.51% alcohol by weight, no matter in what quantities consumed, is absolutely non-intoxicating. In European countries beer of this strength is sold generally without license and without excise duty. In voting "Yes" on questions two and three you can be assured that no one can become intoxicated by beer of this strength.

Vote "YES"

4. Are you in favor of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?

Vote "Yes" on question number four, which provides for the sale of liquors for home consumption from Government stores under such regulations as the Government may deem it wise to adopt. The public will be able to purchase from these stores without procuring a doctor's certificate.

Study the Referendum Ballot; if there is any point not clear, call or write the Secretary of the League at Committee Headquarters. It is to your interest that you vote wisely and intelligently. And if you are a lover of liberty and an advocate of true temperance, you will vote "YES" on all questions on the Referendum Ballot.

The Citizens' Liberty League is not in favor of the sale of spirits over the bar as under the old License Law. It is, however, in favor of the general sale of non-intoxicating beer of 2.51% alcohol by weight and light wines, and the sale of liquor for home consumption through Government stores under such restrictions as the Government may deem wise to adopt.

SOWING WINTER WHEAT

Dawson's Golden Chaff the Most Popular Variety.

Life of Machinery Shortened by Standing Exposed to Weather After Harvest — All Machines Should Be Overhauled and Stored as Soon as Operations Are Completed.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

WINTER wheat is one of the great cash crops of Ontario. It has been found by farm surveys in the United States and Canada that in very many instances, even in the live stock districts, cash crops can frequently be grown to great advantage. Ontario is an important producer of winter wheat, especially of the white varieties which yield well and bring good prices for pastry, breakfast foods, etc.

Winter wheat can be grown satisfactorily on a variety of soils. It thrives particularly well, however, on a rich loam containing a considerable amount of vegetable matter. This crop fills an important place in the rotation and generally thrives well after beans, peas, and especially after a clover sod or a bare summer fallow.

In experiments conducted at Guelph the winter wheat which has been sown about the end of August or in the first week of September has given the most satisfactory results. If the land is in especially good condition, as in the case of a summer fallow, the seeding might be delayed a little later. In sowing winter wheat it is important to use large, plump, sound, well matured seed of strong vitality at the rate of about six pecks per acre on average soil.

The Dawson's Golden Chaff has been the popular winter wheat of Ontario for a number of years past. It is very stiff in the straw and usually furnishes a high yield per acre. A new variety called the O. A. C. No. 104, originated at the Ontario Agricultural College from a cross of the Dawson's Golden Chaff and the Bulgarian, is very promising. In the past six years it has produced an annual average yield of grain per acre of 45 bushels, while the Dawson's Golden Chaff for the same period has produced 40.8 bushels and the Bulgarian 37.5 bushels. It has also taken the lead over Ontario in the co-operative experiments in each of the past two years. This variety will again be distributed in the fall of the present year for co-operative experiments over Ontario to be tested with one or two other varieties in plots one rod wide by two rods long. Those wishing to conduct this experiment should apply to the Director of Co-operative Experiments in Agriculture, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph.

The importance of storing all harvesting tools and machinery after use is an economic factor still to be realized by a very large percentage of farmers. Much of this apathy on the part of the farmer towards the proper care and management of his farm equipment is due in a large measure to the lack of appreciation of the fact that tools and machines cannot give maximum of efficiency when allowed to become coated with dirt and rust.

The first requisite in this direction is to properly house them. This above all is the most important. It is needless to show the rapid deterioration of steel, iron, wood, canvas, or anything that goes into the construction of farm machines, when they are out of doors and exposed to the elements. Of course, the factors conditioning their life and working efficiency are corrosion of the metals entering into their construction, due to atmospheric actions; the disintegration of the paint and varnishes from the same cause, and the decay of the wooden parts due to heat and moisture. There is, however, no reliable data available that will give us the coefficient of corrosion, but every farmer is aware that the moldboard of a plough subjected to dewy nights or damp weather conditions for a few nights will so rust the bright moldboard as to pit its surface that it requires several rounds of the field to bring it back to good working condition. Such a hard metal is undoubtedly much slower to corrode than either cast or wrought iron, hence machines and tools left out exposed to all kinds of weather, the bearings and working parts of machinery and the cutting edges of tools will become so badly affected with rust as to render new parts necessary in the machines and good grinding and honeing of the tools to put them in workable condition.

The question of good and efficient management of machinery is an important one to the farmer if he only could be made to realize the amount of hard cash he loses through his indifference and neglect of them. What farmer would not protest in vigorous terms if he were told when purchasing his binder, say for $150, that its life would be about thirty days — a competent authority estimates its average life to be twenty-four days used for six days in a year. Yet, through the same farmer's carelessness and indifference, a machine built to last at least twenty years is reduced to, say at most, five years.

At the present time there are many reasons why farmers should take good care of their equipment. One is the actual shortage of machines, and the other, the saving in dollars in getting the most possible out of a machine before sending it to the junk heap.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

Tricked.

A story is told of Admiral Hall of the British Naval Intelligence Service, which illustrates admirably the simplicity and effectiveness of his methods. A German spy, says the Manchester Guardian, a naval officer masquerading as an American, was known to be trying to return to Germany through London and Holland. The information was indefinite, but the Intelligence Service believed that a passenger who was arriving at a London station was the man. Admiral Hall went to the station in uniform and questioned the suspect as he left the train. The man had all the necessary papers, however, and his American accent was good. Suddenly the admiral shouted to him in German: "How dare you stand like that when you are speaking to a superior officer!" The suspect straightened his back, his heels clicked, and his hand was halfway up to the salute before he could control himself. It was then too late, and after the arrest the proofs were found. The admiral knew that, if the man were surprised, no exercise of will could prevent him from reacting to an order in the typical manner of a German officer.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR WEEK

THE FUTURE LIFE—Matt. 25: 31-46; John 14:2, 3; 2 Cor. 5: 10; 1 Peter 1: 3-5.

GOLDEN TEXT—For we must all be made manifest before the judgement seat of Christ, 2 Cor. 5:10.

1 Matt. 25: 31. Are these words of Jesus to be taken as a parable that is figuratively, or literally or why?

2. Verses 32, 33. Where at the present time, are all the bad people, and all the good people that have died since the existence of the human race?

3. By what rule or law will the separation of the bad, from the good be made?

4. Verses 32, 33. When a man's heterodoxy, if he has been ruled by the law of love, keep him from being classed with the good at the Judgment Day? Give your reasons.

5. What hope is there that some among heathen who have never heard of Christ, will be found among the sheep on that great day?

6. Verse 34. What is the nature of the kingdom which God has prepared for is people?

7. The sequence of cause and effect is relentless; poison kills, like begets like, sin brings suffering, etc. Would you say, or not, and why, that the same principle explains the statement, "The kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world?"

8. Verses 35, 36. If the "Kingdom of Heaven is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit," do those necessarily inherit that kingdom who are loving and kind to everybody? Why?

9. Verses 37-40. Why does Jesus take an act of kindness done to a fellow man, as if done to himself?

10. Why, or why not, should the church have as compact an organization for caring for the poor, comforting the sick, and making glad the sad, as she has for missionary work?

11. Verses 41-46. What does the expression "everlasting fire" stand for here?

12. Is the pain of the wicked everlasting, because God is not willing to forgive in the other world, or because their character is fixed, having no desire for forgiveness, or for some other reason?

13. Without any sentence from God why is not a stingy, hard-hearted, close fisted, cruel man, necessarily in an eternal hell?

14. John 14:2, 3. Why would you consider, or not, that heaven will be a material place?

15. Why would you say, or not that one mansion, or abiding place, in heaven will be more glorious than another?

16. In what respect is Jesus preparing "a place," or a home for his followers in heaven?

17. 2 Cor. 5:10. What is your conception of the time, and the manner, that Christ will sum up the deserts of every man?

18. 2 Cor. 5:10. What would you say will be the nature of the reward and the punishment that Christ will appoint for the good and the bad in the future state?

19. Peter 1:3-5. What relation has Christ's resurrection with the Christian's hope for eternal happiness in heaven?

20. On what conditions does God give us the power to remain faithful?

21. What is the nature of the rapturous bliss of the redeemed in heaven? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.

VISITORS TO THE VILLAGE—HOW TO COOK PUFF-BALLS

WARSAW, Sept. 10.—On Thursday a very sad death occurred, Mrs. John MacCracken, who has not been very well for some time rose from the dinner-table to get the dessert and fell down. Life was found to be extinct. The body was laid to rest on Saturday afternoon at Warsaw.

Personals

Mrs. Fred Morgan spent last week at the Lake.

Miss Freena Cooper was in Toronto last week.

Messrs. Fred Crowe and Douglas Scott took in Toronto Fair last week

Messrs. David Miller, Verne Selkirk and Cecil Wasson of the 93rd were at the picnic at South Beach last Saturday.

Mr. D. Miller is appointed representative of the 93rd Battalion for this district.

Several friends of 93rd boys motored to the picnic last Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Hugh Brown will occupy his pulpit next Sunday morning and evening.

There was a special meeting of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid arranged on Saturday night and called for Monday evening.

The teachers of the Towship held a meeting on Monday evening and invited the Executive of the Woman's Institute to be present. The School Fair is free to all, two of the schools are left of the prize list. Miss MacIntosh of the 4th line school has some of the 3rd line pupils as that school is not open yet and their entries will go to their own school. A friend is giving a $12.00 prize for writing. The copy to be "In Flander's Fields".

The money from the concert in evening and from the Booth conducted by the schools will be used as a Memorial Fund and it has been suggested that the school children's money go into the actual tablet.

Mr. Lees will give a twenty minute address on "Consolidate Schools".

The money derived from the supper given by the Women's Institute will be used for necessary expenses. The Institute is giving Fifteen Dollars towards the School prizes. $10 is given directly to Mr. MacCrae for general prizes and the other $5.00 with another $1 donated by a friend is for prizes for an essay in "The British Navy" and for an old fashioned spelling match.

The "King's Daughters" will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert on Friday afternoon, Sept. 12th., instead of at Mrs. Miller's home as intended.

THE WAR OFFICE RIFLE RANGE

It seems that the War Office has determined not to be caught napping when the next war comes. In the basement of the War Office has been arranged a rifle range for the female staff. The attendance at present is crowded, and one markswoman lamented that, as it was quite impossible to get any practice at six o'clock in the evening, she had promised to try and be there at half-past nine in the morning to meet friends who also might be courageous enough to get to the War Office at such an unearthly hour.

The Prohibition Question

Peterborough, 12th Sept., 1919.

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,— Reading your article in the Examiner, "The Referendum," you state the writer of a letter which appeared in the Examiner last Tuesday, on the prohibition referendum, "declares" that the multiplicity of questions are designed to defeat all who want to use alcohol in any shape or form.

I still adhere to the fact that the multiplicity of questions will defeat those who want to use alcohol as they desire it, or others, can prove how it can be obtained under the present voting conditions, without voting "yes" to all four questions. I fail to see it. You also state, if there had only been the one question, the repeal of the Temperance Act, before the people, there would be no doubt whatever of the result. The Act would have been sustained by a big majority?.

Nobody can positively state the result without a vote, it is simply supposition on your part to make such a statement, except you are a prophet?

And as regards giving a free expression and voting of their views on the different questions for alcohol, as they desire it, the chances appear to me, far worse than in the three card trick, worse than a gambling bet on the race course, and simply a delusion and a snare and which I have proved by examples printed in your paper.

You also state the writer of last Tuesday evening's letter (that's me), goes so far as to declare that the repeal of the Temperance Act is the whole issue.

Under the circumstances I cannot alter my opinion. I have proven to you that the wets must be defeated should they not vote "yes" to all four questions; therefore, I cannot do otherwise, as they simply defeat themselves.

It also states, it is public opinion freely and frankly expressed that is importance, declared Premier Hearst, in introducing the Referendum Act "not a big majority on a question that does not enable the people to give free expression to their views."

The above reads nice, Mr. Editor, still if the public opinion is freely and frankly expressed by only voting for what they want and defeat themselves by doing so, it is utterly impossible to have a majority at all, as regards the wets (by dividing their votes). Therefore it is utter rot to menfion a majority, except on one side, and that must be on the prohibitionists' side; such an enormous majority that Premier Hearst could not be expected to take action, and the prohibitionists would certainly fight against such a proposition.

As regards the amendments, I will kindly refer you to the "gypsy's warning." The answer lies there.

Perhaps you do not realize what a great number voting on the referendum—with divided votes—and trying to do away with the bars, means. Therefore I think the public should see an example, with the wets trying to defeat the bars, and see the result. Take 50,000 voting on each side. Two-thirds vote against the bars and only one-third for them, the same two-thirds voting for both liquor and spirits under government control. Surely that seems a fair proportion, considering that if they voted for one thing only the majority against them would be greater still. Then the results would be:

Sale of beer by Govt. .	33,334	16,666	66,666	33,332
Beer in Hotels	16,666	33,334	33,334	66,668
Sale of spirit by Govt. .	33,334	16,666	66,666	33,332

So that 33,500 prohibitionists can win against 50,000 wets.

Personally I am against the bars, but would like to see liquor and spirits under government control.

Can you sir, or any prohibtionist, (not extremist) show me how the bars can be defeated by the wets, and still vote candidly and frankly for what they desire only, without having to vote "yes" to all four questions, and with any prospect of success ,and with both contesting parties being anything near equal in numbers. You evaded answering to the two most vital and interesting subjects, viz.:

Does the examples given show the ballot ticket is deceptive?

Is it possible for the wets to win in any other way than answering "yes" to all four questions?

Will you kindly give your opinion to those two questions? (or others).

As regards the latter part of my letter in Tuesday's "Examiner" which read: "Leave it to Sir Wm. Hearst to pass a new enactment, the country's representatives know what the people want and can be trusted."

Through an error in copying the last four words should have read, but cannot be trusted.

That alluded to the discovery of trickery in the present ballot vote for "referendum."

Yours, etc.,
C. DUGGAN.

P. S.— Extract from Examiner, Wed.., 10th Sept.: "Any of them can be made effective by amendments to the Act itself."

Extract from Mail and Empire, printed in the Examiner Thursday, 11th Sept.: "Very possibly the uncompromising opponents of liquor traffic under conditions are strong enough of themselves to keep the act in force. If they are, they can prevent any amendments to the Act."

Oh what a game it is.

Yours etc.,
C. DUGGAN.

KINGSTON, Sept. 12.—At a meeting of the Board of Education it was decided to ask the City Council to put the icty on "standard time" again. As the days get shorter after Sept. 31st the Board does not see the good of continuing daylight saving time until the latter part of October. It has been found a hardship on little children going to school.

EVIDENCE AT OTTAWA HEARING

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.— Little that has not already been threshed out came out at this morning's session of the Royal Commission inquiring into the proceedings of the raid on the Guelph Novitiate.

Hon. Mr. Doherty, solicitor-General, was called by Mr. E. L. Newcombe to refulte statements made by Palmer that he (Mr. Guthrie) had told him that the Minister of Justice had said the novices at Guelph were "all right and were to be left alone."

For the best part of the morning, Father Bourque, former rector of the Novitiate, was on the stand.

WANT TROOPS WITHDRAWN FROM RUSSIA

(Canadian Press.)

GLASGOW, Sept. 12. — At the Trade Union Congress to-day James Henry Thomas, Labour member of Parliament, moved a resolution that troops be withdrawn from Russia. He attacked Winston Churchill, Secretary for War, who yesterday stated that the policy of evacuation was being adhered to but was being delayed by necessity for bringing out civilians who were in danger of Bolshevik vengeance. Thomas asserted that Churchill had not answered the charge made by Col. Sherwood Kelly that British lives were being thrown away in the Archangel region but had threatened to punish Kelly. Congress enthusiastically adopted the resolution, which also demanded the repeal of the Conscription Act, and provided for calling a special congress if the demands are not satisfactorily met.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORQ, Spt. 12.—While the hearse bearing the body of Horace Traubel, poet and biographer, who died recently at Bon Echo, Ont., was drawn up in front of the old church on Messiah street yesterday, fire broke out in the organ loft and the church was totally destroyed.

BULGARIAN TREATY.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 12.— No meeting of the Supreme Council was held to-day, apparently because of the departure of A. J. Balfour, and neither Viscount Milner nor Bonar Law having accepted the leadership of the British delegation. It is expected the Bulgarian treaty will be handed that nation's representatives next Tuesday.

INCREASE IN PRICE OF FLOUR

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 12—Increases in price of flour were forecast to-day by Andrew Kelly, President of Western Canada Flour Mills. "The mills are paying about six cents a bushel more for wheat now than last year," Mr. Kelly asserted. "Other materials also are higher. An increase in the price of flour is inevitable."

EAT LESS AND TAKE BITRO-PHOSPHATE TO PUT ON FLESH

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

Frederick S. Kolle, M.D., Editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says that weak, nervous people who want increased weight, strength and nerve-force, should take a 5-grain tablet of Bitro-Phosphate just before or during each meal.

This particular phosphate is the discovery of a famous French scientist and reports of remarkable results from its use have recently appeared in many medical journals.

If you do not feel well; if you tire easily; do not sleep well, or are too thin; go to any good druggist and get enough Bitro-Phosphate for a two weeks' supply—it costs only fifty cents a week.

Eat less; chew your food thoroughly, and if at the end of a few weeks you do not feel stronger and better than you have for months; if your nerves are not steadier; if you do not sleep better and have more vim, endurance and vitality, your money will be returned, and the Bitro-Phosphate will cost you nothing.

RUSH MEASURES THROUGH HOUSE

By L. C. Martin.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A rush to get their pet measures passed before they are side-tracked by the Peace Treaty, was begun by Senators to-day.

Once the treaty is before the Senate other measures will have little chance, the Senators realize.

Senator Lodge's determination to take up the treaty on Monday caused supporters of the bill extending the Food Control Act to make a desperate effort to get it passed to-day.

PRESIDENT WILSON IN BORAH'S STATE

By Hugh Baillie.
(United Press.).

Aboard the President's Train in Idaho, Sept. 12.— President Wilson to-day went to the constituents of Senator Borah, leading opponent of the Peace Treaty, in an effort to convince them the pact should be ratified.

He invaded the pan-handle of Idaho for a speech at Coeur DA'llen, with the object of arousing Borah's folks at home to such an extent that they would make their desires known at the capitol.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

MEMORY OF HYMN-WRITER WAS FITTINGLY HONOURED

PILGRIMS FROM VARIOUS PARTS OF THE PROVINCE GATHER IN PORT HOPE TO TAKE PART IN MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR JOSEPH SCRIVEN

MANY ADDRESSES GIVEN

PORT HOPE, Sept. 10.—To the accompaniment of the beautiful chimes of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church playing the tune of Joseph Scriven's famous hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," many pilgrims from various parts of the Province gathered this afternoon at the Methodist church to participate in a memorial service, marking the century of the birth of the renowned Canadian hymn-writer, and at the conclusion of the service journeyed to the Pengelly farm, near Rice Lake to place floral tributes upon the grave.

The service in the church was under the auspices of the Ministerial Association of Port Hope and the Scriven memorial committee of this town, and was conducted by Rev. C. Sinclair Appelgath, pastor of the Methodist Church, who introduced the visiting speakers and in a brief introductory address spoke of the place of song in the Christian religion, stating that while theologists disagreed in many bitter controversies of creed, which marked the history of the Christian Church, yet human hearts in all Christendom were united by the great hymns of Christian experience that were the common heritage of the church at large, and "What a Friend We Have In Jesus" was one of these great hymns. He explained that the citizens of Port Hope desired to honor the memory of their illustrius fellow townsman, and had decided that in addition to helping to see that Scriven's neglected grave was properly marked, to have a suitable memorial erected in Port Hope, where the hymn writer lived and preached for many years.

Eulogized by Multi-Millionaire.

Rev. D. S. K. Byrne, of Montreal who, in his boyhood days, was intimately acquainted with Scriven, spoke with deep feeling of his gratitude for the influence and help of Scriven in his early life.

"He has put shoes and stockings on my feet more than once in the days of my poverty, and on one occasion took the shirt off his own back to clothe my nakedness," declared the multi-millionaire, who has recently become heir to ten million dollars.

Mr. Wm. Craig of Toronto, an old personal friend of Scriven, related touching incidents to show the beauty of Scriven's practical Christian spirit.

Brig-Gen. Joseph Barr, of Toronto, was present to represent the Salvation Army, and related in a graphic way how the great hymn was sung in every country in the world where the Army was at work. He described as an eyewitness the Salvation Army congress in London, England, a few years ago, when Scriven's great hymn was sung by three thousand Salvationists in more than a score of languages by the delegates from the various races of the world.

Mr. E. S. Caswell, of Toronto public library, stated that in this was the greatest contribution made by Canada to the hymnology of the world and supported the idea of a public memorial at Port Hope as well as a suitable stone at the grave and suggested that the Sunday School children of Toronto be asked to contribtue their pennies toward this memorial. Rev. James Elliott, of St. John's Anglican Church led in prayer, and Rev. W. F. Spidal, of the Baptist Church, read the Scriptures.

Pilgrimage to Grave.

"The Neglected Grave" of the poet was not neglected to-day. Fully a hundred pilgrims found their way to the unmarked grave, which was literally covered with floral tributes, as was also the grave of Scriven's sweetheart, alongside.

Perhaps the most touching tribute was that paid by two little girls, who stayed away from school and walked three and a half miles in to Port Hope with their bouquet of flowers to be placed on the grave because, as one of them said: "This was the favorite hymn of my brother who was killed in the war, and it is what I think he would like me to do." This incident shows the influence of the hymn upon the Sunday school children. At the graveside a brief service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Lee of Millbrook, in which Bishop Arthur Pengelly, of South Carolina and a number of the clergy of various denominations participated.

Rev. C. S. Applegath spoke briefly, declaring that the memorial to Scriven's memory was worthy of a nation-wide support, and urged that the various places in this vicinity mittees unite in a general committee to formulate a scheme to mark th various places in this vicinity associated with Scriven's life and to then make an appeal for financial support to every Sunday school in Canada that the rising generation of children with their pennies might have a real part in a worthy memorial to the memory of Canada's greatest hymn writer.

At the conclusion of addresses the pilgrims joined hands, and, forming a circle around the graves of Scriven and his sweetheart, sang reverently the beautiful hymn and departed to their homes.

COULDN'T LEAVE HOUSE FOR YEAR

HAMILTON TELLS OF HIS WIFE'S REMARKABLE IMPROVEMENT SINCE TAKING TANLAC

"Last Sunday my wife was able to be out of the house for the first time in almost a year, and she wouldn't have been out then if Tanlac had not put her on her feet," is the remarkable testimony of William Hamilton who resides at 149 Preston street, Halifax, Nova Soctia, Canada.

"Mrs. Hamilton had Spanish Influenza over a year ago," he continued, "and had never been able to overcome the effects of it. Her appetite was gone completely and she fell off in weight and strength until she was as frail and thin as anybody could be and still get around. Her nerves were all torn up and the least little noise would make her jump and quiver like a leaf. Many a night she has lain awake until daylight in nervous misery. She complained of dull throbbing headaches and it has made me actually suffer at times to see her so weak and run down and in such pain. Somebody else had to attend to all the house work as she could just barely creep about the house and hadn't been able to go out-of-doors for nearly twelve months. She was confined to the bed most of the time, and even when she would get up in her room for a while, she really ought to have been in bed.

"It sure was a surprise to me to see her build up the way she has since taking Tanlac. Her appetite is just fine now, why she told me the other day that if she kept on, she would eat us out of house and home. Every day she seems stronger and more like her old self and she never complains of being tired and weak and run down any more. Last Sunday she went out for a long walk with me, for the first time shes been out of the house in nearly a year. She seems like a different person and is beginning to feel that her troubles are all over. Tanlac is the only thing that ever did her any good, and we both are happy as we can be over the way she has recovered her health since she has been taking it and we are glad to recommend it all the time."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Limited; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

INCREASE FOR CIVIC EMPLOYEES

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 12. — All civic employees receiving $2,600 a year or less will receive an increase in wages of $3 a week, according to the decision arrived at by the City Council last night. This was reached after a protracted discussion and following the defeat of a motion by Alderman Plewman that a minimum wage of $35 a week be adopted.

BIG GATHERING OF ATHLETES

(United Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 12.—One of the greatest gatherings of stars that ever participated in an athletic meet in America was ready for the National A.A.U., which opened here this afternoon on Frankfield Field.

To Relieve Catarrhal Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength), and add to it ¾ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

THE PETERBORO' BOARD OF TRADE ARRANGE EXCURSIONS TO THE FAIR

RETAIL MERCHANTS' SECTION MAKE A NOVEL CONTRIBUTION TO BOOST THE FAIR—BOAT TRIPS ARRANGED FOR AT LESS THAN COST—BOAT TRIPS FROM UPPER AND LOWER LAKES

In recent years the Exhibition Board has found that hundreds of people in the county would have been greatly pleased had they been afforded the transportation facilities for reaching Peterborough in time to see the Fair, and be able to return home at a reasonable hour the same day, but with the great many details of the Fair to work out, it seemed impossible to turn this matter over to any one on the Board who could give it the attention and consideration it deserved.

This year the Board of Trade felt it would like to back up the Exhibition Board in the efforts it is making to give this district a real exhibition, and took upon themselves the task of working out a scheme that entails considerable effort and some little expense to the individual members of the retail section of the Board.

The Upper Lakes—Bobcaygeon.

Just imagine, a return trip from Bobcaygeon to Peterborough for only 50c. The steamer "Stoney Lake" has been chartered for this section, and will leave Buckhorn at 6.30 a.m., coming to Chemong Park, via Bobcaygeon, where the passengers will be met by autos and brought into the city. The automobiles will leave the Fair Grounds at 5.30 for Chemong, where they will take the boat for the return trip home.

Burleigh District.

The steamer "Empress" will leave Burleigh at 6 a.m., calling at intermediate points to Lakefield, where the passengers will take the G.T.R. for Peterborough, and it only costs 50c for the whole trip, and tickets which will carry the people over the railroad will be given on the boat. Return trip, the train leaves Peterborough for Lakefield at 5.40 p.m.

Crowe's Landing District.

The steamer "Manita" will leave Crowe's Landing at 6 a.m., calling at intermediate points for Lakefield, and will also take the G.T.R. for Peterborough, the return trip only costing 50c, which will be the fair from the farthest point the boats call, and the same at any intermediate point for man, woman or child. The train leaves Peterborough with the passengers for this boat for Lakefield at 5.40.

Rice Lake Points.

The steamer "Rainbow" has been chartered to run up the river, leaving Birdsall's at 5.45, calling at McCracken's at 6, Robins' Landing 6.15, Stevenson's Landing 6.30, Curtiss' 7.00, Hiawatha 7.30, all old time, and calling at other points further up the river.

This is the best opportunity you will get to see the greatest Fair Peterborough has ever put on.

Come along—everybody is coming.

BEST SET TABLES AT THE FAIR

LADIES SHOULD MAKE THEIR ENTRIES AT ONCE—GOOD PRIZES OFFERED

The ladies of the city who wish to demonstrate their ability to set a good table should take advantage of the opportunity given them at the Fair. Tables will be provided for all those who enter, and linen, silver, glassware and decorations to be supplied by those who enter this class.

The following cash prizes will be given:

First—$10.00.
Second—$7.50.
Third—$5.00.
Fourth—$2.50.

Telephone your entry at once to Mr. F. J. A. Hall, Secretary. Phone 160.

VETERAN WAS TOO BUSY HARVESTING TO RECEIVE WAR DECORATION FROM THE PRINCE OF WALES

VETERAN IN FULL UNIFORM STOOD ON ROOF OF HIS LITTLE HOMESTEAD TO SALUTE PRINCE AS TRAIN RUSHED BY.

Canadian Press:

SASKATOON, Sept. 12.—During the presentation of war decorations by the Prince of Wales yesterday, one woman, Mrs. Mary Gibbon, received her husband's military medal. She was not a war widow. Her husband was merely harvesting the crops at Unity, and therefore he could not come even to receive a decoration from the heir to the Throne, for that is the way of the West.

Canadian Press:

VISCOUNT, Sask., Sept. 12.—He stood on the roof of his little homestead on the edge of the railroad track in the middle of the prairies as the Royal train rushed by. A solitary figure in khaki outlined against the sky. He was completely equipped even to his tin helmet, and as the Prince of Wales' car passed he brought his rifle to the salute. Perhaps no greater tribute has been paid to the soldier Prince than this silent salute from the lone soldier of the silent plains.

FAIR SECRETARY'S OFFICE FOR THIS WEEK

IS BUSY TAKING ENTRIES AT THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE, GEORGE ST.

Mr. F. J. A. Hall, secretary of the Fair, has taken up his office for Fair purposes for the balance of the week at President Roland Denne's Store, George Street. Entries may be made there and all applications for space and receipts given for payments taken care of. Entries close Saturday evening, September 13th.

HOW TO GET ON VOTERS' LIST

To the editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir: There seems to be a lack of information as to the additional steps to be taken for those whose names are not on the voters' list and who have given their names to me and others during the last week in order that they may be added to the list.

My information is that the Registration Board is anxious to assist those who are endeavoring to make the voters' lists as complete as possible and all they desire is to be reasonably certain that those wishing their names added to the lists are British subjects, 21 years of age, one year's residence in Canada, who have been three months resident in the municipality (or soldiers of any age.) Those who have given their names to me or anyone else must attend to this to-morrow (Saturday) without fail. The hearing will take place at the court house commencing at 10 o'clock, and anyone acquainted with the facts as stated above can attend and verify the same.

Those living in the North and West Wards will attend before Mr. Sherry in the court house. Those living in the South Ward will attend before Mr. Hafton at the County Council Room. Those living in the East and Centre Wards will attend before Judge Hüycke in his chambers. These rooms are all in the Court House in Victoria Park.

Note that if inconvenient it is not necessary to attend in person. Anyone acquainted with the necessary facts amy attend. Someone however must attend Saturday if your name is to be added to the list. Do not neglect this matter if you wish your name added to the list.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH WEARING.

ARRIVED FROM NEW YORK

MR. H. J. ZACKS RETURNS FROM A SUCCESSFUL THREE WEEKS BUYING TRIP

Mr. H. J. Zacks has just returned from an extended three weeks' trip to New York, visiting the best American manufacturers of ladies' ready-to-wear. He also spent some time in the best Canadian markets, and has come home much pleased with the success of his buying trip. Among the most important items of his purchases are Ladies' Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts, Waists, etc., all in the height of America's great fashion centres' style. They are made in all the new materials, such as Silvertones, Tricotines, Velours, etc., and in the very latest shades. These goods are arriving every day and are being placed on display as quickly as they are unpacked. As the season is now right at hand for the purchase of your new fall wear, it would be good policy to come to the store on Saturday and see the new styles personally. Mr. Zacks' prices are extremely moderate, and that is another good reason for taking advantage of his good buying. Remember the place, H. J. Zacks, 422 George street, opposite Examiner.

SPECIAL PRACTICE.

There will be a special practice of the Conservatory Orchestra on Saturday evening to meet the new violinist, Mr. Adaskin, of Toronto. Every member of the orchestra is asked to attend.

NOT ASPIRIN UNLESS "BAYER" ON TABLETS

Only Tablets Marked With "Bayer Cross" Are Genuine Aspirin—Others Not Aspirin at All!

"Bayer" Now Made in Canada by a Canadian Company—All Rights Purchased from U. S. Government

If anybody intimates that "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" are German made or owned, he is playing unfair to a Canadian Industry, and to Canadian Workmen. Absolutely no German interest in Canadian Company.

Unless you see the safety "Bayer Cross" on the package and on the tablets you are not getting Aspirin at all. The "Bayer Gross" means true Aspirin—no other tablets are Aspirin.

Proper and safe directions are in every "Bayer" package.

Aspirin, the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

TOLD DETECTIVE HE WOULD SOON BE MARRIED

INFORMATION COST MADAME ALICE $25 AND COSTS IN POLICE COURT THIS MORNING

Madame Alice is a wonderful palmist, but she transgressed on the law and the way of transgressors is hard, said hardness being a fine of $25 and $10.10 costs inflicted by Justices of the Peace Mr. Harry Rush and Mr. Vincent Eastwood. Trouble began for Madame Alice when she gave Mr. Tom Weller, a returned veteran, an ethereal crown of goodness which he stoutly denies that he is entitled to. She asked him to put his hand around a glass crystal and then with a mystic look said that he would live until he was 60 years of age. Mr. Rush was sorry but he would have to fine Madame, as she had broken the law and Madame was also very sorry that she had not consulted the Chief before she opened up in business. She had collected $3,000 for the Red Cross Society in Montreal, and had never been molested.

She read Detective Sam. Newhall's palm and told him that he would be married soon, and that he had a very good heart (not in any way connected with heart failure), and that he wasn't extravagant but that money slipped through his hands easily. Also that trouble was ahead of him, but that he would overcome it and would not let anybody cheat him. She did not know his name or does she know it yet. The police state that she is collecting from $50 to $100 a day at her room at Goliop's Hotel, and that she intends to stay another week. She told the court that she was a widow and lived in Scotland, and that she thought that all Englishmen were hard-hearted.

try was becoming depopulated. He did not tell you the whole story and a man who tells only half the story is the worst kind of a liar I know of," said the speaker. "In 1918 we cropped ten million acres in the Province and produced one of the largest crops on record in spite of a labor shortage. Mr. Morrison gives you the idea we are going back. As a matter of fact we are going forward. We are proud to be associated with the Hearst Government and are leading in the direction the people would have us lead. We have been in the forefront of war service and our leadership has been acceptable to the people." The farmers blame the Province for the high cost of living and make other rambling statements. We should study the facts and see if the people are really preying on us. It is not a matter for the Provincial House in any case.

The Voter's List.

We have the most up-to-date voter's list ever copied," continued Mr. Henry. "Everybody has had a chance to get on the list. The women have also been fully enfranchised and every woman is entitled to vote. In 1904 our expenditure in the interests of agricultural was less than a half a million dollars. To-day that expenditure has not only doubled but trebled. We can secure funds to develop anything that may be necessary in connection with agriculture and we look for a greater development in the future. The U.F.O.. accuse us of wasting money on county representatives and bulletins, etc. That is one of the greatest benefits we have given to agriculture as results will show. The school fairs which we have inaugurated will do more to develop the youth of the country than anything we have yet devised. For years we have had an officer whose duties was to organize the farmers and help them. We have always tried to keep the farmers out of politics because we know what happens. History points to it.

Farmers Ignored.

J. J. Morrison says we ignore the farmers yet when a deputation from Ottawa to secure for Ontario farmers a terminal elevator we took with us R. W. Burnaby and Manning Doherty, both members of the U.F.O., Morrison is wrong when he says the farmers have not a voice in anything. He should be specific and not make bald statements. Men in rural Ontario have more sense than to listen to such statements.

The United Farmers do not want farmers in the House. They want to put men in with a rope around their neck. That is not the class of man to send to the Legislature. You want to send a man with initiative. The Ontario Government has been accused of wasting money on provincial roads where as a matter of fact we are spending money on roads over which eighty per cent. of the people travel. We are said to be approaching bankrupcy with a debt of eighty million dollars. Forty-seven million of this is represented in Hydro electric development twenty three in the T.N.O., railway and the remainder in equally good assets We owe nothing. Everything that is bonded as an asset to meet it.

Referring to the coming referendum the speaker said the temperance party's plan of voting no to all four questions and the Liberty League policy of voting yes was not very logical. The Liberty League want the act repealed and then add three amendments to it. Mr. Henry said the ballot was very comprehensive and had been worked out by Premier Hearst and his advisors.

GOLD ON THE WAY TO CANADA.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 12. — It is reported that four and a half million pounds in gold has reached London from Germany, some of it is said to be already on the way to Canada in payment for foodstuffs.

Economy Is The Easy Chair Of Old Age

Do not overlook us when ordering fruit. PETERBORO' BOY CALLED TO BAR

William Walker Fair, a nephew of Mr. Robert Fair, was called to the bar yesterday. Mr. Fair commenced his duties for the legal profession in Peterborough in the office of Hall & Hall.

NEW PHOTOGRAPHER

Mr. F. Trever, recently from Edmonton, has secured the photo studio of the late Mr. Haynes, upstairs, at 147 Hunter street, next Toronto Bank. He has been engaged for some time in refitting this studio and is now ready for business. Mr. Trevor has been located, in Edmonton for six years, where he still conducts a prosperous studio business, and where his work is spoken of as far in advance of the general portraiture, and is in the most advanced styles. Mr. Trevor possesse certificates showing his work to have won prizes at the Paris Great International Exposition and also in competition at British Expositions, for high-class portraiture work. Samples of his portraits may be seen in the cases at the door.

MOB ATTACKED THE LIMA NEWSPAPERS

Canadian Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—The offices of La Prensa and Eleomercick newspapers of Lima, Peru, were attacked by a mob yesterday and partly burned, according to to-day's despatches to the Peruvian embassy.

GOOD ADVICE FOR NERVOUS PEOPLE

WHAT WORN, FRAZZLED, UNSTRUNG, "JUMPY" NERVES REALLY NEED.

When you are run down, out of sorts, tire easily, have lost confidence in your ability to do things and ambition seems to have deserted you, it's a sure sign your nerve force has run down and that your nerves need a stimulant to restore to your system its old-time strength and energy, and bring back the good old pep that used to make you famous.

Leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity are selling a wonderful nerve remedy called Ferro-Peptine on a positive guarantee of satisfaction or money back. It's amazing how quickly Ferro-Peptine tones up the entire system, calms and steadies the nerves, and puts vim, vigor and vitality into men and women who are fagged out, nervous, despondent and ambitionless.

Thousands testify to their remarkable value in cases of severe mental depression, nervous prostration, nervous dyspepsia, trembling, "jumps," "fidgets," and the generally unstrung nerves that come from excessive work, worry, lack of sleep or over-indulgence in drinking, eating, or smoking. They never fail to benefit. If you are blue and feel as though you didn't give a hang, or are cross, irritable and your nerves are right on edge, get a package of Ferro-Peptine right away. It comes 42 tablets to a box. Eat one with every meal for a few days, and see what a wonderful improvement they make in your whole nervous system.

MONDAY'S PROGRAMME FOR THE FAIR

IT WILL BE AS GOOD AS ANY OF THE OTHER DAYS OF THE BIG EXHIBITION

The Fair Board has arranged the biggest programme of attractions, drawn up the most attractive prize-lists, and made most extensive improvements to the grounds and buildings than for any previous Exhibition held in Peterborough, and in order to accommodate the crowds that are expected, taking the previous three years as a criterion, it was found necessary to have a three full days' programme and three night performances, consequently Monday afternoon will be just as enjoyable a day at the Fair as Tuesday or Wednesday will be.

The Parade.

The Exhibition will be ushered in by a great parade of floats, decorated automobiles, horse-drawn vehicles and bicycles, starting at the Central Park at one o'clock, going down George Street to the grounds, and once round the track. You will be surprised yourself at what this feature will bring out.

Displays and Attractions.

The merchants' displays and exhibit of cattle, horses, vegetables and everything else that combines to make an agricultural fair will be open to the public, and the grand stand attractions will all be presented the same as the following days. The band, the running races, the trotting races, judging, etc., will give as good a day's sport as you ever wanted to see.

Monday Evening.

Don't gamble with providence. It might rain on Tuesday or Wednesday nights, and the evening performance on Monday will be the equal of Tuesday or Wednesday.

When you go to this year's Peterborough Exhibition you will want to go the second time, so take the first opportunity that affords itself to see it. Go Monday to the Fair.

"Father, I have written poems."

"What! Let me see them instantly."

The father read them over carefully, the tears slowly welling to his eyes as he did so. Finishing the last one, he threw down the manuscript, folded the boy to his breast and sobbed:

"Oh, my poor, poor son."

"And they are so bad as that, father?"

"Bad! They are excellent. They are real poetry. My boy, my boy, you will starve to death!"

A SIMPLE METHOD TO REMEDY RHEUMATISM

ACH DOES NOT INTERFERE IF TREATMENT IS PROPERLY FOLLOWED

Many persons contend that there is no cure remedy for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Neuritis, or their kindred diseases, but don't be biased: draw your own conclusions from the proof submitted.

Over two years ago, William Nesbitt, of 113 John St., Toronto, Ontario, was attacked by Rheumatism. Mr. Nesbitt was 53 years of age at the time and he feared the worst. After trying many remedies and prescriptions without obtaining relief he took a friend's advice and used Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules. Result—to-day Mr. Nesbitt says, "He hasn't lost a day's work since nor fears Rheumatism any more."

Mr. Nesbitt gives the entire credit for his recovery to T.R.C.'S. Profit by his experience. Try them.

Ask your Druggist or write us for our new Booklet; it is interesting and costs you nothing (Templetons, 142 King West, Toronto). We will mail T.R.C.'s anywhere on receipt of $1.00.

TWO FLOUR MILLS IN NEGOTIATION

MAPLE LEAF MAY TAKE OVER CAMP BELL FLOUR MILLS—BRANCH IN PETERBOROUGH

A well-founded report is current in the street that the Maple Leaf Milling Company was on the point of purchasing the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, a smaller concern operating in West Toronto and Peterboro. No official information was forthcoming, but it is believed that negotiations have been proceeding with this object in view. So far as could be learned, the deal is still incomplete, or, at any rate, some details remain to be settled. During the past few months, many merger rumors have been current, some of them coupled with Maple Leaf, but usually the name of one of the large companies operating in the West or in Montreal has been used. On the strength of some of these rumors, Maple Leaf stock has had sharp advances, but inquiry at official sources has always brought the reply that such merges were not in contemplaion. The present purchase if carried out, would be on a more modest scale. The Campbell Flour Mills Company was formerly the property of the late Senator Archibald Campbell, and his sons are now associated with its management. The company is not listed on the Stock Exchange.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing.

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff, and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

LAST NOTICE!

The Price Of Our Clothes Goes Up On Monday

Several weeks ago we told you that the price of woollens had gone up almost double what they were six months ago, and the price of Regent Tailors' Suits and Overcoats, made to order, would have to be increased in a short time.

We told you however, that the price would not be raised so long as our present stock of materials lasted. These materials had been bought months before, when prices were much lower, and instead of 'profiteering' we would give customers the full benefit of the low price.

Buying has been so heavy that these cloths have all been sold. This week will more than see the last of them. But---

UP TO TO-MORROW NIGHT you can still buy Suit or Overcoat made to your measure for only . .

Give Us 15 Minutes of your time---you will save at least $1.00 a minute.

On Monday the price goes up. Remember that we are not responsible for the increase. Everything entering into a garment costs us nearly double what it did last spring. We in fact loose money on every suit or overcoat we sell to-morrow for $21.00. But we want to give our customers fair warning, so that they can get the full value at the old price if they wish to do so.

Come to-morrow and leave your measure for your fall and winter clothing needs. You save money by doing so. And you have a magnificent range of the very newest materials to choose from. Regent Tailors' Suits and Overcoats are the greatest tailoring values in Canada to-day.

EVERY GARMENT WE MAKE IS FULLY GUARANTEED

You take no chance of disappointment when you buy clothes from us, because every garment we make is guaranteed to fit and satisfy or you do not have to take it. This entire organization is at your service to make just the kind of clothes you want.

If you cannot wait for suit or overcoat to be made don't forget that the models in our windows and stores are for sale. We always have a full range of sizes and styles at the same price.

Actual Experience Shows Value of Ontario Temperance Act

ONTARIO'S experience with prohibition under the Ontario Temperance Act since September 16, 1916, has been all the argument any fair-minded man or woman wants, to prove that the Act should neither be repealed nor weakened by Amendments.

Total Jail Commitments for crimes and offences of all kinds have decreased more than one-third since 1915.

Jail Commitments for drunkenness alone decreased from 6,235 in 1915, the year preceding the Act, to 2,595 in 1918. It is believed the present year will show an equal, if not greater ratio of reduction.

From Annual Reports of Inspector of Prisons 1915-1918, and Report of the Board of License Commissioners for Ontario for the Year 1918.

Best Record in 17 Years

JAIL Commitments for drunkenness decreased by 3,640 in 1918 compared to 1915. And yet, unlike former laws, this Act makes drunkenness in public places a "prima facie" offence, punishable by fine or imprisonment, whether accompanied by "disorderliness" or not. And further the Ontario Temperance Act is more strictly enforced than was the Ontario License Act, and arrests for drunkenness are therefore proportionately greater in comparison.

The number of commitments for drunkenness in Ontario in 1918 was the lowest in seventeen years, although the population of the Province increased during the same period by nearly 550,000, or over 27 per cent.

Some jails, including those of Bracebridge, Cayuga, Napanee and Orangeville — received no drunkards in 1918 at all. Others show well nigh unbelievable decreases since 1915, notably in the cities and larger towns.

Drunkenness has decreased under the Ontario Temperance Act to the point where a drunken man on the street has become a rare sight.

Crime in general has decreased as shown by record of jail commitments.

Do you want to see the taste for alcoholic beverages revived, and the population of Ontario's prisons, jails and lock-ups restored?

You are asked to vote on four questions. Two of these questions refer to beer of 2.51% alcohol by weight, equal to 5.46% proof spirits, more than double the strength at present permitted by the Ontario Temperance Act. Do not mistake the meaning of these questions. The beer of the ballot is intoxicating. If you are convinced that drunkenness is undesirable in this province mark X under the heading "No" after each question — "No" to the Repeal, "No" to each of the suggested Amendments.

"No!"—four times—"No!"

IT should be expressly noted that each and every one of the four questions on the ballot paper in this Referendum must be answered or your ballot is counted "spoiled." Be sure you mark your ballot with an X after each question under the heading "No," or your vote will be lost to Temperance.

Mr. David Devell has purchased the farm of Mr. Thomas Ingram.

Mr. Harold Graham has purchased Mr. Parrington's farm.

A Shower.

On Friday evening, Aug. 29th, a miscellaneous shower visited the home of Mr. Thos. Rice, Emily, leaving as a remembrance many costly and useful presents. His nephew, Thomas H. Rice, who has faithfully served his country for four years, returned from overseas bringing his bride.

After some music they were called forward and the bride was presented with a beautiful bouquet of mixed flowers by little Loraine Irving, followed by a shower of presents.

Although taken by surprise, Mr. Rice made a very suitable reply, thanking those present for the kindness shown him and his bride, who was much pleased to feel that she was being made welcome to Canada.

After a short address by Reeve Wilson, the solo, "How ya gonna to keep 'em down on the farm" was rendered in a very fism tone by Myra Williamson, coutin of the groom.

Luncheon was then served and the remainder of the evening was spent in music, games and dancing.

HOW A YOUNG GIRL SUFFERED

And Was Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Told By Her Mother.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For three months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I didn't know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. Finora, 816 Marcy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

As Man to Man

By STEVE M'HENRY

(Copyright.)

While the north-bound limited was allaying the thirst of its panting engine at the sun-baked depot that morning, the Wells-Fargo guard said something to one of my deputies about Indians being on a rampage. He was trying to add details when the shout of an autocratic conductor cut short his efforts and started the long train northward.

Later in the day, old Jim Carmichael, who runs several herds under his own brand in the foothills of the Tres Hermanas, dropped into my office and regaled me with a harrowing tale of pillage and murder. It was conveyed to him, he said, over the long-distance telephone, by one of his line riders.

Jim declared that, judging from the man's choice of comparatively moderate words, he must have gone to the telephone booth before going to the Oriental, to be refreshed with that particular brand which its thrifty proprietor is wont to keep on tap for the cowmen of the region. Thus he placed some credence in the report.

He said that some half-dozen savages, drunk with temporary freedom, and led by a half-breed more cunning than his followers, were traveling in this direction, avoiding towns, but swooping down on isolated ranches, ready to murder their occupants and drive off their stock. Having heard nothing from neighboring sheriffs, I took little stock in the story.

"Probably one harmless red-skin, filled with firewater, strayed from the reservation, and is whooping things up until somebody corrals him," I told my deputies.

At any rate, because a show of official interest was desirable, I promised the old man to let him know if anything happened, and I asked the boys to stay around the office that night.

Shortly before ten o'clock, I turned up a vastly promising poker hand, when the telephone bell rang.

"Hallo! Sheriff's office!" bawled a nervous voice at the other end. "There's been a shooting scrape here. One man's dead—er—both drunk, I reckon—want you to come out, you know. The other fellow got away, but he ain't got much of a start on you, if—"

I interrupted the man's incoherent account by roaring into the receiver:

"Stop talking long enough to tell me who, and where you are!"

"You fellows stick around. Should anything turn up, Montgomery here will take charge. So long!"

Near the edge of town, I crossed the white stretch of road which leads straight to my ranch. I was tempted for a moment to turn off and run in on the wife and little one before attending to the business on hand. Five minutes more brought me to the saloon, which I entered through the rear door.

In the far corner, covered with a horse blanket, lay a form.

Removing the covering, I saw that the right hand still held a pistol. Its barrel was pointed in an indifferent way, toward the mirror behind the bar.

On looking closer, I discovered that the weapon was fully loaded and cocked.

So I gently let down the hammer, reflecting that it was by but a small margin that fate had decided which one should die.

"The undertaker will take care of this," I said, stepping to the bar. "I've got other work to do. Who saw this shooting?"

Two or three men shifted uneasily, for it is not Western wisdom to tell tales of killings. So, looking at the proprietor, I casually remarked:

"Come on, Maloney, you might as well now as later. Who did this?"

"Him they call One-Eye Pete," he replied; "and he ought to hang for it! Come butting into the talk here when the other fellow began some kind of a yarn about a girl what pounds the piano in a dance hall down in Tucson!"

"I'm not so sure about that neither," drawled a tall Texan.

"Tim tried to fill his hand on him, but he warn't quick enough. I deem it an even break for being guilty, with Pete a shade the better of it. Didn't you all notice how the sheriff here had to let down the hammer of Tim's gun? It may teach some of you shorthorns to go kind of slow and easy like when women is the subject of your conversation."

At that I turned to the Southerner, and asked:

"Did you happen to notice which way this Pete went?"

"Sheriff," he replied, "this Pete, which that ain't his name nohow, started for Bear Creek, where he's got friends. You'll know him if you cross up with him, by his one eye and the limp in his walk, being one leg is two inches shorter than its mate. He's got almost three-quarters of an hour the start of you, but his cayuse is played out. I'm telling you this, because I voted for you; but I don't hope you'll catch your man, and I don't reckon none you will."

With that honest wish in my mind, I left the place and started for the fringe of trees which mark Bear Creek. As for the man I wanted, I had never seen him, but his reputation was familiar to me. Its burden was that, with all his black record, he had neither harmed a woman nor fought unfairly.

Straight ahead, I saw the dark line hugging the water. To the right, only the endless plain; to the left, the same thing. No, there was a light, away in the distance in a spot where no light had business to be.

It alternately grew brighter and dimmer, and, at times, it leaped high into the black air. Straining my eyes, I imagined that I could see the sinuous movement of fiery tongues. I concluded that some poor settler's barn was going up in smoke. Then I struck spurs to my pony.

A minute later a fearful thought gripped me. My own home was due west, right where that fire—but, my God! it could not be!

I stared for an instant, as if fascinated. Then came action. The fugitive and his crime were forgotten; so was the fact that I wore a sheriff's shield. I settled myself in the saddle, the rowels bit deep and I was off like the wind across gullies and sudden arroyos, through hog-wallows, filled with the powdery dust of seasons, over treacherous towns of prairie dogs, whose fatal burrows my pony missed as if by instinct, straight for that baleful glow which seemed to grow more distant with every leap.

At length I clearly saw the flames curling hungrily over the roof of my barn. Then I saw the smoking ruins of the shed.

I could hear the roar of the fire. I began to strain my ears for some human sound—even cries of distress. I yelled to let them know I was coming, before I realized that I was too far away to be heard over the din.

The next instant a sound reached me. Worse than the hiss of the flames or the groans of tortured timbers, this hideous scream almost froze my blood.

It was the yell of Indians, born of the blood lust. Easton's glib warning flashed through my mind.

While still within the fire's zone of blackness, and just outside of the flames' glow, I jumped from my horse and ran toward the house. In the space between the smoldering building and the blazing barn, I saw several savages, their paint-bedaubed faces distorted with the hideous signs of the beast in human guise. Beyond them, undamaged because of its thick adobe walls, stood the squat smokehouse.

To have crossed this open space would have meant death. Knowing this, I made for the shadow near the side door.

Just as I reached the door, I stopped, for there came to me, faint and muffled, the unmistakable cry of a child. It came from the direction of the smokehouse. Then dawned on me the reason for the apparent lack of Indian war wisdom. It showed the cunning of their leader. He knew that no mother will flee while her child is in danger.

I made up my mind to enter the house secure my rifle, and pick off these vainglorious savages one at a time; but I was destined to take no hand in this fight.

The door of the smokehouse suddenly flew open. From the inner darkness stepped a man. He was hatless. His face and neck were black with grime. Each hand held a pistol.

Hardly had he cleared the door, when he jumped to one side, thus bringing the house out of range. As he leaped, I saw, clinging to his shoulders, with her arms held tightly around his neck, my little girl. He looked toward the house, and realizing what might happen, shouted above the din:

"Stay where you are! I'll bring her to you!"

At the first word the savages wheeled and made as if to charge him, but those level muzzles blazed forth such a steady stream of hot lead that they hesitated.

It seemed as if the man's weapons were linked to the scattering Indians by a livid line of flame. As he shot, he came closer to the house.

Spellbound I watched every move he made. In my admiration of his splendid courage I forgot, for the moment, all else. Leaving dead and wounded Indians in his wake, the stranger reached the house, from which my wife with outstretched arms ran to meet him. With infinite gentleness he lifted the child from his back and handed her to her mother, while the Indians who could ride were making tracks for the hills.

Five minutes later, my wife told me, between sobs, how the little girl had run to the smokehouse for meat for breakfast, and how, almost at the same time, she had seen this stranger ride up out of the darkness. Then, as if by magic, the Indians appeared.

I prepared to thank the man, who walked slowly toward us leading a horse. He took my hand. Looking him in the face, I said:

"I am the sheriff of this county. If I can pay you for this night's work, I will."

"You have," he answered quietly, as he mounted his horse and rode away. As I saw him head straight for the nearest county line, I muttered: "Thank God!"

"Why, Jack?" asked my wife.

"Because, dear," I replied, "when he came up to us just now, I saw that he limped; and when I shook his hand, I noticed that he had but one eye."

Then I told her what had kept me away from home.

THE BELLEVILLE GAME LIKELY SEASON'S LAST

To-morrow's game between the Belleville champions and Peterboro will likely be the last game of the season and promises to attract a big crowd of fans. This year has been the best season for amateur baseball that the city has ever known, and the game with Belleville will be a fitting climax. Goyer, Mills and Company are coming at fine strength, the game being a tuning up for their series with the Toronto winners in the O.B.A.A. play off, but the Petes hope to finish the season by a win over their old rivals. Either Kirn or Rose will do the twirling for the Petes ,while Goyer, the left-handed wizard who has beaten Peterboro four times in five starts, will serve them up for Belleville. The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp.

GIRL'S LOVE ENDS FAMILY STRIFE

WINS HER HAPPINESS AND FORTUNE

If you were a little Southern girl whose grandfather and uncle had not spoken since they chose opposite sides in the Civil War and you were left a $5000 legacy contingent on your ending the estrangement between the brothers, how would you go about it?

Little Dulcie didn't know, but she loved both and so she set out alone into the two troubled households, uncle's home in New York. How she not only brought love once more into the twointo the two households, but also won a Northern sweetheart against great odds and came home with a great fortune of whose existence she never had dreamed, is told in the Vitagraph picture, "Miss Dulcie from Dixie," which will be the attraction in the Empire theatre on September 12-13. Gladys Leslie is the star and has one of the most effective roles in her screen career. She is supported by six Vitagraph favorites, Charles Kent, Arthur Donaldson, James Morrison and Julia Swayne Gordon.

DONATED A SILVER TROPHY

WILL BE COMPETED FOR BY LOCAL BOWLERS

As a tangible proof of his interest in the game, Mr. Frank Clarke has donated to the Bowling Club in the city a handsome silver cup which is at present being competed for by the bowlers on the local green. It is Mr. Clarke's wish that the cup will be competed for each year and become the personal property of the winner for three consecutive years.

The cup so generously donated is a very handsome affair, standing with the splendid mahogany base, 17 in. high. It is silver and carried out in the antique Prince of Wales design. The base is open for a shield to bear the names of the winners in the different years, and the cup itself is handsomely engraved in the words: "The Frank Clarke Cup for Peterboro Bowlers, 1919."

COUNCIL ADOPT HOUSING SCHEME

WAS GIVEN A GOOD RECEPTION LAST EVENING

The Ontario Housing Plan, which was favourably reported upon by a group of prominent citizens a year ago, but which received a cold douche at the hands of the City Council soon after, met with a hearty reception last night by the City Fathers, and on motion of Ald. Edgar, seconded by Ald. Morrison, and carried, the City Solicitor was instructed to prepare a by-law to adopt the Ontario Housing Plan and that a local Housing Commission be appointed under the Act. In the meantime the City Clerk will write away to different centres where the Housing Plan is now in operation and obtain their views of its chances of success.

FINED FOR BREACH OF MOTOR ACT

Breaches of the Motor Vehicle Act netted the city $27.80 this morning in Police Court. Miss Etta Dawson failed to stop when she ran over a bicycle ridden by a boy at the corner of Charlotte and Park Streets this week. Mr. G. N. Gordon acted for the defendant, and the fine amounted to $7.00.

Charles Mather passed a standing street car—$5 and $7.20 costs.

Mr. Joseph O'Reilly was asked for $8.10 for cutting the corner at Charlotte and George Streets.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"FULL OF PEP."

"Full of Pep," the feature picture at the Grand Opera House, starring Hale Hamilton, attracted a large audience last evening, and the generous and thoroughly enjoyable programme supporting the feature picture made the performance one of the best ever shown in a moving picture house in the city.

The story of "Full of Pep" is a good, live, up-to-date theme in which Baxter, the lively son of a munition manufacturer and known amongst his friends as T.N.T., becomes attracted by a young and beautiful Spanish Senorita whom he sees well chaperoned in a railway station. Just at the time of his infatuation there has been brought into his father's firm a heavy order for munitions, the payment for which depends upon the firm's ability to deliver the goods safety to the Central American Republic, for which they are ordered, and which country is torn by uprisings and rumours of uprisings. To Baxter (Junior's) unutterable delight he finds that the order comes from the same place that the object of his affections lives. He immediately offers to personally conduct the munitions to their destination and gives his word that they will be safely delivered. With an English friend he contrives to import the goods into the republic, posing the while as an agent for "Pep's" tonic which is bound to put new life into the consumer. Through the free distribution of "Pep" amongst the natives, Baxter soon wins their confidence and is instrumental in turning the mass of people from the intriguing General, who has been planning to become the President and the husband of the President's daughter, who it turns out is the girl Baxter has followed from his New York home. The play, while full of amusing incidents, is intensely interesting and has a good plot.

A Max Sennet comedy, "The Small Town Lover," and a Western drama, "To the Tune of the Bullet," also made a big hit with the large audience and the Vod-A-Vil pictures proved as fascinating and appreciated as usual.

THE VOGUE OF NORMA TALMADGE

THE MIRROR OF FASHION AND GOOD TASTE IN COLOURS

By Gertrude Hamilton Field

Norma Talmadge has a most interesting theory concerning clothes and their colors. She believes that the range of human emotions has a direct and vital relation to the colors of the spectrum.

Every emotion has its color-tone equivalent, and in the making of a photoplay one must dress one's emotions in corresponding hues under the blue lights of the Cooper Hewitts.

Miss Talmadge says: "You understand that this problem of color under the peculiar lights of the moving picture workshop is no high-school problem in chemistry. To know a color as it will appear to the naked eye is an art itself. Everyone who knows anything about the filming of a scene knows that, while everything on the motion picture screen appears to be in black and while; a number of different colors are needed to obtain the desired effect. Yellow, for instance, photographs white. So when I say, for example, that I must wear scarlet to rightfully interpret a certain character for a picture, I mean that I must wear a gown which appears red when the director calls for lights."

"Vogue" and one or two other exclusive fashion-journals have, until recently, been the only reliable source from which society women living in the smaller cities have been able to cull the newest and best-taste styles from New York's up-to-the-minute clothes.

But a new factor is at hand, namely, the great moving picture actresses. They spend thousands of dollars to obtain, not only the latest creations, but the coming designs from such exclusive clothes-designers as Lucile, Madame Francis and Mary Blackburn. Society women have become cognizant of this fact and follow these living, breathing fashion exponents with close attention in all their latest releases.

Among these super-gowned geniuses, Norma Talmadge ranks supreme. not only does she spend a mint of money on her clothes, but she makes use of a naturally fine discriminative taste and she has an air, a way of wearing her clothes, which nine women out of ten strive to attain, but in vain.

A red which is red in the daylight may not be red at all in all the studio and if it is not the emotional effect is completely destroyed.

"You must think I have become a faddist, but I assure you I have not. Do you know I never attempt to portray a character until I decide on my heroine's color tones? I must know, even before I begin to study the script seriously, whether my subject is a character positive enough to demand virile shades, a little thing to be in the pastel tones or a passive creature with only neutral qualities. Then I begin to choose my colors for my gowns. There are certain emotions which require flamboyant hues—the scarlets, vivid blues and greens and bright purples which are suggestive of strong feeling.

"The heroic woman who has faults as well as virtues is well interpreted through scarlet, and I always wear that color in scenes where I must show envy, hate, or great sacrifice."

Miss Talmadge's latest Select Picture "The Probation Wife" is a film version of a short story by Angie Ousley Rooser, which recently appeared in a popular leading magazine The scenario was written by Kathryn Stuart.

Miss Talmadge has the role of an inmate of a notorious cafe, who is later brought before the Magistrate of the Delinquent Court and sentenced to three years in a reformatory. Varied and thrilling adventures surroud her final escape and a love romance follows which is quite out of the ordinary in both treatment and conception.

"MY SOLDIER GIRL" AT GRAND THEATRE

A tuneful musical comedy of fun and fashion beat describes the latest musical comedy success, "My Soldier Girl," coming to the Grand, Saturday matinee and evening, with its scenes laid in two novel acts. The first scene opens at Col. Stone's home in Miami, Florida overlooking Biscayne Bay. There is a lawn fete in progress in honor of the boys and girls whom the colonel met in Europe during the recent struggle and to whom he extended an invitation to visit his home once they were back in America. Many clever professionals are among the invited guests and the night is one of gayest festivities.

The second act opens on the roof of a New York theatre, presenting a gorgeous production of the Follies in rehearsal. Colonel Stone is the producer and the scene as presented shows the big company, in all its merry making. There are many march and dance ensembles participated in by the excellent cast and big chorus who are responsible for the success of this big spectacle.

One of the strongest photoplays seen in this city in years is "Sporting Life," the first independent offering of Maurice Tourneur, the famous film director, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre for two days only, on Monday and Tuesday.

It is a splendid picturisation of a famous Drury Lane melodrama, and there is not a dull moment throughout the action. The story is heart appealing and the players are of the best.

"STRING BEANS" AT ALLEN THEATRE

CHARLES RAY IN "STRING BEANS" PROVES HIS MASTERY OVER THE TYPE HE PORTRAYS—TO BE SEEN AT THE ALLEN THEATRE TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

Charles Ray has long ago proved that he is alone in his particular field of screen portraiture. As the young farmer's boy with literary aspirations in the present picture showing at the Allen Theatre, he is not only highly amusing, but gives a performance that ranks with the best offerings of stage or screen in any period.

CHARLES RAY
in 'String Beans'
A Paramount Picture

whose tendency to write poems rouses the ire of his narrow-minded uncle, the result being that he quits the farm and accepts a position as subscription solicitor on the Sawbert Weekly Clarion. He meets and loves Jean Morris, daughter of the Mayor of Sawbert, and she returns his love. Kendall Reeves, a crook, known to the police as Harry Morgan, comes to Sawbert to work a fake string beans cannery scheme, and Toby, at the request of Zachary Bartrum, editor of the Clarion, attends a mass meeting in opposition to the project. When Toby sees Jean Morris in the audience his courage deserts him and he flees ignominously from the hall. He overhears Reeves talking to a former pal, who is now employed on the Clarion, and the man's criminal character is revealed. Reeves learns that exposure is inevitable, and he seeks to force Mayor Morris to pay him five thousand dollars for a majority interest in the fake cannery, and then decamp. Toby goes to the Morris home and finds Jean struggling with Reeves. He rescues her, and after a desperate battle, masters the crook. Bartrum and Morris, who long have been enemies, are reconciled, and through them the love affair of Toby and Jean reaches a happy denouement.

The work of Mr. Ray in each scene is highly effective and convincing. Jane Norsk, as his leading woman is delighful and ingenuous. The other characters are well played by John P. Lockney, Donald MacDonald, Al Filson, Otto Hoffman and others.

The production, directed by Victor Schertzinger, is excellent with the small town types admirably represented. It is a clean, wholesome and inspiring little story, and deserves the highest commendation. Its humorous character makes it particularly acceptable at this time, while there is enough solid, if homely human, quality about it to make it agreeable to any audience.

A Splendid Showing of New Autumn Millinery

Since a season's success is gauged by a season's hat we may expect much of Autumn, 1919. Never were hats lovelier. The golden lights of brown in all the shadings hold first place among colors.

Of course there are many delightful black hats of plain or panne velvet and here and there a touch of monkey fur that Paris is advocating.

Summed up it is a season of more trimming, more color and more charm that we have known for many years.

Prices are very moderate, starting as low as

$5.00 TO $15.00

$4.50 New Costume Velvet, on Sale $3.50

We quote $4.50 for $3.50 yard. The reason we quote it that way is on account of the advance which has taken place since we placed the order. You benefit by this lucky purchase. Shades are purple, grey, navy, brown. 36 inches wide. Remember a $4.50 costume velvet, for yard $3.50

Women's New Autumn Suits, $40.00, $45.00, $50.00, $55.00, $60.00

Models that in every line express that refinement of taste, that touch of distinction that is so dear to the fashionable woman — whether it be for the plain tailored suit with its simple lines or the rich braided type. Developed from such fine materials as Serges, Cheviots, Tricotines and fancy Tweeds in all wanted shades.

Correct Modes in Fall Coats $25.00, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00, $50.00

Fascinating Silk and Serge Dresses, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00

They come in all silk and silk and Georgette combined and all wool serges and Jersey cloths, in all the wanted shades. The lines are ultra smart and feature all the newest models.

VOL. XLIII NO. 61 PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1919 PRICE TWO CENTS

Peterboro Industrial Exhibition Opens Monday

SITUATION IS SERIOUS

MINERS STRIKE WILL SOON BE FELT THROUGHOUT ONTARIO

BIG SHORTAGE

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—Information received from the anthracite district of Pennsylvania in local coal circles indicate that over 28,000 men are on strike, including the entire working forces of the D. L. and W. and D. and H. mines. Those involved are employed in the Lackawana Valley, between Scranton and Oliphant.

The effect on the Ontario situation will not be felt for ten days or two weeks as coal shipments made previous to the strike will be "running" to Toronto from the mines for about that period. Dealers feel anxious, especially if the strike becomes general. The present loss in production is estimated at 100,000 tons daily.

LOCAL NURSE ON TORPEDOED SHIP

NURSING SISTER MILDRED DROUPE RETURNS HOME FROM OVERSEAS

There is absolutely no sign of a return of Spanish Influenza this fall in England, Nursing Sister Mildred Droupe, 787 Water street, who lately returned from overseas, told the Examiner. While last year the British Isles were about as hard hit by the disease as any country, this year they seem to be absolutely clear of it.

Miss Droupe went overseas two and a half years ago on the Asonia and was aboard her when she was torpedoed off the coast of Ireland. She said that her memory of the trip from the time of being torpedoed is one horrible nightmare of hastening to do what might be done to the many who were terribly wounded. On landing in England Miss Droupe was stationed at Bramshot and Orpington hospitals. She made the return journey on the Minnedosa, which crossed to Quebec in six and a half days and carried a large number of wounded Canadians and dependents.

A FOKKER PLANE FOR THE EXHIBITION

The exhibition of flying at the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition will be one of the big features at the show and will surpass anything in this line that has been seen in his district. This was assured this morning when Mr. W. F. Turner received word that the request of the Exhibition authorities to the Dominion Government for a German Fokkher to be used by Capt. Salter and Lieut. Dallin has been granted so that in addition to the Curtis planes which the aviators will also use.

Capt. Salter was one of Canada's crack air fighting men in France. He has officially credited with having brought down fifteen German planes and his total bag exceeded that number. He wears the French Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honour. Lieut. Dallin is a well known Peterboro boy who did fine work overseas and who has been one of the flying stars at the Toronto Exhibition. The two flyers were in the same squadron in France. They are expected to arrive in Peterboro to-day, flying down from Toronto.

Captain Salter and Lieut. Dallin will give exhibitions of stunt flying at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. on each day of the Exhibition and in addition will make passenger trips during their visit so that there is a great chance for any one who wants to see Peterboro from the air and experience the sensation of flying.

Retail Food Prices Went Up During The Past Month

WHOLESALE PRICES ARE GOING DOWN AND RETAIL PRICES ARE GOING UP—REPORT FROM FIFTEEN PRINCIPAL CITIES

By Ralph H. Couch.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. — Retail food prices went up during August and are still mounting despite the government campaign to reduce the cost of living, according to price figures collected by two government departments, covering practically every section of the country.

At the same time both wholesale prices and the prices paid to producers have dropped, the government's report indicates. In fifteen principal cities retail prices were boosted from 1-5 to 8 cents per sales unit on sirloin steak, butter, eggs, potatoes and pork chops, according to Parliamentary reports to the statistical bureau of the Labour Department for August seventh.

During the same month the level of prices paid producers and farmers decreased 3.4 per cent., according to an announcement made by the Agricultural Department.

PETERBORO'S BIG AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION OPENS MONDAY NOON FOR DAY AND NIGHT PERFORMANCES

THE BOARD STAKES ITS REPUTATION ON THIS YEAR'S FAIR—THIS IS A STRONG STATEMENT BUT PRESIDENT DENNE MADE IT TO-DAY—BIG LIST OF ATTRACTIONS—PARADE MONDAY NOON

If there is fine weather on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, Peterboro will see the three biggest Fair Days in its history. Preparations have been made on an extensive scale for every department of the Exhibition. Monday is just as good a day this year to visit the Fair as any of the other days, and a parade to which all are invited to come down and see, will open the Fair on Monday noon, to be followed by the regular program in front of the Grand Stand and evening performance at night.

Entries Coming In.

In reality this Fair is an Exhibit of Agricultural products and the entries in every class are flooding the Secretary to-day. Better accommodation than ever is offered in every section and the branch of the Exhibition is well ahead of previous years.

Special Attractions.

The real intention of the Fair Board is to, sooner or later, make the Fair a four or five day fair and even making a week, but in order to do this, the reputation it has gained in this district as the best Fair in Central Ontario, must not be impaired in any way and this year the special attractions are beyond anything previously attempted by the Board.

The Illumination.

The grounds and buildings will be illuminated for the evening shows, which will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights and the Main Building, from what it used to be to what it is now will be the wonder of the whole show.

Midway.

The biggest and liveliest midway, clean and up-to-date, will be a feature of the Show. Wires have been received by Manager R. H. Turner for more space than for any Fair here in recent years. A ferris wheel and merry-go-round has been contracted with to come to the grounds from the Toronto Exhibition for the pleasure of young and old.

The exhibits by the manufacturers and merchants of the city will be a revelation to all who visit the grounds. The Main Building will be filled with the finer and more attractive exhibits of merchants, the annex with heavier class of merchandise and the manufacturers' section will be attractively arranged with Peterboro made goods.

The Directors have left nothing undone to make the Fair a big success and the public is invited to attend as liberally as in the past. If this is done and there is fine weather Peterboro's 1919 Exhibition will be a record for future Fairs in this city that any Exhibition Board will have to work hard to beat.

"BUY AT HOME" CAMPAIGN SOON TO BE STARTED IN THE EXAMINER

THE EXAMINER HAS SECURED A SERIES OF ARTICLES AIMED PARTICULARLY AGAINST MAIL ORDER HOUSES

The Examiner has completed arrangements to run in its columns a series of educational articles on the important subject of "Buying at Home." These articles are aimed particularly against the mail order and catalogue concerns who sell at retail through their mail order system. These concerns have no interest here outside of the dollars they take out of the community. They own no real estate here, pay no taxes, have no money deposited in our local banks, nor do they help to keep up our local schools, churches, and other institutions, which our local merchants are called upon to support.

Read these articles as they appear each week, get posted on what it means to our city and community to patronize our home merchants who can not only compete in prices and quality, but give you a more satisfactory service.

SAYS MAJORITY OF THE MEN DID THE WORK WELL

With reference to the statement of the Referendum Committee as to the loose manner in which the enumeration in the city was done Mr. J. F. Strickland, the Chief Enumerator in whose hands the appointment of the men who did the work lay, said that in the majority of cases the men did their work well. He appointed returned soldiers to cover the work and gave them explicit instructions not only verbally but gave to each printed instructions issued by the department as to how to cover their areas. At the expiration of the ten days in which the work was done each man was required to make an affidavit that he had done his work thoroughly and completely and as Mr. Strickland is not a mind reader and considers each man to be competent he took their word that the work had been conscientiously done.

His Own Expense

Directly Mr. Strickland's notice was drawn to the fact that boundaries had been overlapped and sections missed he hired men at his own expense to go over the districts from which complaints had come and had matters satisfactorily adjusted. The percentage of names missed in this city is much smaller he contended than in some of the other cities in the province.

He was absolutely satisfied that any names left off were missed entirely through inadvertence and not carelessness or lack of ability on the part of the enumerators.

GARDEN FETE BIG SUCCESS

Eight girls of the Collegiate Institute, the Misses Martha Kirn, Jean Kidd, Dorothy Thompson-Curry, Irene Bates, Helen Roberts, Violet McEwen, Anna Bulmer and Kathleen Cuffe, gave a most successful garden fete at the home of Mrs. B. T. Cuffe, 32 Benson Avenue, yesterday evening, and about $35 was cleared to be given to the Serbian children, for whom stirring appeals have been made in the churches lately. The affair was held in the grounds surrounding the house, where prettily decorated booths had been arranged and where ice cream, candy and cakes were sold and in the house, where, later in the evening, a very successful dance was held, attended by about forty couples. Addresses were given during the evening by Rev. James Rollins, Mayor Duncan and Mr. Joseph Wearing, who each congratulated the little girls upon the splendid way in which they had worked for so deserving an object.

Received Donations.

The girls and Mrs. Cuffe, who superintended the affair, are deeply indebted to Mr. G. A. Gillespie, who donated 5 gallons of ice cream, Mr. J. Johns, who gave tea, coffee and cocoa, Mr. A. Davidson, sugar, Mr. Harper, milk and cream, Mr. Boyd, sugar, and Mr D. Hardie, tents and flags.

THE WOMEN ARE ACTIVE

LISTS PREPARED

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Sept. 13. — Women politicians are already taking a keen interest in the coming Provincial elections when they will contest with the men for seats in the House.

Mrs. Sears, of Ottawa, and Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, of Toronto, are so far the only ones who have consented to run, but Mrs. Campbell MacIver, of the United Women Voters, who is preparing a list of women candidates, says she thinks a great many more will be enlisted. At the beginning of the week she will have her list completed with the various ridings in which the candidates will run.

Some who have been asked have refused, Miss Constance Boulton being one of these, for she still remains firm in not considering the matter at present. Mrs. Hamilton, who is now in Halifax, is expected home next week, when she will take part in holding educational meetings.

WILL CARE FOR BABIES.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—No Toronto woman voter will have an excuse for failure to register her vote on the referendum, as the Women's Committee of Ontario and the Referendum General Committee have arranged that women temperance workers will stay in the home to care for the babies while the mother of a family is absent at the polling booths.

WAR FRONT HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED TO IRELAND

United Press:

PROVIDENCE, Rhode Island, Sept. 13. — "The war front is now transferred to Ireland," Eamonn Devalera, President of the Irish Republic, declared in a statement to-day, commenting on the clashing of Sinn Fein Parliament and raids by British troops on Sinn Fein centres.

"If law and order is all that is wanted in Ireland, it can be had with twenty-four hours," Devalera said. "The alien Government of Great Britain has only to withdraw its army of occupation. The war front is now transferred to Ireland, where Viscount French, one time commander in France, and the former Chief of Staff, Sir William Robertson, are now in command.

"The suppression by armed force of Congress of freely elected representatives of the Irish people is a commentary on England's desire to make the world safe for democracy. The activities of suppressed Congress were directed toward the development of nations' resources and the organization of production. One of the arrested Cabinet members is the Minister of Trade."

Recent Decrees.

The appointment of a commission to survey Ireland's industrial possibilities. A decision to establish a Consular system to promote direct trading with America and other countries. A proposal to purchase farms for "landless" men, who otherwise would be forced to emigrate. The development of the fishing industry. The fixing of an Arbor Day, and the appointment of an inspector of afforestation.

"It is probably the Parliament's activity on national reconstruction work that has caused its suppression by the British Government," Devalera said.

"But the British cannot suppress the whole Irish people and Ireland will never acknowledge an alien authority."

HANG OUT YOUR FLAGS FOR THE EXHIBITION

IT WILL HELP TO MAKE THE CITY MORE ATTRACTIVE TO VISITORS

With the grounds of the Exhibition looking like a fairy land, decorated in and out of the buildings, the directors of the Fair would like to see the citizens generally and the merchants in particular fly their flags and give the city as bright an appearance as possible for the three days of the Fair.

MASSEY BICYCLE EXHIBIT

Be sure and see the Massey Bicycle Exhibit at the Fair. You will see there the latest and most beautiful design of bicycle construction. Massey Bicycles have upheld an unequalled reputation since 1886 and stand far ahead of any other make on the market to-day. This reputation has created for them a demand from all over the civilized world.

WILL REMAIN A REPUBLIC

A NEW CRISIS

(Special to The Examiner.)

CASSEL, Germany, Sept. 13.—Addressing a meeting here Philip Scheidemann, former German Premier, warned the elements contemplating a monarchist counter revolution that they were "playing with fire."

Scheidemann expressed confidence that a revolution seeking to restore the monarchy would be unsuccessful and vowed Germany would remain a Republic. He asked the monarchists not to oppose "the vital interests of the people by creating a new crisis."

"The danger is great and grave," he declared, "but whatever comes I have confidence that a monarchistic counter revolution will fail."

VETERANS CLAIM WILL BE HEARD BY COMMITTEE

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Sept. 13.—The G. W. V. A. has won out in its fight for a hearing of its claims for better treatment of Canada's soldiers. That is the statement of the G.W.V.A. leaders and officials here. They do not say it boastingly. They are deadly in earnest—so much so that there is nothing of the boastful spirit about them, but they are satisfied that they have gained their first point. True, the Government camouflaged its concession somewhat. Instead of a Royal Commission, it is to be a Parliamentary Committee. But this committee is to go into the entire question of the re-establishment of returned men, and that includes the bonus or gratuity issue. Hon. N. Rowell's statement in the House of Commons last night makes that clear, and the G.W.V.A. officials are now preparing to get their facts and figures ready for the committee.

There was a report that a veteran deputation would see the Premier to-day to make a renewed demand for a Royal Commission. No such appointment was made. Sir Robert Borden is still indisposed. Last night's action in the Commons made such an interview unnecessary anyway.

"The G.W.V.A. accepts the decision of Parliament as the first step toward the finding of a solution for the problem," said C. G. McNeil, Dominion secretary of the G.W.V.A., to the Examiner to-day.

"All we ask now is for the choice of a sincere committee and a chance to bring out the facts. We have been assured of every facility to lay our evidence before the committee and of the right to examine witnesses."

"The word bonus is not mentioned in our request to the Government. It is swallowed up in the larger question. There is no demand for a straight cash compensation for services rendered. But we do see real problems looming up. The problem of disabled men who cannot get insurance, the problem of men who find it hard to fit themselves back into civil life, the problem of men who find the vocatironal courses not suited to their needs, the problem of a hard winter coming and men out of employment. These are the things we want to go into and straighten out. The G.W.V.A. is not and has not been trying to create unrest. The aim has been to cure unrest."

We do not want to cripple the country financially, went on the G.W.V.A. secretary. "If our demands mean that the resources of Canada will be crippled or the country embarrassed in a financial way, they drop here. We are not going to be unreasonable, but we do believe that Canada has a right to take care, as far as Canada is able, of the men who fought for her."

CORN ROAST AT STONE HEDGES

Last evening the Murray street Hustlers' Club held their annual corn roast at "Stone Hedges" the home of Mr. H. H. Webber, North Monaghan. The party met at the club room and then proceeded to the scene of hostilities in motor cars. The abundant supply of steaming corn formed the beginning of a very merry evening.

After games and music the corn roasters left at an hour that was "getting so late that it was almost early"

Some of those present were Misses May Newman, Hazel Gillespie, Mildred Ducette, Sarah Eastwood, Marjorie Stenton, Margarite Hanna, Gladys Yelland, Mary Hewson, Gertrude Middleton, Black, Daisy Webber and Lizzie Webber, and Hustlers A. S. Zavitz, Graham, Eastwood, Harvey, Webber, R. Allen, Lewis "Ken" Routley, Percy Johnson, Harold Johnson, Harold Yelland, "Lou" Smith, Wilmot Brewett, Keile Fewsley and Allen Doughty.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT MAY HAVE TO MAKE ANOTHER APPEAL TO THE COUNTRY

BYE ELECTION IN WIDNES IS TAKEN AS A WARNING TO THE PRESENT ADMINISTRATION.

HENDERSON INTERVIEW

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The result of the bye-election in Widnes, Lancaster, at which Arthur Henderson, Labour leader, was elected to the House of Commons, is considered a severe blow to the Coalition Government, and has revised speculation as to the imminence of another general election. Virtually the unanimous vote on the Trades Union Congress at Glasgow for the nationalization of mines and the vote on the subject of withdrawing British troops from Russia, are regarded as evidence of the very determined attitude on the part of Labour against the Government. It is pointed out that there are suspicions as to the Government intentions concerning Russia and conscription, and that the Glasgow Congress declined clearly to condemn the policy of direct action, but only strategically side-tracked the decision. The reconstruction of the Cabinet is long overdue, and has been delayed only because Ministerial changes would involve bye-elections, which, it is said, would almost certainly provide additional evidence that the tide of feeling in the country is running strongly against the Government.

Irish Question.

Added to the difficulties in the field of labour is the Irish question, which seems impossible for the Coalition Government to satisfactorily solve. On all sides the concensus of opinion is that another appeal to the country cannot be long delayed. It is understood that as soon as Premier David Lloyd George returns from France, he intends to summon the inner Cabinet to discuss the whole situation. Arthur Henderson, in an interview here last night on his success in Widnes, said his victory was an "emphatic condemnation of the Coalition Government's policy and of the cynical political compromise upon which the Government rests."

"I believe," he continued, "that the origin of the demand for the policy of direct action lies in the fact that the present Parliament is felt to be wholly unrepresentative of the nation, and is dominated by reactionary influences. This has involved the country in proceedings which are a negation of democracy. It is shown in the developments in Russia, Hungary and near home in Ireland, where the situation is obviously grave. Widnes is a warning the Government cannot afford to ignore."

PARLIAMENT WILL PAY EXPENSES

COMMITTEE TO RECONSIDER SOLDIER'S CIVIL RE-ESTABLISHMENT

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 13, 1919.
Examiner,
Peterborough, Ont.:

"Rowell moved that a special committee to reconsider the soldiers' civil re-establishment be appointed forthwith, with power to have soldiers appear before it. Burnham asked who would pay the expenses of witnesses. Rowell said that Parliament would pay expenses where names are handed in before hand."

CONDEMNS STREET RAILWAY TRACKS

HARD TO UNDERSTAND HOW TORONTO STREET CARS KEEP THE TRACKS

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—The Ontario Railway Board's Engineer, Mr. W. S. Middlemist, has made a sensational report on the tracks of the Toronto railway, in which he condemns nearly 19 miles of rails now in use on its system and calls for their replacement. He declares in this document that "I do not understand how the cars keep on the rails on most of the tracks mentioned, the latter being so completely worn out, and I am afraid if this condition continues much longer there may be bad derailments." He urges renewal "as speedily as possible."

LABOUR WANTS SELF-DETERMINATION FOR THE EMERALD ISLE

Congress Ended To-day— Some of the Resolutions.

(Canadian Press.)

GLASGOW, Sept. 13.—The Trades Union Congress ended to-day with the passage of resolutions re-affirming the right of free speech and protesting against the arrest and deportation of Alen Trades Union officials for connection with Bolshevism. Resolutions also expressed the belief in the necessity for conducting the controltrol of food prices. James Henry Thomas, Labour member of Parliament, moved an emergency resolution of deprecation of military rule in Ireland and declaring that the only solution of the Irish problem was through the method of self determination by which the Irish people could work out their own solutions. The resolutions expressed profound sympathy for the Trades Unionists, "Irish brothers in their hour of repression." This resolution was carried unanimously.

ADDED ATTRACTION FOR PETERBORO' EXHIBITION

Mr. C. R. Banks, local distributor for Willy's-Knight and Overland Cars, received word to-day that the Overland Company were shipping two Overland 1920 model cars, to be shown during the Exhibition.

These are the cars with the wonderful new springs, which make this model of car the easiest riding car on the market. During next Tuesday and Wednesday, cars will be on show at the Exhibition during the day and at the Banks Garage in the evenings.

All interested are invited to inspect these cars.

CHINA WAS FIRST BONE-DRY NATION

Ordered All Grapes Destroyed in the Empire.

Temperance movements and prohibition crusades date back at least 8,000 years! It was China that first tried to be bone-dry.

Early reforms along temperance lines are attributed to the priests of India and Persia. But the Chinese claim that in the 11th century before Christ their emperor, so digusted over the prevalence of drunkenness, ordered all the grape vines in the kingdom uurooted.

The Chinese emperor removed the cause of wine drinking. That may be the reason why the Chinese took to making intoxicting liquor out of rice.

A hundred years before this bone-dry effort, in the 12th century before Christ, King Wen tried partial reform in China. Wen, founder of the Chou dynasty, promulgated an "Announcement Against Drunkennese," according to ancient Chinese documents handed down by Confucius.

King Wen declared "drinking has long been a national vice." He ordered that wine be used only in connection with sacrifices—and even than drunkenness was not to be tolerated.

But there was a joker in this edict. Here it is: "When, however, you high officials and others have done your duty in minstering to the aged and to your sovereign, you may then eat to satiety and drink to elevation."

The temperance reformer also existed in Egypt centuries before Christ. Here's what a teacher said to a youth who had been looking upon the flowing bowl too freely,

"Drink not beer to excess. The words that come out of thy mouth thou canst not recall Thou dost fall and break thy limbs and no one reaches out a hand to thee."

Have a Turkish Bath When in Toronto

There is no topic quite so good for building up health. A Turkish Bath rids the system of all poisonous matter by cleansing the pores of the skin as can no other method. It gives a refreshed and invigorated feeling alike to mind and body.

Next time you are in Toronto step at Cook's, where eating and sleeping accommodation is unexcelled—where you can get a real Turkish Bath without extra charge.

GEN. CURRIE THINKS $2000 IS TOO MUCH

BUT BELIEVES GRATUITY MATTER SHOULD BE RECONSIDERED

HAMILTON, Sept. 13.—The reception tendered to General Currie at the armouries here before the banquet was very hearty. Returned soldiers and the parents and relatives of men of all ranks visited the armouries to meet the distinguished general and pay their respects. After music had been played by the 91st, 13th and G.W.V.A. bands, General Currie addressed the large gathering, the majority of which was composed of men wearing buttons. During his talk he said he considered that the request of the G.W.V.A. for a $2,000 gratuity should have been heard by the Government.

After his speech General Currie's invitation to the returned soldiers to ask questions was taken advantage of. Gunner Albert Peart, ex-president of the East Hamilton G.W.V.A., was one questioner.

Not Enough.

"Not enough," was the general's reply when Mr. Peart asked what his opinion was of $600 as the maximum for total disability. Loud applause greeted his answer.

$2,000 Too Much.

The vets then peppered General Currie with questions regarding the $2,000 gratuity. There was no beating about the bush by the general. He answered every question with alacrity and candor. He told them he thought $2,000 was too much. The country couldn't stand the strain. He also emphasized that the vets were deserving of much more than they had already received.

"Do you think, general, the war stopped through lack of funds?" asked a vet.

A negative reply being given, the man added: "Well, then, why doesn't the Government give us some money?" (Laughter and cheers).

Pension Too Small.

Another question submitted by Gunner Peart was: "What is your opinion of the $480 yearly pension for widows?"

"Not enough," replied General Currie, and again loud cheers.

Opinion Divided.

Opinion was divided among the returned men who listened to the general's answers to the numerous questions. The out-and-out $2,000 men were not backward in expressing their disappointment at the stand of the general. The majority, however, were delighted to hear that their leader supported the demand for a commission. In their conversations at the armouries the men declared that now the corps commander had come out flat-footed in favour of the commission chances were good for the Premier changing his mind.

Should Be Revised.

Men were not the only ones who asked questions. One woman asked the inspector-general if he thought it was fair that she received a $12 monthly pension for a four-year-old son now and would only receive that sum when her boy was old enough to go to the Collegiate. The general saw the force of her argument and replied that the whole scheme of pensions needed careful consideration and considerable revision.

Three Famous Russians Of One Mind On One Question

An announcement in the daily press of the marriage of one of the world-famous Cherniavsky brothers to a young lady of British Columbia brings to memory the visit of these talented Russian musicians to Canada a few years ago.

They proved themselves a remarkable trio.

At all their recitals they used a

which, by the way, they insist on using, whether in Canada, or Australia or South Africa.

Mischel has said of this piano: "The rich quality of the tone made the rendering of my 'cello numbers a pleasure such as I have never derived from the accompaniment of any other piano."

Leo: "The pure and even quality of the tone materially assisted to the success of my violin numbers. It surpasses any piano I have ever used."

Jan: "I attribute a great deal of my success to the facility with which the emotions are expressed by the perfect response and brilliant tone of your piano."

MEN OF "RENOWN" APPRECIATE SERVICE ON CANADIAN RAILWAY

The petty officers and the men of H. M. S. "Renown" have expressed to the Grand Trunk Railway their keen appreciation of the manner in which their comfort was attended to on the trip to the cities in Quebec and Ontario. They were particularly impressed they state by the excellent way in which the Grand Trunk commissary car prepared and served the meals for the party.

Lieut.-Col. G. W. Merriott, officer in charge of clearing services, has also written a letter of appreciation to the railway stating that the naval ratings will carry away with them the pleasantest of memories of their trip as a result of the kindness and courtesy received throughout the entire journey.

Had a Very Bad Attack of Bowel Complaint

IT WAS CURED BY

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

Any one suffering from bowel complaints such as diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and pains in the stomach, summer complaint, etc., will find that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry will give quicker and more permanent relief han any other remedy on the market to-day.

This old tried and proven medicine has been on the market for the past 74 years. You don't experiment when you buy it. Surely the test of time proves this.

Mrs. Daniel Hartwick, Mountain Grove, Ont., writes:—"I used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and have found that it is a good remedy. When my little girl was 2 1-2 years old she had a very bad attack of bowel complaint. Nothing prescribed by the doctor seemed to do her any good. She got worse, until we thought we would loose her. I got a bottle of 'Dr. Fowler's', and she soon found relief. Every one who has children should not be without it in their home.

G. T. P. HAS DONE FINE WORK IN DEVELOPING WEST

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—Statistics just compiled here give some striking facts regarding the development work that has been carried on by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The road now serves four hundred and fifty seven cities, towns and settlements, four hundred and twenty-nine of which are reached by no other line. Since the railway was completed in July, 1914, it has handled, for settlers who have taken up land along this line, approximately seven thousand carloads of household and other effects. The Grand Trunk Pacific has handled an increasingly large proportion of the grain grown in the Western Provinces, its record for one year being 43,194 cars, representing 55,363,298 bushels. To handle the grain four hundred and five elevators have been erected, with a total capacity of 12,150,000 bushels, while the lines of the railway have access to other elevators, with a combined capacity of 9,500,000 bushels.

The lumber and fish traffic developed by the railway has also been very large, 3,107 cars of lumber and 1,497 cars of fish, the latter representing 32,000 tons, having been carried over the lines during the last two months.

NEW PRICES BECAME EFECTIVE AT FIRST OF MONTH.

As soon as local tobacconists' stocks of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco are sold out smokers will have to begin paying Mr. H. C. of L's tax on luxuries. Three of the largest manufacturing firms, Tuckett's of Hamilton, L. O. Groth, of Montreal and T. McMall of London, have announced increases of from $7 to $9 per thousand of cigars, the increase to affect all orders given after September . J. H. Wilson of Toronto, another large cigar manufacturing firm, will announce a similar increase shortly. The increase will affect all brands of cigars from the cheap to the most expensive brands. The $9 increase per thousand will mean that the three-for-a-quarter cigar will be no more, but will sell in future for ten cents straight.

Tobacco Increases.

Due, tobacco manufacturers say, to the increasing cost of tin, tinned tobacco will advance ten cents per pound. The fifteen cent package is recognized as the public favorite, and believing that it would be bad policy to advance the price of these to 20 cents, the manufacturers will get around the difficulty by diminishing the size of the packing. Instead of tweyve packages to the pound, there will be in future fourteen.

Scales and Roberts, jobbers of Toronto, have confirmed these increased prices and intimate that they will go into effect immediately in some stores, and in others as soon as the old stocks run out. Increases are blamed on the high cost of material and labor. The Imperial Tobacco company is already charging the extra ten cents per pound for tinned tobaccos. Just when the increase on cigarettes will be has not yet been announced.

DUKE IS SENIOR FIELD MARSHALL

King of Spain and King of Belgians May Soon Receive British Baton.

With the award of batons to Generals Plumer and Allenby there are now a round dozen of British Field-Marshals, of whom seven —Haig, Egerton, the Emperor of Japan, Wilson, Foch, Plumer and Allenby—have been made during the war. Lord French of course received his baton the year before the war broke out. The senior Field-Marshal is the Duek of Cananught, promoted in 1907, and the Emperor of Japan and Marshal Foch are the only foreigners on the roll. It is believed that the King of the Belgians will shortly be added to the list. The King of Spain may also in due course receive the honour. At present he is the senior General of the British Army. The above appointments will no doubt be received with general approval. General Plumer the veteran of the Generals, commands the affection and admiration of the whole Army, and General Allenby's wonderful work in the East merits every recognition it can recieve.

IF AFTER EATING YOU HAVE PAIN STOMACH NEEDS AID

Specialists who have devoted their lives to the treatment of stomach ailments now tell us that many people who complain about their stomachs have no stomach ailment at all.

You may suffer from bloating gas, sourness and other unpleasant symptoms. If so your best course is to tone up the bowels with a reliable vegetable remedy like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. This old-time family medicine is a wonderful corrective of all digestive and stomach disorders.

There is no mystery about the quick effect you get from Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They simply supply the additional aid required by the system to enable it to do its work correctly.

You'll enjoy your meals, digest everything you eat, look better, feel better, be free from headaches, constipation and indigestion, all these benefits come to all that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Every man or woman with a stomach ill is advised to spend 25c on a box of this wonderful vegetable remedy.

INFORMATION WANTED.

The Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir:—May I take up a little space in your valuable paper with three points regarding the 93rd Battalion, which is being formed at the present time.

Some of the old boys of the 93rd are desirous of knowing what the 93rd Battalion fund amounts to and what the officers in charge of that fund intend doing with the money.

We are in favor of the trustee's of the aforesaid fund, publishing in your paper a balance sheet, stating what has been received in payments to the fund, including the $10,000 presented by the city, and what has been spent in numerous equipments bought by the fund, also the balance in hand.

We would also like to suggest to the trustees of the fund that the balance in hand be divided among the wives and mothers of those men in the 93rd Battalion who were killed in action or died also among cases where men have been rendered totally or partially unfit and are in need of a helping hand. If what I have stated with regard to the fund is complied with I believe that Col. Johnston will get a lot more men to join the Association and most of us are only too anxious to renew old comradeship.

Meet Ford Car Needs Double Its Virtues

The Goodrich 375 Tires, built especially for the Ford car—built of heroic size and for heroic service—lift a Ford to the sum-total of its perfection.

Bigger in fabric, fabricated with a regular diver-ber safety tread, with an extra inch on the circumference and extra thick in the cross section, it is just the tire the weight and work of a Ford car need.

The Three-Seventy-Five is a 31 x 3½ inch tire. Its bigger bulk tells you why it lasts longer and rides easier.

Though Three-Seventy-Fives cost a little more than ordinary Ford-size tires, their slightly higher outset cost is quickly cancelled by the economy of longer mileage, and the greater satisfaction you get from a better looking, more efficient Ford car.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 13TH, 1919.

MR. BURNHAM'S PROMISE.

With his usual facility for getting into the limelight, Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., succeeded during the debate on the Peace Treaty in the House of Commons the other day, in placing himself in rather an amusing position. Hon. Mr. Fielding was discussing the question of Canada's status when the member for West Peterborough interjetced a question into the debate.

"Would it not be all right to sit at the peace table if the British Government asked us to go?" inquired Mr. Burnham.

"I would like to have the correspondence," replied Mr. Fielding.

"I will produce it," replied West Peterborough interjected a question the laughter of the House.

"We should get it through the responsible ministers," said Mr. Fielding. "It is a queer thing if the hon. gentleman who now appears to be on the cross benches is the medium through which we are to get it."

Mr. Burnham failed to enlighten a mystified House as to how he was going to obtain what Mr. Fielding was asking for. The most amusing feature of the incident, however, is that the Premier is understood to have stated a few days before that there was no such correspondence, so Mr. Burnham will have to prove as successful a magician as he is a comedian, to make good his promise. A message to Mr. Burnham's local newspaper supporters, likely sent by the Federal member himself, says that Mr. Fielding was "staggered" by Mr. Burnham's question. The fact that it came from the cross-benches was probably the cause of Mr. Fielding's amazement.

THE GOVERNMENT WEAKENS.

The pressure of public opinion has caused the Ottawa government to give up its untenable position in regard to the gratuities for soldiers, and it is now announced that a committee composed of members of Parliament will be appointed to enquire into and report upon the whole subject of the measures needed to facilitate the re-establishment of the Canadian soldiers into public life. This is precisely what the Great War Veterans' Association asked for, and the demonstrations that have taken place this week would have been avoided if the Government had seen fit to appoint a committee in the first place. No matter what the general opinion of the country in regard to the amount of bonus that should be granted Canada's soldiers may be, there were few who did not believe that the ex-service men should be given a fair chance to thoroughly discuss the situation with the Government. Instead of being given the opportunity there was a blunt refusal from the Premier and the fat was in the fire. The net result of the failure of Sir Robert Borden and his advisers to realize that the soldiers' request had a right to be carefully considered at least, has been to strengthen the determination of many of the returned men to continue the strongest possible pressure for the $2,000 gratuity and to cause the formation of a new soldiers' organization, established with the sole object of using every effort to secure that amount for every soldier who fought in France.

It Pays to Advertise.

PRE-ELECTION PROMISES.

Although the Ontario Government still refuse to announce the date of the Provincial elections, the tactics of Sir William Hearst, Hon. T. W. McGerry and other leaders show that the appeal to the country is not far off. The Premier paid a visit to Leamington the other day and he did not go empty-handed to meet the electors of Essex and West Kent. With an election drawing near, Sir William believed that a small gift, like an Experimental Farm, might prove a likely inducement to the electors. And so the principal feature of his address was the announcement that such an institution is to be provided. The government's chief organ states that "the announcement was received in fine spirit." Doubtless it was, but Sir William will probably find that the electors of the Leamington district are wily birds who are not to be caught with chaff. Neglecting the agricultural interests of the section for years, and then attempting to administer chloroform in the shape of an experimental farm may seem good politics, but in this enlightened age when the people are thinking for themselves, such apte-election promises as the one under discussion, are likely to be put down as clumsy attempts at bribery.

THE EXHIBITION.

The success of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, which opens on Monday, depends upon the weatherman and upon the citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding district. The directors' work, except for the details in connection with the operation of the Exhibition itself, is finished. They have worked enthusiastically and faithfully to make the Exhibition of 1919 the banner fair in Peterborough's history. The improvements to the grounds and buildings, the better lighting facilities, the long list of special attractions are eloquent testimony to the enthusiasm and enterprise of the Exhibition directors. They have not been afraid to spend money freely to give Peterborough the biggest three days' show that has been seen in this city. The burden of the success of the Exhibition must now be laid on the shoulders of the citizens. Their attendance is vitally necessary, and every man, woman and child in Peterborough who is able to go should visit the grounds. Once at all costs, and two or three times if possible. The Exhibition has grown to such an extent that one visit does not afford a chance to see all the features. In fact the programme in front of the grandstand and on the race track will alone be enough for one visit and another will be necessary to give an opportunity to view the special exhibits and the many other things of interest that will be found on the grounds.

THE SPENDING ORGY.

We have it at home, and it is rampant abroad in every country which is not still in the throes of war or revolution, this mad rush to spend. Perhaps the merchants who complain that high prices are due to a considerable extent to the insistence of customers are not altogether wrong. The expensive article is sought in preference to the cheaper one. The man or woman of moderate means wants to show his neighbour that he is on the edge of the millionaire class, and the millionaire wants to rival his friend of many millions. It is a trait of human nature to want to reach for what is seemingly unattainable. A 20-dollar pair of shoes on a woman's feet may attract the envy of her friend, and the friend forthwith buys a 25-dollar pair. The medium-priced car goes to the discard and the showy, high-powered motor takes its place. The 15-dollar hat is passed by in disdain in favour of the other at many times the price; and the fur coat for the winter at $900 is such a wonderful and lovely thing that ways and means of purchasing it are discussed forthwith.

In places where people of wealth congregate the show of riches is passing all precedent. The stories of gambling at Mackinac during the summer rivalled in thrills the tales of the highwayman. At the famous racing and health resort of Saratoga the glitter of gems around the gambling tables was dazzling, while tens of thousands of dollars were risked on a throw of dice or the turn of a wheel. In England, those who piled up fortunes during the war are said to be spending them like drunken sailors. According to a returned Chicago traveller it is a common occurrence for a young fellow to pay $25 apiece for orchids for a corsage bouquet for his lady. The money spent for an after-theatre dinner at the Savoy or Ritz-Carlton reaches such a staggering figure that a dollar and a half for a peach is a mere detail. Motor cars of fashionable make sell for from $10,000 to $15,000 each. The craze for diamonds and jewels is getting beyond all bounds. When impoverished noble families are compelled to sell their plate, jewels or pictures they are eagerly caught up by the newly-rich without regard to price.

And according to a Chicago woman who has been in Paris to get first-hand information on fashions, the sky is to be the limit for the price of winter gowns, and the materials largely jewels. For an evening gown, according to this miss, three long strands of perfectly-matched pearls, fastened at the back by a diamond and platinum clasp, a pendant down the back and another down the front; the arms covered to the elbow with bracelets, flashing with rare jewels; rings covering the fingers; real jems in the slipper buckles, and more of them sparkling around the ankles—chiefly these things and you have the evening gown. Even the men are to be decked with jewels.

Is it all vanity? Or is everybody just going crazy, present company and a few others excepted? The flinging of wealth to the four winds in the fashion of the day helps to keep money moving, but those who do the flinging have no such economic motive in view. Is it merely a spending orgy, with people going the limit without rhyme or reason, as they have in times past with the decanter and King Alcohol? The money came easily in many cases, it is going just as easily, and it will be gathered in by industrious fingers. Then those who have had their fling will wake up. —London Advertizer.

Purina Chicken Chowder Helps Hens Moult
Few hens can produce feathers and eggs at the same time. Feathers are mostly protein. Purina Chicken Chowder helps hens moult because it runs high in protein. It is not a tonic, but a wholesome, scientific, balanced feed, to be fed with Purina Scratch Feed. These two form a perfect ration for moulting and laying hens. Grain feeds are not suitable for moulting, and unless Purina Chicken Chowder is fed, moulting will be slow, recovery slow, and the chances of winter egg laying considerably reduced. Story of a Dog's Jaw.

The strength of a dog's jaws and teeth were never more exemplified than in the case of a Ross-shire gamekeeper, whose collie was unfortunate enough to be caught in a steel vermin trap. The gamekeeper, gun in hand, was soon on the scene, but in the short time the dog had become quite infuriated with pain. Having nothing suitable for muzzling the animal and fearing to place his foot upon the trap spring with the dog's jaws free, the gamekeeper placed the gun barrels in the dog's mouth and held them there while easing the spring. With a vicious snap the teeth closed on the cold steel ere he regained his freedom. The barrels were holed through—an almost incredible performance—and were examined shortly after.—London Graphic.

Britain's Oldest Colony.

Bermuda now ranks as the oldest of Britain's colonies, the English flag having been hoisted there in 1612 by a party of colonists from the Virginia company who stopped at the islands on the way to the mainland, went on to Virginia, found Jamestown in a state of starvation and returned. A previous explorer, Juan de Bermudez, gave the group its name.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

BARBARA MAKES TWO CALLS AND IS FURTHER DISTURBED

CHAPTER LXV

To my disappointment Lorraine was not at home. I really felt badly I did not want to return home, and could think of no other friend upon whom I cared to call in the mood I then was in. Suddenly I thought of Blanche Orton. While I was jealous of her, disliked her, I received her at my house and on occasion visited her. Perhaps if I were very tactful I might get something from her.

"To Mrs. Orton's, Thomas." I would try it. Anything was better than fretting and fuming at home.

"Mrs. Orton will be down in a moment," the trim little maid told me. After waiting about ten minutes I heard the rustle of silk and Blanche appeared in one of those wonderful negligees of hers. A daringly designed affair but wonderfully becoming.

"What a lovely Oriental looking robe," I exclaimed after she had greeted me. Unconsciously thinking what a lot it must have cost.

"Isn't it! I am horribly extravagant when it comes to this sort of thing. But I just have to have them, that's all."

"I should have them too if I could wear them. But such extreme styles are not becoming to me. Someway I look too fanciful in them."

We talked of people we knew, of the new plays and of clothes, that never failing topic when two women are together. I tried for a long time to screw up my courage to say something about Neil, and finally she gave me an opening.

"I am so restless when he is away," I said with a little laugh, "I think I am worse than when we were first married. I roam over the house, go shopping, but can't keep still a moment." She raised her eyebrows, then:

"But how charming. You have been married — let me see — how long?

"Oh, I know I am silly," I interrupted, not quite liking her tone, or the lifted eyebrows.

"What do you do when he is out? You are often alone evenings are you not?" It was an impudent question, impudently asked, but I would not quarrel with her, that had not been my object in calling.

"Not often unless he is over here with you." It was a bold stroke. But it would at least let her know I was aware he visited her without me.

"Well that is rather often." She drawled the remark.

"Yes, but when it is business a woman will concede a lot you know."

"When it is business —yes."

Her tone, the repetition of my own words made me flush with anger What was she trying to do? Was she intending to imply that Neil came to see her socially, not on business? I bit my lips to keep back a retort suited to her implication, then said instead:

"You see Neil knows so many people, has business with them. Really, I tell him sometimes that his acquaintance is becoming too numerous. That it is fortunate we have decided upon so large a home, that we will need it to entertain them all."

"Your home is charming, exquisite. Are you proposing to entertain a good deal? I judge so from your remark."

"Yes, I shall almost immediately give some small affairs, then later, some larger ones. The house is not quite ready, but will be very soon."

"How delightful! I suppose you have made up your lists. If you need any men to fill out I know some delightful fellows who are popular, and who would be a great addition to any social affair."

"I shan't forget, but will call upon you if I need them." We were talking all around Robin Hood's barn, and getting nowhere, as father used to say. So I plunged in, remarking:

"How can you endure those coarse vulgar men Neil sees when he talks his business here with you?" It was crude, tactless, but I had become desperately anxious to find out about Neil's affairs. I had been thwarted at the office and would not be here—if I could help it.

"What a question!" she laughed but there was no laughter in her tone. "I endure them because I like Neil ,and am willing to crucify myself to help him, which-I-understand-is-more than you are willing to do." She spoke very slowly, haltingly almost.

"Indeed it is! I can't endure to associate with such people. I think Neil is to be congratulated that he has a friend so unselfish. For of course you reap no benefits from these orgies." It was not politic but I could no help it. Then I left boiling with indignation, while she smilingly bade me good bye, and asked me to come soon again.

AFTER GASOLINE, WHAT?

We May in Time Learn How to Run Motorcars With Alcohol.

Must we give up motorcars altogether? Must we take back the horse? No mechanical engineer will assent to that. Motorcars we shall always have, but motorcars which will be driven by some new fuel.

What fuel? Perhaps alcohol, perhaps kerosene. Both have been the subject of experiment. If either is employed a new type of engine must be created.

Alcohol is a product of organic nature. Every blade of grass, every plant, every tree whether dead or alive, is a source of alcohol. Not until the world has been stripped of vegetation—and that can never happen so long as there are water, sunshine and soil—will the supply of alcohol be exhausted. And when that day dawns man himself will perish.

Of alcohol we have made but little use as a source of power. Coal, oil and waterfalls have been too abundant; they need not be manufactured. But alcohol is not stored up in pockets out of which it gushes at the tap of a hammer. A mass of sawdust, a heap of potatoes—in a word, some form of vegetation—must be chemically converted into a water clear liquid in which is stored all the energy that the sun has poured upon the foliage of the earth. Alcohol is distilled sunshine.

As the oil supply of the world nears depletion, as the price of oil fuels and distillates increases, alcohol will drive more and more of our machinery. The logs that we now permit to rot in our forest, the stumpage that reckless lumbermen leave in their tracks, the dry husks of corn that farmers now burn in the fields—all these will propel the motorcar of the future, in the form of alcohol.—Waldemar Kaempffert in McClure's Magazine.

No Safeguard.

"That fellow is as dumb as an oyster."

"Maybe he is, but even oysters, dumb as they are, find it hard to keep out of a stew."—Baltimore American.

KEEP COOL,

(Author Unknown.)

It never did and never will,
Put things in better fashion,
Though rough the road and steep the hill,
To fly into a passion.

For never yet did fume or fret
Mend any broken bubble,
The direst evil ever met
Is but a conquered trouble.

Our trails, did we only know,
Are often what we make them,
And mole hills into mountains grow
Just by the way we take them.

Who keeps his temper calm and cool,
Will find his wits in season.

For rage is weak, a foaming fool,
With neither strength or reason,

When nerve and brain are steady,
Let fiery passion rage and tear,
It finds us maimed already.

Who yields to passion conquered lies,
A captive none can pity,
Who rules his spirit greater is,
Than he who takes a city.

A hero he, though drums are mute,
And no gay banners flaunted,
Who treads his passions underfoot,
And meets the world undaunted.

Oh, then, to bravely do our best,
However the winds are blowing,
And meekly leave to God the rest,
Is wisdom worth the knowing.

The uncorseted effect continues to be the most favoured.

THE CANADIAN INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE OPENS TO-DAY

WHITLEY COUNCILS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND AMERICAN SYSTEM WILL BE DISCUSSED.

THE SPEAKERS

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Sept. 13.—What attitude will the Canadian Industrial Conference, which opens on Monday, take towards industrial councils? This is one of the questions of importance engaging the attention of the delegates.

We hear more talk in theory about the Whitley councils of Great Britain but a majority of the experiments already made in this country by the Imperial Oil Co. and the International Harvester Co. for example follow the American rather than the British model.

An essential difference between the two schemes is that the Whitley plan operates, as far as the workers are concerned, through the medium of trade unions, and the plan does not come into effect in any industry until there is a union organized there.

Whereas under the American plan, employees' representatives are elected quite apart from any union affiliation they may or may not have.

Col. Carnegie, who has just returned from England, will discuss the essential features of the Whitley scheme, and the American plan will be outlined to the conference by W. Jett Lauck, of the U.S. War Labour Board. Both of these gentlemen are already in town.

Evidence given by the recent Canadian Industrial Relations Commission showed that there was no particular enthusiasm in this country for councils of either variety. There was indeed a certain amount of opposition to the idea from both employers and employed, but more apathy than opposition familiarity with the idea such as will be fostered next week will probably lead to greater interest.

THRILLS PROMISED IN GREAT DETECTIVE SERIAL

stic,fio or bE.....Ta uoba Sfe....

Thrills Promised in Great Detective Serial Showing Craig Kennedy in "The Carter Case."

The thousands of readers of the famous Craig Kennedy stories will be delighted to learn that they will soon have an opportunity to see the great scientific detective in action. Kennedy will make his appearance on the screen in "The Carter Case," the fifteen episode Craig Kennedy serial produced by Oliver Films, Inc.

The story is by Arthur B. Reeve, creator of Craig Kennedy, and John W. Grey, and is said to be one of the most thrilling detective stories ever written by this popular author. Kennedy is shown in all the details of his scientific methods of detection and in this story he has opponents who crowd him to his utmost endeavors to run them to earth. He is seen in his laboratory where he conducts his tests of poisons, gases and infernal machines and perfects his intricate mechanisms that are of such great assistance to him in solving the mysteries that confront him. Several of his scientific contrivances are brought into action as he continues his pursuit of a clever criminal and his emissaries.

It is said that for the first time in the history of serials, this episode picture will be in the nature of a feature production, with magnificant settings, costly interiors and elaborate effects. A tremendous pipe organ, an aeroplane and a palatial home resplendent with tapestries and furnishings of highest value give testimony to the claim that no expense has been spared to give the production true feature proportions.

Herbert Rawlinson appears in the role of Kennedy and is admirably suited to the part both in physique and talent. Margaret Marsh is the other star, one of the most beautiful of today's screen favorites. The disregard of expense has been carried to the cast; it is without doubt the finest that has ever appeared in a serial.

Oliver Films, Inc., state that the serial has already been purchased by the leading exchanges in all the important territories and that it will be shown throughout the country with unprecedented popularity. First episode Wednesday and Thursday next, September 17 and 18, Empire theatre.

HIGHER PRICE ON FARMERS' MARKET

The bright weather brought the farmers out to the market in large numbers this morning although the buying was not brisk, and one citizen declared that the Dominion Board of Commerce should start its investigations into profiteering on the local market.

The following prices were prevalent; with eggs and butter showing an upward inclination. Corn reached as high as 30c a dozen and radishes and the garden truck variety were scarce:

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR LIEUT. ARTHUR HUYCKE IN TRINITY CHURCH TO-MORROW MORNING.

His Honour Judge E. C. S. Huycke has had three beautiful memorial windows placed in Trinity church, in one of the cloistered aisles, and a bronze tablet in the north transept in memory of his youngest son, Frederick Arthur Huycke, who was a flight lieutenant in Royal Naval Air Force. A memorial service will be held to-morrow morning at which the Rev. Dr. J. P. Wilson, a former pastor of Trinity church, will speak. Canon Davidson, of St. John's church, is expected to take part in the service. Mrs. George H. King and Capt. Maurice Park will sing. The pastor of the church, Rev. F. E. Malott, will conduct the service.

NEARLY EVERY GIRL CAN MAKE HERSELF PRETTY AND ATTRACTIVE

Probably you know just such a girl.

Perhaps she is sixteen — good to look at, and pretty—quite interesting because she reflects the graces and charm that give promise of happiness to herself and others. But she is not strong. The colour in her cheeks, once so rosy, has faded away —her eyes are listless—the buoyancy of spirit and vigor she once possessed are sadly lacking. Parents, friends, this girl needs Ferrozone—needs it that her blood may be renewed — needs it to restore the nerve force that growth, study and the development of her fresh youth have exhausted. This girl will become a queen with Ferrozone— which will restore her color—bring back her old-time energy—give brightness to her eyes and vivacity to her spirits. In Ferrozone every girl finds strength—then she can do things. In Ferrozone there is endurance—that drives away morning tiredness and languor. For the girl or woman that wants to be, happy, healthy, winning — who values rosy cheeks, laughing eyes and abundant good spirits, nothing can compare with Ferrozone. 50c. per box, or six for $2.50. Get it to-day from any dealer in medicine, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE TIME HAS BEEN EXTENDED

His Honour Judge Huycke, Chairman of one of the local Registration Boards, stated this morning that owing to the large number of names left off the referendum lists the Board has decided to extend the time until Tuesday, September 16th. The names must be in the hands of the clerks not later than Tuesday, and Mr. J. G. Guise-Bagley, Mr. G. N. Gordon, Mr. Jos. Wearing, and other members of the legal profession, will facilitate the placing of the names on the lists up to that time.

Ladies A Word With You About Your Skin

WHY not make Cuticura Soap your every-day toilet soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Talcum, now and then as needed, and have in most cases a clear, fresh complexion, a clean scalp free from dandruff and irritation, good hair, soft white hands and a wholesome skin free from blemish, without resorting to tiresome, expensive "beauty" aids? Cuticura costs little and does much. Sample each free by mail of "Cuticura, Dept. N, Boston, U. S. A." Sold by dealers throughout the world.

Cuticura Talcum Powder

Do not fail to test the fascinating fragrance of this exquisitely scented flower, fairy, dainting and skin perfuming powder, delicate, delightful, distinctive. It imparts to the person a charm incomparable and peculiar to itself.

PETERBORO' EXHIBITION WILL BE BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER

HEAVY LIST OF ENTRIES—THE MID-WAY WILL BE AN EYE-OPENER.

From every standpoint the Exhibition Board expects the Exhibition this year to be a greater success than any previous exhibition held in the city. The entries have been exceptionally heavy in all lines, especially from outside points. Secretary F. J. A. Hall said to-day that the mid-way will be an eye-opener for the residents of the city. Merry-go-rounds, side shows featuring everything new known to fairs and sellers of hot dogs will figure amongst the attractions. The aero flights will doubtless attract an unusually large number of outside people.

Running Races.

One exceptionally attractive feature of the sports is the fact that for the first time in the history of Exhibitions in the city there will be running races and already 11 entries have been made in this fascinating department of the amusements. The horses and jockeys are the same as those which ran in the Toronto Exhibition.

GIRLS HAD RE-UNION AT THE "Y" LAST NIGHT

A merry lot of girls gathered at the Young Women's Christian Association last night for their first reunion since the days they spent at the association camp up at Stoney Lake. Talking over old times and looking at numerous camp pictures made the evening pass swiftly. After a swim in the swimming pool refreshments were served. During the evening it was decided to form a Campers' League for the purpose of keeping together and working for the camp. The nominating committee was appointed as follows: Miss Clara Adams, Miss Ida Sanderson, Miss Olga Johnson and Miss Fusee.

Home Complexion Peeler Works Wonders

To keep the face, neck, arms and hands truly beautiful and youthful in appearance, the treatment which seems most sensible is one which will actually remove the skin itself immediately it begins to age, fade, coarsen or discolour. The only known treatment which will do this, aside from a painful, expensive surgical operation, is the application of ordinary mercolized wax, which is as harmless as it is effective.

The wax is put on at night, just as you apply cold cream, and washed off in the morning. It absorbs the dead and half-dead surface skin in almost invisible flaky particles, a little each day, no discomfort being experienced. With the disappearance of the old cuticle, the newer, healthier skin underneath gradually appears, richly beautiful with the flush of youth. This mercolised wax, which you can get at any drug store in original package, is indeed a veritable wonder-worker.

HINDOO WIDOWS ARE BURNED ALIVE AT HUSBAND'S FUNERAL

On nModay, August 30, 1830, at Udairpur, in north-west India, its Maharajah, or "great king," Junah Singh, died, and when his body was consumed on the pyre, two of his queens and six of his concubines were burned to death at the same time. Such self-sacrifice is called "suttee," or properly "sati," meaning "good woman" or "true wife," because it was expected as a proof that she was faithful to her deceased husband. It was regarded as showing the affection that she had felt for him during this life, and she desired to attend him, if he needed any such partner, in the future one. It had been thought, however, that women were taught their duty as a means of a successor getting rid of the burden of supporting them, especially as they might not marry a second husband. Lord William Cavendish Bentinck, when Governor-General of India from 1828 till 1835, had formally abolished these "suttees" on December 7, 1829, but they continued occasionally to take place as on this occasion. On March 1, 1877, several wives of Sir Jung Bahadoor, Prime Minister of Nepal, a State on the south-west slopes of the Himalaya Hills, thus perished. The Greeks found this custom in India when they reached it, under Alexander the Great, in B.C. 327, but the original ancient laws of India required of a widow only to lead a chaste life. Akbar, the greatest sovereign of Hindustan, from 1556 till 1605, made the earliest attempt to stop it. But as late as 1905 a "suttee" was held in Behar, a district of Bengal, and the British rulers were obliged to sentence to penal servitude those who assisted on that occasion.

CHAPTER IV

THE WILDERNESS

For days the minds of the people were filled with vague questionings, and the wonderful scene first enacted in Jordan was rehearsed over and over again by the daily-increasing multitudes that still flocked to hear this preacher of the desert. But in vain they look daily for the return of the One who was to be their Redeemer, their King. Whether had He departed? Surely this was He of whom the prophets spake. Would He not show Himself to them again? But even John knew not whence He came nor whither He had gone.

The same Spirit that was present at His baptism had now driven Him into the wilderness. Why? God does not baptize men in his spirit for rest, but for service. Alone for forty days, and in possession of a new power, the conflicting ideas of His mind seem to have so engaged His attention that He does not think of eating. He must now face the world, not as God, but as man. In the wilderness alone— no beauty of nature to relieve the monotony, the wild beasts about Him untamed. The foxes had holes, the birds of the air had nests—He had not where to lay His head; No mother now to smooth down His pillow, no watchful sister's care—in that—cheerless desert, alone.

Adam began his work in a garden and made that garden a wilderness. Jesus, the man, begins His work in a wilderness and works onward toward Eden. What must have been the awful experiences of those forty days of solitude! Moses and Elijah had both lived for forty days without food. He would do the same. The devil knew man could do that so did not tempt Him to eat until after forty days: "and after forty He was an hungered." If he were the Son of God He could make stones into bread, but as Son of man He must not. Adam had gratified the present moment, in eating forbidden food to please self. But the mission of His life would be to overcome self and please God. The worst that could happen to Him was His Father's will for Him, and His Father loved Him. His Father cared for the birds, gave homes to the foxes, and clothed the lilies. Would He not surely care for Him? He could suffer, He could die of hunger, but to yield to selfishness, He would not, and the temptation is hurled aside.

The devil sees he has met his match. Notice, he does not oppose Him or try to get Him to give up His work. Bue he will mislead Him if he can. Jesus is willing to die, and seems to glory in His trust in the Father, so Satan sugests His throwing Himself from the pinnacle of the temple. This would show His cosfident trust in God, and His willingness to die. It would also create prestige for Him among the people. Will He yield here? No. The sword of the Spirit is again drawn. It is written, "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord they God." If Jesus had yielded to this temptation He would have tempted God, for God had never promised to protect anyone who would thus foolishly throw himself from the pinnacle of the temple. Christ's kingdom was not to come by observation. The devil had misapplied the promise.

Jesus knew the awful condition of the religious life of His people at that time. He knew their expectations and the kind of King they were looking for. Were they likely to accept His claims? He could hardly expect they would. "Would it not then," suggests Satan, "be better to accept the standard of the people's expectation and proclaim yourself King. They are now waiting you by the Jordan. The multitudes increase to hear John, and to enquire about Him Whom they expect to be their King. They wonder at His long absence, they are ready to crown Him, and march into Jerusalem. Here is your opportunity to establish a kingdom, to gain power, to conquer the world. Then, surrounded by a power and glory greater than that of Solomon, you will be in a position to do your people good, and to establish righteousness and truth throughout the earth." This appeared a very desirable thing; this, no doubt, was the greatest temptation of the three.

But Solomon, in the midst of all his glory had cried, "All is vanity"; and his kingdom had crumbled to the earth. That was not the kind of king Jesus wished to be. He wished to rule in the kingdom of truth and love. His faith was like a grain of mustard seed. Could men ever be taught to love? Would the time ever come when the law of Moses could be written into two commandments, and when love would be the fulfilment of the whole law? Would a selfish world ever listen to such teaching, or let such a king reign? They might reject Him, but even if they did, might not the stone refused sometime become the head of the corner? Throwing the subtle temptation aside, and with the voice of authority commanding the tempter to depart, He determined, though He stood alone, to live on this earth a life of love, and teach men to do so, knowing that some day, in His Father's own time, the mustard seed should become a mighty tree—that love should reign in the world.

Yes, He would be a king, but a king in His own way. A king in the realm of truth—a king such as the world did not want but really needed. Satan had met at last a man more than his match, and had been compelled to retreat leaving Him still unspotted and untainted. Satan knew the Son of God, knew Him probably before his own fall. But whence came this "Son of man?" Satan trembles and hell is shaken. Is the contest over? Is the battle won? Oh, no! the signal for the conflict has just been given, and hell is let loose. Had God possessed a man? Satan would possess men. Do we ever read of men being possessed of the devil at any other time as they were during those three years that followed? It would seem as if all hell were brought to earth and let loose to destroy this one man, upon whose breast the fierce temptations might dash only to fall back again broken to pieces like waves against a mighty rock.

Why was Jesus thus tempted? Why is any man tempted? Why does God permit it? Such questions are apt to come up in the minds of us all. One thing we know, all are tempted; there is no escape, on the mountain or on the sea, in the busy crowd or in the solitude of the desert. Temptation is as old as the human race. No sooner was God's command given in Eden "Not to Eat" than the tempter whispered "Eat." Satan knew he was ruined and his case hopeless, knew his doom was only a matter of time. For the time allotted to him he would busy himself warring against heaven. In Eden one day he finds a creature, made in the image of God and unlike any he has ever seen before in hell or earth. With jealous eye Satan beholds him. Who was this creature—man? From whence did he come? What could the purpose of God be? He knew not, but that day he determined that man, too, should fall, and that God's purpose should be thwarted. How subtle his first attack! "Now God does not really mean what He says,—'Ye shall not surely die'," and man in his innocence, blinded by the tempter yields and his eyes are opened. Let none sit in judgment on this act of Adam's, for are not all guilty of the same sin? Does not temptation ever blind our eyes, and guilt alone opens them? When tempted we imagine we can go through the stream dryshod, and afterwards we wonder we were not drowned in the flood. But why are we tempted? For our own good, no doubt, and in God's great day of explanation we may know. Every house needs a foundation, and every great life-work needs preparation. Slavery and the prison preceded Joseph's prosperity. David's wanderings prepared him for his throne, and here in this wilderness Jesus is being prepared for His great life-work.

Original characters are never understood, and usually opposed. And when He should go out of the wilderness to face a world, to live a human life as it should be lived, He knew all eyes would be upon Him, none would understand, few would sympathize and many would oppose. Yet knowing all this He dared to go forth on His royal mission, willing to meet the opposition of foe or friend alike, willing to be misunderstood and to be called an impostor, never stopping to explain a seeming inconsistency, willing to live a life alone, and, in the end, to die, if so be the world through Him might be saved. "He trod the winepress alone, and of the people there were none with Him."

Get Soiled First

EVERYONE knows that the cuffs are the most exposed portions of the shirt. They get soiled first.

If you turn the cuffs you can wear the shirt a day or two longer before sending it to the laundry.

But if you turn an ordinary cuff it bulges and looks unsightly. You wouldn't be seen with it.

The new "Double Wear Cuff" is different. It folds just as neat and flat when turned in as when turned out. Your friends cannot tell which side is turned out.

One trip to the laundry is harder on a shirt than two days' wear. Every time you turn your cuffs you save laundry money and get more wear out of the shirt. Get the habit—turn your cuffs—it pays.

Sound Investment

As one of the essential elements of Safety, it is readily recognised that the street dust nuisance is one of the most pressing problems of the day, and one of the most necessary to overcome.

There is only one known system which will positively clean a paved street and will remove both the coarse and the fine dust completely. That is the Blaney Sweepers, as manufactured by the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co., Limited.

Sanitation of city streets is so costly under the present system that the demand for an efficient street sweeper is most insistent, not only in Canada, but in all the large cities of the world.

The Motor-driven Street Cleaning Machine of the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co. has been designated by expert engineers to be as near perfection mechanically as human ingenuity could invent.

The greatest advantages consist first, in the fact that the machine replaces, in other words does away with, the work of a large number of labourers; and second, that on smooth pavements it removes practically every bit of the fine dust, as well as the coarse material which is picked up and deposited in the hopper.

A PRESENTATION TO EACH OF THE SOLDIERS---LILY LAKE DISTRICT HAD SUBSTANTIAL SHARE IN WAR

On the occasion of the return to their homes from overseas, of the last of the boys from the Lilly Lake district, a large number of friends and neighbors of the soldier boys assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McIvor, on Wednesday evening and tendered to the heroes a hearty welcome home, regretting at the same time that one of the number has been badly disabled by shrapnel.

During the evening the heroes were presented with a purse of gold each, Mr. Harry Fowler and Mr. Harold Middleton making the presentation, while Miss Sadie Edmison read the accompanying address:

Harry Dorsett, Albert Olver and Lorne Cann,

Dear Harry, Albert and Lorne:—We have gathered here to-night to show our warm feeling for our three laddies who responded nobly to their country's call, and fought and endured to keep us free. Now when the war is over and the victory won we gladly welcome you. Though the beating of drums and the martial music that accompanied your departure are lacking on your return we, your friends and neighbors, are not unmindful of the debt we owe you for your sacrifice of home life and all its comforts.

Words are inadequate to express our joy at having you among us once more. How different the feeling with which we gathered on that other occasion, when you left us. Please accept this accompanying gift as a slight token of our friendship.

Signed on behalf of the friends and neighbors,

Mr. and Mrs. Middleton
Mr. and Mrs. McIvor.

The boys each made a very brief but suitable reply, making special mention of kindness of the Lilly Lake Red Cross in remembering them so often when they were far from home.

The rest of the evening was spent in music, singing and games, and a general good time, until the wee sma' hours. After cheers for the boys and of "God Save the King," the evening was brought to a close. The balance of the Red Cross Account was turned in for the benefit of the reception and the following statements submitted:

During the three years and four months of our society work we held 80 meetings, with an average attendance of ten members. The following supplies were sent to the Public Library:

FREQUENT HEAD ACHES

A SURE SIGN THAT THE BLOOD IS WATERY AND IMPURE

A Sure Sign That the Blood is Watery and Impure.

People with thin blood are much more subject to headaches than full-blooded persons and the form of anaemia that afflicts growing girls is almost always accompanied by headaches, together with disturbance of the digestive organs.

Whenever you have constant or recurring headaches and pallor of the face, they show that the blood is thin and your efforts should be directed toward building up your blood. A fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do this effectively, and the rich, red blood made by these pills will remove the headache.

More disturbances to the health are caused by their blood than most people have any idea of. When your blood is impoverished, the nerves suffer from lack of nourishment and you may be troubled with insomnia, neuritis, neuralgia or sciatica. Muscles subject to strain are under-nourished and you may have muscular rheumatism or lumbago. If your blood is thin and you begin to show symptoms of any of these disorders, try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as the blood is restored to its normal condition every symptom of the trouble will soon disappear. There are more people who owe their present state of good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than to any other medicine, and most of them do not hesitate to say so.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MR. McGREGOR HAS NOT RESIGNED

Mr. McGregor has no resigned as editor of The Review, a position which he has held for the past four years. He asked the management to remove his name from the payroll as he regarded it as unjust that he should be in receipt of pay for services that he is unable to render while recovering from the effects of a serious operation. The management have refused to comply with this request, and the relations of manager and edior remain unchanged, relations that have always been mutually satisfactory.

Mr. McGregor has the assurance of his physician that his health, unsatisfactory for some years, will be benefited by the operation referred to and that he will be capable of better work than ever. He left to-day for the country to recuperate and in two weeks at the most expect so be on duty again.—Peterboro Review.

Capitalize Your Spare Moments
During the Coming Fall

Why not use some of your unoccupied time to train your memory and to increase your mental efficiency? The Pelman Institute has the testimony of thousands of students to prove the wonderful effects of this famous course. Below are a few examples of what they say. They show

How Pelmanism Trains

THE MIND

Student 4206: "The greatest effect that the course has had is that it has given me ideas. It has also given me ambition and self-confidence."

Student 5446: "By practising continually the Pelman exercises I find my knowledge is becoming more organised. I can get through my work with much less labor in much less time and with absolute confidence. I see situations much more quickly and clearly."

THE MEMORY

Student 4240: "I find it much easier to work, especially in remembering numbers of lots and blocks, divisions and so on, and in transferring descriptions of property from one book to another."

Student 4265: "Formerly I had great difficulty in remembering names of people I met. I have found the system of great assistance. Indeed, I do not think there is an business where it has failed."

Can you afford to waste your idle hours when Pelmanism would mean so much to you from every standpoint? "Mind and Memory" is a book that is one of the most widely circulated in the world—it fully describes the Pelman System—let us send it to you, post free. Write to-day.

AMERICANS CAPTURE SENIOR GOLF TROPHY

Defeat Canadian in Duke of Devonshire Competition—Geo. S. Lyon's Fine Game.

The Canadian senior golfers lost the Duke of Devonshire Cup to the United States on the Apawamis links at Rye, N.Y., yesterday. Fifteen men played on each of the teams, and the Americans won by 74 to 21.

That old veteran of over three-score years, George S. Lyon, played a marvelous game and defeated William Clark, of Misquamecut, who is the U. S. senior champion. Clark played well, getting an 87, but the veteran only took 79. He started with five 4's in a row, to the end of which he affixed a neat 3. Two 5's at this point and a 7 on the long ninth, gave him 40 for the outward journey, and a fast inward jaunt of 39 made up his 79. On the 507-yard seventeenth he was just five yards short of the green in two strokes. That is just an indication of the weight and muscle he was putting behind his shots. He was 5 up at the turn in his match against Clark, and won, old style counting, 5 and 4. His card:

"SOLDIER GIRL" PRESENTS NOVEL STAGE SETTINGS

MUSICAL SPECTACLE AT THE GRAND THIS EVENING

When the musical spectacle, "My Soldier Girl," the supreme success of all the season's offerings, is presented at the Grand to-night, theatregoers will readily appreciate why this new play was a hit from the first performance. The novel settings are in two acts, the opening scene is laid at Colonel Stone's home, Miami, Florida, where a lawn fete is arranged for the boys and girls whom the colonel met while "overseas" in the interest of the Red Cross. Banks of flowers and lights form the background of a beautiful picture and a night of gayety, song, dance and music form a brilliant spectacle.

The last act presents a gorgeous stage setting for a Follies production, linking bright hues and novel electrical effects together for a picture in which a brilliant "pony" ballet and excellent cast wear smart costumes and wend their way through novel drills and dance ensembles. Nothing prettier in the pictureland and of the stage has been done in years than is offered in this new musical play.

FROM CAFE GIRL TO A SLAVEY

She was a cafe girl—just one of a number of girls whose lives were bounded by the four walls of the notorious Domino Cafe. She hadn't adopted this mode of life from choice: she had been thrown into it when a child and knew no other. She was the prettiest of the girls and was known to the patrons of the cafe as Jo.

"The Probation Wife," Norma Talmadge's latest Select Picture, in which she is presented by Joseph M. Schenck, is the story of Jo Mowbray, the cafe girl who became a member of society's "400". No picture ever afforded Miss Talmadge such a wonderful opportunity to portray the remarkable versatility for which she has become famous as "The Probation Wife."

Miss Talmadge gives an excellent interpretation of the cafe girl who knows by instinct that the life she is leading is not the sort of life she would choose if she had her choice. The cafe is raided and Jo is sentenced to three years in the reformatory with the rest of the cabaret girls.

Here we see a different Jo—a different Norma Talmadge. As an inmate of the reformatory she is made to scrub floors and perform all the duties of a slavey. No longer does she wear attractive clothes, a beauty patch and curled hair. Her hair is constantly mussy and she wears a gingham apron-dress. At the end of two years she escapes.

She marries a handsome society man who furnishes her with all the luxuries of life. Another Jo! As a rich society matron, in the gorgeous creations which Miss Talmadge knows so well how to wear, she is beautful and charming. From a cafe girl, to a slavey, to a lady—Miss Talmadge certainly has an opportunity to display her versatility, and she does it—well!

"The Probaton Wife" can be seen on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Grand Theatre.

MASTER MAGICIAN AT THE GRAND

THE HAND OF DEATH—TWO FACTORS OF LIFE

From the beginning of things these two factors of life have been coupled by decree of the Grim Reaper.

Now comes the Great Blackstone, the twentieth century miracle man, who employs the hands of death of thaumaturgic history as the spiritualistic agency by which he is enabled to reveal the truths of past and present and forecast the future.

The hand of death: Destiny.

Cogliostro's hand — the hand of dgath is employed by Blackstone as the sensational telegraphic feature of his spectacular production, embracing every art of psychic and mystic creation known to the world.

It was the hand of Cogliostro, the seer of past ages, which outlined events of the future, analyzed mental secrets, traced, crimes, solved mysteries, did the seemingly impossible.

The mysteriously resourceful hand of Cogliostro makes its re-entry into the whirl of life in the truly marvellous performance of the Great Blackstone, conceded by press and public to be the most resourceful man in the world, master of the mind, of magic, super-man of mysticism, American Ace of amazement, astoundment, astonishment, achievement — the one man on earth who can do everything with the cleverest pair of hands known to the universe.

One New York newspaper, reviewing his two weeks engagement at a Brooklyn theatre, said of him "truly he must be one man hell hates."

The reason the critic assigned: He has rescued from the fires of oblivion the legitimate arts of magic Legerdemain, Necromancy, Thaumaturgy, Telegraphy, which unscrupulous stage grafters would have exterminated but for the coming of this super-man of mysticism.

A complete review of the New York press would read: 100 gasps, 1000 laughs, 10,000 heart throbs, 1,000,000 eloquent words of enthusiastic praise, and of the performance thus summed up by the hand of death is the startling feature.

Do you want to know anything

Ask the hand of death, when the Great Blackstone opens his engagement of two days, at the Grand, Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening.

CHAS. RAY'S SCREEN PORTRAITS NOTABLE IMPERSONATIONS

In his new Thomas H. Ince-Paramount photoplay, "String Beans," Charles Ray appears as the country boy who puts the schemes of a shrewd "bunco" artist from the city to naught. The idea is to raise money from the farmers to start a string bean canning factory, but it is a swindle and Mr. Ray, as Toby Watkins, the no-account lad from the farm, upsets the whole thing and finally wins the mayor's daughter in the bargain.

Mr. Ray recently had a session with the dentist which is the result of youthful vanity. When he was a lad he thought it would be fine to have some gold in his teeth, so he discovered a couple of small cavities in two front molars. The dentist inserted bits of gold which looked fine in the eyes of the young man and were the envy of his associates. But in the pictures they looked anything but that. So Charles took advantage of his vacation to have them removed and replaced by porcelain. The Ray smile will be more than ever attractive now.

"String Beans" was directed by Victor L. Schertzinger, who is not only a clever film expert, but a musician of the highest order. He succeeds at times in infusing something of the musical quality into the rhythm of his pictures. "String Beans" is a country town story and Mr. Schertzinger has employed his imagination in making the various characters life-like in the extreme and owing to the action that semblance of reality that carries the audience with it and convinces the spectator to such an extent that he forgets it is merely a picture play.

"SPORTING LIFE"

Maurice Tourneur's Famous Motion Picture a Superb Masterpiece.

His First Offering as an Independent Producer is a Fine Picturization of a Famous Drury Lane Melodrama —Has Had Many Successes. To be Shown at the Allen Theatre.

Maurice Tourneur, who recently launched his own motion picture producing company, the first offering of which is a magnificent picturization of "Sporting Life," a famous old Drury Lane melodrama which ran all the rage twenty years ago, is widely known for his ambitious screen offerings.

Mr. Tourneur was identified with the Eclair and other French motion picture concerns for many years prior to his appearance in this country. He served as director for the World Film Company for a brief period and later joined the Paramount and Artcraft producing forces.

Mr. Tourneur produced "the Whip" based upon a celebrated old English melodrama, and he is also responsible for the "Blue Bird," a superb picturization for Artcraft of Maurice Maeterlinck's famous allegorical masterpiece. He believes that the star system is a fallacy and that a group of carefully picked screen players, each of high ability, is likely to please film fans most and tend to elevate art. For this reason, he says, he picked for the cast of "Sporting Life," players of ability, each cut out for a distinct character type, the result being a charming performance from the standpoint of art.

That Mr. Tourneur's judgment was sound, was demonstrated when "Sporting Life" was presented at the Rivoli theatre, New York. It scored one of the biggest successes of the screen year.

"Few motion picture directors equal, and fewer surpass, Maurice Tourneur in the art of making scenes for the screen," said the New York Times. "By this work he stands out prominently, even among the small group of exceptional men who appreciate the peculiar powers of the camera and know how to employ them in the production of a photoplay. Once more, and in some ways more than ever, he has revealed his creative genius in "Sporting Life," the featured film at the Rivoli Theatre. Mr. Tourneur hasn't faltered before any of the big comprehensive scenes, such as those of the prize-fight and the Derby race, while in the little incidents also he has done not only the obvious and expected, but the surprising.

"The spectators were drawn into the excitement of the play's episodes, applauding and exclaiming at the succession of climaxes, as people do only when they are thrilled by a sense of participation in what they see or hear. It is a remarkable picture."

"Sporting Life" will be presented for the first time in this city at the Allen Theatre for two days only, commencing Monday. There will be no advance in prices. That it will prove a superior drawing card is undoubted and already much interest in the production is evident among the clientele of that play-house.

Use any of these when baking with

EGG-O Baking Powder

It gives you a wider choice of ingredients for cakes and pastry, yet assures you of positive success in your baking.

Egg-O is absolutely pure and efficient—And double acting, that is, its first action occurs in the mixing bowl when cold water or milk in its various forms is added. Allowing the dough to stand for 15 or 20 minutes will give better results. When you put your baking in the oven Egg-O will continue to rise until your cakes are properly baked.

Buying Egg-O in the larger tins is most economical for family use.

A DROP IN PORK PRICES IS DUE "SOME TIME SOON"

When hog prices go up the packer and the retailer get working with the pencil and pad, and it never seems to be long before the public is paying a little more for breakfast bacon. When hogs drop it is generally several weeks before the consumer gets any benefit. From the high-water mark of $24 per hundred weight down to $18 for live hogs has caused quite a sensation at the local stock yards and in the homes. The abattoirs, however, seem to be taking the happening coolly.

It must be admitted that the $6 drop has been extended over a period of days and that it takes time for the packer to cure and sell the meats he bought at the higher figures, but retail dealers and householders say they certainly expected prices to be settling down before now.

Looking for Reduction.

The two-cent reduction on shoulder pieces, spare ribs and other fresh pork products, together with the still slighter cut on bacon, have been the only revisions on the wholesalers' lists up until yesterday.

"It is about time, too," said one retailer. The people would not have stood it much longer. The public pays, and we are the goats for everyone else's faults. I am not sure that prices will be reduced next week, mind you, but from what I was told, I believe that most pork products will be cheaper. I am looking forward to absolutely new lists."

"Yes, I believe it is coming next week," said another dealer, a large down-town merchant. "I have been expecting it right along. Prices will be steadying gradually now, I believe."—The Globe.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM ON PROHIBITION

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: My good friend, the Rev. John Galt and I are about at an end of our correspondence. He winds up with the statement that because God does not prohibit slavery it is no reason why we should not prohibit both it and alcohol.

Now, if Mr. Galt wishes to make the comparison exact and therefore correct he should have said: "Because God has not seen fit to 'prohibit' the means of causing slavery, viz., men and women, without which it could not exist, it does not follow that we should not 'prohibit' the means of making (potable alcohol and) drunkenness."

God punishes the improper treatment of men and women and He punishes the improper use of alcohol. He does not 'prohibit' the means of causing slavery nor should we "prohibit" the means (alcohol) of the misuse of alcohol. We can and should regulate or control it of course. That also is true to the comparison but to lay it down that because God does or does not do a thing, that is no reason why we should do or not do it, is as surprising coming from a clergyman, as it is utterly fallacious and wrong in the analogy brought up.

J. H. BURNHAM.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Voice Of The People

The following letter in reply to Mr. Burnham was received several days ago, but the Examiner was unable to publish it until to-day:

Dear Sir,—Referring to a letter published in your issue of September 6, and signed J. H. Burnham, the arguments contained therein are obviously illogical. I question his assertion that "laws cannot prohibit alcohol. It is in Nature and God makes it." Where in Nature is alcohol, in its intoxicating form, found? And since when has God been the distiller? One might think Mr. Burnham had been to some promised land flowing with—no, not milk and honey but—alcohol. True, the grain is found in Nature, and it might be truthfully said of it, "God makes it," but it is man who from it produces alcohol. Man was placed upon a fruitful earth and given a free will, but as the population increased and communities were formed, laws and restrictions had to be imposed for the greatest good of the greatest number. Prohibition aims at just this object—the greatest good of the greatest number. Just because alcohol has been in use — or abuse — for years, many seem convinced that it must always remain, but is not the success of civilization measured by its social laws promoting the best interests of society as a whole? Why not, then, since alcohol has flowed freely for years, give posterity an opportunity to prove that it is dispensable? Some anti-prohibitionists harp back to the story in the Bible of Christ's converting the water into wine at the wedding feast. They therefore contend that Christ approved and inspired the use of wine—and alcohol! Is there any evidence that the above-mentioned wine was intoxicating? Was it not the sweet juice of the grape unfermented? There is no Biblical testimony that the wedding guests were affected by the drinking of that wine. I fear, though, that those who in this connection quote the Bible as their moral guide, alas! forget to follow its precepts and principles in every other respect. Mr. Burnham contests that "it is not alcohol that is the root of evil and sin, but the human heart." However, as it is impossible to effect a universal reform of the human heart, it behooves us mortal beings to do what is within our power — remove the temptation until a Messiah may come to reform the human heart!

Edna Turnbull, B.A.

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—In your issue of September 10th there appears a letter signed "Working Man," warning the working man to take my letter with a pinch of salt, and hints that I am looking for political honours. No such a thing as I have had my share of honours, being Reeve of Smith for six years continuously, and in the year 1909 was elected warden by acclamation. No, there is younger and abler men than I am who can take that job if they want it. As for daylight saving, I was only expressing myself from a farmer's point of view, which I had a perfect right to do. If Mr. Working Man would only sign his name to his letters (if he is not ashamed of it), the public would find out that he is no working man, but one of those political sore-heads which the country is infested with.

GOOD FAIR AT KINMOUNT

TO BE HELD TUESDAY NEXT, SEPTEMBER 16TH

The directors of the Galway Agricultural Association are making every effort to make this year to have the very best Fair in the history of the Association.

The main day of the Fair is Tuesday, the 16th of September, and in addition to the attractive prize list, the attractions for the day are very numerous, and entertaining.

An aviator has been arranged with who will make flights over the Fair Grounds.

On the same day, Tuesday 16th., the Haliburton Brass Band will be present during the day. A school childrens' procession of all the pupils from Kinmount and district, for which a special prize will be given to the School sending the most children in proportion to the school's average attendance, will be one of the features.

There will be a big list of children's sports, and Horse Racing for good purses, and the ever popular "Baby Show", will also be a feature.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

All for Sadie

By NEWTON A. FUESSLE

(Copyright.)

The Lloyd School of Scientific Beautification boasted imposing, two-color letter-heads, bearing the picture of the 12-story Ramge building and that of a handsome lady in evening dress, labeled "Mme. Josephine Lloyd, president."

The school, in reality, consisted of one Harry Lloyd Ruggiesford, one rebuilt typewriter, one peroxidized six-a-week stenographer, one second-hand roll-top desk, and a small dingy room on the top floor of the Ramge building. The pictured building on the stationery was, therefore, a case of metonomy, and that of the shoulder show a gentle fake.

H. Lloyd Ruggiesford was president, secretary, treasurer, board of directors, and office boy of the school, along with its faculty of able teachers and far-famed authorities on hair-dressing, facial massage, manicuring, and chiropody, and kindred recherche, erudite and recondite subjects.

His course of instruction was by correspondence. It comprised 12 lessons. The fee was $20-in-advance-you-pay-but-once-results-guaranteed.

He advertised in newspapers and western magazines whose advertising managers were not yet overwhelmed by advertising reform.

When the beauty docter's follow-up system was slow in convincing the village belles that they should be scientifically beautified, he made haste to hold forth the lure of a special rate of $15.42—$12.86—$9.10—$7.20—$3.05—or $1.77.

He gauged his haste and figures by the quality of the stationery upon which mademoiselle had propounded her inquiries. As a judge of human nature—I mean feminine nature, for there is a difference—by the stationery route, Harry Lloyd Ruggiesford was an adept.

The twelve printed lessons cost him fourteen cents. Advertising he figured at fifteen cents an inquiry. Office rent was seven dollars a month. The depreciation of the rebuilt and of the P. B. stenographer were small. Overhead expenses were less. Hence his sound judgment allowed him not infrequently to descend to the one dollar and seventy-seven cents mark.

Forgive me, reader, for this lagging start and the array of dull statistics. I apologise also to the editor, the linotype man and the proof reader. Anon will I endeavor to redeem myself.

Do you crave romance, love, osculation? A dab of pathos, a shift of scene, a few surprises? A villain, brief paragraphs, lively conversation? Oh very well. Perhaps I can accommodate you.

'Twas June.

How's that for a telescoped paragraph?

H. Lloyd Ruggiesford swung jauntily off the trolley car, winked at the man on the corner decorated with the sign, "Please Help the Blind," received an answering wink, paused at the florist's, purchased a 50-cent bunch of violets, and was elevated to the twelfth floor of the Ramge building.

Sadie, the stenographer, was pounding out form letter No. 7. That same epistle was calculated to plunge the fair recipient into the seventh inferno of despair because she had not yet purchased a money order and essayed the route of scientific beautification.

Form letter No. 7 was a masterpiece of selling talk on the scientific elimination of pimples, freckles, moles, blotches, birthmarks, hair on the face, ingrown fingernails and the like.

"Hello, Sade," said the beauty doctor. "I believe you said you liked violets. I've bought you a few."

He handed her his offering with a truly Elizabethan bow.

"Ever so much, Harry," she said gaily, raising the bouquet to her pretty retrousse nose. "I haven't saw as swell a bunch as this all spring. You're there with the keen eye for nifty flowers, all right. Them roses the other day was too dear for anything."

"Quit kidding, Sade," said the beauty doctor, smiling archly. "You know that nothing's too good for you. Anything much in the way of mail today?"

Sadie handed him a bundle of letters.

An examination of their contents disclosed 14 money orders, eight festive letters of warm commendation of the course, 19 vigorous kicks from disgruntled students, six threats to report the institution to the post office authorities if certain sums were not forthwith returned, and 22 answers to advertisements.

"Well, ain't that just fine!" rejoined the private secretary, renewing her mastication of the chicle and her attack on the rebuilt.

Harry returned to his morning's mail, strove to translate the aspect of the 22 inquiries into terms of dollars and cents, but his thoughts persisted in drifting into other channels.

He saw himself in a little flat. It was breakfast time. Opposite him, across the breakfast food, bacon and pot of steeping Young Hyson, he beheld a fair young creature, with red cheeks, eyes like violets, retrousse nose, and hair of dainty, drug-store flaxen hue.

You guessed it, reader.

It was Sadie.

For weeks had this wonderful picture hung in Harry's mind. For weeks had he argued the question of marriage pro and con. At times he had been on the point of laying bare his soul and begging Sadie to go with him to the courthouse end clergy, and thus make him the happiest beauty doctor on earth.

Yet, always, before he could seize her fair hand and begin his matrimonial canvass, a still small voice had warned him that before he hitched his chariot to a marriage license he must needs address Satan in the terms of the Biblical command, eschew his undignified and dangerous calling, and cast about him for a more genteel and desirable vocation.

He knew that already a post-office inspector was camping on his trail, and he knew not the day nor the hour when a cruel and untimely governmental jolt would relegate the institution of scientific beautification into the discard. Incessantly had the sinister vision of the post-office inspector been haunting him, flitting into his dream by night, harassing his thoughts by day.

He had therefore cast about him for a buyer upon whose shoulders to unload the institution of latter-day learning. And yesterday he had found a man who had offered him a thousand dollars for the gay enterprise, forever to have and to hold. He had accepted the offer, and closed the deal with impatient dispatch.

And now he had resolved to turn his youthful energies into the real-estate business, place a "best investment" upon Sadie's finger, and become a desirable citizen beyond the pale of post-office inspectors and kindred worries of his hitherto dangerous pursuits.

Little wonder that Harry's thoughts were thronged with flatirons, flapjacks, frying pans and fluffy kimonos instead of with the unregenerate details of a business taboo!

Harry pulled himself together, wheeled his chair about with a suddenness that startled Sadie, and said:

"Sade, I've been wanting to tell you something for a good many weeks."

"What's on your mind, kiddo?" asked the girl coyly.

"Well," pursued the beauty doctor, "I've come to the conclusion that this correspondence school graft isn't exactly the stunt for an ambitious young chap like me. I've been cleaning up quite a bit of velvet in it, but the fact is it's not precisely on the level. You know that, Sade.

"It ain't the sort of business that a man would like to have his wife, for instance, tell the neighbors her husband was in. It ain't what he'd like to leave to his son when it came to an aerial in the direction of the sweet by-and-by.

"Worse than that, there's been a post-office inspector hanging round here for a couple of weeks trying to get a line on the institution. I've stopped him and swapped conversation with him a number of times myself. He's one of these smooth guys, and never tipped it off that he was interested in the school at all.

"But I've caught him wandering round here entirely too often to make me feel comfortable. His snooping round here is getting on my nerves, Sade, and I've decided to sell and get out from under before they let something drop on me.

"My successor takes charge tomorrow. I'm going to take a whirl at the real-estate business, Sade. What do you think of that?" he added triumphantly, with a conscious blush of pride.

"Oh, get out," said Sadie. "Are you on the level?"

"On the dead level, Sade. And listen," he continued, drawing his chair closer to hers. "I'm doing it all for you, girlie.

"It will be hard for me, awfully hard, to break into anything like the real-estate business after being in this correspondence work so long, and I've a hunch I'll have a hard time getting to like the new business, but I'm doing it for you, so that I can be on the level and decent, and look folks in the face from now on.

"You've had me on the run ever since you began pounding out form letters for me. I'm all to the psychopathic about you. You've panhandled my pump for fair, Sade, and I want you to marry me. Gee, but I love you, kiddo, and I've got just the coziest little flat all picked out!"

Harry rose, took a step in Sadie's direction, then suddenly paused. A strange look had come into Sadie's face.

"I'm awfully sorry, Harry," she said, "awfully sorry. But you know that post-office inspector you saw round here? Well, he ain't been investigating the school at all. He's been round here to see me— And—well—him and I was married yesterday at noon."

P. S.—Somehow, the moral of my story has become slightly twisted. If is either: "He who hesitates is lost," or "Act in haste and repent at leisure." You may take your choice.

Kept Guns Going All Night.

A recent report of Gen. Ironside, commending the Allied troops at Archangel, pays a tribute to the heroism of a Canadian artillery lieutenant. In support of the Allies were some Russian troops, and they broke and left his battery without infantry defence. Retreat was cut off, but the lieutenant kept his battery going and fought the Bolsheviki all night and finally withdrew his guns without losing one. Gen. Ironside has recommended him for decoration and promotion. Canadians there have absolute confidence in Gen. Ironside, and this has relieved anxiety regarding Canadians at Archangel.

The Reason for the Referendum Ballot

THE Government realizes that The Ontario Temperance Act is unsatisfactory, both to the great majority of the people and as well to the officials sworn to carry out its provisions.

In introducing the Referendum, Premier said: "During the past year the methods provided by the Ontario Temperance Act for dispensing such liquors as may lawfully be sold, have not proven as satisfactory as the Government would like. The Government is most anxious, as far as possible, to remedy any abuses and relieve any inconveniences that exist."

To Relieve this Totally Unsatisfactory Condition the Referendum Ballot is Provided

The Referendum Ballot gives the people of Ontario an opportunity to repeal The Ontario Temperance Act. By voting "Yes" to all four questions, the people of Ontario will enable the Government to repeal the unsatisfactory Ontario Temperance Act and enact sane, moderate legislation which will permit the general sale of non-intoxicating beer containing 2.51% alcohol by weight, whilst restricting the sale of pure spirituous liquors and light wines to Government agencies.

The members of the Citizens' Liberty League and the great majority of the people of Ontario do not and will not sanction a return of the bar with the unrestricted sale of spirituous liquors. The League wishes a sane, moderate compromise to meet the reaction against a too drastic prohibitory measure which has resulted in all sorts of evasions and brought the law into contempt, thus tending to destroy our national life as sober, law-abiding citizens.

For these reasons, all fair-minded, thinking citizens will vote "Yes" to the four questions on the Referendum Ballot.

MEMORIAL TABLET IN ST JOHN'S CHURCH

At one of the largest vestry meetings ever held at St. John's Church and of which cold finance was the keynote it was decided to dispense with the idea of a marble memorial statue for the boys who went overseas and instead place a mural tablet in the Church.

OBITUARY

ROBERT TAYLOR.

There passed away Friday, September 5th, 1919, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. David Edwards, Mr. Robert Taylor, aged 72 years 8 months. The deceased had been in his usual health within a couple of days prior to his death and his sudden death became quite a shock to his friends and neighbours. Mr. Taylor was a life-long resident of Otonabee and was very highly respected by all who knew him. His wife predeceased him twenty years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss three sons and two daughters, Thomas, Joseph and Gordon, all on their own farms in Otonabee, and Mrs. David Edwards of Keene and Miss Edna at home, also two brothers and one sister, Mr. George and Anthony Taylor and Miss Helen Taylor, all of Peterborough. The pallbearers were Mr. John and Zack Renwick, Mr. Edward Braden, Mr. Richard Short, Mr. John McFee and Mr. John Comrie, all neighbours of the deceased.

Interment took place at St. Mark's cemetery, Otonabee.

WEDDING BELLS

GARDNER—BINGHAM.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Bingham, New Romaine street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening, Sept. 10th at 5 o'clock, when their daughter, Edna M. became the bride of Robert Howard Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Gardner of Norwood. The Rev. Mr. Chatman, of St. James' church, officiated. The bride entered the parlour leaning on her father's arm, while Mrs. E. Hotston played the wedding march, and stood under an arch of evergreens and white asters. The letters G. & B. hung from the centre of the arch, also decorated with white asters. The bride was attired in white silk crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of cream roses. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Madeline, who also wore white silk crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of white asters. The groom was ably assisted by Mr. David Stark, of Norwood. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful pendant, to the bridesmaid a crescent pin, to the groomsman a gold stick pin. The presents were numerous and useful, which the happy couple received. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a dainty tea. After a short visit to Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner will reside in Norwood.

THOMPSON—McKEE

Cupid invaded the editorial work in the city to-day, when the wedding of Roxie May McKee, household editor of the Farm and Dairy and Charles Stanley Thompson, advertising manager of the Canadian Horticulturist took place in George Street Methodist Church, Reverend A. J. Thomas officiating. The young couple, who are exceedingly popular among a large circle of friends, and energetic workers in the interests of George Street Methodist Church, were the recipients of a large number of beautiful gifts, amongst which were a piano lamp, from the staffs of the Farm and Dairy and the Canadian Horticulturist, a mohogany tray and "Brown Betty" tea service, from George Street Choir of which both were members, a cut glass vase from the George Street Orchestra and a suitable remembrance from the Bible Class of George Street. In addition to these on Thursday evening about 20 of the bride's girl friends met at her home, 31 Dennison avenue and presented her with a miscellaneous shower.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE EMPIRE

Breathing the atmosphere of the South "Miss Dulcie from Dixie" the feature picture of the Empire Theatre proved a very attractive offering and at both shows the theatre held capacity houses. The play is a charming story of the endeavour of a little southern girl Miss Dulcie Culpepper (Gladys Leslie) to reunite two branches of her family which had quarrelled several years before. The story of her final success is very cleverly and attractively worked out.

THE POLICE INVESTIGATION OPENED THIS MORNING IN THE COUNTY COURTHOUSE

CHAIRMAN OF LICENSE BOARD WAS PRESENT—EVIDENCE OF MR. W. J. HAMILTON

WHISKY RUNNING

Magistrate Dumble was on hand this morning at the County Court when the Board of Police Commission investigation opened at 10.25 o'clock. The expected huge crowd did not turn up, and only about a score were present to listen to the evidence which was given, principally by Mr. W. J. Hamilton, late proprietor of the King George Hotel.

Mr. C. N. Gordon unexpectedly appeared on behalf of Mr. Rae Sullivan, and Crown Attorney Hatton was also present.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the License Commission, was present, not as a witness, but only to hear the case in the interests of the Commission.

First Witness.

The first witness called was Miss Edna Hoag, stenographer for the Board of License Commissioners, who recalled taking down Mr. William J. Hamilton's statement in Toronto on 13th May. Mr. Hamilton was present, and was identified by her. Mr. Joseph Stewart was among those present when the statement was made. She re-read the statement, in Court and swore that it was correct in every detail.

No suggestions were made by Mr. Stewart or Mr. Saunders, solicitor for the Commission. True copies of the statement were made.

Mr. W. J. Hamilton Called.

"At Port Colborne," was the reply. "I was proprietor of the King George Hotel here. My Standard License for 1919 was not granted, although I made a personal application for one. It was refused in February, 1919."

"Why were you refused a license?" asked Mr. Widdifield.

"If I did not stand behind certain statements that Mr. Stewart wanted me to make, I would not get my license."

"What statements were these?"

"I forget."

"When?"

"The beginning of May. Mr. Stewart asked me if I knew anything about the liquor coming into Kendry. I said yes, and that I could get some if I wanted it. Somebody phoned me the information, but I do not know who it was. I told Mr. Stewart that I heard the liquor belonged to Mr. Rae Sullivan." Mr. Stewart asked me if I had heard that Sergeant Arthur Blade and somebody else were going to steal the whisky. I said he must be mistaken, as Sergeant Blade would not do it, but that I had heard from Rae Sullivan that Detective Newhall was going to back Sullivan, and promised him police protection. Mr. Stewart told me that I knew all about this thing, and he wanted me to divulge it, and that if I did I would get my licence back. I told him that I didn't believe the allegations. Mr. Stewart told me to go to Toronto for my licence, and to call up on the 'phone, the chairman, Mr. Flavelle. I did, and was asked to come to Toronto. Mr. Stewart told me that I knew all about the affair, and he seemed to want me to tell the truth. Mr. Flavelle asked me to bring Mr. Stewart to Toronto with me. We went to Toronto on 3rd May.

Was Rebuked.

"I was put on the carpet in the office of the Liquor Commissioners, and was rebuked for my breach of the O. T. A., and was told that I would know in eight days whether I would get my licence back or not. Mr. Stewart asked me to put in a statement form regarding the police protection, etc. I did. What I gave to the stenographer in Toronto does not sound like what I heard this morning." (The written statement had been read to the Board of Police Commissioners).

SINN FEIN VIEW OF FRIDAY'S RAID

GRIFFITH SAYS RAID WAS WORTH A MILLION VOTES

(United Press.)

DUBLIN, Sept. 16. — Arthur Griffith, vice-president of the Sinn Fein, in an interview with the Daily Mail correspondent, declared Friday's raid, conducted by British authorities, was "worth a million votes to Sinn Fein."

"England's game in America will be defeated," Griffith said. "Without America's assistance, England cannot maintain the stand she has taken hitherto."

DEMANDED A 44 HOUR WEEK

STRIKERS DECLARE EVERY SATURDAY AFTERNOON A HOLIDAY

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. — Eight thousand shipyard workers who, "automatically" established a forty-four hour week Saturday by quitting, found themselves without jobs when they reported for work to-day in Brooklyn. Employers declared that they had automatically resigned by their actions on Saturday and announced that all strikers would be paid off this afternoon. The trouble arose when the shipyard workers demanded the forty-four hour working week, with Saturday afternoons off. Their demands refused by shipyard owners, the men declared a strike for every Saturday afternoon.

CRISIS LOOKED FOR IN AUSTRIA

SPIRITLESS IRRESOLUTE GENERATION WALK STREETS IN SEARCH OF PLEASURE

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, Sept. 16.— Austria continues to drift toward an internal situation approaching the chaotic, and leading men and newspapers are beginning to voice apprehension as to what may follow unless a strong central government can weld the country into a more harmonious national whole. At the present time it is apparent that each region or district is for itself and that all of them are against Vienna. At the bottom seemingly lie two principal factors, continued decrease in the value of the crown and fear of famine. The Central government thus far seems to have been unable to cope with either. The "Neue Tag" says that instead of the people sternly facing the situation in which they find themselves, we find a demoralized, spiritless, irresolute generation walking our streets seeking nothing but pleasure and only to outward appearances are we an organized state.

OIL FIRE BURNING ITSELF OUT

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. — The spectacular oil fire which since Saturday afternoon has raged at the plant of the Stone and Fleming Company, in Long Island City, with injury to more than 50 persons, was gradually burning itself out to-day.

Although the officials of the fire department said that the blaze was well under control it was burning briskly and promised to continue for two or three days until thousands of gallons of oil in the path of the flames have been consumed.

They believed that 36 tanks have been destroyed and that the property damage will be more than two million dollars, about five hundred thousand of this sum being represented by oil consumed in the fire.

CONFERENCE OPENED TO-DAY

RECOMMENDATION OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS COMMISSION PUT INTO EFFECT

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—The great industrial conference organized as a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission which travelled throughout the Dominion and made a study of industrial conditions, opened this morning in the Senate chamber. The conference was formally opened by the Minister of Labour, with several Cabinet Ministers and other notable public personages present. Sir Robert Borden was unable to be present owing to illness, but in calling the meeting to order, Senator Robertson read a long message from the Prime Minister giving a comprehensive survey of after war conditions. Hon. A. L. Sifton, Hon. N. W. Rowell and Hon. Mackenzie King also addressed the conference.

FLYING MEN HERE FOR THE EXHIBITION

CAPT. SALTER AND LIEUT. VICTOR DALLIN ARRIVED ON SATURDAY

Capt. Salter and Lieut. Dallin, the two crack flyers who are to give daily exhibitions of "stunt" flying at the Peterborough Exhibition, arrived in the city Saturday, bringing a German Fokkher and a Curtis plane. Lieut. Dallin entertained the citizens with a remarkable exhibition of flying on Saturday afternoon and evening as a taste of what is to be expected at the Exhibition. The Fokkher, a single-seated machine, will be used for stunt flying, while passengers will be carried in the Curtis machine. It should be understood that the Curtis will not fly from the Exhibition grounds, but from the field to the south-west, and those who wish to take a flight should bear this in mind.

LOCAL HORSES MADE A SPLENDID SHOWING

Mr. S. W. Blewett has returned from the Toronto and London Exhibitions, where his three fine horses, the roadster pair, "Edith Cavell" and "Joan of Arc," and the hackney mare, "Prima Donna," have been very successful. Altogether they have won two firsts, five seconds and five thirds. Mr. Blewett's horses are entered in the Peterborough Exhibition.

EXCELLENT GRAND STAND SHOW

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

Balloon Ascension—7 o'clock.
Airplane flights—7.30.
Vaudeville acts begin at 8.
Fireworks begin at 9.30.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Airplanes—2 p.m.
Balloon ascension—2.30.
Vaudeville acts—3.00.
Daylight fireworks—4 p.m.
Trotting and running races.

Moved forward from the last three to the first three days of the week, Peterborough's peace year Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition opened this morning with a rush that lacked only the warm autumn sunlight to ensure the biggest success in its history. Exhibits direct from the Ottawa Central Fair indicated the advantage of the change in the local dates. In fact Secretary Fred Hall was swamped by a deluge of entries that poured in all morning and were still coming this afternoon. The industrial display was never so comprehensive and interesting. Merchants and manufacturers have spared no pains in setting up beautiful displays that have overflowed from the main building into numerous tents which stretch southward from the secretary's office to the new horse barns. This is a feature that comprises one long avenue of interest.

The midway [illegible] practically from the back [illegible] to the grandstand. It includes some of the companies that were here for a week a month ago, and there are various other attractions that are covering the fall fairs circuit. A "merry-go-round" and Ferris wheel are conspicuous in the amusement lane, and other shows were busy putting up their fronts all morning.

The Grand Stand Performance.

The main programme in front of the grand stand is almost too long to enumerate. In brief, there will be something doing all the time. There are six vaudeville acts to begin with, airplane flights and stunts by Capt. Salter and Lieut. Dallin, late of the Royal Air Force, two balloon ascensions daily by Bonnette Brothers, who also promise a thrill with their human bomb feature. There is also a whirlwind slide on a 500-foot cable. Three bands have been engaged to supply music, the G.W.V.A., 57th Regimental and the Salvation Army Bands. The latter band will play in front of the secretary's office.

Another feature this year is the daylight fireworks, which were shown to-day and will be repeated to-morrow. The usual night display is scheduled for to-night and on Wednesday.

A Great Racing Card.

Another splendid attraction will be a special daily racing card. In addition to the trotting races there will be two half-mile running heats each afternoon by horses that are preparing for the autumn races on fast American tracks. A string of ten of these horses are sharing the new west barn with the trotters. Lovers of good racing should be delighted with this year's track events.

Trotter With 2.02¼ Mark.

Among the sulkies, James McDowell, of Toronto, has two entries, Hal B. Junior with a mark of 2.02¼, and "Geo. Laconda," 2.19¼. Dr. Johnston, of Port Hope, is represented by "B.U.V.," 2.30, and Adrian Pointer, 2.20. Sam. Palmer has entered Mona Hall in the 2.30 class and Bridie Wilkes in the named race. "Babe Parker," owned by H. Parker, of Marchmont, is an entry for the 2.20 race. W. Elmhurst and others will be represented in some of the events which should prove a big drawing card.

The Main Building.

Encouraging proof of the interest the merchants are taking in the Exhibition is shown by the displays in the main building. Richard Hall & Son, A. W. Cressman Co., the Turnbull Company and others have displays of house furnishings that are rich in every detail. They are all a credit to Peterborough's big stores and to the spirit of enterprise that seeks to promote the welfare of the Exhibition and local business. The Peterborough Hardware Company have a big display of stoves and other household goods in a tent immediately north of this building.

The A. McDonald Lumber Company are new-comers in the old building which has been completely disguised by a treatment of cream beaver-board with green panelling. The Kingan Hardware Company have a display of paints, fire arms and other lines.

Barries, Limited, have a handsome and costly exhibit of furs, Merrill and Meredith, the J. M. Greene Music Company, and Heintzman Hall are also among the select company of merchants.

The Roy Studio has excelled itself with a gallery of its choicest art. The hand-coloured work on a photograph base is of an exceedingly high class, and will not fail to attract the thousands of visitors.

Amateur Photography.

On the west wall there is a display of amateur photography by C. F. Smith that is not only worthy of special mention, but is so good that visitors should not miss it. Mr. Fred Roy this morning spoke in the highest terms of it.

Along the industrial row there are exhibits by R. G. Sturgeon, Oak Hall, F. R. J. McPherson and Company, and other merchants.

Stretching easterly toward the Lock Street gate are exhibits by the De Laval Company, Duffus Garage, Miller, Powell and Watson, who have a display of rural lighting equipment, the Cockshutt farm implements and other companies manufacturing farm tractors and other implements.

The New Horse Barn.

Evidences of progress abound everywhere. The new horse barn was quickly filled this morning. Among the earliest exhibitors were Wm. Roberts and Sons. The barn is greatly appreciated by the exhibitors, but is not large enough to accommodate all the horses shown.

There were promises of a big entry list in the cattle class. G. C. Shannon of Oakwood has a herd of Aberdeen-Angus, Isaac Hetherington is showing about twenty Jerseys and in the Holstein group are herds owned by C. E. Moore and Wm. Stewart, of Smith Township, and H. Seymour, of Springville.

The flower tent south of the main building bloomed early this morning, and the fears that the advanced season might depress the number of exhibits appeared unfounded. Mr. Dave Jordan had an active group of helpers whose work should be rewarded by a gratifying show.

Public School Inspector Mowat has an interesting exhibit of woodwork executed by the manual training day classes in the public schools. This feature is shown in the flower tent.

Frank Kirney, John Williams and others were laying out the vegetable exhibits in their tent, and beyond it Harold Baptie and Mr. Hartley had charge of the poultry department.

The sheep and swine pens were filling up rapidly at noon, and by evening the entries should be in position and ready for judging, which will begin early to-morrow.

The Industrial parade at one o'clock this afternoon from Central Park to the Exhibition grounds surprised and delighted the crowds that lined the streets through the business blocks. Preceded by the 57th Regimental band the floats and decorated cars extended down George street, nearly a mile in length and was so replete with features that there have been numerous suggestions that it should be repeated to-morrow or Wednesday or perhaps on each day of the Fair. Merchants and manufacturers prepared floats that excelled anything seen in Peterboro in years, and the procession had passed before the public had realized its numerous beauties together with the humour that was worked into some of the moving exhibits. An outstanding idea carefully delineated was the A. W. Cressman Company's representation of "Peace" showing a dove floating above the earth. Miss Irene Scully appeared in this design. The whole affair was carried out with such a wealth of detail that an opportunity of witnessing it should be afforded to the many citizens who overlooked it to-day. The G.W.V.A. had also a striking float but there were dozens of others practically all of whom should be mentioned.

DISTINCTIVE EXHIBITS

A decided increase in the number of distinct Exhibits, both in the Main building and on the field, was another evidence of the growing attractiveness of our Industrial Fair. Greater proficiency was also shown returned to their home in Hamilton in the attractiveness of these exhibits as well as in the fuller presentation of goods displayed, all manifesting

FORCE OF ITALIAN TROOPS MAKE A DRAMATIC ENTRY INTO FIUME

PREMIER NITTI SAYS THE OFFENDERS AT FIUME WILL BE PROSECUTED—ITALY WILL NOT TOLERATE POLICY OF ADVENTURE

(United Press.)

ROME, Sept. 15.—The latest reports from Fiume state that the situation arising from the entrance into the city of Gabrielle D'Annunzio's force continues to be serious, Premier Nitti announced in the Chamber of Deputies. "I am filled with humiliation," Nitti said, "because for the first time sedition has entered the Italian Army. I also feel humiliated for the sincere apologies I shall make to the Allies. If our Adriatic aspirations are opposed, it is chiefly because of the belief that Italy is Imperialistic. The Fiume incident will injure our cause. Persons advocating mad acts against France and the Allies, whose aid Italy cannot recover, are lunatics and traitors. Italy is no longer in a position to tolerate a policy of adventure without being brought to a state of anarchy. The offenders at Fiume will be prosecuted," Nitti announced.

The Epoca states that General Badoglio, Deputy Chief of Staff, has gone to Fiume, fully empowered to investigate the situation.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Details of Gabrielle D'Annunzio's arrival at Fiume, and his dramatic meeting with General Pittaluga, who was commanding the city, are given in a despatch from the Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Milan.

"Thus you will ruin Italy?" asked Pittaluga.

The following ensued between the two men:

"Rather you will ruin Italy," the poet replied, "if you oppose Fiume's destiny and support the infamous policy."

The General: "Then what do you wish?"

The Poet: "A free entry into Fiume."

The General: "I must obey orders."

The Poet: "I understand you would fire upon your brethren. Then first upon me!" (D'Annunzio bares his chest.)

The General, emotionally: "I am happy to meet you, brave soldier and grand poet. With you I cry 'Viva Fiume!'"

Then all the soldiers joined in crying "Viva Pittaluga!"

D'Annunzio then entered the city amid great rejoicings, the correspondent writes.

GOVERNMENT FACED DEFEAT

HOW THE G.W.V.A. FORCED THE GRATUITY ISSUE IN THE HOUSE

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept 15.—Gradually the news is leaking out of how the pressure of soldier influence through the medium of the G.W.V.A. organization forced the government of Canada to change its attitude on the re-establishment and gratuity issue. The bald fact is that the Government faced defeat in the House of Commons if it persisted in its attitude of refusal of a commission to go into the matters at issue. The active G.W.V.A. committee at Ottawa had actually 80 per cent. it is estimated, of the Unionist members from Ontario and the western provinces pledged to support their demand for a commission. Many of these pledges were in black and white. Imagine what would have happened if the issue had been forced in the House and the vote was taken. The 80 p.c. of Unionists would have had to abide by their pledges or risk the wrath of the soldier vote later on. The Liberals would have voted for the Commission, and the Borden Ministry would have been hopelessly outvoted in a House where it has a normal margin of from 40 to 50 votes.

MUCH INTEREST IN BOXING BOUTS

There is much interest being shown in the return boxing bout between young Cattle of Toronto and Kid Brompton, which takes place in the Brock street rink on Thursday night. The pair who went ten fast rounds to a draw here two weeks ago proved a clever hard hitting couple and the return bout should be a corker.

The challenge of Irish Jordan for a bout has been accepted by young Rootes and the two will meet in one of the preliminaries, while Dugan and Anthony will also clash. There will be a wrestling bout between Dunsford and Minard. The latter won last time out after an interesting tussle.

MEDALS WILL BE PRESENTED AT THE EXHIBITION

The presentation of the Royal Humane Society's medals for live-saving to Donald Fitzgerald and Charles J. Begley, the two youngsters wh orescued the daughter of Mr. A. G. Robers from drowning at Inverlea Park in June last, will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the Exhibition. The ceremony will be held on a platform just inside of the George street entrance and not in front of the grand stand, as previously stated.

SERIOUS INJURIES TO LITTLE GIRL

Little Miss Margaret Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Grant, 508 George street, suffered serious injuries this morning, when a storm door fell on her, inflicting a deep gash on the head and chest and other injuries. She was attended by Dr. Hammond.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN TRINITY CHURCH TO LATE LIEUT. HUYCKE WHO LOST HIS LIFE IN THE WAR

MEMORIAL WINDOWS

The memorial service for Flight-Lieutenant Frederick Arthur Huycke, in Trinity Church yesterday morning, was most impressive. The church was filled with those who had gathered to pay tribute to the memory of the late Lieutenant Huycke.

Three Memorial Windows.

Three beautiful memorial windows have been placed in one of the cloistered aisles and a bronze tablet in the north transept of the church by Judge Huycke and his family, in memory of their son.

The Rev. F. E. Malott, pastor of the church, explained that it had been intended to hold the memorial service some time ago, but the delay in securing the windows and tablets had interfered with the plans. He then introduced the Rev. Dr. J. P. Wilson, D. D., the speaker of the morning, as one who had been intimately acquainted with the family of His Honour Judge Huycke.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, D. D.

Dr. Wilson in opening said that he had been invited to speak at this memorial service by the speaker, Rev. Mr. Malott, and Judge Huycke, but he had felt drawn to the congregation as well for he had passed through those awful four years of war with them. He could never forget the patriotism, endurance, and faith of this people. In such a time to doubt would be disloyalty, to falter sin.

The speaker then went on to say that what we had fought for had been obtained at the peace table. Our King had seen the Dominions rally to the aid of the mother country and the defence of the principles at stake. The Empire and the Throne were now secure.

Ancient Custom.

Turning to the significance of memorials, Dr. Wilson stated that memorials are old. When Israel crossed the Jordan they erected a memorial. The British people had always been a great people for erecting memorials. The memorial expressed our gratitude for the sacrifices they had made for us.

"We do not have to go back to Thermopylae," the speaker continued, "for examples of heroic deeds. We have Courcelette, St. Julian, and a host of others; we have made history. We honour these men because they honour us. Every boy and girl who volunteered in this war has laid a wreath of triumph on the doorstep of their parents."

Call of Duty.

Dr. Wilson then asked why they went, "why 108,000 men volunteered for the first contingent, when only 33,000 were needed, and stated that the answer to these questions was contained in Romans 12:1.

"I beseech you therefore, brethren by the mercies of God that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable, unto God, which is your reasonable service," and the men were too British and too Christian to refuse.

The debt we owed them was enormous. Those who had fallen had laid down their lives for the honor of every woman and the safety of every child—not for land, money or glory, but for the great principles which have always characterized Britain."

"What a pity it would be," Dr. Wilson continued, "to die for a country not worthy! What a tragedy if 58,000 men died for principles which their countrymen would not support! They guarded us, we must guard what they bought for us."

"Strong, Sweet Character."

The speaker then characterized Flight-Lieutenant Huycke, as a "strong, sweet character. He had a beautiful character and God had made him good. A friend had said of him that he was never known to do a mean thing."

Dr. Wilson, in a reminiscent mood, then went on to tell of the first time he had ever seen Arthur Huycke. It was in a football game at the Nicholls Oval, and Arthur was "playing the game." He had played it to the end. He had been eager to go overseas. To him it was the call of heaven. Men like him followed their Saviour when they fought to defend civilization and their faith. They were true to their faith.

The speaker had noted Arthur Huycke's reverence for the House of God and sacred things. Nothing developed the soul like the worship of God. It was from the churches that the majority of men went to save and serve their country. They were strong and beautiful souls. Arthur Huycke had gone from an atmosphere of worship and a Christian home—no wonder he was devout. His life was short but well spent. Paul lived longer in 60 years than Methuselah in 900.

Countless Lost.

Arthur belonged to that countless lost who heard the call of duty (the motto on the memorial tablet), "If I lose myself I save myself."

Survival was not saved by the survival of the fittest, but by sacrifice. If a man did not sacrifice and serve he would not really live. That was the greatest thing.

Consolation to those who had lost a loved one was to be found in the Gospel. Death was a sleep. A child slept contentedly in its mother's arms knowing that it was surrounded by love. Similarly the soldiers did not fear the sleep of death for they knew that they would be safe in the arms of Jesus Christ. Jesus said: "In my Father's house are many mansions. I will gather you there."

In closing Dr. Wilson addressed himself particularly to the young men and young women. He hoped that they would follow the example of men like Arthur Huycke who gave their all to save mankind. The great principle was set forth in John 15:13, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Rev. F. E. Malott.

The Rev. Mr. Malott said that he could not help but think of the days when we were filled with apprehension at times and were straining every energy to win. Then how we honoured the men who were fighting our battles. He remembered especially the enthusiasm for church honour rolls. Then came the armistice and since we have become so immersed in the pressing problems of the day that we have partly forgotten that we had but a short time ago been saved from a great danger.

He was glad to notice an increased interest in memorials to those who had fallen in the war. The memorial to Lieutenant Huycke was a beginning. They were not so much for us as for those who would come after us. He hoped that there would be more memorials. Memorials become a part of the church. They not only honoured Arthur Huycke but they honoured us. He purposed to dedicate them.

Mr. Malott then called on the congregation to rise and stand with bowed heads while he dedicated the memorials to the honour of God.

Rev. Canon Davidson.

Rev. Canon Davidson of St. John's Anglican church and Rev. Dr. Wallace of Toronto University, a former pastor of Trinity church, were then called to the pulpit. Canon Davidson in a short address, paid tribute to Arthur Huycke, and those like him, who had fallen in the defence of civilization. Those who had gone down fighting for their country were to be envied, he thought. He had been thrilled whenever he had passed the resting places of such. In closing he asked the congregation out of thankfulness as Canadians to those who had done so much for Canada and the Empire, to rise and sing the National Anthem.

In a moment the congregation were on their feet and the walls of Trinity church re-echoed to sincere and solemn rendering of "God Save the King," a tribute to those who lie "in Flanders' Fields."

GOVERNMENT UNDER SEVERE STRAIN

NUMBER OF POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS IN GREAT BRITAIN

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 15.— Another of Lloyd George's famous political manoeuvres may be expected upon the reopening of parliament, according to a growing conviction here, if the Premier is to revive his coalition government. The government is under the most severe strain as the result of a sudden and simultaneous maturing of three or four political and economic moves, each containing the material for a crisis. These developments were outlined as follows:

The administration in Ireland is trying to crush the Sinn Fein movement.

Labour has declared an ultimatum favoring the nationalization of mines and the danger of a political strike is ever present.

The Russian question remains critical with demand continuing for the return of British troops.

The consistent defeat of coalitionists in by-elections is diminishing the Cabinet's prestige. The victory of Arthur Henderson was the seventh decisive loss suffered by coalition in almost as many weeks. In addition to these elements it was pointed out to-day, Lloyd George is faced with the possibility of changes within his cabinet. These problems await the Premier's solution. Whether he will be able to save the day by his personality, eloquence and sheer force, as he has done in the past, is a question absorbing all Britain to-day.

Repudiated Treaty.

In his testimony last Friday before the Senate Foreign Relations committee, William Bullitt, of Philadelphia, formerly a newspaper corresondent, who went to Paris with President Wilson's party, said that in February last he was sent by Secretary Lansing to Petrograd to bring back from the Soviet leaders a statement showing the exact terms on which they would agree to peace This report, which represented the Bolsheviki as making favourable offers, was never made public, Bullitt said, because the President would not agree. Lloyd George wanted it printed, he said, yet later the Premier denied all knowledge of it when questioned in Parliament.

Press Comment.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Sept. 15.—With the exception of two or three anti-government newspapers, London journals give scant attention this morning to the evidence given by William C. Bullitt before Foreign Relations Committee of the United States' Senate. The Daily News gives great prominence to the story and in its editorial comment accepts Mr. Bullitt's story as a true account of what happened at Paris and cites Premier Lloyd George's statement before the House of Commons on April 16 when he virtually denied knowledge of Mr. Bullitt's mission to Russia. The Herald, Labour organ, gives similar prominence to the story, and its comment says:

"Mr. Bullitt's blunt facts will have a devastating effect, adding that if Lloyd George cannot clear himself from the charges made by Mr. Bullitt, he must resign.

INSPECTOR UNEARTHED STILL AT BOWMANVILLE

Last Saturday License Inspector Goodrich visited Bowmanville, and on the farm of James Bell, about two miles north of the town, discovered what is believed to be a still. While searching the barn in company with Chief Jarvis, a large revolving churn containing about two gallons of mash ready to be stilled was carried out of the cellar by Mrs. Bell and daughter and hid in a field. On searching the cellar afterwards the frame of the still was found. The mash was sent to Toronto for analysis. In the granary was found traces where two large boxes were unpacked, and it is believed they contained liquor. Bell has been suspected for some time of selling liquor.

CHEAP POLITICS.

Even among staunch Conservatives Sir William Hearst's bid for the soldier vote in the coming election by approving, or pretending to approve, the request of a $2,000.00 gratuity for each fighting man has cost the Ontario Premier much prestige. The motive was so apparent that no one has been deceived, certainly not the returned men themselves, who have had so much to do with camouflage overseas that they are not to be easily deluded by it at home. The general feeling is that Sir William has been guilty of playing some very small politics, and his action, instead of winning him votes, will alienate many who might have supported him, but who are now disgusted at what they regard as nothing more or less than a cheap attempt to work upon the sympathy of Ontario's ex-soldiers.

The Premier of a great Province like Ontario should hesitate before attempting to gain political capital out of an issue such as the re-establishment of Canada's soldiers. The question is a Federal one, and no one would be more embarrassed or staggered than Sir William himself if some member of the Legislature proposed that the Ontario Government should reward each of the soldiers from this Province with a gratuity.

MAKE IT A RECORD.

The Peterborough Exhibition is just what the people of the city and district make it. During the last few years the citizens of this section of Ontario have shown their confidence in the event by attending in ever increasing numbers. The effect of this gain in popularity has been reflected by the steadily growing improvement in the Exhibition itself and in the grounds and buildings. If the attendance to-day and on Tuesday and Wednesday warrant it, it is altogether likely that next year Peterborough's Exhibition will be extended over four days, and a week's fair is not far distant. The combination of an enthusiastic, energetic management and a community which is willing to co-operate with its efforts is one that cannot be held back.

Realizing these facts, The Examiner appeals to Peterborough's citizens to roll up a new record in point of attendance this year. There is more than ever to see—the Exhibition Grounds were never in such splendid condition, the grandstand programme is the most costly and the most portentous in the history of the Exhibition, the showing in all lines of live stock and special exhibits has never been surpassed—all excellent reasons why people should not miss this year's Fair. But above all these is the truism that by attending at least once, and two or three times if possible, the people can make the Exhibition of 1919 the red-letter fair in Peterborough's history, and pave the way for an even more successful and more ambitious Exhibition next year.

The directors have the enthusiasm and the driving power to make Peterborough's annual event one of the banner Exhibitions of the Province; but enthusiasm and driving power, no matter how great, will fail if the citizens of the district will not do their part.

All together now, and let us break the record for attendance this year. And then watch the Exhibition grow.

THE REFERENDUM.

Mr. Duggan and his interesting figures notwithstanding, The Examiner still adheres to the opinion that there is no necessity of voting for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act by those who are opposed to the open bar, but still believe in the sale of beer or liquor in some other way. The repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act means a revival of the old License Act and a return to the open bar. All Sir William Hearst's addresses and the Referendum Act itself, are clear on this point. It becomes the duty then of all who do not want the old conditions restored, to vote "No" on the first question. With the other three there is a difference. It is clear that all those who are against liquor in any form, the "drys," as Mr. Duggan calls them, will vote "No" on all four questions. Then, of course, as Mr. Duggan argues, those who favour one of the alternative propositions are handicapped unless all the "wets" decide to vote "Yes" on the last three. That is clear, and no one can question the logic of the argument that in this respect the referendum ballot does not afford a proper chance to express public opinion. For instance, one man may be in favour only of the sale of beer in hotels. Another prefers the sale of beer by the government. A third thinks the sale of spirits by the government is the best solution. If each of the three only votes of his own choice then the votes of the other two and of one prohibitionist, gives a three to one vote against his particular clause. That is what Mr. Duggan has in mind. But granting all this, there is absolutely no need of voting for the repeal of the Temperance Act, even if the voter feels that he must vote "Yes" on the last three clauses. For if there is an affirmative vote to the first question, the amendments will not be considered at all and the sale over the bar comes back. Those who want liquor in some form or other and are not particular about the matter, may be justified in answering question one by "Yes," but no individual or organization that declared against the return of the old system is consistent in voting for the repeal of the Temperance Act.

THE GRATUITY QUESTION.

Unless Parliament decides otherwise after the report of the special committee of the House which is to consider the whole question of the re-establishment of the soldiers has been submitted, there is small chance of Canada's former fighting men receiving the $2,000 gratuity a large number of them have been agitating for. A deputation from the new Returned Soldiers' War Gratuity League which waited on the Cabinet at Ottawa on Saturday, were candidly and emphatically told that the government had made up its mind on the question, and could not grant the $2,000 gratuity. "We are sorry," Acting Premier Doherty declared, "that we, or rather the people of Canada, cannot do more for the returned men, but we cannot see our way clear to carry out such a proposition. The government has decided its policy as far as gratuities are concerned. It is far in advance of what any other country has done for its soldiers, and the decision in that respect is final."

The agitation which has taken place over this matter during the past few days, while it has not been successful in bringing the results that some of the returned men expected, has not been without good effect. It has revealed to the government that the people are interested in the question of the re-establishment of Canada's soldiers, and that while they may not agree upon the gratuity question, they are all anxious in so far as is possible, the ex-service men shall get the best treatment that a grateful country can give them. The whole question will be investigated by the Special Committee of Parliament which the G.W.V.A. has succeeded in inducing the government to appoint and defects that exist in the present machinery can be pointed out and, it is to be hoped, remedied.

REDUCING PRICES.

"Neither putting packers in jail, nor using a firing squad, nor turning loose every district attorney with orders to convict, will really go to the heart of the situation. The criminal law never has and never will curb profiteers. We have tried it for twenty years at a cost sufficient to build a score of cold-storage plants, and the fines imposed have scarcely paid the marshal's costs.

"The food situation is economic, not personal. The essential evil is that the supplying of food is primarily a means of profit to a hierarchy of gamblers, speculators, packers, cold-storage men, commission agents, and middlemen generally. We can secure more food and cheaper food in one way only, and that is by eliminating the speculative and monopolising agencies which surround both farmer and consumer. Food distribution must be rendered absolutely free, so that the circulation fo foodstuffs will be beyond private control, or there will be actual government purchase, sale, and distribution. The proof of this lies in the announcement that the Government control of food is to be hastily clapped on again in England, after having been abandoned; whereas, here, it is perfectly obvious that if there is not at least an effort to go to the heart of things, revolution will appear in the offing—as it already has in Italy—and the crippling of the production of food in a comparatively short time. The North Dakota farmers threatened that if the State did not protect them, along the line of the Non-Partisan League's proposals, from the wheat-pits of Chicago and Minneapolis, and from the middlemen generally, they would abandon their farms to the mortgagees.

"There are only two countries which have had the courage to treat the high cost of living as an economic problem — Denmark and Australia. Both have given new life to agriculture and have cheapened food to the consumer as well. A peasant with a half-acre of land in Denmark can market a dozen eggs, a few pounds of butter, or his bacon, in London, through a co-operative agency, which he, with other peasants, owns, without a penny of profit to any middleman. A ranchman in the heart of Australia can drive his cattle to the nearest railway station, deliver them to the station agent of the State railway, and they will be slaughtered, refrigerated, and stored in the public abattoir, and ultimately sold in London for him by the [illegible] ment. should carloads of [illegible] dest in our cities, as they are reported to have been lately, in order to keep up prices, when people were lacking food? Why are apples brought three thousand miles from Oregon to New York, while apples growing in this State are permitted to rot on the ground? Why should farmers receive from six to ten cents a quart for milk while the consumer ten miles away pays from sixteen to twenty cents? There is no other industry of which these things are true, and there can be no reduction in the high cost of living until we act upon such facts. Among the things that must ultimately be done, if we would protect ourselves in the cycle of increasing food costs, again, are the following:

"1. Transportation, the key to the problem, must be effectively organised and co-ordinated to increase the amount of food produced and to facilitate a cheap and speedy handling. In Europe, the parcels post is widely used as an agency of distribution, both by the housewife and the shopkeeper, as well as the farmer. The Post Office could organise a motor-truck service, radiating from industrial centres for fifty or a hundred miles, and thus effectively bringing the food to individual consumers. Refrigerator cars and food cars of all sorts should be operated by the Government or by a public corporation organised for this purpose, so that the hauling and refrigerating of food in transit could be under absolute control.

"2. There is a co-operative slaughter house within reach of every farmer in Denmark, and every German town has its municipal abattoir. In Australia the abattoirs are Government institutions, as already noted. The United States and England are almost the only countries that permit private slaughtering. The development of our packing industry has destroyed all local slaughtering, and the railroads have co-operated in this for the sake of the profits in hauling cattle to Chicago, and then hauling the beef back to the points from which the cattle came.

"3. Cold-storage and local marketing agencies are the final factors in the distribution of food essential for the protection of the farmer, who now has to market through commission men whom he does not know. An official investigation showed that there were from eight to ten middlemen between the farmer and the ultimate consumer in the city. It has happened repeatedly that the farmer often receives less than the freight charges and, therefore, does not harvest the fruit on his trees, or moves West in search of better marketing conditions.

"4. Cold storage has become the greatest of all agencies for feeding the world, and has become a means of monopolising the food supply. . . . Many have come to believe that control of the food problem demands that there shall be warehouses over the country to which the farmer and retail merchants could send their products for public sale or storage. Here, again, the choice seems to lie between Government ownership and co-operative agencies; a system of licensing will have little more value than the firing squad for profiteers."—New York Nation.

"GLOBE" CHANGES HANDS.

"The Globe," London' oldest evening paper, has changed hands several times in the last fifteen years. Now Robt. Donald, a wealthy Liberal journalist, has bought it from Mr. Maxse, the well-known Imperialist and tariff reformer. Previous changes of proprietorship have always left the paper unaltered in two things — its politics have been high Tory, and its colour pink. Donald was until towards the end of last year the editor of the London "Daily Chronicle," but resigned and sold out when a particularly strong Lloyd George group bought up the newspaper for political propaganda purposes.

GUM DECAY CAUSES TOOTH DECAY

Healthy teeth need healthy gums to hug them. Else they will loosen in Pyorrhea. Tiny openings will come in the gums to act as the gateways of disease germs, which infect the joints or tonsils, or cause other ailments.

Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No mere toothpaste does. Are your gums tender gums? Are they bleeding gums? If so, you are certain to have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people who are over forty have it.

To you we earnestly recommend Forhan's. It preserves the gums which hold the teeth secure.

Brush your teeth with it. Forhan's cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

BARBARA WELCOMES NEIL MORE EAGERLY THAN EVER BEFORE

CHAPTER LXVI.

As I leaned back in the car, my cheeks burning, fairly trembling with indignation, and the temerity of my last sentence to Blanche Orton, I wished with all my heart that Neil were at home. He should not visit Blanche any more. How careless I had been not to realize the lengths to which his anxiety for big business would take him. She had said she was willing to 'crucify' herself to help my husband. What did she mean? Was she so in love with him?—Someway I didn't quite believe that, and I was not at all ready to believe that Neil cared for her in a way to wrong me. No—it was all a part of this business tangle, and —secrecy.

Had I struck the right reason for her complaisance when I said that she of course reaped no benefits from having those vulgar men at her table. It was common talk that Mr. Orton had left very little, was she being paid to entertain Neil and his friends?

The longer I thought of this the more positive was I that I had hit upon the correct solution. It was for money that she was crucifying herself—not for Neil.

I had no sooner arrived at this decision than I was happier. If she were being paid like any hotel or club for entertaining a lot of coarse men who were necessary to Neil because they were wealthy and could advance his interests, it put a different phase upon the matter altogether. I couldn't help but despise her for being willing to lend herself to any such schemes, but I knew she was luxurious. And if she needed money—well, people would do a lot when they wanted money that they wouldn't think of doing without that need.

It was not a nice construction to put upon an action, but in a way it made me less uneasy about Neil's intimacy with her. If it was, as I now tried to make myself think, a purely business arrangement, I had no reason to be personally jealous of them. No cause to fear the fascinating Blanche. Yet as I recalled how charming, how enticing she was in her daring negligee, I wondered that Neil, or any man, could withstand her seductiveness.

"His love for me and baby keeps him from doing anything to hurt us," I said aloud and hugged the thought.

When I reached home there was a message from Neil.

"Home to-morrow night, love, Neil."

How that one word 'love' soothed and comforted me. And I would put all thoughts of his business from my mind until he could return and refute what I had been told, what I had heard. It might make Neil feel badly, even might anger him, but I had determined to tell him all I had heard while he was away, both from Lorraine, and what I had chanced upon at the decorators. How could he satisfy me they were wrong if he did not know what they said?

But I did not decide to tell him of my call on Blanche Orton. That I would think about. Perhaps when I explained that his methods of business was causing talk, that Lorraine had spoken of making Mrs. Orton's home a rendezvous, he would decide to discontinue going there. Anyway I would wait and see.

I recalled what Blanche Orton had said about knowing some delightful fellows who would be an addition to any affair I might contemplate giving. She had spoken truthfully I knew. Her acquaintance among men was large, and she really knew many whose social position made them attractive as guests.

I had been so blindly happy of late. My beautiful home, Neil's generosity in furnishing it, my delight in my darling boy, all had tended to a quiet belief in the lasting quality of that happiness. I hated to be so disturbed; to have my tranquility so broken. So I waited with more than my usual eagerness for Neil.

"Oh, I am so glad to see you!" I exclaimed as I threw my arms around his neck. "I thought you never would come."

"Why so much more eager than usual?" he asked as he kissed me.

"Oh, there is so much I want to know, to ask you about—you business. I went down to the office but your private office was locked. I wanted to see if I couldn't find out something so I could show people who are saying nasty things that they were wrong. And"——

"People saying things— you went to my office, intending to examine my papers in my absence?" startled unbelief and rising anger in his tones.

"Yes—they are saying you aren't quite—fair in business. And I wanted to prove you are, and"—

"D——them, and tell you once for all never to dare touch my papers!" he was livid he was so angry. And we had the wrost quarrel we ever had before I could pacify him as to the innocence of my intent. He wouldn't come to bed, but remained in the library all night. It was terrible for me, I had so longed to have him home.

ARE THE DAYS OF MIRACLES OVER?

IS SUPERSTITION AND FALSE BELIEF TO OVERSHADOW FACTS ANY LONGER?

When a woman who has been sick for years becomes well after taking a certain sciatiide preparation—can you deny that the remedy must be good?

Read these extracts taken from a letter written to us by Mrs. H. Green, of 363 King Street West, Toronto:—

"I suffered for several years with inflammatory Rheumatism and could hardly get up or down stairs. My husband bought me a box of Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, and almost immediately I felt relief. The swellings started to go down and the stiffness left my knees. I might say that previously to using T.R.C.'s I had tried almost everything under the sun without success. I am a happier and wiser woman now, and I cannot thank you enough for the aid T.R.C.'s have given me."

It's the same story from hundreds of other Rheumatic sufferers. They tried T.R.C.'s and T.R.C.'s fixed them up. If you suffer, try them.

Puccini's LION BRAND Maccaroni

The Factory Behind the Product

IN this airy, sunlit factory, at St. Catharines, Puccini's "Lion Brand" Maccaroni is made. Only the BEST QUALITY of "Durum" wheat is used. Experts prepare it in the original Italian way. This takes time—and care—and patience. No artificial drying is permitted. The maccaroni must dry, naturally, on long, clean wooden poles. More than 60,000 of these poles are in use all the time.

The result is a pure, nutritious product of delicious flavor, containing greater food value than the ordinary brands of maccaroni.

Always INSIST on Puccini's "Lion Brand." Your grocer has it, or will get it for you.

THREE YEAR OLDS WILL GET A WORKOUT AT EXHIBITION TO-DAY

SEVERAL PROMISING HORSES IN THE RUNNING CLASS—TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME

The speed programme provided by the Amusement Committee for the Peterborough fair, promises to be the best in its history. Never before were so many high class animals located at the Fair ground for both the harness and running events, the accommodation on the grounds being taxed to capacity with high class animals. The running events for the thoroughbreds, which will be a feature of the card each day, will have at least six starters.

The conditions for the first running event to-day call for three year olds and up to 4½ furlongs of two heats; with such horses as Old Pop, Little Pete and Ella Jenkins included among the number, a stirring contest is assured. The remaining three contestants include Mike Carlin, Waska and Hemisphere, the former being a particularly speedy horse at this distance. Jockey Kelly will have the mount on Old Pop, Chappell will ride Little Pete and H. Gibson, Ella Jennings, and this trio seem to be most favored.

The event for the runners to-morrow will be over the five furlong course and will also bring together an evenly matched field. Thomas G. John Thompson, Mona G., Hemisphere, Waska and Mike Carlin will be among the contestants.

Among to-day's arrivals was Jockey M. Fallon, who has just arrived from Lexington, Kentucky, where he has been riding with a fair measure of success. He will have a mount each day in the running events during the fair. Another arrival from Ottawa, was the well known driver, W. Collins, with J. Payette's string of five trotters and pacers for the harness events. Mr. Collins has campaigned many high class horses throughout this country and included in his present string are several promising animals new to racing admirers here.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 200,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

PRINCE OF WALES IN CALGARY

(Canadian Press.)

CALGARY, Sept. 15. — Calgary's thousands made no pretense of preserving the usual Sunday calm when they first glimpsed their boy prince as he stepped from the railway station to attend divine service on his arrival here from Edmonton yesterday morning. At the Protestant Cathedral the Prince unveiled the memorial screen for the fallen members of Anglican denomination in the district. The Prince was a guest of the Golf Club at an informal luncheon. In the evening he was a guest of the Ranchman's Club at a stag dinner.

THE POLICE INVESTIGATION

The statement was handed to Hamilton but in reading it he agreed that it was the same. He stated that he got most of the information from Sullivan.

"I paid both my own and Mr. Stewart's train fares to Toronto, because Mr. Stewart told me to," said the witness.

Mr. O'Connell, cross-examining Mr. Hamilton, elicited the information that Mr. Stewart told him (after he was convicted of a breach of the O. T. A.) that he had his (Hamilton's) licence in his own hands. The conviction of Mr. Dumble took away Hamilton's licence.

"It was evidently correct that Sullivan owned the liquor at Kendry, because he was subsequently convicted. Where did you get this accurate information?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"I do not remember."

Cross-Examined.

Close cross-examination by Mr. O'Connell did not reveal who Hamilton's informant was. "How did you know there was whisky at Kendry?"

"I got a call over the 'phone the day before. Somebody told me to meet the early Montreal train at Kendry. If it had been cheap I might have bought some of it. I went out to Kendry with George Evans, who owns a garage on Charlotte Street. He took his car. I had a suspicion in my mind that the police were laying a trap for me in order to put me out of business. I was told by somebody that I was to get half of the whisky and Mr. Akey was to get the remainder. Mr. Akey said that he had nothing to do with the whisky."

"And again you can't tell us who gave you the information?"

"No, I can't."

"Then on three different occasions you gained information regarding whisky, but you can't in any case tell us who gave you the information?"

"No, I can't. We (Evans and Hamiltop) reached Kendry about eight o'clock. We saw County Constable Moore, but I don't think he saw me. I climbed over the front seat and got under the buffalo robe and told Evans to drive on, that I didn't want Moore to see me. I got nearly smothered afterwards, and got up and saw Mr. Stewart on the road. I got in the front seat with Evans, and drove into the city."

Mr. Hamilton stated that he didn't honestly believe the statement, but that it was given to him.

Ilivan asked me to join him to steal the whisky which had been confiscated at Kendry, and was then at Moore's house, as he had police protection. This conversation took place in my hotel."

"Didn't Akey ask you if you were game enough to steal the whisky from Moore's house?"

"No."

"Didn't you tell that to Mr. Stewart on the train?"

"I didn't tell him that."

"You had whisky brought in once from Indian River?"

"Yes."

"Who did you out with?"

"Once with Sullivan."

"How often did you go with Sullivan for whisky the winter of 1918-19?"

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for Rae Sullivan, objected to Mr. Sullivan being brought into the affair.

"I got 22 bottles of whisky at Indian River last winter in suit cases, and brought it home and sold it. Another time Mr. Gerald Dunford was to bring me in some whisky from Indian River. His car broke down, and he obtained horses to bring it in.

In the Bushes.

"I told Dunford to put the whisky in some bushes, because I thought Dunford was going to sell it to somebody else. He put it in the bushes. I intended to tell Sullivan where the whisky was, but Sullivan later said I stole it. That made me angry, and then I decided to steal it. I moved it to another spot, but I am under the impression that Sullivan and Dunford came along and looked for it and stole it again. When Sullivan asked me to steal the whisky at Moore's house. I told him that I didn't believe that he could get police protection. If I believed it, I would have gone and stolen it. Sullivan said that Newhall and Ernest Taylor arranged between themselves for police protection."

"Did you ever try to get police protection from Detective Newhall?"

"No, I wish I could: but I was always afraid to approach him."

The Court then adjourned for lunch.

the improved taste and artistic skill of the decorators. This was another of the gratifying features at the fair. Every available space in the Main building was taken up, and throughout the grounds numerous exhibits were to be found with attractive and enterprising displays.

It was generally admitted by those in charge of the special exhibits that the publicity given their goods was well worth the trouble and expense of exhibiting. The results, both in sales and in good prospects secured, proved the Peterborough Industrial to be a far-reaching means of advertising.

MUSICAL EXHIBIT BY "HEINTZMAN HALL"

Leading men are taking greater interest in music since the war. It has been clearly seen that if people are to "carry on" in civil life they must have more and more music to sweeten their lives and brighten their labor. And the truth of this fact is nowhere more apparent than in Peterborough.

That music has a utilitarian as well as an esthetic side has been proved daily since the beginning of the great war, and authorities have sufficiently recognized this fact to put it to practical aplication. During this period of past-war reconstruction, so much talked about, it is well that the public attention be drawn to the fact that music is a healer. The utilitarian part of music is very plain in hospitals, where it has been employed for some time to alleviate pain, to soothe troubled minds and to help generally in the healing process. Doctors have everywhere discovered during the past four years or so that music can be used to calm excitable patients sufficiently, previous to an operation, to allow of their work being carried out with greater ease, and with benefit to the patient. All that is required is a sympathetic pianist with a properly tuned instrument or a good phonograph and well chosen records, an operator who is something of a musician, and shortly the use value of music becomes apparent.

It is just through such means that many a weary day in the sickroom may be passed; many a lonely vigil lightened. Music is helping to cure shell-shock and nervousness, and is restoring lost memories. It is refreshment to a tired and war-worn world. It is the universal language understood by all, the one great art that is loved by rich and poor alike the art that is deserving of most whole-hearted support.

These thoughts were suggested by the splendid musical display made by "Heintzman Hall", Peterborough, Royal Bank Building, Hunter street. This outstanding exhibit of pianos, victrolas, records and other musical instruments and accessories drew large crowds of visitors and the musical recitals which were given during the day proved to be drawing attractions.

The high position and prestige of Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co. piano to-day is an evolution of the past sixty years. And it can be said that because of their excellence, these pianos have obtained a pre-eminence that marks them among the unrivalled. One of the best local evidences of the firm's progress is the remarkably growing success of Peterborough's Heintzman Hall, and under the new management of Mr. W. Lawson, this growth is being steadily maintained.

The samples chosen for this display were one beautiful "Louis" style upright grand Heintzman and Co., piano; one Morris upright piano, one Player piano, which was in acquisition in the Ladies Department, one handsome Cabinet Victrola and one attractive Brunswick Victrola. The decorations in the exhibit were in harmony with the handsome display and furnished appropriate backgrounds for the musical setting.

The reputation made by Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., piano is due above all else to its remarkable individuality of tone—whilst it is none the less noted for its beautiful touch and durablity. The preference shown the Heintzman & Co., instrument for concert work is affirmed to be good evidence of its superiority for producing the best results in the domain of Opera Houses and Concert Halls, proof of which was shown by the installing of a powerful "Classic" Heintzman & Co. piano in the Grand by the Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons

In addition to the pianos exhibited there were also shown several handsome types of Victor Victrolas and Baby Grand Sonoras. The handsome cabinet effects of these popular phonographs, "clear as a bell," won the attention of crowds of visitors.

The exhibit was in charge of several of Heintzman Hall's enthusiastic salesman and other members of the local staff. The firms city showrooms, Heintzman Hall, Royal Bank Building, corner George and Hunter streets, are open evenings. A hearty welcome awaits all visitors here.

In the Cressman Clothes Shop

We wish to impress on you the fact that we have made a superhuman effort this season to stock clothing of a quality that cannot be surpassed on this continent.

Garments from the Cressman Clothes Shop have always been highly regarded even by our competitors. But this season our showing of overcoats has exceeded our most sanguine expectations, and we feel sure that when you have seen our display you will agree with us that they leave very little to be desired, even by the most fastidious. You would be doing yourself an injury were you to make your selections for the coming season without examining our showing, as we have embodied, especially in our young men's goods, everything essential to produce that snappy effect so much desired by the young men of to-day.

We, therefore, ask you to inspect our stock—it will pay you.

Suits and Overcoats from $18.00 to $50.00.

REV. CANON DAVIDSON MAKES A PLEA FOR CONSECRATED SABBATH

TOO MANY MATERIAL INTERESTS INTRUDE ON THE SABBATH—EVENING SERVICE AT ST. JOHN'S.

The Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson's sermon at St. John's Anglican church last evening took up the value of the keeping of the Sabbath from a new and practical angle. In opening Canon Davidson stated that we were living in a strenuous age. It seemed that every man was constantly exerting himself to the utmost. The temperament of the people was becoming more nervous and we seemed to be unable to relax and rest. Many people were even unable to listen to a sermon for more than half an hour.

The speaker then pointed out that the Bible said "for six days shalt thou labour and do all thy work." The seventh day was to be reserved for relaxation. No worries or work day interests should be allowed to intrude on the Sabbath. It was meant that it should be a day in which we were to obtain rest through the worship of God by taking the mind from its ordinary sphere into the sphere of things spiritual. We would then be refreshed and invigorated for our week's work. This was especially applicable to Peterborough, where practically the entire population worked.

A greater interest in the service of the church would better a man materially as well as spiritually for the change from the atmosphere of business would be refreshing to his mind. When Sunday was counted a day for work or recreation, in the ordinary sense of the word, a great mistake was being made the Canon believed.

VERA LAVELL GETS LIBERTY

CONCORD, Ont., Sept. 15. — Vera de Lavelle, who was sentenced on July 24th to 60 days for aiding and abetting" the escape of the late Frank McCullough, the murderer of Detective Frank Williams, left the jail farm here on Saturday, a free woman.

On account of her good conduct, the Lavelle woman received five days off each month.

Miss Lavelle has been employed as a cook on the kitchen staff, and according to the matron, proved herself to be a good cook. Miss Lavelle intimated to the matron that a friend would meet her and take her to Toronto.

BOY SCOUTS ON WEEK-END HIKE

(Contributed.)

On Saturday afternoon the third troop of Scouts started out from Trinity School room, at 1.30 p.m., for a hike. All the boys enjoyed a good game of scouting at Nassau, they then started for home at 7.15 p.m. When they got as far as the Peterboro Street Railway news was broken to them that two young lads had got lost while on a fishing trip.

The boys started to render assistance, some of them not going with the hunting party; some eight boys boarded a street car to get consent from their parents to wheel back to their camp where they had been during the afternoon, to sleep, and they got it, and you can bet they had a good night of it. They landed back at the camp at 10.45 p.m. The first thing they did was to light a fire and get a drink of something hot—and they got it. Then up went the tent, which was kindly loaned to them, and all went well, with a good line of camp songs. Then all got sleepy and tucked in.

All went well until the sweet voice of a rooster was heard and everyone wanted to wring its neck, but they thought of their 6th Scout law "A Scout is a friend to animals," so they all turned over and went to sleep until 7 a.m. on Sunday morning.

Breakfast then followed, then a spin on their wheels for an eye opener. All was quiet until about 10.30, when they were visited by a few folks from the city. They spent a very enjoyable day with the boys till they broke camp at 6.30 p.m., to start for home.

GOES 25 MILES FOR MORE TANLAC

FARMER SAYS IT RESTORED WIFE'S HEALTH AFTER HE HAD SPENT HUNDREDS IN VAIN

"Well, sir, it is twenty-five miles from here to where I live, and I came all that distance just to get some Tanlac," said W. M. Nance, a well known and prosperous farmer who lives at Irricana, Alberta, Canada, while in the Liggett-Findlay Drug Store in Calgary, the other day.

"You just ought to see the way this Tanlac has brought my wife out," continued Mr. Nance, "and here of late I have been feeling mighty bad myself, so I thought about the best thing I could do was to get started on Tanlac as quickly as possible. Now, my wife's trouble was of five years' standing, and during that time I spent hundreds of dollars trying to get something that would help her, but it was just that much money thrown away. She had a bad case of stomach trouble, and everything she ate would cause gas to form, so bad that she could hardly get a good breath. Then she was so nervous and restless that she couldn't sleep at night. She also suffered from headaches, and sometimes she would get so dizzy that she couldn't stand on her feet. She just kept getting worse all the time until she was just past going altogether.

"Well, I noticed that Tanlac was highly recommended for that kind of trouble, so I bought a bottle of it and she commenced taking it. In all my life I never saw anything to equal the way my wife improved after she commenced taking Tanlac. Why, she has gained at least fifteen pounds in weight and is as well and hearty as she ever was in her life. She has a fine appetite, and eats just anything she wants and she never suffers a particle afterwards. She does all her housework now, and it doesn't seem to tire her a particle. Now, that is what Tanlac did for my wife, and when I commenced to go down hill a short time ago, Tanlac was the first thing I thought about, and after seeing what it did for my wife, I am sure that it will soon put me on my feet. Yes, sir, Tanlac is a real medicine and you may count on me to say a good word for it every chance I have."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd; in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

HOG BUYERS TALK OF $15 LEVEL SOON

Bradstreet's Reports Lower Prices—Merchants' Business Good

Reports Bradstreet's that the cattle and hog markets are more of less demoralized as compared with the heavy demands and high prices of July and August. Hog buyers are talking about a $15 level to be brought about in course of another 3 or 4 weeks. Cattle prices are also dropping considerably, though not as much as in the case of hogs. Apart from these declining prices, the farmers are better satisfied than they expected to be. Winter feeds are not anything like as scarce as expected. Retail trade is keeping up well and in a few cases is decidedly ahead of last year. Collections are in very good shape. Travellers returning from their first trips through the country since the holidays say that merchants are buying very freely.

PEACE TREATY IS UP BEFORE SENATE TO-DAY

THE VOTE ON FIRST AMENDMENT WILL BE A TEST OF VOTING STRENGTH

AN ORGANIZATION

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — (By L. C. Martin.)—Consideration of the Treaty of Peace will begin in the United States Senate to-day at 2 p.m. Chairman Lodge, of the Foreign Relations Committee, expected to call up the pact, and the reading of it with the debate will probably start immediately.

The amendment first to be reached will be one giving the United States the same number of votes as Great Britain in the League of Nations. The vote on this change, which was adopted by the Foreign Relations Committee, is expected to furnish a test as to whether any of the amendments can command a majority of the Senate. Reservations to the League of Nations will not come until after the textual amendments are disposed of. On these there will be a different line-up. While the Treaty opponents admit there is doubt about their ability to pass the amendments they declare that reservations of some sort are certain.

Whether these reservations will be mild or strong, they declare, depends on the outcome of the conference now on between the Mild Reservationists and Senator Lodge, who is for those framed by the Foreign Relations Committee.

Treaty supporters to-day saw new strength added to their cause in a committee of 250 leading Republicans and Democrats, formed to bring about an unqualified ratification. The organization of this committee from the prominent men of forty states was announced by the League to enforce peace.

FIRES RAGE AT STANDARD OIL COMPANY'S PLANT

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. — Raging fires, from which giant smoke clouds poured, still burned at the plant of the Standard Oil Co. in Brooklyn to-day, where thirty tanks of oil and by-products already have been destroyed. The damage will reach many millions.

The fire started shortly after noon Saturday.

Lubowitz's estate at Raudnitz, was confiscated. Several of his relatives and friends were arrested.

DROVE 65 MILES TO PETERBORO' MARKET

Passing several markets on the way, Robert Johnston, a Haliburton farmer living several miles beyond Minden, drove sixty-five miles to Peterboro on Friday and Saturday to sell eighteen small pigs. He was two days on the road coming by way of Bobcaygeon, and would likewise be two days returning. Driving all the way he would travel 130 miles in the four days. Mr. Johnston was quoting $9 each for his pigs on Saturday morning.

M. CLEMENCEAU'S LATEST "MOT."

Another piece of M. Clemenceau's wit is delighting the town. At a meeting of the Inter-Allied Committee last week there was a question what time they would resume in the afternoon. Signor Tittoni did not want it too early, because he liked to have his siesta early in the afternoon. Mr. Lansing did not want it too late, for he wanted to have his drive in the Bois and then his siesta before dinner. M. Clemenceau then summed up. "The meeting will be at three," he said. "Signor Tittoni can sleep before it, Mr. Lansing can sleep after it, and Mr. Balfour and I can sleep during it."

BONES OF ANIMAL FOUND IN COFFIN

Buried For Those of Farmer Thought to Have Been Burned to Death.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18. — Burnt and charred bones of a dog or some other animal were discovered in the coffin of J. Dubeau, a farmer of St. Malachie, near Ormstown, who was burnt to death when his home was destroyed by fire on July 11th.

Coroner Trepanier had been ordered by the Attorney-General to re-open the inquest and the body was exhumed. On opening the coffin it was found that there were bones which seemed to be those of animals as well as those of a human being. These were at once sent to Montreal, where Dr. Drome, the coroner's court, medical expert here, decided that all were the bones of animals. Immediately Chief Lorraine and his men set to work to try and discover the body of the victim.

Dubeau is supposed to have remained alone in his house on the night of July 10th after a quarrel with his wife and a man friend. The two later went to another house where Mrs. Dubeau slept and the friend watched outside. The latter is being held by the police.

U. F. O. AND LABOUR REPRESENTATIVES INVITED TO FRIDAY NIGHT'S MEETING

MAYOR McBRIDE, OF BRANTFORD, WILL GIVE AN ADDRESS TOUCHING UPON QUESTION OF GRATUITY FOR VETERANS—PLACE OF MEETING NOT SELECTED YET

UNDER I. L. P. AUSPICES

Mayor McBride of Brantford will address a public meeting in Peterboro next Friday night under the auspices of the Independent Labour Party. Mr. E. McDonald, the U. F. O. candidate for the Legislature in East Peterboro, has also promised to attend; together with Mr. Robert Scott of Smith Township, and other representative farmers. The Trades Unions of this city are being invited, and all those citizens who are interested in the alignment of the United Farmers and Labour for political purposes, will be cordially welcomed.

Mayor McBride will discuss the question of the proposed gratuities for Veterans, and, it is understood, will indicate how the money required for this fund can be raised. It is therefore expected that many local returned men will attend Friday night's meeting.

The arrangements are, as yet incomplete, but the promoters of this event are confident of a large attendance of Veterans, Labour men, farmers and other citizens. An assembly hall has not yet been decided upon, but this announcement will be made shortly.

This is the first of the Independent Labour Party's activities in Peterboro since last spring, and in Mayor McBride they offer the successful representative of Labour in Brantford, whose administration has been marked by the efficient conduct of a municipal coal yard and other enterprises for the advantage of all his fellow citizens.

FLOUR SHOULD BE LESS THAN $11 PER BARREL

Wheat Board Warns Toronto Dealers to Reduce Price Immediately.

According to a statement issued by the Canadian Wheat Board to the Canadian Press Limited, retailers in Toronto should be able to sell flour under $11 per barrel. The Board warns retailers that unless prices are not reduced to this level immediately, measures will be adopted to bring them down.

The statement follows:

"At the time the Board was created the wholesale price of winter wheat flour was $10.50 per barrel and over, while to-day's price as quoted in the newspapers, is $9.40. Notwithstanding a decline in the wholesale price of flour we still find there is no apparent reduction to the consumer, as the average retail prices quoted us to-day are $12.00 and $12.30 per barrel in half barrel sacks, and as high as $14.00 in seven pound packages, or a spread between the wholesale, and retail prices of from $2.60 to $4.60, which in the latter case, includes the additional cost of providing smaller packages.

The maximum wholesale price now allowed by the Board for winter wheat flour is $9.95 in Toronto or $10.10 in Montreal. It is the opinion of the Canadian wheat Board that the consumer should be able to buy his flour in Toronto under $11.00 per barrel, which would allow a reasonable profit to the retailer, and if the prices do not come down at once to this level it is the intention of the Board to adopt measures to bring them down, if necessary establishing flour-selling depots."

SICKLY WOMEN GIVEN STRENGTH, SPIRITS

Many of the woes of womanhood, are due to kidney weakness.

At first the back aches.

Then pains gather around the hips and lodge right in the small of the back.

To stoop or bend seems impossible. Headaches are constant.

Unhappy existence. No pleasure in life when the body is overloaded with poisons that the sick kidneys can't filter out.

Bright's disease is the next stage, but it can be prevented by using Dr. Hamilton's Pills of (Mandrake and Butternut). They cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

This means nourishment and strength for the whole body.

Bac-aches and dragging pains are forgotten. Irregularities disappear, vital energy is restored, and happy, robust health is once more established.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills for women's ills is the slogan of thousands today.

Enormous benefit in many ways follow their use, and no woman or girl can use medicine that will do their general health more good.

For the sake of your kidneys, for the sake of your liver, for the advancement of your general well-being, you can't improve on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box.

MAJOR DUNCAN WILL BE COMMISSIONER ON TORONTO BOARD

TORONTO, Sept. 15. — W. F. O'Connor, K. C. of the Board of Commerce, announced on Saturday, the appointment of Major Lewis Duncan, M. C., as sub-commissioner of the Board in Toronto. Major Duncan is a barrister and was D.A.A.G. with the 2nd Canadian Division in France. He will receive all complaints and communications in reference to food prices in Toronto and co-operate with the police and Attorney-General in securing redress for the public.

"You are only setting up a structure which is likely to come tumbling down," said W. F. O'Connor, K. C., Vice-chairman of the Food Board, when R. A. Reid gave certain data before him at the city hall to show that in his opinion the price of sugar could cost shortly 13 or 14 cents a pound. Mr. Reid referred to the high prices for raw material in the West Indies.

O'Connor Gives Flat Denial.

"I want to show that sugar will cost 13 to 14 cents," said Mr. Reid.

"Then I want to deny that," said Mr. O'Connor. "This Board would immediately order that sugar from the British West Indies be not allowed into the country."

Mr. Reid said that the Cuban price had been fixed at $6.25. "For the purpose or argument I deny that," said Mr. O'Connor.

"How do you prove that?"

"I don't want to tell you the source of my information," replied Mr. Reid.

Mr. O'Connor said that the price would depend on a munificent providence. Mr. Reid said that the price had already been fixed and that the price to the refiner would reach $10.95 by the time the sugar got there. He gave figures to show how this was made up.

Says Figures are Unreliable.

"Your figures are totally unreliable, replied the commissioner.

Mr. O'Connor said that the refiners' profit was about 1-5 of a cent, and that under the board order it was limited to 2-5 of a cent.

Mr. O'Connor denied that there was a combination among the sugar producers and the refineries.

Mr. Reid said that one company was trying to get control of the whole market, but this Mr. O'Connor denied.

So far as going into the company's books was concerned, they would not disclose costs. So far as what was happening in Cuba and elsewhere they had no control over it.

"The things that you are raising are simply bogies said the commissioner at the conclusion of the hearing.

Policemen Decide to Go Back to Work, But They Are Called Deserters.

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Mass, Sept. 18. — Although the striking police last night voted to return to duty on the standing they had before the strike, Police Commissioner Curtis has notified the Police Department officials that none of the strikers may return "under any circumstances."

With Governor Coolidge and Commissioner Curtis strongly opposed to reinstatement of any of the police on the ground that in leaving their posts they became deserters, it was considered unlikely that the authorities would grant concessions.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Large Number of Men Placed—35 Bureaus.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 18.— Much of the unemployment in Ontario is purely voluntary at the present time, according to H. C. Hudson, General Superintendent of the Ontario Government Employment Bureaus, An intensive plan of selling the bureau employment service has been launched and is meeting with results that show a far greater demand for workers than the available supply. The average number of placements per week in Ontario is approximately 2,500, the work being carried on through the medium of 35 bureaus established throughout the province.

ANIMALS THAT BLUSH

In spite of the admiration expressed by poets for a blush, it is after all only a rush of blood to the face, caused by modesty or some other emotion. Animals blush, too, through fear, but the poets say nothing about them.

Horses blush in their ears, especially the left one. When a horse is frightened, and his left ear will be found to be very much swollen. This is also the case with rabbits.

Cows and similar animals blush just above the hoof, while the dog uses his tail for this purpose. When a dog is frightened his tail hangs limp, as he has lost all control over it.

Even insects blush. They do it in their antennae, or feelers.

PETES END THE SEASON BY BEATING BELLEVILLE 10-5

CHAMPS WERE WITHOUT GOYER AND RIGHT-HANDER FAILED TO HOLD HOME BRIGADE IN CHECK—PETES HAD TO COME FROM BEHIND TO WIN THE DECISION

In the last home game of the season the Petes beat the Belleville Central League outfit at Riverside Park on Saturday by 10 runs to 5, coming from behind to turn the trick. At one stage the champs were ahead 5 to 1, but the Petes tied it up in the fifth and won out by hammering five runs across in the eighth session. Belleville were without the services of Goyer, their left-handed pitching ace, and although Kellegher, a right-hander, proved a capable substitute, holding the Petes to four scattered singles in the first seven innings, he weakened on end, and the home brigade broke through his service in the eight, bunching six hits for a quintette of runs.

Kirn was on the rubber for the Petes, and outside of the third innings, when the visitors bunched three hits, with three errors, for a total of four runs, got by in fine style, striking out eleven of the champs and refusing to hand out a pass.

The fielding feature was supplied by Murray, whose perfect throw to third in the eighth drew the biggest hand of the afternoon. With two out Morden had singled and Ross followed with a safety to right. Morden set sail for third but Murray lined the ball into Holyman's hands in time to catch the runner by a yard. The score was tied at the time and the play was a life-saver.

First Innings.

Belleville—Weir fanned. Simmons grounded to Ray Rose. Gerow singled over second. Holyman threw out Mills. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough—Cherret grounded to Kelegher. Holyman was hit. Ray Rose tapped to Hagerman, forcing Holyman at second. Rose wandered off first and was tagged out. No runs, hits, or errors.

Second Innings.

Belleville—Hagerman grounded to Jackson. Morden and Ross, struck out. No runs, hits, or errors.

Peterborough—Swanston rolled to Gerow. Jackson missed three. Murray fouled out to Mills. No runs, hits or errors.

Third Innings.

Belleville—Whelan was safe on Ray Rose's fumble. Kellegher singled to left. Weir bounced a double over third, scoring Whelan and sending Kellegher to third. Simmons fanned. Gerow "squeezed" Kellegher home with a neat bunt to Jackson, the throw to the plate being late. Weir scored on Swanston's wild throw to third. Mills singled to centre, scoring Gerow and going to second, when Heenan let the roller get away. Holyman tossed Hagerman out and Morden fanned. Four runs, three hits, three errors.

Peterborough — L. Rose walked. Heenan beat out a roller to Gerow, and the two moved up on passed ball. Rose scored on Kirn's grounder, beating the throw to the plate. Cherrett hit to Simmons, who tagged third, forcing Heenan and then forced Kirn at second. Cherrett stole second. Holyman fanned. One run, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

Peterborough—R. Rose grounded to Weir. Simmons threw out Swanston. Jackson fanned. No runs, hits, or errors.

Fifth Innings.

Peterborough—Murray singled over second. L. Rose walked, and the pair moved up on Heenan's sacrifice. Weir dropped Kirn's fly back of third and everyone was safe, Murray scoring Cherrett singled to centre, scoring L. Rose. The runners advanced on a passed ball. Holyman popped to Gerow. Ray Rose hit to Weir and was safe when the short-stop's peg putted Gerow off the bag, Kirn and Cherrett scoring. Swanston grounded to Simmons. Four runs, two hits, two errors.

Sixth Innings.

Belleville—Ross lined into Kirn's hands. Holyman made a good play on Whelan's grounder. Kellegher flied to Heenan. No runs, hits, or errors.

Peterborough—Weir threw out Jackson. Murray struck out. L. Rose flied to Morden. No runs, hits, or errors.

Seventh Innings.

Belleville—Ray Rose tossed out Weir. Simmons was safe on Holyman's fumble. Gerow struck out and Swanston doubled Simmons off first. No runs or hits, one error.

Peterborough—McCarney, replacing Heenan, rolled to Gerow. Kirn singled to third. Cherrett sacrificed. Kellegher to Gerow. Holyman grounded to third. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Peterborough—R. Rose flied to left. Swanston doubled to centre. Jackson singled to left, scoring Swanston and went round to third on Whelan's bad throw to the plate. He scored a moment later when Mills made a poor toss to third. Murray beat out a bunt and L. Rose singled to third. McCarney sacrificed them along. Kirn doubled past third, scoring Murray and Rose. Cherrett singled to right, scoring Kirn. Cherrett was caught between first and second. Five runs, six hits, two errors.

Ninth Innings.

MAURICE TOURNEUR'S GREAT PARAMOUNT-ART-CRAFT SPECIAL PICTURE "SPORTING LIFE"

Production is a Picturization of the Famous Drury Lane Melodrama, Which Was All the Rage Twenty Years and Which Deals With Sporting Life in England.

The first photoplay produced by Maurice Tourneur, the famous director, under his own management and by his own producing organization, will be shown at the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow. It is "Sporting Life," a superb picturization of the famous Drury Lane melodrama which has held the stage in this country and in England for more than twenty years. The photoplay was admirably produced and is scored an instantaneous and decisive hit.

"Let's have another round."
MAURICE TOURNEUR presents "SPORTING LIFE"
A Paramount-Artcraft Special

The scenes of the photoplay are located in England. Harassed by debt, John, Earl of Woodstock, conceives two plans by which he may regain his financial standing and make a fortune. A thorough sportsman, he is interested in boxing and he wagers huge sums on Joe Lee, a gypsy boxer, and upon his horse, Lady Love, to win the Derby. His sworn enemy, De Cateret, determines to ruin the Earl by frustrating both chances open to him to become wealthy.

He forces his wife Olive to attempt to make Joe Lee cease training for his ring fight. Kitty Cavanaugh, daughter of the Earl's head trainer, loves Lee not wisely but too well and when Olive begins to draw Lee into her toils, she runs away to London where she attempts suicide. Olive arranges to have Lee drugged by Kitty's father just as he steps into the ring and this plan might have succeeded in ruining the Earl had he not entered the ring himself and fought a winning battle to a victorious finish.

De Cateret decides to steal Lady Love and thereby disqualify the Earl at the Derby and to render this doubly sure, he causes the Earl to be kidnapped and held a prisoner aboard an old ferry boat. Norah Cavanagh, the fiancee of the Earl, learns of the kidnapping of the Earl and his horse and she sets the machinery in operation by which both are rescued in time for the great race which Lady Love wins, despite the fact that the mare is nearly left at the post. De Cateret is ruined while the Earl's fortune is restored. All ends happily for the Earl and Norah, and while Lee makes amends to Kitty, the former celebrate their nuptials.

The photoplay is filled with stirring action from start to finish, and there are numerous splendidly photographed scenes. It teems with suspensive interest, the villains being constantly foiled at the eleventh hour. Excellent views are shown of the Earl of Woodstock's country seat, the Gypsy camp, racing stables, yally-hos, the National Sporting Club of London and last, a genuine picture of the famous English Derby at Epsom.

Ralph Graves as the Earl of Woodstock, is excellent. Constance Binney as Norah Cavanagh, and Fair Binney as Kitty, prove delightful in their portrayals. Willette Kershaw, as Olive de Cateret, wife of the arch villain of the story, is eminently artistic in her arduous characterization. The exacting role of Malet de Cateret is capably delineated by Charles Craig, while Warner Richmond as Joe Lee, a prize fighter, is quite acceptable.

It may safely be said that this photoplay, which has been so well done as to make you forget everything as you follow the fortunes of the principals in the story, will be hailed as one of the finest pictures produced in this country in many years. Great credit is due Mr. Tourneur for the good taste he has displayed in the presentation.

Mr. Maurice Rosenthal, the local manager of the Allen Theatre personally recommends this superb photoplay to his many friends and clientele.

THE GREAT BLACKSTONE WORLD'S MASTER MAGICIAN

The Great Blackstone, the only magician who rivals Kellar, Herrman, and Houdini will appear at the Grand Friday and Saturday, with a matinee Saturday. He is different from any other magician that ever visited Peterborough, eliminating all reference to himself he gets right down to business, conducting the audience through an exhibition of magic slight-of-hand, mystery, spiritualistic, seance, mental telepathy and aerial disappearance that is not and cannot be duplicated by any other living performer. For two hours he stages a show with a strong supporting company that leaves not the slighest opportunity for objection or adverse criticism, but which permits the only verdict, "the show was good and he was great." His features of human creation where no humans seemingly exist, of making bodies disappear right under the eyes of spectators are marvelous in the extreme.

NORMA TALMADGE HAS RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

Norma Talmadge, the charming Select star presented by Joseph M. Schenck, who will be seen in her latest picture, "The Probation Wife," today, Tuesday and Wednesday, at the Grand Theatre, has installed a new department in her studios, which is called the Department of Research.

Elsa Lopez, who for the past three years has been associated with D. W. Griffith as a title-writer and research-worker, has taken charge of this new department.

Norma Talmadge believes that at present producers do not, as a rule, lay enough stress on careful accuracy of detail and artistic nicety. In the four to six weeks which constitute the average amount of time allotted to the making of a picture, the director has about all he can do to concentrate on the story and guide the players in the interpretation of their parts. It would be an enormous help to him to have some one always at call who could spend hours at the library looking up the correct costume for 1673, the particular ceremonies of a particular Indian tribe's war dance, the type of minuet danced at the court of Louis XVI, etc.; some one who could bring him the drawing of a Russian interior of a peasant's hut on a day's notice, and always know authoritatively about costumes, furniture, etiquette of different peoples of foreign countries, and all the hundreds and one othr things which are too frequently slar-and all the hundreds and one other wise careful picture in the hope that the public won't notice it. So Norma Talmadge has instituted such a department and hereafter her pitcures will be correct in every detail of production.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

MY SOLDIER GIRL.

"My Soldier Girl," the first musical comdey of the season, was the attaretion of the Grand on Saturday for matinee and night performance, the house being crowded in the evening. The production proved a snappy, quick-moving and up-to-the minute entertainment, with a couple of really funny comedians, a scate of principals who could sing and a well-trained and attractive chorus. The plot, of course, was of the usual musical comedy thinness, but with all the other features already mentioned, who wants a plot anyway? Billy Moora in a black-face role, was responsible for almost continuous laughter when he was on the stage and he was admirably assisted by Billy Murphy, a comedian of the "nut" type, who also scored a big hit. The latter's song, "I Saved Up For a Dry Day," an obvious reference to the aridness of the present times, was one of the gems among the song numbers.

Miss Dorothy Garrigue was charming in the title role and Miss Maude Baxter displayed a remarkably clear, powerful and true soprano, her song numbers being a decided addition to the programme. Miss Garrigue and Leslie Jones danced nicely.

The catoumes were new and bright and the scenic investiture lavish. An illuminated runway gave the audience a chanec to see the chorus at close range, and they stood inspection too. Altogether it was a worth-while production.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. The regular mid-week service will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

A DATE PRE-EMPTED.
Tuesday, Oct. 13th.

When the Chautauqua was in Peterborough, no speaker was heard with more enthusiastic appreciation than was Dr. George Adam, who, as the close friend of Hon. Lloyd George, lectured on his life. Mr. H. G. Webber, the president of the Men's Association of Murray street Baptist church, is our authority for the announcement that his Association will introduce Dr. Adam again to Peterborough when he will lecture on the subject, "My Experience With Harry Lauder in the Trenches," on Tuesday evening, Oct. 13th.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES HENDERSON

The funeral of Susan Mark daughter of the late Keaward Mark and wife of Mr. James E. Henderson took place this afternoon from her late residence, 207 Perry street to Little Lake cemetery. The deceased who was a well known and highly respected citizen passed away at noon on Saturday. She had been ailing for some time but the end came somewhat unexpectedly. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Birdie at home, one son, Mr. W. George Henderson in Peterboro and two sisters, Mrs. W. L. Coon of Edmonton, Alta., and Mrs. John Henderson, Maple Creek, and one brother James in McCreary, Manitoba. Mrs. Henderson had been a resident of Peterboro for the past fifteen years.

A CONVENTION FOR PETERBOROUGH

Fire Chief Grange is trying to get the Fire Chief's convention to meet in the city. During his recent trip to the west, the Chief was much impressed by the enterprise of the west in securing conventions in their cities, and would like his home town to wake up to the possibilities she possesses.

For 1920 the International Convention is scheduled for Toronto, and the Dominion for St. Thomas; the succeeding year, according to custom, the conventions must be held in the West but the Chief hopes to have the next Eastern meet in this city.

CHALLENGE HAS BEEN ACCEPTED

"Irish" Jordan will meet a Man from Buffalo.

The challenge of "Irish" Jordan, a local pugilist, has been accepted by a mit artist from Buffalo, and the two will be seen in action here on Thursday evening. The main bout of the evening will be between Cattle and Brompton who met here a couple of weeks ago in a fast ten round mill.

The local end of the card will reveal some good talent and a big programme is promised the boxing fans.

STOCK MARKETS

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. — Prices were up at the Stock Market opening to-day. U. S. Steel opened at 105 3-4 up 1; Studebaker at 117 1-2 up 1 1-4; Mexican Petroleum at 211 1-2 up 2 3-4; and U. R. Stores at 105 up 1 7-8. Other leading issues were up in proportion. In the oil division, Pan-American ex div. opened at 123 1-2, or equivalent of 125, with dividend on. This is a new high record. Royal D. made a new high at 99 3-4. Baldwin made a new high for the year at 138 1-2 up 4.

Baldwin, after touching 139 1-4, receded two points, and Steel followed with a loss of 1 point, while Studebaker was off 2, after reaching 121 during the first hour.

In the early afternoon oils made new high for the day. Doheny stocks were particularly strong and Mexican Pet. sold at 217½. The market absorbed the early selling with little difficulty.

The market closed easy. Mexican Pet., which got above 220 on a large turnover, featured late trading. Pan-American also went into new high ground for the day. The rest of the list was somewhat easier, although there was no real weakness in any direction. General Motors was off 4 points from early high. A flurry in rails early in the afternoon soon disappeared.

MARTIAL LAW MAY BE PROCLAIMED IN DUBLIN

LICENSE INSPECTOR JOS. STEWART TELLS OF THE DISAPPEARANCE OF LIQUOR

INQUIRY RESUMED THIS MORNING BEFORE THE BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

THE EVIDENCE

On the second day of the Police Commission investigation, Mr. Dan O'Connell, counsel for Mr. Joseph Stewart, related to the court a number of statements made to him by his client in regard to at least two seizures of liquor which were taken to the police station and later conveyed to Chief Thompson's home which, Mr. Stewart said, was for the Chief's own use. Further, his client stated that Detective Newhall, P. C. Boyd and Sergt. Blade passed scurrilous remarks on the street regarding the License Inspector, and that generally there was considerable friction between the police and Mr. Stewart.

Again Mr. R. R. Hall demanded that a charge be made so that the court could have something to work on.

Mr. Stewart Examined.

The examination of License Inspector Joseph Stewart by Mr. R. R. Hall, which began at 10.30 o'clock lasted until noon. Mr. O'Connell first examined Mr. Stewart regarding the allegation that Chief Thompson converted a number of seizures of liquor to his own use.

Levasseur was fined $300 for having 24 bottles of lager beer in his possession. Sergt. Kidd, then of the local police force, said the "goods" was sent to the Chief's house. He asked the Chief why he sent the liquor to his house and the Chief replied that Mrs. Thompson was not feeling well. This was Mr. Stewart's own evidence.

Again he told of liquor which he seized at the C.P.R. freight sheds, and addressed to summer residents at Chemong. He lost the case and under the O.T.A. must return the liquor. It was put under lock and key at the police station. He found that some of the Chemong residents had obtained their consignments from the police station. He received a letter from O'Keefe's, Toronto, asking that the liquor be returned. He went to the police station and found that one of the boxes was empty and the other box contained only four bottles, but full of water. The Chief explained that a number of jurymen had broken in and stolen it. Later the Chief asked him to say nothing about it. Sergt. Brown informed Stewart that Chief Thompson knew all about it. When the Chief was going hunting last fall, a carter was sent to the police station (presumably by the Chief) and came out with a number of bags which rattled as if they contained a number of bottles. This was in the year 1916. The Chief said he would replace the bottles, which he did.

A Similar Case.

After a similar case on the part of the Chief, Mr. Stewart went to the Chief's office in regard to the affair and the Chief threatened him and said he would smash his face. That he had been meddling in his affairs.

At this juncture Mr. Dumble objected to the scope of the investigation broadening beyond the statement of Hamilton, but Chief Thompson made a special request that the whole affair be heard.

"When I left," continued Mr. Stewart, "the Chief told me not to come back, but I replied that I would return where my duty called me."

Mr. R. R. Hall again remonstrated against the generality of Mr. Stewart's charges of scurillous remarks being passed on the streets by some of the policemen, as Mr. Stewart said he could not recall any of the remarks.

"Give us a particular instance," asked Mr. O'Connell.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street. dtf

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENS BOSTON

SYMPATHY WITH THE STRIKING POLICEMEN OF THE CITY

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Sentiment in favour of a general strike in sympathy with the striking police was growing in Boston to-day. The United Hebrew Trades of the city with a total membership of 80,000 workers voted to walk out if the General Labour Union calls a general strike, it was officially announced. Other unions voting on the strike question gave unmistakable signs that they were in favour of such action. It was reported that a strike call would be left entirely to the discretion of the Central Labour Union.

AVIATORS HAD BUSY MORNING

EXAMINER REPRESENTATIVE TOOK AN AERIAL VIEW OF THE CITY

"I always wanted to fly, since I pinned chickens' feathers to my shoulders and jumped off the roof, and at last I have done it, and will do it again," was Mr. Fred Roy's comment on descending from a tour of the city in the Curtis plane this morning. He claims that he is now out for a purchaser of his car, and will immediately invest in an aeroplane.

All who made ascents to-day were agreeably surprised with the lack of terror felt on finding themselves a thousand feet above the ground, and to a man they expressed the vow that it would not be the last trip.

The ascent holds no terror for anyone. One passenger, in describing the trip, said that he did not know he had left the ground until he saw the trees and houses passing like a giant moving picture under him.

The distance from the city lends enchantment, and everything that is sordid and untidy is left behind. No citizen really knows his own town until he has viewed it from above and sees the enchanting view of the river winding through neatly laid out fields and the carefully laid out blocks in the city streets.

Many Passengers.

Miss Mabel Young, of the City Hall, and Mr. Parker were amongst the passengers of this morning's flights. So many entries were made for the afternoon that the aviators had a difficult time in finding time to accommodate them.

Miss C. Clementi, of the Examiner staff, was among the early morning passengers of Captain Salter.

HEAR SOUSA'S BAND TO-DAY

How often do you get the chance to hear the mighty brass band of Sousa as it goes speeding past? ITALIANS ARE SUPPRESSING THE REBELLION

BRITISH, AMERICAN AND FRENCH TROOPS WITHDRAWN FROM FIUME

SOLDIERS REJOIN THEIR REGIMENTS

(United Press.)

ROME, Sept. 16.—The Government's first move towards the suppression of Gabriele D'Annunzio's adventure in Fiume will be directed by General Bagadlic, deputy chief of staff. An official statement announced to-day that immediately upon his arrival in Fiume he would issue a proclamation inviting D'Annunzio's followers to return to their regiments. D'Annunzio's forces total 2,000, it was stated to-day, most of whom automatically followed their officers because they were told the Government approved of the Fiume coup. Government officials said to-day that several of the poet's followers already had returned to their regiments. The garrison at Fiume, it was added, has refused to join D'Annunzio. Information received by the Government to-day said that in an effort to excite public feeling, agitators at Fiume had circulated leaflets declaring the Nitti cabinet had resigned.

British and American troops have embarked from Fiume. The French contingent has returned to its base.

VISITORS VIEW THE MEMORIAL WINDOWS

WHAT THE THREE WINDOWS REPRESENT AND THE INSCRIPTIONS

The memorial windows placed in Trinity Church by His Honor Judge Huycke, and other members of his family, have already attracted visitors to the church, who are charmed with the exquisite beauty of these three works of art.

The windows were made to be placed in the church by the McCausland's, of Toronto. The three form a series. The first representing Infancy, is a copy of the Madonna and Child, by Raphael, in his famous "Sistine Madonna," which is in the Dresden gallery. The second, representing Boyhood, eager to learn, is a copy of the figure of the Christ in the Temple, from William Holman Hunt's famous painting, "The Finding of the Saviour in the Temple." The third, which represents the sacrifice of the clean young manhood in a great and worthy cause, is a section of a picture of the Christ, bearing His Cross.

These windows are real works of art and are a valuable addition to the church as well as a fitting memorial to the noble young man in whose memory they have been placed in the church where he worshipped during his boyhood years. A small brass tablet placed under the middle window bears the inscription:

"These small windows are in Loving Memory of Frederick
Arthur Huycke.
1897—1918."

In the north transept on the wall, behind the pew of His Honor Judge Huycke, a massive and beautiful Bronze Tablet has been placed by Mrs. Huycke, bearing the Coat of Arms of the Royal Air Force, and the following inscription—

IN MEMORIAM.

Frederick Arthur Huycke, Flight Lieutenant, 239th Squadron, Royal Air Force, formerly of R.N.A.S. and C.F.A., Honor Undergraduate of Toronto University; fourth youngest and beloved son of his honor Edward and Rose Huycke. He was born May 8th, 1897, missing Sept. 3rd, 1918. On that day he flew out from Torquay over the English Channel on a submarine patrol, and did not return.

"Thy way is in the sea and thy path in the great waters, and Thy footsteps are not known."—Psalm 77:19."

"If I lose myself I save myself."

At the impressive memorial service held on Sunday morning, Sept. 14th, in addition to the service reported yesterday, the following took part, Mrs. George H. King sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," and a beautiful Requiem composed by the senior Chaplain of the Navy. Captain Maurice Park sang "Peace, Perfect Peace," and Rev. H. M. Manning led in prayer.

HEAVY DEATH LIST DUE TO A HURRICANE

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY BODIES TAKEN FROM A REEF AT CORPUS CHRISTI IN TEXAS

THOUSAND PERSONS MADE HOMELESS

(Canadian Press.)

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Sept. 16.— Corpus Christi to-day began slowly emerging from the wreckage caused by a mild hurricane which struck the city early Sunday morning. It was impossible this morning to get anything like the correct estimate of the fatalities in the city proper. The death list was placed by some officials at between fifteen and twenty-five, but that was regarded by many as far too conservative. In some quarters, it was said the number injured would exceed 200. One report in circulation to-day was that 120 bodies, most of them recognized as residents of Corpus Christi, had been taken from the reef of Nueces Bay.

More than three thousand persons were made homeless by the storm.

Fears are entertained that a heavy casualty list will be reported from the surrounding towns, several of which were directly in the path of the storm.

The storm sent a tidal wave ten feet high over the business and north beach districts of the city. That the loss of life was not appalling was due a prompt warning sent out to the lower portions of the city early Sunday morning, urging all persons at exposed places to seek safety in the higher districts of the city.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE

CANADA MUST SETTLE DISPUTES AT HOME FIRST

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—"There is no use Canada trying to settle disputes in Europe if the problems in Canada cannot be settled first, and the labor problem is one of our greatest," was the message to the National Industrial Conference delivered by John Bruce of Toronto, spokesman for the Labour group this morning. He appealed to every one to drop all feelings of hostility and political views, and approach the questions before the Conference in a spirit of human good fellowship.

The third group in the conference, representing agriculture, Civil Service, G. W. V. A., and the public interests generally, has been given a voice in shaping the committee reports, although their delegates on the committee will have no voting power.

A special committee was decided upon to take up the consideration of recommendations of the Royal Commission on Industrial Relations that the findings of the Commission be put into effect in all work controlled by the Government where the principles of democratic management can be applied.

It was pointed out by President Tom Moore, of the Dominion Trades and Labour Congress, that the purpose of this committee was simply to give civil servants and public employees the same rights as is enjoyed by the employees of corporations and private employers.

SUNLIGHT GREETED CROWDS OF CHILDREN AND FAIR SUCCESS WAS ASSURED TO-DAY

YESTERDAY'S ATTENDANCE SHOWED A GAIN OVER FIRST DAY LAST YEAR — EVENING PROGRAMME BEGAN PROMPTLY AT SEVEN O'CLOCK—MIDWAY HAS SIDE STREETS NOW

EXHIBITS ARE EXCELLENT

To-Night's Programme

Airplane Flight—7 p.m.
Balloon ascension —7 p.m.
Vaudeville Acts begin at 8 p.m.
Concert by G.W.V.A. band.
Inspection of Exhibits

Wednesday Afternoon

Airplane flights—2 p.m.
Balloon ascension—2.30 p.m.
Vaudeville acts begin at 2.30 p.m.
Trotting and running races.
Thrilling slide on cable.
Judging of roadsters, saddle horses etc.

The joys and glooms of sunlight and shade contended for the control of the exhibition weather until noon today when hundreds of school children happy and smiling in their half holiday trooped through the gates and routed the glooms. The sun broke through the clouds to greet the radiant youngsters and the patrols of Boy Scouts, the directors' hopes leaped up as the crowds began to pour from the cars, and a carnival spirit took possession of the exhibition that had watched every cloud with apprehensions of rain.

The finishing touches to the exhibits and attractions were added this morning and the stage was all set for the biggest Fair Peterboro has ever attempted when the sun appeared to dispel the doubts and worries born of the first day. To some extent there were no regrets from Monday's show. The paid attendance was 1405 as compared with 930 for the corresponding day last year. But the 1918 opening day closed in a downpour of rain that cancelled the evening performance.

Programme on Schedule.

The citizens are reminded that the evening programme begins promptly at 7 o'clock. Last night the airplane flights were completed before that hour. Because of the fading light it is necessary to make an early start for the planes and balloon ascension. This notice is given for the benefit of the hundreds who are unable to attend in the afternoon and who will be disappointed if they are late.

It will also be noticed that there are no fireworks tonight. It was believed that the crowds would wish to view the exhibits at leisure and as the grounds are flooded with light the visitors will have every opportunity of enjoying the programme the amusement on the midway and the splendid industrial, mercantile and agricultural exhibits.

To-morrow's Show.

The public will have a big afternoon tomorrow with all the grand stand and track events together with the judging of the saddle and carriage horses. This promises to be one of the keenest competitions in many years. The showing of horses is exceptionally good. There are entries that have been winning at Cobourg, Toronto and Ottawa, and there are many that are exhibiting for the first time.

Will Light Cable.

Arrangements have been made with the representatives of the Hand company to light with fuses the long cable on which the spectacular slide is made. This feature was hardly visible last night because of the half light.

VIRTUES OF HEARST GOVERNMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

WELLAND, Ont., Sept 16.—At the Conservative Convention here yesterday afternoon, Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, spoke of the U. F. O. a party seeking class legislation. "The U. F. O. claims that the Province has a debt of eighty millions of dollars," he said. "The fact is that there is no debt. Bonds have been issued to that amount, but are secured by municipal guarantees. Forty-seven millions of Hydro bonds, and twenty-two millions of Temiskaming and New Ontario railway bonds have been issued, but these do not represent a debt," he said. He stated that the Workmen's Compensation Act did not cost the manufacturer or the working man one dollar, and was acclaimed to be the best in the world. The Housing Scheme, the O. T. A., and the Widows' Pensions Bill were dealt with, and he concluded by stating that the Government would be returned with a greater majority than ever.

Medals Were Presented By His Honour Judge Huycke

DONALD FITZGERALD AND CHARLES J. BEGLEY ARE HONOURED FOR BRAVERY.

Two Royal Humane Society medals awarded some time ago to Donald Fitzgerald and Charles Begley for saving the life of little Evelyn Roberts, daughter of Mr. A. G. Roberts, local Superintendent of the Metropolitan Insurance Co., who resides at the corner of Smith Street and Dennistoun avenue, were presented today. The presentation was made at 2.30 p.m. on a stand near the George street entrance on which the school children under the direction of Miss Rannie of the Normal School staff, were present.

Directly in front of the stand stood the Boy Scouts under Scoutmaster Tyrer. On the platform were Mr. A. G. Roberts, Mayor G. H. Duncan, Rev. Father Phelan, Rev. J. C. Davidson, and His Honor Judge Huycke. His Worship the Mayor introduced Mr. Roberts to those present, who related how his daughter was saved from drowning at Inverlea Park last June, how Charlie Begley held her above the swirling water as it raced under the Smith street bridge, until aid arrived in the person of Don Fitzgerald, who jumped off the top of the bridge and brought them both, nearly exhausted to the shore.

Don Fitzgerald was not present at the opening of the proceedings and the crowd was of the opinion that modesty had got the better of him when he appeared on the platform just as His Honour expressed to the people his regrets that he was not present.

"You have upheld the traditions of your race," said His Honor, "and sacrifice is one of the greatest things in the world."

The medals which were then presented to the boys consist of a large round bronze plate suitably inscribed with the Royal Humane Society's escutcheon attached to a broad ribbon at the end of which is an attached bar.

After the presentation the school children sang with a vim "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," after which Father Phelan and Rev. Canon Davidson made some suitable remarks.

WILL HAVE RANK OF AMBASSADOR

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 16. — Sir Eyre Crowe, assistant Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the British Cabinet since 1912, will arrive to-morrow from London, having been appointed British plenipotentiary on the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference. He will have the rank of an Ambassador.

MARTIAL LAW FOR DUBLIN

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Rumour that martial law will be proclaimed in Dublin has been strengthened by the arrival of Walter Hume Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, a Dublin despatch to the "Morning Post" said today.

EXCLUDED FROM UNITED STATES

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Eighteen boys, members of the Vatican choir of 70 voices, which arrived here today on the setamship Belvidere, were sent to Ellis Island by immigration officers and not allowed to land because they are under 18 years of age and not accompanied by their parents. This action closely follows the detention of Urelio Bodini, an Italian tenor who arrived last week and was ordered excluded from the country by a special board of inquiry on the ground that having been engaged as a member of the Metropolitan Opera Chorus he was a contract labourer.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

The double-header at the Grand, showing two feature pictures, drew a record house last evening. The first picture, "The Probation Wife," featuring the screen's most popular idol, Norma Talmadge, was a charming story of a conquest of a husband by arousing his jealousy, ignoring tears and scolding as weapons. The story is that of a child of the underworld who, hating the life she leads, uses the reformatory as a means of escape from the sordid surroundings in the hotel and later escapes from it to meet and marry a benefactor of years ago. The story of her successful attempts to gain his love is alive and throbbing, holding the rapt attention of the audience.

In the "Hell Cat," a wild west story minus the usual tiresome details, Miss Geraldine Farrar charms the audience afresh by her realistic portrayal of the part of the half Spanish, half Irish girl who resents the attentions of a neighbouring cattle king. Her sensational escape from his home affords a thrilling moment, while the story is one which lives in the memory of those who see it.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

Many advertisers, and particularly retail advertisers, never get the full cumulative power of advertising behind their business because they lack patience. They demand direct returns. Thy run a one-time announcement in the local paper to-day and look for sales enough—sales directly traceable to the little one-time advertisement—before next week to pay for the cost of the space.

Of course they are disappointed. Retail advertising seldom works out that way. But they are impatient for results. They are not prepared to invest money in advertising as they would in new goods, in store fixtures, in stocks or in real estate—and wait for profits to be earned. No. The returns of to-day's advertising must ring in cash profits to-morrow, or, in the estimation of too many retail dealers, the advertising is not worth what it costs.

Hand-to-mouth advetising is not worth what it costs. It yields only hand-to-mouth returns. To show the best results as a business building power, the advertising of the retail merchant must be persistent. Its chief purpose should be to build up permanent trade; to make the people of your community turn to your store in preference to other stores; to make them think of you and of your place of business; to convince them that they cannot get better quality and price and service anywhere.

"Would you advise a sixty-inch advertisement in the newspaper once a week or six ads. covering ten inches of space each week?" was one of the questions asked.

"I would advise six ads., one each day, or, better still, three twenty-inch ads. each week," replied the advertiser.

"Anything that is desirable is advertisable," he said, and pointed out that the desirability of an article depends much on the consistency with which it is advertised.

"One of the best ways to advertise is to cultivate the customers you have acquired and they will assist you in your advertising."

His final message was: "Advertise and get out and prosper."

MUSIC FESTIVALS.

They Really Began With the Great Handel's Works in London.

The real "era of musical festivals" begins with the great Handel commemoration, with its festival performances, held in London first from 1784 to 1787 and then again in 1791. Before this there had been music festivals in England, but they were virtually unknown on the continent. It was the efficiency of the English choirs that induced Handel to take up the writing of works for large musical bodies in his oratorios.

The annual production of "The Messiah" in London at Christmas time, with a great chorus and orchestra, naturally aroused the national pride of the Germans, who felt that the great master belonged by birth to them. Berlin first and then other German cities began to give Handel festivals on the London plan, and soon the works of other composers were added to the festival lists.

So that at the beginning of the nineteenth century "several organizations devoting their energies to the production of any great work, whether choral or purely instrumental, sprang into existance in Germany." Among the oldest of these and among the most famous to this day are the Vienna Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde and the Niederrheinische Musikfests, which take place each year in some city on the lower Rhine.

The United States has followed the example set first by the English and then by the Germans in their musical festivals, and in several of the larger cities there are yearly festivals of this kind.

WOMAN AND THE ARTS.

Why She Excels in Writing and Not in Music and Painting.

The average woman possesses a greater variety of character, as of wardrobe, than does the man. She can more readily lay aside or suppress some important part of her and bring some contrasting feature into view. She carries in herself a ready wealth that is more applicable to the story than to painting or to music. Thus it is, writes George M. Stratton in the Atlantic Monthly, that in painting and in music she is to be passed by man with ease, but in the story, if at all, with greatest effort.

In the minor art of dancing and in the nobler work of reproducing the music of the great composers, as in acting the characters of the great dramatists, there are women of high and even of highest rank. But, to leave these more interpretive or reproductive arts, only in fiction does she approach the mark of man, for here she must be counted with the great of the craft.

And, even should some crabbed soul insist that the rare company in which are George Eliot, Jane Austen, George Sand, Mme. de Stael and the Queen of Navarre does not include the one who is greatest in the guild, yet there is no discomfort felt in naming these women along with Scott and Dickens, Cervantes, Hugo and Boccaccio. But speak of the other creative arts and we feel at once the chill. Chaminade looks ill at ease in the presence of Beethoven, Joanna Baillie with Shakespeare, Angelika Kauffmann with Michelangelo.

The Result of a Drink.

Such a slight circumstance as a glass of wine changed the history of France for nearly twenty years. Louis Philippe, king of the French, had a son, the Duke of Orleans and heir to the throne, who always drank only a certain number of glasses of wine, because even one more made him tipsy. On a memorable morning he forgot to count the number of his glasses and took one more than usual. When entering his carriage he stumbled, frightening the horses and causing them to run. In attempting to leap from the carriage his head struck the pavement, and he soon died. That glass of wine overthrew the Orleans rule, confiscated their property of $160,000,000 and sent the whole family into exile.

Questions and Answers.

The time elapsing between a question and an answer is almost as important as the answer itself. It may be utterly long or short, but the longer it is the wiser must be the answer.

Manipulating Bones.

"Pop, what's osteopathy?"

"The art of manipulating bones, my son."

"Then is an osteopath a minstrel end man?"

The Disappointing Movie.

"You seem to—think it's no good."

"I'll guess 'nay,' don't 'o'."

"Yes, but they don't show you that."—London Punch.

CODE BOOK AS TOY.

London. — A code book containing secret notes of the British Admiralty was recently found while being used as a plaything by the children of a messenger in the Admiralty service. When arraigned in the Wood Green Police Court the messenger declared that he found the book in a waste basket and took it home to his children so that they could scribble in it.

MISS MAUD ACKISON WAS GIVEN A HEARTY SEND-OFF LAST EVENING BY MEMBERS OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

REV. JAMES ROLLINS, REV. MR McEACHREN, REV. W. GAULD AND REV. ROBERT POGUE OFFICIATED AT DESIGNATION CEREMONY.

THE PRESENTATIONS

The designation last evening of Miss Maud Ackison in St. Paul's Presbyterian church to Foreign Mission work on the island of Formosa, proved an interesting and impressive ceremony. The Rev. Dr. R. P. McKye, secretary of foreign missions for th Canadian Presbyterian Church was unable to be present owing to illness in his family. Rev. Robert Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's Church, read a letter from Dr. McKye in which he stated that he regretted very much being unable to be present for he had learned to value Miss Ackison very highly. He wished to congratulate her upon the work she was entering and the congregation of St. Paul's on the service which they were rendering in sending her. He closed by wishing her every success.

Designated Ceremony

In the absence of Dr. McKye, Rev. James Rollins designated Miss Ackison. The designation ceremony was one which had never been witnessed by many of the congregation before and was followed with much interest

Rev. Mr. McEachren

The Rev. Mr. McEachren of Keene, representing the Presbytry was the next speaker. He congratulated Miss Ackison for she had dedicated herself to a great work. The opportunities for service were nowhere so great, perhaps, as in the foreign missions field. She was being sent as a ambassador of Jesus Christ. It would be her duty to impart the message of Christ's sacrifice and God's redeeming love to the people of Formosa so as to lead them to a better and a higher life.

Mr. McEachren went on to say that we all knew that demands what were made upon her and understood the physical, mental and spiritual qualifications necessary to carrying on the great work to which she had been designated. It would be her duty to study and quicken herself and in every way improve her mental equipment. She must hold herself to the habits of study she had already formed in the training school. But above all she must give heed to her spiritual equipment. She must appropriate to herself as fully as possible the rich promises of God that she might become a fitting ambassador of Him who sent her forth.

The Ideals.

Continuing, the speaker pointed out that she must keep before her always the ideals which had led her into the service of Christ. He did not know exactly what had called her to the mission field. Perhaps her soul had answered to the command of Christ, "Go ye forth into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," or perhaps in some quiet hour of meditation she had come into a full realization of the love of Christ. But whatever she call had been she must never waver.

The days before her might be searching days when she would feel sometimes the greatness of the sacrifice she had made in leaving home. She was going out with the dream of great victories and might meet with disappointments. But she must remember that if she should win one sinner to God she would not have lived in vain.

Mr. McEachren advised her that she must be trustful of Him, who sent her forth for He would protect her. The sympathetic prayers of the congregation would follow her and he believed that it would bring new life to the church, concluding, Mr. McEachren wished her every success and blessing for "he who wins souls is wise."

Rev. Mr. Wm. Gauld.

The Rev Mr. Pogue then introduced to the congregation the Rev. Mr. William Gauld, a veteran missionary who had seen twenty-eight years of service in the North Formosa Mission to which Miss Ackison was going.

Mr. Gauld in opening remarked that it was a great day for the North Formosa Mission. While this service was in progress another missionary Mr. Williams, who had been doing such good work at Kinmount, was being designated to North Formosa Mission in Campbellford.

Mr. Gauld then gave a short history of the North Formosa Mission. There were two missions on the island of Formosa, the South Formosa Mission founded in 1865, and supported by the English Presbyterian church, and the North Formosa Mission, founded in 1872 and supported by the Canadian Presbyterian church. The Canadian Mission was founded by the Rev. Dr. R. P. McKye. Until 1895, however, the work was handicapped by the lack of women missionaries. Women missionaries were a necessity as it was impossible for a man to secure admission to the better class Chinese homes and the women of such homes were not allowed to go out on the streets. In 1896 the Women's Missionary Society sent out two unmarried women missionaries and their work had been a great success.

A girls' school was founded, but soon outgrew its limits.

A New School.

In 1916 a new school was erected at a cost of $35,000, with accommodation for one hundred resident students. At present such a school would cost $60,000 on account of the prohibitive cost of any work which was a success cost money.

After telling several stories of how natives were converted, Mr. Gauld addressed a few words of advice to Miss Ackison. First of all it would be necessary to study the language thoroughly. Perseverenace and patience would be required. People at home often lost patience with a new missionary and wondered why she was not engaged in regular mission work. Study came first, however. No progress of any account could be made until the language had been thoroughly learned. He knew, however, that Miss Ackison had ability, perseverance and all the required qualities.

Presentations.

A number of presentations and addresses were then made by representatives of the various church organizations, before which Rev. Mr. Pogue remarked that we all knew Miss Ackison would be successful for her training at the Deaconess' school and her sweetness of character could lead to nothing else. Rev. Mr. Gauld then made a novel presentation on behalf of the Canadian Bible Society of a revised version of the New Testament, printed in a Romanized vernacular of the island. Miss Ackison was also presented with a Bible by Miss Martha Dickson on behalf of the Council of the Women's Missionary Society and a pin from the Deaconess' Training School. Presentations were also made by Mrs. Pogue on behalf of the Women's Missionary Society, Miss Lillian Hall on behalf of the Mission Band, and Miss Isabel Pogue on behalf of the Faithful Workers' Mission Band.

An address was then read by Mr. William Madill, representing the General Sessions of the church. In opening the address he stated that for some time it has been the desire of the Sessions that some member of the church volunteer for mission work. Miss Ackison had done so and was the first member of St. Paul's church to be trained by the church and sent out as a missionary.

Continuing, Mr. Madill went on to say that she went forth, no doubt, realizing the sacrifice she was making, but her reward would be greater than any sacrifice she could make. The Session wished her every success and was thankful that she was enabling the church to become a partaker in so great work.

This was followed by addresses and presentations by Mrs. Dottrenevell on behalf of the Young Women's Bible Class, and Mr. James McKee, representing the Young Men's Bible Class. It was the Young Men's Bible Class who several years ago suggested that St. Paul's church should train and send out a missionary of its own. Now its hopes were realized, Mr. McKee stated.

Must Not Forget Quiet Moments.

Rev. Mr. Pogue thought that being her minister it might be wise for him to give Miss Ackison a few words of advice as she was leaving on the 7.35 C.P.R. train next morning. He declared that too much work was the great enemy of spiritual life. Work was not all God required of us. We must have our quiet moments in which to imbibe his spirit as well. The congregation would follow Miss Ackison with their prayers and he wished to extend his hearty congratulations.

"Greatest Night of My Life."

"I am sure you realize," said Miss Ackison, "how important it is to me to reply fittingly. This is the greatest night of my life. It is with much pleasure that I look forward to my work in Formosa."

Continuing, Miss Ackison stated that she was sure she would like the work. She knew there would be difficulties but she knew she would have Christ's protection. Ever since she had joined the church she had had a longing to serve the Master in a larger way, but until two years ago she had never thought of this work.

The Sunday before Easter two years ago Mr. Pogue had prayed earnestly that a missionary go forth from St. Paul's church. She had then thought that she would like to become a missionary. God's spirit began its work then. She knew He wished her to enter the mission field and St. Paul's church had stood behind her. She hoped that it would not be long until another missionary would go forth to represent St. Paul's. She hoped that the congregation would pray God to help her, for she had seen already the effect of prayer on her life.

The service was followed by a social in the Sunday school room under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

THE G.W.V.A.'S STRENGTH.

The Great War Veterans' Association has come through the recent agitation, over the question of gratuities, with flying colors. The moderation and wisdom of the position taken by the Association in conferring their efforts to securing the appointment of a Commission to investigate the different angles of the re-establishment problem, as compared with the impetuous and unreasoning policy of the newly-formed Gratuity League, have impressed the thinking people of Canada and the G. W. V. A. will have a larger measure of public support behind the Association than hitherto. At the same time the issue has served to demonstrate the influence and power of this organization of returned soldiers. It is admitted that it was the pressure brought to bear by the G. W. V. A. that caused the Cabinet to change its mind on the question of appointing a special committee. In fact the Government was facing a crisis for the committee representing the G. W. V. A. had succeeded in securing the support of the majority of the Unionist members from Ontario and the West, on behalf of the Commission plan and had the issue been fought out on the floor of the House, a Government defeat was a probability if not a certainty.

The G. W. V. A. has gained in prestige both with the public and among the majority of returned soldiers, by its sane conduct in the present situation.

MR. BURNHAM AND THE GLOBE

It is a slow day when Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., does not get into a verbal or written argument with somebody or other. The other day the member for West Peterboro amused himself by writing a letter to the Toronto Globe, on the subject of Prohibition and the Toronto journal takes him to task in the following terms:

M. J. H. Burnham, M. P., says in a letter in the Globe to-day that the Ontario Temperance Act is class legislation because it permits the importation of liquor into the Province by those who can afford to pay for transporting it. He conveniently ignores the action of the Senate in vetoing legislation which would give full effect to the will of the people of Ontario.

If the majority vote "No" to every proposal in the referendum, they will plainly indicate that they do not want the sale of liquor in any form in Ontario. The House of Commons has taken this view by approving a Government bill to prevent the shipment of liquor into any Province, which desires to exclude it. Such a measure would continue the provisions of the present order in Council, which has made every Province of Canada except Quebec "bone-dry." The Senate rejected the bill in the interests of the liquor traffic. Mr. Burnham acquiesces in this defiance of the House of Commons by the non-elective Chamber, and assumes that the question has been settled. The people of Canada may not be so submissive. If the majority in this Province vote against the repeal or modification of the Ontario Temperance Act, it will be a mandate to the Federal authorities to prevent liquor entering Ontario from any other country or Province. The Federal Government will be morally bound to reintroduce its bill. If the Senate remains incorrigible it will raise an issue which the political parties will no longer be able to dodge. The Senate as at present constituted is a scandal to democracy. Its attack on the right of municipalities to control their own streets and its championship of the liquor interests have stirred into activity the latent feeling against the anomaly of an irresponsible Chamber, which is a preserve of party patronage and the stronghold of special privilege.

Mr. Burnham's contention that the importation of liquor into Ontario becomes legal with the ratification of the Peace Treaty with Germany is not that of the Government. The prohibition order in Council continues in force until peace with other belligerents is proclaimed. Mr. Burnham is wrong in his facts and his law.

SEE IT ALL.

It is admitted by all who were in attendance at the Peterboro Exhibition yesterday that the Fair has reached a new standard of excellence. So changed is the condition of the grounds, so improved is the accommodation, so much larger and more extensive are the special exhibits, so much more ambitious is the program of attractions, that it is hard for those who remember the Peterboro Exhibition of a few years ago to realize that this is really Peterboro's annual Fair. It is manifestly impossible for any one to see all that there is to be seen in one visit, two at least are necessary if half the attractions are to be properly reviewed. The public should bear this in mind and resolve to make one visit for the purpose of looking over the exhibits and another to see the grand stand performance, and the events on the race track. The attendance yesterday, in spite of the gloomy weather outlook, was the largest on record for the first day of the Exhibition. If there is a similar increase in the crowds to-day and to-morrow, there will be an attendance worthy of the splendid program and the magnificent exhibits. The Examiner has heard nothing but words of commendation of the Exhibition. To repeat half of the nice things that were overheard would be embarrassing to President Denne and his directors, who are modest, albeit energetic and enthusiastic men. They have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that their fellow-citizens realizing the splendid progress that has been made, are warm in their admiration of the successful efforts of the management.

To-night and to-morrow the public have a splendid chance of showing their appreciation by setting the attendance figures at a new notch. It it up to the people now; the directors have established a record-breaking success insofar as they are able to do. The rest depends upon the citizens of the district. Let us go!

CONSERVATION OF RESOURCES.

Mere figures convey but little to the mind. Everyone realizes that the war has cost us an enormous sum expressed in money. We should endeavor to visualize what this sum represents in materials and services. For example, millions of tons of metal and vast quantities of cotton and various chemical substances as well as millions of hours of human labor have been consumed by the munitions industry. In times of peace, the metal would have been put into buildings, machinery or tools, the cotton would have been made into into clothes, and the chemicals would have found a wide range of uses of which not the least important would have been as fertilizer. A great bulk of these wasted substances will never be recovered; in other words, a considerable fraction of the world's capital has been utterly destroyed. Even in normal times such destruction is inevitably going on through wear and tear, but the war has greatly accelerated the process. There is a further difference in that war uses are never productive in their ultimate purpose, so that, whereas in peace we earn an interest on our capital, in war we consume the principal.

By far the most serious war loss, however, is the labor loss. The more one probes the question, the more far-reaching is it seen to be. Everyone realizes the loss of labor force, due to the enlistment of huge numbers of men in the army. It is not, of course, that the soldiers did not work, but that their work was generally non-productive. Likewise, those engaged in the manufacture of munitions, munition plants, guns and other machinery of warfare, In other words, millions of men were not only transferred from the productive to the non-productive class but actually to the destructive class. Again, unprecedented and unusual demands were made on all our transportation facilities, for large bodies of men were sent overseas who would otherwise have remained at home and supplies for their maintenance had to be shipped to them. The abnormal transportation of troops and of war material required an increase of human effort expended in carrying and was also an economic waste. On the other hand, the decreased output of luxuries compensated to some extent for the munition business and the curtainment of holiday travelling partly made up for that undertaken for military reasons.

Included in the labor loss must be the deaths and all casualties which have left men less efficient for their peace-time occupations. Upwards of sixty thousand able-bodied Canadians in the flower of their manhood, have given their lives for our cause. This death-roll represents a serious deminution of the labor force of the country. Some men have been totally incapacitated and must be maintained henceforth by the labor of others. Many have been so wounded or injured in health that their labor is not as productive as formerly. Also it must not be lost sight of that most of our soldiers have suffered some loss of skill, due to being away from their work so long, but with a little patience this will generally be restored. There are, again, a number of youths whose periods of training for their life work was broken into and who must practically begin all over again. The cumulative effect of all these things means that a tremendous blow has been delivered against the productive labor energy of the nation.

The greatest need to-day, therefore, of Canada, as, indeed, of all other countries is conservation (A) of all material and (B) of our human resources.

Under the first head, we must attempt to (1) increase the fertility of the soil and reclaim areas not now cultivated (2) protect our forests fire and reforest denuded areas, (3) guard certain species of fish and wild life against extinction, (4) exploit our mines, extracting the maximum output of ore, (5) develop our potential resources of hydro- electric power, (6) organize our manufactures to secure greatest efficiency and to recover by-products (7) eliminate extravagance in consumption and (8) find an economic use for materials now treated as refuse.

Under the second heading, i.e., conservation of our human resources, we should (1) make up our minds individually to do some useful work and do it thoroughly, (2) promote the better organization of industry from a social standpoint, in other words, a good understanding between capital and labor, (3) organize our systems of transportation, storage and distribution, so that products may be conveyed from producer to consumer with the minimum of effort and expense, (4) encourage the work of soldiers' civil re-establishment by practical sympathy with the returned soldier, (5) as voters and citizens insist on efficiency in public-hygiene and sanitation (6) reduce our abnormal infantile mortality and (7) support all sound schemes of town planning and better housing and never relax our efforts till every family in the country has a decent home to lime in.

The aims enumerated above embody a programme of reconstruction. Some of them lie outside the field of the Commission of Conservation, but most of them are within the scope of the work that it exists to promote.—P.M.B., in "Conservation."

ALTER FEMININE FIGURE.

London.—Dress designers are trying to alter the feminine figure and some of the prettiest new dresses are bunched upon the hips and at the back of the skirt, like the panniers and bustles of former days.

"The only disturbing element in the new vogue is the possible sequel of crinolines and small waists," comments a prominent society woman. "Women, however, are eminently sensible these days and the fear of such fashion abnormalities need worry no one."

A CLERGYMAN'S RECOMMENDATION

The Zam-Buk Co.

Dear Sirs:

Appreciating what your balm has done for me, I should like an opportunity of recommending it to others who may be similarly afflicted. For the last forty years I have had a patch of eczema on my right hand. I tried in every possible way to get rid of it—had treatment from several doctors and tried innumerable remedies, but received no lasting benefit. If a remedy eased it or cured it for a time, it always returned as bad as ever. One of my friends is a great believer in Zam-Buk, so I decided to give it a trial and sent first for a sample. You can imagine my amazement when even this small quantity brought me more relief than anything I had ever before used. I continued the use of Zam-Buk for two weeks, by which time the eczema, although of forty years standing, had entirely disappeared. That was one year ago, and there has been no return of it.

Yours sincerely.

(Name of clergyman, from whom the above letter was received, will be given upon request)

NUTS MILLION YEARS OLD.

Among the fossils recently discovered by the United States' geological survey are remarkably well preserved impressions or casts of leaves of several extinct varieties of ash, oak, beech and hickory, which were found, with three present-day species, in states bordering on the Gulf of Mexico, according to Youth's Companion. Although the leaves themselves have rotted and gone, here and there were some buried in soft clay by sediment in such a manner as to leave perfectly preserved impressions.

The nuts, on the other hand, neither decayed nor petrified, but fell into pools of water, which is one of the best preservatives in nature, and sooner or later were also buried under silt and clay. Owing to their hard shells, those that fell into places favourable to their preservation are to-day in excellent condition, although slightly flattened by the long soaking and the gentle pressure of the clay. The deposit in which the leaves and nuts were formed is not less than a million years old.

EARLY TRADEMARKS.

When First Used They Were Without Any Protection in Law.

The recognition of trademarks by English law may be said to date only from the beginning of the nineteenth century, but the use of trademarks was, of course, of far earlier date.

So far back as the reign of James I. a certain clothier applied the mark of another clothier to his own inferior goods, but the reports of the lawsuit which ensued leave it doubtful whether the action was brought by the owner of the mark or by an indignant customer, in which latter case it would simply be an ordinary action for fraud.

In 1742 Lord Hardwicke declared that "every particular trader has some particular mark or stamp." At the same time his lordship refused to grant the protection of the law to the "Great Mogul" stamp on cards. He was apparently under the impression that the legal recognition of trademarks meant the creation of a new kind of monopoly, and he made up his mind to obviate such possibility.

Lord Eldon, on the other hand, repeatedly granted injunctions to restrain one trader from fraudulently "passing off" his goods as those of another and thus helped to lay a foundation on which the present trademark law has been built up in successive stages.—London Standard.

Shakespeare Plus Cervantes.

There is an old tradition which links Cervantes with Shakespeare in connection with the lost play "Cardenna," or "Cardenna," which was twice acted at court by Shakespeare's company in 1613 and was announced for publication some forty years later as "The History of Cardenio, by Fletcher and Shakespeare." The publication never took place, and nothing is otherwise known of the piece with certainty, but Sir Sidney Lee believes it to have been a dramatic version of the adventures of the lovelorn Cardenio, related in the first part of "Don Quixote." Shelton's translation of which appeared in 1612.

Tabby.

"Tabby" cat ought to be really "atabe," being derived from "atab," the name of a famous street in Bagdad which used to be the great market for silks. A tabby cat's coat was thought to be like the wavy markings of watered silk.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

NEIL IS ANGRY WITH BARBARA FOR MEDDLING

CHAPTER LXVII

I never closed my eyes all night. If his business was all as it should be why was Neil angry because I tried to see his papers I had not meant to be meddlesome, simply to find something to refute what people were saying about him—If Lorraine Morton and these women I heard talking in the store were telling the truth. And it was strange they should say the same things Mr. Frederick had said so long before.

I recalled the startled unbelief in Neil's voice when he replied to me after I had told him people were saying unkind things about him, and tried to exact a bit of comfort from it. Surely if he had been doing anything very wrong he would not have been so surprised—or so angry. It was I who had made him cross, not the malicious gossip of people who knew nothing of him, his goodness, his generosity. Perhaps I had done wrong to go to his office. It had been done on impulse, because I loved him. I would make him understand that, and he would not be so angry.

Then I wondered what the bookkeeper and the yellow haired stenographer would tell hm. I hoped they would not exaggerate my actions. I knew I had acted terribly disappointed, especially when I went back the second time to look at the mail. I had said nothing of that to Neil, he might be still more angry if I told him. All kinds of wild ideas came into my head. To telephone them not to say anything to my husband about my second visit to the office —to tell him myself in the morning trusting that he would be over his anger by that time, even to deny having gone back if he was still cross, and they told him. But most of that long night I spent trying to convince myself that nothing I had heard derogatory to Neil was so—could possibly be true.

I rose early but he was in his bath even then, I imagined he too had not slept. I knew he had not undressed because he had not come after his nightclothes. He probably had thrown himself on the divan all dressed and got what rest he could. I felt so guilty. He had been travelling, a thing he hated. He never slept well on the train, and was always so glad to get home.

"There's nothing like a good bed," he used to say, "I'd never sleep on a train if I could possibly help it."

Knowing how he felt made me even more guiltily conscious that I had kept him from his rest.

"Good morning," he said curtly, when he came down to breakfast. I had hurried and was down before him.

Good morning," I returned, trying to speak naturally and brightly and making a dismal failure of it, but lifting my face for his usual morning kiss. He just brushed my cheek with his lips, then sat down and buried himself in his paper. I was uncomfortable conscious of his displeasure, and also afraid he might say something before the servants, a habit which had grown upon him. When we were first married he had been careful to discuss nothing of a personal nature before a servant, and I laid the growth of the habit now to what Lorraine had told me of his carelessness at Blanche Orton's, so giving her servants the chance to talk.

I watched him narrowly as I poured his coffee, but he never raised his eyes from the paper. Next I asked him a question about how he would like his eggs.

"I don't care!" he snapped.

My eyes filled. He was still angry. But I wouldn't try again. I must placate him before he went down to the office. So I asked:

"Did you have a successful trip?"

"Successful enough!"

"Please Neil don't be so short with me. I have been so lonesome while you were away."

"You seem to have kept pretty busy, meddling with what don't concern you. I can't see that you have been very lonesome."

"Oh, Neil,"—the butler left the room a moment, "please be nice to me."

"I will when you are also nice, as you call it. If you think it the part of a lady to play the spy I don't!" He flung from the table and from the house.

ANTI-DRY CRUSADE.

FARMS MORE VALUABLE

When the Well Water Is Pure and Wholesome.

Price of Hogs at High Levels So Prepare to Rear Full Litters of Pigs —Choose the Strongest and Healthiest Young Sows—Litters Should Be Farrowed Before Cold Weather.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE well is the usual source of the farm water supply, and a good well, that is, one which supplies plenty of pure fresh and wholesome water the year round is certainly one of the most essential and valuable assets of the farm. Without it no man could live there for long, to say nothing about bringing up a healthy family, or building up an efficient dairy herd. The well must be there first and last and all the time, and we cannot conceive of an intelligent man buying a farm without a good well if he intended to live on it and make it pay dividends.

Fortunately, most of Ontario's farms are well supplied with water, in fact it is a rare thing to find a farm where it could not be secured in sufficient quantities by drilling to reasonable depths. The supply, therefore, will probably never cause us any serious worry, but judging by a recent report on analysis of many well waters from this Province one seems justified in concluding that there is still need for education of the rural public in regard to the protection and care of the farm well. The following suggestions will be found helpful to any farmer desirous of making his water supply safe against possible underground and surface contamination.

The first step in the solution of this problem of purer water supply is the location of the well. This should be by all means on ground higher than any source of contamination such as barnyard, cesspool, or outside privy. If there should be no choice in location, and this cannot be done, then the well should be kept a considerable distance from such contaminations, at least 100 feet in clay, and 200 feet or more in sandy soils, and the cribbing and top of the well specially protected as detailed later against the entrance of any seepage and surface washings. In the second place the cribbing for at least 10 feet below the surface should be made impervious to water so that any contamination in solution reaching the well would have to pass down through this extra depth of soil before getting into the well, when in all probability it would be taken up by the soil and never reach the well water. This may be done in case of an old well by putting a wall of puddled clay 1 foot thick and 10 feet deep around the well cribbing, and in case of a newly-dug well, or recribbing an old one, by using large concrete tile for the cribbing and cutting the joints thoroughly in rich cement. Before the tile are placed in the well the outsides should be washed with pure cement plaster in order to fill up all pores and make the tile absolutely impervious to soil waters. Thirdly, the cribbing should be extended at least one foot above the ground level and the soil banked up to the top of it to provide good surface drainage away from the well. Fourthly, the well should be provided with a strong and tight-fitting cover made of heavy plank or concrete so that it will always be safe for man and beast and proof against the entrance of dirt, small animals like frogs, etc. Even better still the pump may be placed over a shallow dry well to one side and the top of the real well made absolutely tight by a concrete cover. In this case the well should be ventilated by putting a small iron pipe, with the exposed end turning downwards, through the top or cover. And, fifthly, the stock should not be allowed to tramp about close to the well.

What has been said refers chiefly to dug wells, but even the drilled or driven wells should be well drained and protected at the top, for otherwise contamination may work down along the well casing and reach the water, especially if the casing is not tightly driven into the rock below.

Attention to such matters of construction and protection of the farm well as I have detailed and an occasional pumping out and cleansing of the well with a little lime will assure a pure and wholesome water supply. —R. R Graham, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

Early After-Harvest Cultivation.

"A stitch in time saves nine." In case of weeds prompt and thorough after-harvest cultivation prevents many thousands of weeds from developing seeds, and thus saves hours of tedious labor the succeeding season. Early after-harvest cultivation is one of the best ways to destroy annual and winter annual weeds, such as False Flax, Corn Cockle, Wild Buckwheat, Pigweed, Ball Mustard, Wormseed Mustard and Annual Sow Thistle. Plough shallow not more than three or four inches deep immediately after harvest, and harrow and cultivate frequently. By the shallow ploughing the weed seeds are kept near the surface and by the frequent stirring of the soil they are made to sprout, and having sprouted they are easily destroyed by further cultivation.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph.

Austria Headed Road Movement.

Curiously enough, the question of removal of snow from main highways which is now being agitated was first undertaken nationally by Austria in 1877, at which time a law was passed compelling municipalities to remove snow from state roads in order to keep them up for travel.

A Womans' Warning

Why will women continue to drag around in misery, suffering with the ailments peculiar to their sex, that drag them down to misery and despair, with backache, nervousness, the blues, derangements and irregularities, when there is a proved remedy for just such conditions?

For more than forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming these ailments until it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

For Twenty Years the Friend of This Woman

Akron, Ohio.—"I am fifty-one years old and going through the Change of Life, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing me lots of good. I felt run-down and weak but since taking the Vegetable Compound I am much stronger and better. I can eat and sleep, am gaining flesh and can do more work than I have for some time. Twenty years ago your Vegetable Compound helped me during childbirth. I wish you would print this in your paper so that other women may read it. There is nothing better for the relief of suffering womanhood than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It does away with sickness and nervousness which is very often responsible for the lack of perfect harmony in the home."

READY FOR THE DAY'S WORK?

Give a man a good breakfast and the other meals don't matter. He is ready for the day's work. He tackles it with energy and enthusiasm. A breakfast of Shredded Wheat Biscuit gives a feeling of comfortable satisfaction that fits one for the job. It is the most real food for the least money. Two of these tasty, crisp, brown little loaves of baked whole wheat with sliced bananas, or other fruit, make a complete, nourishing meal at a cost of a few cents.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well, what a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, gas, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It clears out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try it! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this creamy fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands, and see how quickly the freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear, and how clear and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is

OLD MAN MAKES AERIAL FLIGHT

That was the cryptic, eloquent expression that fell from the lips of "Uncle John" Schell, 131 years old, the oldest man in the world, as he stepped upon the State Fair grounds again following a fifteen minute airplane flight at the State Fair this afternoon. "Uncle John" travelled about six miles, at a height of about 400 feet.

He was delighted with the experience and expressed himself as deeply grateful that he had lived long enough to enjoy it. The aged man was helped into the machine by his pilot, Wm. E. Headley. As the [illegible] getting into the air, Schell smiled and waved his hand to the crowd, which cheered him wildly.

After his journey, the old man tottered a bit, but soon regained his equilibrium and composure. Thus, it was that a new, and perhaps, the crowning event of his life, was crowded into the experience of the oldest man in the world. He has seen and enjoyed many unusual and novel experiences since he was "discovered" and emerged from the Kentucky mountains, two weeks or so ago. His only regret, recently has been that his 95-year-old son, whom he left in the mountains, has not been with him. The "boy" is the old man's idol. He was born 95 years ago in the hills where "Uncle John" has lived all of his 131 years.

OLD INN NOW A THEATRE.

London.—After being used as an inn since 1565, the George Hotel, at Northampton, has been purchased for $100,000 by a motion picture theatre company and is being converted into a picture theatre. During the war the inn was used by the Government as quarters for officers.

WINDSOR GROOM WAITING FOR PLANE TO TAKE HONEYMOON

Windsor, Sept. 16.—Romee Ladouceur, 103 Moy avenue, was married two days ago to Miss Margaret Neyland of Walkerville. The couple have not started on their honeymoon trip yet, but expect to in a day or so, when an airplane of an army friend will be turned over to the groom for a two weeks' trip. Ladouceu is undecided whether to go to San Francisco or Hong Kong, but probably will get as far as London or Woodstock. He was formerly a lieutenant in the Royal Air Force.

BABY HAD DIARRHOEA

WAS GIVEN UP.

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY CURED HER

Mothers should look well after their children during the hot summer months as this is the time of year when the young ones are liable to all kinds of bowel complaints.

If your children have any looseness of the bowels do not experiment with new and untried remedies. Get one having stood the test of time. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past 74 years. Don't accept a substitute and perhaps endanger your child's life

Mrs. Willis Coupland, Sundridge, Ont., writes:—"About four years ago my little girl, then a baby two months old, took diarrhoea. I took her to the doctor but to no avail. After he had given her up, I read of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and immediately got a bottle. Within two days she was improving fast. I cannot ever praise it enough I hope some poor sufferers will see this letter and lead them to a friend indeed."

SALVATION ARMY FESTIVAL CAMPAIGN

The Annual Harvest Festival Campaign in connection with the local branch of the Salvation Army was launched Sunday and the many friends of the corps will be receiving a call from canvassers during the coming week.

The same method will be carried out as was worked with the Self-Denial Effort in the spring, viz: An envelope will be dropped in the door one night and will be called for during the week. Friends are requested to enclose their contributions in these envelopes.

The envelopes which are being used are those which were left over from the Self-Denial Campaign, hence will be marked "Self-Denial Effort," instead of "Harvest Festival." This is due to the fact that some three or four thousand envelopes were left over in the spring and instead of wasting them, they are being used again this fall. The proceeds of this campaign, however, will go towards the work which is usually covered by the Harvest Festival Canvass.

Contributions large or small will be gratefully received.

HEART FLUTTERING EASILY CORRECTED

GOOD ADVICE TO FOLKS BOTHERED WITH PALPITATION, WEAKNESS, ETC.

If your heart flutters, be careful. An attack is liable to come on at any time. Excitement, over-exertion or emotion may cause it.

If blood rushes to the head, if palpitation and short breath are noticeable, there's cause for alarm.

If you want a good honest remedy try Ferrozone. We recommend Ferrozone because we know it's just right for heart trouble. It cured A. F. Beattie, who lives at Allen Hotel, Bay City, Mich. See if your symptoms resemble these:

Some Symptoms of Weak Heart.

Nervousness,	Palpitation,
Trembling,	Dizziness,
Sinking Feeling,	Heart Paint,
Short Breath,	Weakness.

Mr. Beattie says:

"I was weak and miserable.

"I was subject to heart palpitation and dizziness.

"As I grew worse I began to have trembling and sinking sensations.

"Ferrozone strengthened my heart, gave vigor to my nerves, soon made me well. It's a great rebuilder."

By strengthening the muscles of the heart, giving proper circulation and causing a general rebuilding of the whole system, Ferrozone is bound to do grand work in heart trouble; try it. 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

When poaching eggs, set the water in motion before dropping eggs. They will be round in shape.

HOME-MADE BREAD

Home bread-making reduces the high cost of living by lessening the amount of expensive meats required to supply the necessary nourishment to the body. The increased nutritious value of bread made in the home with should be sufficient incentive to the thoughtful housewife to give this important food item the attention to which it is justly entitled. Bread made with Royal Yeast will keep fresh and moist longer than that made with any other.

MOONSHINE IN IRELAND.

London.—Illicit distilling of whisky in the West of Ireland is increasing, owing to the higher tax on spirits. Police in the Ballaghaderreen and Charlestown districts have confiscated numerous stills but the flood of moonshine liquor in that section continues.

Rheumatism

Comes in many disguises all due to the condition of the blood, which is overburdened with acid poison and shows that the kidneys are out of order. With the kidneys and bladder in a diseased condition, literally clogged with matter they are unable to expel, there can be no relief from the terrible pains of Rheumatism. Rheumatic pains are classed as acute, chronic or muscular, largely in the joints and sometimes accompanied by swelling that refuses to be reduced. In its early stages Rheumatism can be quickly relieved by using Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills to help the kidneys to do their work and get them in condition again. Long established cases may be stubborn but are bound to yield to continued treatment. Your money back if they fail.

ST. THOMAS G.W.V. HEAD RESIGNED THE OFFICE

COULD NOT AGREE WITH THE LOCAL BODY'S ATTITUDE ON GRATUITY QUESTION.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 15.—Because he could not agree with the demands made by the local branch on the gratuity question, President G. W. Haynes, of the local G.W.V.A. handed in his resignation at the close of the evening's meeting. The members refused to accept the decision of the president. He will be urged to reconsider it.

A resolution was passed requesting a Government Commission to investigate the gratuity.

President Haynes declared that he was opposed to any demand for $2,000.00, and he wanted the public to realise that the demands made in Toronto recently did not emanate from the Great War Veterans as an association, but from a certain section of the men.

PARIS OPERA LOSES MONEY.

Paris.—Theatres in Paris are feeling the effect of high prices for materials, the eight-hour day and increased salaries. M. Fontanes, manager of the Chatelet, said that a play which cost $40,000 to produce before the war now costs $110,000. He is going to meet the difficulty by raising the price of seats. M. Rouche, manager of the Opera, says that even with a full house the expenses exceed the receipts by $400 nightly.

A REPLY TO MR. J. H. BURNHAM

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir:—Mr. Burnham intimates, in your issue of Thursday, that he "has accepted my challenge to debate the Ontario Temperance Act," with him, so I suppose it falls to me to say that this statement has been made, in perfectly good faith I believe, on account of a slight misunderstanding. I tried on a former occasion to make it clear that I had no intention of taking part in a set debate with my representative in Parliament, but evidently I failed to make my meaning clear to him. A set debate with but two debaters is generally regarded by the public as a personal contest and those who attend are for the most part more intent on who shall be the winner than on what is the truth.

If Mr. Burnham, your humble servant, or any one else, has anything to say that might be expected to make for the public good it is my conviction that it is a public duty to say it. If you will be so good as to allow me the further hospitality of your pages I would like to contribute an open letter to Prohibitionists, one to Anti-Prohibitionists and one to Ordinary People in which my views of the situation would be one contribution for the common good. If the justice of my contentions are not evident it will be the duty of those who see my error to put me right, and to warn all and sundry against my doctrine. I feel that I may very well trouble you and your readers with my views for the reason that I am simply one of the common people, having no axe to grind, and being tied up to no party.

I am, Dear Sir,
Yours for the Common Good,
JOHN GALT.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

If Madame Alice, the palmist, can prove through the press that she collected $8,000 for the Red Cross Society in Montreal, I shall send her more palmistry customers than she can readily accommodate.

TOM WELLER.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—Here are ten reasons which I think should influence us to vote No four times at the coming referendum:

1. Because the O.T.A. has proved itself to be the best act yet passed in the province of Ontario to control the drink traffic and limit its evils.
2. Because thousands of homes have been made happy through the reformation of a drunken husband and father.
3. Because thousands of children who were ill-treated and half starved through the drink, are now well fed and cared for.
4. Because many families who were deeply in debt have now a nice balance at the bank.
5. Because even the liquor men themselves admit the fact that whiskey is of such an evil nature that it is necessary for it to be kept under control.
6. Because we cannot destroy a bad thing too soon.
7. Because present conditions of life, with its multiplicity of means of mechanical transport makes it imperative that people's brains should be kept free from the effects of alcohol which would result in tragedies too awful to contemplate.
8. Because the return of the drink traffic would work evil to all and good to none except the drink seller and then only in a monetary sense.
9. Because liquor is the enemy of the home, the church and the state and fights against all law, both of God and man.
10. Because the drink traffic has wrought more evil in the world than war, pestilence and famine combined; it has caused rivers of tears to be shed, has severed the dearest ties, has shown no pity for the wife or mother, widow or orphan, it has taken the shoes from the baby's feet, blighted the fairest promise of youth, destroyed the noblest manhood, poisoned the life of the most virtuous women and wrecked the eternal future of millions of souls. It is the foe of both God and man.

Yours truly,
GEO. LEADER.

The Editor, Examiner.

Dear Sir:—May I withdraw a suggestion I made through the medium of The Examiner on the 13th inst., with regard to the 93rd Battalion Association.

I asked if the trustees of the 93rd Battalion Fund would publish a balance sheet so as to make public the balance in hand.

After attending the meeting on Saturday night of the newly formed Association, I am perfectly satisfied with Col. Johnston's statement regarding the Fund, and the way it has been administered. I might also add that I was under a mis-apprehension when I referred to the $10,000, which I said was given by Peterboro City. Furthermore, I might add that I have nothing against either Colonel Johnston or any other officer, formerly belonging to the 93rd, and I have every confidence that they have done and always will do their best for the welfare of the men.

Wishing the new Association every success,

Yours Truly,
GEO. R. MELTON,
943 Water St.

MARK STREET CHURCH NOTES

INTERESTING DISCOURSES AT BOTH SERVICES

Large congregations were present at Mark Street Church yesterday to hear two splendid sermons delivered by Rev. G. E. Ross. The pastor's morning subject was "God Touched Man." God was the first ruler, but the people got tired of God just as the people have grown tired of the local preacher and the class meeting (one of the greatest forces in the Church to-day). So God chose Saul as king and He retired into the shadow. However, God touched the heart of Saul and his band of men. It is a great thing for the preacher and his band of people when God touches their hearts and they have the Spirit of God. God-touched men are practical men. God-touched men are moral reformers and will do what is right, even if they suffer. God-touched men are brave. God-touched men are united in purpose, aim, and ambition.

The evening text was, "There was a rainbow round about the throne." All along the ages God's men and women have met death with a smile on their faces. We like to think of heaven as quietness, peace, and rest. The throne stands for unquestioned law, justice, majesty, and truth. The rainbow stands for love, mercy, and the grace of God. Both God and man were encircled by the rainbow. We can never go outside His rainbow. His love and care. There is a rainbow over against the cloud of trouble. You are included in the rainbow. No man is outside the mercy of God if he is on this side of death and is inside the rainbow.

A duet, "Rock of Ages," rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Ross, was thoroughly appreciated.

BITRO-PHOSPHATE IS GOOD FOR THIN NERVOUS PEOPLE

A French scientist has discovered a very effective remedy for weak an organic phosphate which should be nerves, sleeplessness, thinness and lack of strength, energy and vigor.

Its substance is described by specialists as identical in composition with certain vital elements naturally found in brain and nerve cells and one which when taken into the human system is quickly converted into healthy living tissue.

This phosphate is already widely known amongst druggists in this country as Bitro-Phosphate and some physicians claim that through its use strength, energy, vigor and nerve force are frequently increased in two weeks' time.

Dr. Frederick Kolle, Editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says it should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital in the United States. As there are a great variety of so-called phosphates, those who wish to test this substance should be sure to get the genuine Bitro-Phosphate.

EXHIBITS OF CATTLE AND HORSES BEAT ALL RECORDS

STRIKING AND CONCLUSIVE PROOF THAT PETERBOROUGH'S FAIR HAS ENTERED UPON A NEW AND BIGGER CAREER—INCREASED ACCOMMODATION INSUFFICIENT,

POULTRY EXHIBITS LIGHT

Whether the Fair Board faces a deficit to-morrw nioght or counts up profit enough to build another building or two, the Exhibition is a pronounced success in its two most important classes, horses and cattle. And if there is one phase of the Fair more than another that has delighted the directors it is the fact that their increased accommodation has been insufficient. It is convincing evidence that the Peterborough Exhibition is drawing the best live stock, not only from this immediate district but from comparatively long distances.

The new horse barn was filled early yesterday morning, and it is quite a capacious and commodious building. In the afternoon the sheds on the south side began to be requisitioned. In the meantime the cattle stalls filled up and later exhibits encroached upon horse sheds to a considerable extent. At least a dozen of these stalls were occupied by cattle last night, and it was understood that later arrivals of horses would require the erection of a big tent for the housing of the cattle which it was agreed upon would be turned out of the horse stables. Last night S. F. Redmond's stock had not arrived and he is usually a large exhibitor, and there were others who were expected to report early this morning.

These demands for space betokened the progress of the Fair in two of the leading farm departments that set the directors to the fanciful pleasure of building "castles in Spain" last night in the form of new sheds for live stock in expectation of the greater exhibition of their rosiest dreams. In both beef and dairy cattle the entries are much larger than in the best years of the Fair. Holsteins are numerous and there are good herds of Ayrshires and Jerseys. There are also splendid exhibits of Shorthorns and Aberdeen-Angus.

In heavy draught horses there is a big entry list, and in the roadster and carriage horses there should be exceptionally keen competition when the judges put them through their paces. Some of the judging was performed to-day, but to-morrow's work should be highly interesting, especially to the lovers of good horses.

The entries in these two classes are criterions of the success of the Exhibition as conclusive as the gate receipts. Of course there must be the wherewithal of paying the prize money, but it is a healthy sign when the exhibits of cattle and horses are bulging the barns and crowding the stables beyond increased accommodation provided this year.

So elated was one of the directors yesterday, despite the dark, depressing weather of the opening day, that he remarked to a colleague, "We've got them coming to us now, and we should do everything in our power to keep them coming." The merchants and manufacturers are assuming their share in helping to realize the Industrial side of the exhibition, the farmers are co-operating as usual, and there is every reason for confidence in the support of the citizens of Peterborough.

Collections of Vegetables.

For the best collection of vegetables P. Card won first prize and S. Whatley second. Both are market gardeners. Last year a composite showing was made by the Peterbprough Vegetable Growers' Association, and in the previous year the Kitney farm took first prize and Tom Arnott second. Neither of these growers showed collections this year. There were in fact only two entries, and both of them were highly commendable.

John Williams walked off with the prize for Irish Cobbler potatoes with an exhibit that was remarkable for the size and soundness of the specimens. They were all huge potatoes and practically of uniform size. Mr. Williams has become a "Cobbler" expert with a reputation that is fast extending far from his highly productive lots in North Monaghan, located south-west of May's school.

Flower Show Good.

In the flower tent the stands filled up rapidly yesterday afternoon, and when Mr. Dave Jordan, assisted by Mr. W. H. Young, had arranged the exhibits, it was evident that entries were more numerous, and the display even better than last year. There has been some apprehension that because the season was advanced at least two weeks earlier than usual that the showing might be noticeably light, but exhibitors have responded splendidly with blooms of all kinds. The gladioli are lovely and comprise a fine exhibit in themselves. These flowers can be successfully grown in the ordinary garden and it is hoped that this class will be gradually developed. The asters have braved the dry weather and are shown in profusion. The collections leave little room for improvement in the number of varieties and in the general finish of the flowers.

Visitors will doubtless notice the group of white asters which were entered under a new heading this year. Twelve blooms of one colour were desired, and as a trial it was decided to designate the colour. Hence the demand for white. However, it will be for the directors to decide next year whether it would not be preferable not to restrict the colour or variety to only one. This extension might attract more entries in this group, which is intended for persons who grow a few varieties and who may be able to make a good showing in one colour.

The group of whites fulfills the intentions of the directors, some of the exhibits being almost perfect blooms. Next year this feature may be opened to the best twelve whites, pinks or mauves, or some such broader designation.

The growing of geraniums, coleus and begonias is extensive and attractive, and the two greenhouse displays have won general praise.

TO VOTERS OF CENTRE WARD

To the sixty or more citizens of the Centre Ward, Peterboro, bounded on the west by Bethune, in the East by Water Street, on the north by Hunter, and on the South by Sherbrooke, at whose house I called in company with the Rev. Mr. Greatrix, re the Referendum voters' list, I appeared on Saturday morning last in court held by His Honor Judge Huycke, on your behalf, and my testimony was not taken and your names were not put on the voters' list. Announcement was made that court would be held on Thursday of this week, Sept. 18. You will have an opportunity to appear before the Judge on that late, or if having some one whose evidence the Judge will accept, appear on your behalf. If you cannot go yourself, I would suggest that you be very particular to secure the proper persons to represent you. The facts in two cases, which I heard on Saturday morning may help you. The first is that of Miss Blank. Miss Blang appeared at the desk and was sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Four questions were asked—You swear that you are twenty-one years of age, that you have lived in the country twelve months, that you have been a citizen of Peterboro for three months and that you are a British subject? That was accepted. Miss Blank's name was put on the list. She gave similar evidence regarding her sister and her sister's name was put on the list. When questioned regarding a third party whom she wished to represent, she was sure the woman was a British subject, but her evidance was not accepted and the woman's name was not put on the list. She will have to appear herself if she is to have a vote.

Mr. Blank appeared at the desk. He was sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. He come to represent two men who board at his house, who came out from Toronto on Monday and return on Saturday. He testified that he had known these men for five years, that they had lived in the country for twelve months, that they had been citizens of Peterboro for three months, that they were twenty-one years of age and that they were British subjects. When asked how he knew they were British subjects, he answered that he had asked them and they said they were their names were put on the list.

Do not neglect this last opportunity. My list bearing your names has been handed in but you must go and certify to it or have someone do it whose evidence the judge will accept, or you will not have a vote on Oct. 20th.

KILLED AIDING HORSES.

London.—After dismounting from a char-a-banc near Scarborough and walking up a steep hill to ease the horses, William T. Owen, aged 60, of Dewsbury, collapsed and died from over-exertion.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY CURES CATARRH PERMANENTLY

Formerly doctors prescribed stomach treatment for Catarrh and Bronchitis. They seldom cured and Catarrh has become a national disease. To-day the advanced physician fights Catarrh by medicated air. He fills the lungs, nose and throat with the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone. It is easy then for Catarrhozone to cure. It contains the essences of pure pine balsams, reaches all the germs and destroys the disease. Every case of Catarrh, Bronchitis and Sore Throat can be cured by Catarrhozone. The dollar outfit lasts two months and is guaranteed to cure; small size 50c.; trial size 25c., all dealers or Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

HARD TO HEAR IN COURTROOM

The new court room has one great disadvantage over the old chamber and that is it is very difficult to hear because of the fact that the County Council did not see fit to close in the large glass dome in the centre of the room. Chief Justice Sir William court room some years ago for its Mulock strongly condemned the old poor lighting and by gone fixtures. Speculation is rife as to what the Chief Justice will say when he notices this chief defection in the present court room as Sir William presides at the Fall Assizes this year which open on September 30.

"Have you noticed that Mrs. Brown is no longer haughty, but actually friendly?" asked Mrs. Smith.

"She needs to be more friendly," said Mrs. Carrington, "why that woman actually passed me on the street three times last week without nodding me. But here she comes now—let's see whether she will notice us or not."

Mrs. Brown came around the corner smiling happily. She approached the two friends cordially and said,

"You can't guess how happy I am. With these new glasses I find that everyone's face is so clear and everyone seems so friendly! I used to wonder why it was that some folks were always meeting their friends on the street while I never seemed to see anyone I knew."

A thrill that wasn't on the programme was an accident to one of the four Readings, a group of expert acrobats whose work is above the average vaudeville stunts. One of the group does a long dive down a sharply inclined plane, is shot in the air and is caught by the hands by another member of the troup. Last night his flight through the air fell short and he dropped heavily upon the platform injuring his left shoulder and that side of his face. It was stated that the plane had become damp by a heavy dew and as a result the speed of his dive was reduced and lacked the momentum to carry him across the gap to the arms of his assistant. This is the first time in seven years that this accident has occurred. It was announced this morning that the injuries to this member of troupe were not serious and that the act would be carried out in full at every performance.

The Poultry Show.

The poultry show was alarmingly bare until this morning when late exhibits filled practically every coop. Harry Rush and Mr. Daniels of Lindsay each entered a large number of birds. Bottrell of Bowmanville and Curtis of Warkworth are missing this year. They are showing in Bowmanville. With the Poultry show as good if not better than usual for the local birds fanciers are well represented there is scarcely one department of the Fair that is behind the average or even the best year. Although it was expected that an extra tent would be needed to house the surplus cattle, other arrangements were made this morning, with probably a little crowding here and there.

SOME PRIZE-WINNERS.

Among the classes first judged were the roots, the results of which are as follows:

Irish Cobblers—1 John A. Williams, 2 Frank Wise, 3 W. J. Oke.

Early Buckeye Potatoes — 1 F. Wise, 2 J. Williams, 3 J. A. Carl, Fraserville.

Potatoes, any other variety—1 J. C. Hamilton, 577 Division Street, 2 S. D. Carver, 3 John Williams.

Largest Potatoes, any variety—1 S. D. Carver, 2 W. J. Oke, 3 J. Williams.

White Globe Turnips—1 J. Gillespie.

Long Red Mangold—1 J. A. Carl, 2 J. C. Hamilton, 3 A. O. Kidd.

Long Yellow Mangold — 1 R. G. Leggott, 2 C. F. Kitney, 3 W. Whitfield.

Sugar Mangold—1 J. A. Carl, 2 J. Forster, Bolivar Street, 3 W. Steinkrauss.

Yellow Globe Mangold — 1 R. G. Leggott, 2 J. A. Carl.

White Carrots—1 George Brown, Millbrook.

Miscellaneous.

Honey in comb—1 Mrs. W. B. Anderson, R. R. No. 5, Peterborough.

Clover honey—1 Mrs. Anderson, 2 J. R. Bothwell.

Canned fruit—1 J. A. Carl.

Jellies—1 J. A. Carl, 2 Mrs. W. Brock.

It is a long time since a Peterborough crowd has had an opportunity to see running horses in competition and the string of thoroughbreds here for the Exhibition is undoubtedly the best that has been seen on the local track.

The 4½ furlong race yesterday afternoon for three-year-olds and up was one of the features of the day's programme, and it is certain that the runners will form one of the biggest cards to-day and to-morrow.

There were two heats in yesterday's event, and each was a real race. In the first heat there were seven starters, and that gallant son of Martimas, Old Pop, owned by C. A. Crew, of Toronto, and splendidly ridden by Jockey Jack Kelly shot out in front from the barrier, and was never headed. Ella Jennings, a fast-moving mare, ridden by Jockey Gibson, made a drive in the stretch, but could not get up, and Old Pop won handily, with Ella Jennings second and Little Pete third. Behind were Waska, Mike Carlin, and Hemisphere in that order.

The last pair were scratched in the second heat, which was another win for Old Pop, although Ella Jennings made it an eyelash finish. The winner led all the way, but the mare was always dangerous, and when Gibson went to the whip in the stretch, it looked as if the Crew entry would be moved out. Old Pop had enough left, however, to win by a head in a whipping finish. Little Pete was third two lengths back.

Mr. Harvey Sproule, the well-hockey referee and manager, who is equally well known in the racing game, acted as starter for the running races, and he got the horses away in great style. He will be here for the remainder of the Exhibition.

There are running races on the programme to-day, and again to-morrow, and they promise to be among the most popular features of the Exhibition.

The results:

First Heat.

1. Old Pop, 5-year-old, C. A. Crew, Toronto. Jockey Kelly.
2—Ella Jennings, 6-year-old, H. Gibson, Toronto. Jockey Gibson.
3—Little Pete, 3-year-old, J. Lewis, Toronto. Jockey Chappelle.
4—Waska, 4-year-old, R. E. Whitewood, Toronto. Jockey Fallon.
5—Mike Carlin, 6-year-old, J. Wilson, Toronto. Jockey Billings.

Time—58½ secs.

Second Heat.

1—Old Pop.
2—Ella Jennings.
3—Little Pete.
4—Waska.

Time—59 secs.

MONA HAL'S 2.30 CLASS.

The one harness horse race on the card yesterday went five heats before a decision was reached. There were three starters—B. U. B., owned by Dr. Johnston, of Port Hope, Mona Hal, Sam Palmer, Port Hope, and Babe Parker, H. Parker, Marchmont.

The first-named won the first two heats in comparatively easy fashion, with Babe Parker second. Mona Hal made a drive in the stretch in both heats, but could not get up. The Port Hope mare, however, came through and won the next three heats in easy style.

The result:

1—Mona Hal, S. Parker, Port Hope 3 3 1 1 1

Time — 2.20¼, 2.21¼, 2.19¼, 2.25, and 2.27¼.

SPLENDID VAUDEVILLE.

The performance of vaudeville and special features in front of the grand stand has never been equalled at the local Exhibition in the opinion of those who saw yesterday's programme, and there are additional features for to-day and to-morrow. Sam Bennett and his wonderful trained dog opened the bill, and this act not only pleased the children, but entertained the grown-ups as well. The Thomas Trio scored heavily in a comedy bar act that was not only highly amusing, but clever as well. Marvellous Melville did extraordinary things on a trapeze and high bar in astonishingly easy fashion, and winds up by an amazing leap through the air. Perhaps the feature was the marvellous work of the Four Reddings, who tossed each other around as if they were made up of paper. The climax of their act was a slide down a chute by one of the quartette balancing on his hands and followed by a leap through the air, to light on the outstretched hands of another of the troupe. Bonnette contributes a clever trapeze act that adds interest to the programme.

A BALLOON, TOO.

The Exhibition Board were not satisfied with providing two aviators for the entertainment of their patrons, and another aviation feature is furnished in a balloon ascension by the Bonnette Brothers. The equipment was not ready for the afternoon but a most successful flight was given at 7.30 in the evening, the balloonist dropping in a parachute when the gas-filled bag had reached the clouds. There are to be two ascensions to-day and two more scheduled for to-morrow.

FAIR EXHIBITS

KINGAN AND CO'S EXHIBIT OF HUNTER'S SUPPLIES, ETC.

In the Main Building, to the south, the well-known hardware firm of Kingan and Co., corner of George and Simcoe streets, made an attractive display of hunting and sportsmen goods. It was a well-arranged exhibit, and visitors at the Fair were constantly surrounding it and getting information. The display of rifles and shotguns caught the eye of prospective sportsmen and hunters, eager to learn the particular features of the favorite weapons. There were ideal rifles for the game hunter, in 22 and 25 calibre, reccommended as the most accurate repeating rifles in the market. Visible loading features tell you when loaded and when not loaded. The Stevens "Marksman" and "Crackshot" rifles were much admired. The "Marksman" has a 22-inch barrel with plain bore, tip top action and positive ejector. The "Crackshot" is a handy little rifle for young sportsmen after small game; 18-inch barrel, lever action, adapted for C.B. caps; 22 short, 22 long or 22 long rifle.

There was also a varied display of ammunition and other accessories for the sportsman, arranged in proper order; and was much appreciated just at this season by those specially interested in hunting, etc.

Brandram-Henderson favorite paints, in all the varied grades and kinds, was also shown, and the long-established record of these high-class paints, brought them much attention from master painters and those contemplating the use of paints this fall.

Mechanics were specially attracted to a very fine display of Stanley tools, the Simmons Saws and other favorite tools and requisites for carpenters, mechanics and others. All interested in these lines of goods should not fail to see this neatly arranged and practical exhibit.

THE ROY STUDIO EXCELS.

The high position and prestige of Roy Photographs to-day is an evolution of many years' persevering study and work. Because of this excellence, Roy's portraits have obtained a pre-eminence that makes it difficult to rival. The wonderful clear tone and finish of Roy's pictures hold not simply a first place among the general work of photographers, but a distinctive position among the highest class work of the day.

As if anything had been needed to convince visitors at the Peterborough Fair of the superiority of the work of the Roy Studio, the matchless exhibit made in the Main building this year would have been amply convincing. Certain it is that if anyone had any doubt about the high quality of art work of this old established studio it was effectually dispelled by this wonderful display of modern photography.

The great range of subjects, to one not familiar with photography as it is to-day, is absolutely astounding. Everything seems to come within the range of Mr. Roy's camera.

Special mention should be made of a number of beautifully executed hand-coloured portraits in water colour and oil, which have all the beauty of a painting, with the faithfulness of the photograph. A group of three children of Mr. Chas. Tanner, Lakefield, a very fine head of Father Ferguson of Warkworth, are some of the finest samples shown. Other particularly fine child studies are Dr. McNulty's boy, and Mr. Edgar Worth's boy. A nurse in overseas uniform is a fine colour and Mr. L. J. LeClair

The J. C. TURNBULL COMPANY, Limited

LICENSE INSPECTOR JOS STEWART, ETC.

On the street within the last month Sergt. Blade has called me Gizzard Stewart and a son of ——." Detective Newhall and Constable Boyd always sneered and turned in a doorway whenenever they met the License Inspetcor.

Cross-Examined by Mr. Hall.

In cross-examining Mr. Stewart, Mr. Hall confined himself to the statement of Hamilton, and condensed ran as follows:

"I showed the statement to Mr. C. S. McClellan, the jeweller and to a number of others."

"Did you ever take this Hamilton statement into the Review office?" asked Mr. Hall.

"I thought it necessary to show this documents around the city to defend myself. I was accused by the Chief of performing my duty only according to my political views."

Mr. Hall asked why the charge contained in Hamilton's statement was not handed to the Chief of Police or the chairman of the Police Commission, as it was a very serious crime to conspire to steal whiskey.

"It was none of my business," was Mr. Stewart's reply.

Mr. Hall further asked him if a crime was contemplated and known to him if he would not inform the police."

"It would be none of my business."

"Are you very popular with the men whom you prosecute for selling liquor?"

"Yes."

"You are an extraordinary man," served Mr. Hall.

The Commission adjourned for lunch.

MONDAY AFTERNOON'S SESSION

Yesterday afternoon Mr. R. R. Hall continued the cross examination. J. W. Hamilton, witness repeated his evidence relating to police protection, wrich he dictated in the office of the License Board, Toronto. He reiterated his belief that neither Detective Newhall or any of the police force would give police protection to Sullivan. He also confessed that Mr. Stewart prompted him while he dictated the statement in the Commissioner's office. He opened the statement by saying that the information he was about to give was private and Mr. Stewart promised that it would be kept private.

"Mr. Stewart asked me to sign the statement, but I refused as I said I did not believe them. I thought it rather queer that I was asked to sign the statement when it was going to be kept private."

"Two Sheets"

About the twelvth of July Mr. Stewart came around to the hotel and told me to close it up, giving as a reason that Magistrate Dumble had cancelled my license. Mr. Stewart added that if Hamilton had stood by him and did as he wanted him, to-say he would still have his license. Mr. Stewart told Hamilton that he had been selling liquor since. He hadn't, but he did not tell Mr. Stewart this, as "when Stewart gets two sheets to the wind, it is no use talking to whom, so I shut up."

Mr. Hall asked him what he did regarding the expenses of the trip to Toronto.

"I charged that up to the profit and loss account."

Mr. Hamilton said that Rae Sullivan denies to this day that he had any connection with the whiskey deal at Kendry.

"Mr. Stewart told me that he could not pass up George street but the police telephoned me up and told me about it. That never occurred and I told Mr. Stewart so."

"Did you know of any attempt to steal any whiskey out of Mr. Stewart's office?"—"No."

"Didn't you tell Stewart that Sergt. Blade attempted to steal whiskey out of the office?"—"No."

Mr. G. N. Gordon

Mr. G. N. Gordon was next called into the witness box and admitted that Chief Thompson asked as a special request that he refrain from calling any city policemen for the defence of Rae Sullivan as he did not want the impression to go to Inspector Stewart that they were defending him. He told Chief Thompson that he thought it necessary to call some of them in the interests of justice.

Inspector Joseph Stewart took his place in box and confirmed Hamilton's statement as to the place in which Hamilton's charge was made.

"I recommended," began Mr. Stewart, "that Mr. Hamilton be granted a license because he had no previous convictions against him. I received his license, but in the meantime Hamilton had been fined for a breach of the O.T.A., and on orders from the License Board, I withheld his license. I told Hamilton that I would not charge up my expenses to Toronto to the Commission when I was on his business, and that he would have to pay it. Bert Howden told me that Hamilton was selling liquor to everybody and he also told me that the police gave Hamilton the tip when I was near.

Will Be Called.

The court decided that Bert Howden should be subphoened.

"Mr. Howden said he didn't want to be mixed up in the case," continued Mr. Stewart, "because he wouldn't be able to get a drink if he did."

Referring to Hamilton's statement, he concluded by saying that if they had been successful in getting the liquor out of County Constable Moore's house, Stewart would be charged with stealing it. Mr. Stewart related what took place in the Commissioner's office and said that he never prompted Hamilton, while he dictated the statement.

"Hamilton did not say, as he said here, that he did not believe the statement," said witness.

"My renutation was getting around the street in a way that I didn't approve, when it was commonly reported that I captured only water at Kendry, instead of whiskey and thus to vindicate myself, I showed a copy of this statement to a number of reputable citizens in the city. I deny Hamilton's statement that I promised to obtain his license if he would stand behind me."

"Did you mention Sergt. Blade's name to Hamilton, while on the train?" asked Mr. Widdifield.

"I did not."

"Did you believe Hamilton's statement?"

"I did."

"Did you see Magistrate Dumble at the time of the Sullivan case?"

"Yes, I told Mr. Dumble that it was positive, because I saw Sullivan in the motor car."

Ancient History.

A list of ancient history was rehearsed by Mr. Stewart, when he told how he was a member of the local police force.

"The friction with the police force began when the police prosecuted a number of boys who entered a warehouse. Nineteen bottles of confiscated whiskey were in the hands of the chief and the Liquor Commissioners asked me to ascertain how many bottles of whiskey were going to the hospitals, as the chief asked the Board for permission to dispose of it in the hospitals. This was the time of the influenza epidemic. The hospitals reported they bought all their liquor through the drug stores, and I sent the facts to the Commissioners, who sent a letter to the chief of police authorizing him to hand confiscated liquor over to the said Mr. Stewart. I met the Chief on the street, who seemed vexed and said he would hand no liquor over to me."

Says Can Get Liquor.

"The Chief said I got liquor in for myself and I said I had; but bought it before the O.T.A. went into force."

"What will you do if the referendum goes No, No, No, No?" requested His Honor.

"Well, I think I can get it anyhow," said Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Hall objected to Mr. Stewart's evidence starting with: "I am informed, etc.," against the chief, which gives the chief no chance to answer back. He wanted a charge laid against the chief. He described Mr. Stewart's course in saying: "I am informed," as cowardly, and demanded some specific charges.

PASSENGERS FOR AERIAL SQUADRON

TWO MORE AVIATORS ARRIVED IN THE CITY LAST EVENING

The air squadron at the Exhibition Grounds was augmented yesterday by the arrival from Toronto of a Curtis machine manned by Lieut. McCrea and Lieut. McKay, who recently purchased the machine from the Bishop-Barker Company and are en route to Montreal. The two air men who both recently returned from overseas where they had been on active service will remain in the city for a few days and contemplate making exhibition flights from the field adjoining the Exhbition Grounds.

Making Entries

Captain Dallin and Captain Sater have had a busy session today taking entries for flights in their Curtiss machine which will be made throughout the day from the field adjoining the Exhibition Grounds. Captain Dallin's sensational flight at seven o'clock last evening in his Fokker biplane which was used extensively by the enemy before the armistice won the confidence and admiration of the hundreds who witnesses his daring air feats. Entries for flights may be made from the aero photo stand which is anned by S. Bonnick ad E. W. Mees, men from the Bishop-Barker Company.

Things Hidden by the Censor.

Coming out of the rift of the war these days are some astounding stories, articles, and novels which could not have been published previously by reason of the censor's prohibitions. One presumes that the next two or three years will see a somewhat continuous crop of surprising things like these revealing happenings and conditions concerning which we did not dream during the last five years. Some of these are told in Lord French's "1914," which has stirred up a very great amount of interest in England, and is likely to do the same in Canada. Another book containing the same sort of material, though in novel form, is Conningsby Dawson's "The Test of Scarlet," which is written around the actions of "The Sacrifice Battery," in the last days of the war telling stories of the doings of our men as would hardly be believed could they not be verified by those who took part in them.

JACK DEMPSEY OFFERS TO MEET LIST OF WELL-KNOWN HEAVYWEIGHTS

SAYS HE'LL MEET BECKETT, FULTON AND CARPENTIER ALL IN THE SAME NIGHT—THE MOST AMAZING OFFER EVER MADE BY A SCRAPPER

New York—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, has made one of the most unusual offers to the sporting world that any champion pugilist ever made. In a statement issued last night in Philadelphia, the heavyweight title-holder declared that he would Box Joe Beckett, champion of Great Britain; Fred Fulton, the American, now in Great Britain and Georges Carpentier, the French champion, in the same ring, one after another on the same night.

Dempsey, who is performing at a theatre in the Quaker City, said: "If the National Sporting club of London, Mr. Cochrane of Olympia, or any other responsible British promoter, will guarantee me a substantial purse I will agree to meet Fred Fulton, Joe Beckett and Georges Carpentier, one after the other in the same ring."

There were no conditions other than a "substantial purse," but just what the conqueror of Jess Willard would consider substantial is a question that may be settled, later..

Offer Amazes.

Not even lucky Bob Fitzsimmons, whose doctrine was that "the bigger they are the 'arder they fall," ever made such an amazing offer. Fitz, shortly after losing his title to Jim Jeffries, knocked out Tom Sharkey and Gus Ruhlin in something less than jig time, and then challenged Jeffries to immediate combat. Fitz fought his fights with Sharkey and Ruhlin within the span of a week.

Dempsey's proposition is the result of an offer made by Fred Fulton, the plasterer, whom Dempsey plastered in about 18 seconds just about a year ago at this time. Fulton offered to meet Beckett and Carpentier in the same ring on the same night, one after another. Dempsey has raised the ante, and the sporting world is justly amazed. Dempsey insists, however, that Fulton first step into the ring if his proposition is accepted. Jack is justly incensed against the Rochester confessor, who sought to belittle the achievements of Dempsey by declaring the match at Harrison a fake. Jack believes that the same one-two punch that dropped Fulton then will drop him again.

Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, is in whole accord with his charge in the offer to box the three men in one night. He said to a Philadelphia newspaper man:

Terms Agreeable.

"Go ahead. Make it as strong as you like. Cable it to London. Call Fulton's bluff. If the other two did not possess any more heart than the Minnesota plasterer, the whole thing would be over in three rounds. Jack will be on the job. All he wants is a reasonable purse and fair play. He will do the rest."

It is felt that none of the men included in the offer can afford more than light exercise for Dempsey in single combat. The champion proved in his battle with Willard that he is one of the most terrific hitters that ever lived. No man can hope to stand against him in the ring. Fulton with his glass jaw surely could not. Beckett failed to startle the world when he took 17 rounds to wear down the rather passe McGoorty. The fiery, plucky Carpentier, server of France and decorated for gallantry in action, arouses a sympathetic chord in the hearts of boxing fans. Although boxers should on their own feet, the fans would not like to see Carpentier swept down, even by an American.

J. W. MAYNEARD WON TROPHY

WINNERS DEFEATED A NUMBER OF GOOD BOWLERS

The trophy presented by Mr. Clark for competition between members of the local club, was won by J. W. Mayneord, and Carl McLean who defeated T. C. Elliott and J. F. Convery in the final last night. The game was very keenly contested, it being necessary to play an extra end before a decision was arrived at.

Mayneord got away to a good start and at one time was leading by eleven points to one. Elliott, however, played a very consistent game and overcame the lead; in fact on going to play the last end he had two points to the good. Mayneord scored two on this end and tied up the score, eventually winning out in the extra end by two points—16 to 14.

To reach the finals, Mayneord met and defeated G. F. Cairns, H. McCusker and R. Elliott, while Elliott defeated W. J. Oke, D. H. Moore and Dr. Hammond.

THE PETERBOROUGH GOLFERS HAVE RETURNED FROM NEW YORK

WERE WELL PLEASED WITH VISIT TO THE GAY LIGHTS OF THE METROPOLIS.

Mr. R. Miles Hamilton and Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, who were signally honored by being chosen amongst the 15 representatives of the Senior Golfers Association of Canada to play against the Senior Golfers Association of the United States, returned on Saturday from their visit in New York. Two hundred of the members of the Senior Golfers Association of Canada, played to qualify for the match Monday and Tuesday at Brampton links and were the Peterboro representatives report, treated royally. They met with ideal hospitality and were given the freedom of the links. On Tuesday the fifteen representatives chosen started on their journey to the United States, and on their arrival in New York were met by W. H. Presbrey who has just been elected president of the Apawamis Club to succeed Mr. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Assurance company.

Mr. Presbrey took the Canadian Golfers in hand and brought them to the Union League Club from whence they got an excellent view of the Pershing Parade and after that the Hotel Commodore, and told them that while in New York they must consider themselves guests of the Golfers' Association.

Canadians Did Well.

In the afternoon they were taken to the Apawamis Club, about forty miles from New York and had a practice game on the links. On Thursday the day of the game both players acquitted themselves in a manner creditable to Canada and Mr. Hamilton who played against Mr. Wendell of Philadelphia defeated his opponent, while Mr. Dela Fosse, who played with Mr. Haas, tied.

The Canadians couldn't have been more royally treated, Mr. Dela Fosse said. In the afternoon the ladies gave a splendid tea in their honor, and in the evening a banquet at which Chief Justice Pitney of the Supreme Court of the United States and Mr. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Assurance, were outstanding figures. On the Canadian side Mr. Baker, of the Canadian Pacific and Mr. W. G. Rose of the Harbor Commission of Montreal, were speakers. While the Canadians did not win, they hope to do so at the next meeting, which takes place in Ottawa next year.

TELEGRAPH WITH LIGHTS.

Battleships Can Send Signals Twelve Miles In Daylight.

Although searchlight signaling between battleships was a means of communication at sea long before the introduction of wireless telegraphy, it is still utilized.

The latest battleships of our navy are equipped with projectors designed especially for this purpose, while the older vessels use their regular searchlights, for which auxiliary shutters are supplied. Levers operate these latter members, flashing the lights on and off quickly so that messages may be spelled out in dots and dashes, either at day or night.

For day signaling the light shaft is directed squarely at the observer, and for enabling this a telescope is mounted with the projector. When atmospheric conditions are good the radius of communication is about twelve miles in any direction. At night this is obviously much increased, for light may be played on some prominent cloud and seen for a distance of forty or fifty miles.

When there are no clouds the searchlights may be directed skyward and their shafts of light seen at closer range. The feasibility of launching captive balloons as substitutes for cloud banks has been suggested.—Popular Mechanics.

BLACKSTONE AT GRAND THEATRE

THE GREAT BLACKSTONE, WORLD'S MASTER MAGICIAN.

The Hand of Death: Destiny!

From the beginning of things these two factors of life have been coupled by decree of the Grim Reaper.

Now comes the Great Blackstone, the twentieth century miracle man, who employs the hand of death of thaumaturgic history as the spiritualistic agency by which he is enabled to reveal the truths of past and present, and forecast the future.

The Hand of Death: Destiny!

Thus are these two factors of life coupled with startling realism in earthly demonstration.

Cogliostro's hand — the hand of death—is employed by Blackstone as the sensational telegraphic feature of his spectacular production, embracing every art of psychic and mystic creation known to the world.

It was the hand of Cogliostro, the seer of past ages, which outlined the events of the future, analysed mental secrets, traced crimes, solved mysteries, did the seemingly impossible.

The mysteriously resourceful hand of Cogliostro makes its re-entry into the whirl of life in the truly marvellous performance of the Great Blackstone, conceded by press and public to be the most resourceful man in the world, master of the mind, of magic, superman of a mysticism, American Ace of Amazement, astoundment, astonishment, achievement — the one man on earth who can do everything with the cleverest pair of hands known to the universe.

The New York newspaper, reviewing his two weeks' engagement at a Brooklyn theatre, said of him, "truly must be one man hell hates."

The reason the critic assigned: He has rescued from tereho osfib uhi.cd has rescued from the fires of oblivion the legitimate arts of magic Legerdemain, Necromancy, Thaumaturgy, Telegraphy, which unscrupulous stage grafters would have exterminated but for the coming of this superman of mysticism.

A complete review of the New York press would read: 100 gasps, 1,000 laughs, 10,000 heart throbs, 1,000,000 eloquent words of enthusiastic praise, and of the performance thus summed up by the hand of death is the startling feature.

Do you want to know anything?

Ask the hand of death when the Great Blackstone opens his engagement for two days, Friday and Saturday (matinee on Saturday), at the Grand Theatre.

THRILLING PRIZE FIGHT IS STAGED IN "SPORTING LIFE"

One of the most exciting battles ever shown in any motion picture is that in which Lord Woodstock fights a victrious battle himself after the man he had wagered upon had been drugged by his enemies. This is one of the numerous thrilling scenes in Maurice Tourneur's fine picturization of "Sporting Life," the famous English Melodrama, which is showing to-day for the last time at the Allen Theatre.

John, Earl of Woodstock, is a young nobleman who is harassed by debt. He is a thorough sportsman and when John Lee, a gypsy prize fighter, is matched, Lord Woodstock bets every dollar he can raise on him. But Woodstock has a powerful enemy who causes Lee to be doped by the father of the girl he had wronged and Woodstock, in order to save his wagers, enters the ring himself and fights a victorious battle.

It also develops that Lord Woodstock has backed his mare, Lady Love, to win the Derby and to best him, his enemy gets into action again and has Lady Love stolen. Then, to clinch his villainy, he kidnaps Woodstock and circulates the report that he is dead. Both master and horse are rescued in time and when Lady Love wins the Derby Woodstock cashes in to the tune of many thousands of pounds.

The picture is one of unusual thrill and expectancy. The love element is provided by Lord Woodstock who loves Norah Cavanagh, a daughter of his chief trainer and when he gets into trouble with ruin staring him in the face, Norah saves him. The photoplay was produced under the direction of Mr. Tourneur and the results have been highly effective.

NOISES OF THE NIGHT.

Weird Sounds That Startle Travelers in the Desert of Gobi.

In Ceylon the devil bird is a constant source of alarm. No one knows what species of bird it is, but throughout the whole night its cries are horrible and bloodcurdling. The natives regard the cry of this mysterious bird as a sure presage of death.

In the desert of Gobi, which divides the mountainous snow clad plateau of Tibet from the milder regions of Asia, travelers assert that at night they have heard sounds high up in the sky, as of the clashing of arms and sounds of martial music. If travelers fall to the rear or get separated from the caravan they hear themselves called by name. If they go after the voice they get lost in the desert. Sometimes they hear the trampling of horses, and, calling it for their caravans, are drawn away, and, wandering from the right course are hopelessly lost. The people believe that these sounds are produced by the spirits that haunt the desert.

The Irish banshee may be traced to the owls, as the description of the cry is so similar to that of the owl, which completes the identification. Most of the weird sounds that are heard in the air at night seem to have superstitious terrors and are often magnified and altered by those who hear them.

WHIMS OF A BOXER.

Corbett's Nerves Jangled When He Was About to Meet Jeffries.

Jim Corbett was all nerves when preparing for a bout. Jimmy Coffroth, who promoted the bout between Corbett and Jeffries at San Francisco, told this one on Jim:

"Corbett was an easy man to get along with save that he was finicky about small matters. For instance, he came to me before the Jeffries fight and wanted to know who would be a likely referee. When I told him the man he sought him out and put him through a third degree on boxing.

"There never was a question of ring form that he didn't bring up. A few days before the fight he came to me and asked to be shown the door in Mechanics' pavilion through which he would enter on his arrival. I showed him the big front door, and he said, 'No, too much jostling there; show me another door.'

"I took him to every entrance in the building, but none would suit, and I wound up by having a carpenter cut a special door in the side of the building for him. That was the queerest whim I ever ran across dealing with boxers."

Scared by the Elephant.

Tradition has it that Caesar brought elephants with him to Britain and that they contributed to his conquest of the island. Having unsuccessfully attempted to cross the Thames, Caesar built a large turret on an elephant and, loading it with bowmen and slingers, ordered them to pass the stream, whereupon the Britons, terrified at the sight of the unknown monster, fled in confusion.—London Chronicle.

FELL 2,000,000 BRICK CHIMNEY.

London. — A chimney stack at Northampton, which was made from 2,000,000 bricks, was 250 feet high and took two years to build, has been felled. The chimney was the third highest in England.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Brad Merrell, Guardian

By HERBERT H. GOODWIN

(Copyright.)

There was vituperation loud and deep on Turkey Creek. The owner of the ranch, himself temporarily brought low by a refractory cayuse, was expecting a visitor from the East—his niece—and Brad Merrell had been told off to act as her guide, if not philosopher and friend.

Brad was the steadiest man on the ranch. This fact was enough for his employer. He was also the worst woman-hater. This fact made it too much for Brad.

"Why couldn't it hev been Paper-Collar Joe?" he demanded collectively and fiercely of the men, as they loitered outside the bunkhouse. "He'd hev been like a high-stepper with a new harness on. He'd sooner talk soft to a woman than rope the liveliest steer that ever bellered. But me! I won't hev nothin' to do with her. I'll take my time in the mornin', I'll light out overnight—I'll burn down the whole ranch!"

CHASE & SANBORN - MONTREAL

"Now, Brad," wheedled Tom Mason, affectionately known as Old Soft Soap, by reason of his peacemaking proclivities—"now, Brad, just stop an' think. Ye've yer own nice little place up on Turkey creek, where ye kin look after it handy, an' all plans made for the summer. Whut would ye do with the rest of the season of ya take yer time now? Yer place is rented, it's too late to get taken on anywhere else, an' ye'd only lope eround an' spend yer wad. This tenderfoot gal 'll only stay a few weeks, an' it'll be a rest fer ye—"

"Rest!" bellowed Brad. "Rest! It'll wreck every nerve in my carcass. She'll be one of two kinds; she'll either squeal every time she sees a lizard, an' be afraid of her own shadow, or she'll carry a blamed tin box fer bugs an' things. She'll either gush eround about me bein' 'so picturesque,' or she'll be shocked at my language an' my pipe, an' try to reform me. Rest! A woman'll let a man rest only when she's been buried an' has a granite monument over her!"

Old Soft Soap prevailed, however, in the end. Next morning Brad started for the railroad, as a lamb begins its journey to the shambles, yet with a most unlamblike mien and accouterment, for his pistol-belt and dirk, his leathern "chaps" and rakish sombrero, proclaimed him a "bad man," indeed.

The Overland Limited was late, and the engine seemed to puff and whistle its disgust at being stopped at the little station that raised itself above the surrounding sea of grass. With much complaining and creaking it halted for a moment, and then its rattling links climbed slowly up the rise.

Brad looked for a mass of furbelows and a Saratoga trunk, but the platform was vacant except for an ample female, standing beside a bulging carpet-bag, a heap of boxes and bundles, and a shrouded bird cage.

"She din't come," muttered Brad, his skies brightening.

The ample figure bore down upon him like a ship under sail. It was surmounted by a pleasant face of florid complexion, beneath a broad hat and a veil of grass green.

"Can you tell me if Turkey Creek ranch is anywhere near here?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," answered Brad, awkwardly pulling at his hatbrim; "it's only about twenty-five miles over east. Was ye wantin' to go there?"

"That's what I came for," she replied promptly. "I'm Orphelia Gordon, an' I've come to visit my uncle, John Taylor."

"Ye're Orph—Miss Gordon!" exclaimed Brad. "Why, I thought—" he checked himself suddenly.

"Yes, I s'pose you did think I was a young girl," she retorted. "No harm done. I was once, an' if I ain't so good-looking as I was then, I know a heap more. If you've come for me, don't let's lose any time, but help me get my baggage loaded, an' we'll be start. . ."

The cage cover fell apart, and a brilliant red and green head appeared. It cocked itself impertinently on one side, one beady eye looked Brad over from head to foot, and a high-pitched, energetic voice ejaculated:

"You be blamed!"

For the first time the bewildered look on the man's face relaxed, and a grin spread over his bronzed features. The woman's floridity deepened, and finally she, too, laughed.

"I'm ashamed of Polly's language. Old Doctor Henderson told me once that it was as bad for me, a professor, to keep a profane parrot as if I was profane myself; but I might've had a husband that swore, and the minister wouldn't have wanted me to get a divorce for that. Besides, this bird is more knowin' and less troublesome than any man I ever saw."

"I don't mind him swearin' at me," said Brad, recollecting his ferocious armament. "I reckon I ain't much of a picture."

She turned, and for the first time scrutinized her companion.

"Land!" she said reassuringly. "You're all right for a cowboy, away out on the frontier this way. You look like a man, any way, and not like some of them perfumed little counter-jumpers back in Harmon Center."

Brad straightened his slouching shoulders and walked across after the last piece of luggage with a swagger that set his spurs jingling. Just as he stooped to pick it up Miss Gordon checked him sharply.

"Leave that basket alone! That's Jeremy Taylor, and he's the touchiest Maltese that ever spit. It hurts his feelin's enough to be shut up that way, and if a stranger handled him he'd have a fit. I'll hold him in my lap as we drive. No, you needn't help me. I've been gettin' in and out over wheels alone all my life, and this buckboard is low. I'm glad that you don't use overhead check-reins on your horses. I belong to the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and I'm sorry to see you wear spurs."

They were trotting swiftly over the prairie, and Brad had recovered his faculties sufficiently to give brief answers to Miss Gordon's running fire of questions and observations. Suddenly the man involuntarily checked the mustangs that he drove, and gave vent to a smothered exclamation. He looked in perplexed alarm at Miss Gordon.

"What's the matter? Sick?" she queried.

He pointed to a horseman some distance in front of them.

"Bill Jukes," he answered briefly. "He's promised to shoot me at sight, and he's likely drunk enough not to know whether you're a man or woman. You drive an' I'll get out an' meet him on foot. I'll come back after ye soon, or else—Sykes, a mile north of the station, will bring ye over to Turkey Creek."

As he proffered the reins, Brad already had his revolver out of his belt. She gave an indignant sniff.

"It's likely I'll drive off and leave you to be shot! Give me them reins, and you look to your guns. We'll drive by Mr. Jukes at a pretty good pace, and if you should happen to hurt him—may the Lord have mercy on him!"

Shaking off Brad's restraining touch, and deaf to his expostulations, she put the whip to the ponies, and the buckboard lurched forward on the deeply-cut trail. Jukes was bearing down upon them, his face inflamed with drunken rage. Two or three shots whistled past them. Miss Gordon held the reins tightly and ducked her head. Brad fired repeatedly as they passed, and just beyond them Jukes reeled heavily from the saddle. With an effort the woman brought the team to a standstill.

"I'm glad I fastened Polly's cage on good and tight!" was the first exclamation. Then, noticing a broken check-rein: "I'll get a piece of twine out of my pocket to tie up that strap. Why, your sleeve's all bloody. I do believe that nasty wretch hit you!"

"Just my arm, I guess, Miss Gordon," replied the man, a little uncertainly: "but I hope—that is, I'm afeerd I've done for Jukes!"

They looked back. The outlaw lay motionless by the trail, his bridle rein still over his nerveless arm.

II.

As the rays of the setting sun slanted level across the prairie, a strange procession stopped at Turkey Creek ranch. Miss Gordon still drove, superintended by Jeremy Taylor, who thrust his head through a hole in the lid of his basket and glared balefully at the universe in general. Beside her sat Brad, pale under his tan, with his right arm swung from his neck. At the tail of their chariot, so to speak, was tied the horse of Bill Jukes, and fastened in the saddle, plentifully bandaged and besmeared with blood, was the man himself. His manner was drooping in the extreme, while from an opening in the cage cover Polly bestowed an unbroken succession of choice epithets upon the captive.

Miss Gordon, of them all, was unruffled, and she explained with a cheerfulness that was almost airy:

"Jukes rode down on us, shootin' and swearin' dreadful, and Mr. Merrell had to defend us, of course, so I took the lines. Then we couldn't go off and leave the man lyin' there, maybe to die, so we went back, and I bandaged him up, and we brought him along. You can do what you want to with him. I don't reckon he feels very spruce, seein' that he was shot through the lung, an' that Polly's been swearin' at him every step of the way. Mr. Merrell, here, got a bullet in his arm, and has bled consid'able, though it's only a flesh wound."

The gods on Olympus may have been surprised to see Minerva spring full-panoplied from the brain of Jove, but that was the merest ghost of an emotion compared with what the men of Turkey Creek ranch felt when this splendid apparition in dusty black cashmere dawned upon them, with her nonchalant tale of duelry, leading as captive one of the deadliest outlaws of the country. For a minute there were murmurs of exclamations and glances of amusement; and then, as Miss Gordon, bearing Jeremy Taylor, clambered to the ground, Paper Collar Joe, the Chesterfield of the ranch, gracefully advanced.

"Allow me to assist ye, madam!" he began sweetly, but the visitor waved him back.

"Don't you touch Jeremy Taylor, my good young man!" she warned. "I reckon he's had all his nerves will stand for one while."

And Brad, being tenderly helped over the wheel, drawled shakily, with a flourish of his hand:

"No use, Joe. It was too good a chance to lose, so I jest improved it. Miss Gordon's going to come up Turkey creek, to my place, an' live with me—the future Mrs. Merrell, gents!"

Polly craned his head around the back of the seat and ejaculated fiercely: "You be blamed!" while Miss Gordon's face flushed a deeper red as she bridled and exclaimed:

"Oh, pshaw! Ain't you ashamed of yourself, Brad?"

JUDGE ROBSON'S PROBE SHOWS WIDE SPREAD IN PRICES.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 15.—"I do not see the justification in bacon at 65 and 70 cents a pound," declared Judge H. A. Robson, Chief Commissioner of the Board of Commerce under the Combines and Fair Prices Act. Evidence had been adduced showing that the cost price of bacon sold at those prices was 54c a pound, the 70-cent price being for sliced bacon.

Figures showing that bacon bought from Armour's in Duluth was 4½ cents cheaper laid down in Winnipeg, despite the necessity of paying duty freight, exchange, and all incidental expenses, than the product from the local packers in a lower grade and 1½ cents cheaper in a higher grade were produced by John Guest, manager of a large department store meat market. The shipment from Duluth was made recently and was an experiment. The statement was filed as an exhibit.

Harry Whitla, K.C., representing the Government, was much interested in the price charged for slicing bacon. In Eaton's and Hudson Bay Company this was kept to 2c and 3c, but in many other instances dealers charged as much as 6c. One witness believed at least one pound was left over from a side of bacon which was sliced, and this had to be sold at half the cost price.

Invoices showing a spread of 20 to 25 per cent. between cost and selling price of bacon in several stores were produced, and it was this that drew the remark from the Chief Commissioner that he saw no justification in the high price.

F. A. Acland, a member of the Board, sat with Judge Robson.

CITY WORMS AT $1 EACH ABATE FEARS OF MURDER.

New York.—Residents of the exclusive Central Park West section were given a scare the other night when they saw a man with a pitchfork and spade digging up the ground inside Central Park. They scented a murder mystery and notified the police. The digger was arrested. He was Lewis Minansky. Taken to court he said he was digging worms to go fishing.

"How many did you dig?" the court asked.

"Five," he replied.

"Five dollars," said the court.

COAL SUPPLY FOR BELLEVILLE

Belleville, Sept. 16.—The visit of Mr. E. Guss Porter, M. P. Capt. E. L. Hyman and Capt. W. E. Schuster to Oswego last week has resulted in much talk in shipping circles in that city.

Briefly their proposal is to establish steamboat and passenger connection between this city and Oswego as in the old days was given by the "Oswego Bele," and also to ship large quantities of coal via Oswego and Belleville for distribution throughout the Belleville district.

In pursuance of this object, Capt. Schuster had a cargo of coal loaded into the "Grace M. Filer," at Oswego and forwarded to Belleville harbor where it was unloaded into cars for distribution to the towns and villages in the vicinity of this city. This initial order was an experiment to try out the feasibility of the Oswego-Belleville route as a medium for the transportation of coal as compared with the all-rail route via Niagara and Toronto.

It is all a matter of cost. Capt. Schuster is sanguine that great quantities of coal can be brought over by the eastern water route and money saved by the process.

After-war conditions, and the telephone, No. 3

Improved Conditions—Better Service

TELEPHONE service, like other public services, undoubtedly suffered through the war.

From our staff of skilled telephone workers, 846 went overseas. Many highly efficient operators sought temporary positions in munitions plants. Telephone material became almost unobtainable.

Abnormal conditions are now passing. More than five hundred of our men are back from the front. In most places the supply of competent operators is normal.

There is now the task of restoring the proper margin of reserve plant and of overtaking arrears in repair and maintenance work. The moving season is always difficult. At some exchanges an avalanche of orders for moves comes in—over 13,300 this year at one exchange alone, which meant somewhat of a set-back in getting our plant back to normal.

But the work is progressing. Our plans involve an outlay for the year on extensions and replacements of over $7,000,000. We are giving intensive training in our operators' schools to scores of young women to prepare them for central office positions.

Skilled workers, adequate equipment, a resolve to do the best work possible while realizing that we are all servants of the public—these are the factors which we hope will result in the maintenance of the pre-war standard of telephone service.

And we ask the co-operation of all telephone users.

and infant son is a gem. The display embodies all of the many activities and departments of this studio. Portraits, At Home Studies, Commercial Photography, Finishing for the Amateur, Artistic Framing, Large Portraits in Colour, etc. Everything new and worth while is there.

New India tint, soft focus prints, display all the beauty of an old engraving. Commercial photography of particular interest to manufacturers for catalogue and sales departments' work, as nothing is more convincing than a good photograph.

Is it not true that "the picture your friends want to see is the one you'll see in the mirror when you try on your new "toggery"?" and that is just what the Roy Studio aims to produce at every sitting.

Roy's photographs hold first place in public favor because they possess merits of artistic touch; and for perfect likeness and naturalness win the recognition and approval of the most critical. It will be a treat to inspect this art exhibit at the Fair while the show is on.

LUMBER DISPLAY BY THE ALFRED McDONALD CO.

Builders and others were seen to be constant admirers of the unique lumber exhibit made by the Alfred McDonald Lumber Co. of this city. The display was a surprise to many who had never known the resources of this enterprising firm. "Everything in Lumber" appears to be their motto, and this interesting display in the Main building of the Fair certainly furnished Peterborough visitors with some interesting surprises in lumber and building supplies, turned out at the McDonald Mills, George street south.

Among the varied collection of thier goods shown were samples of doors, sash, interior finish, stain material, hardwood flooring, Beaverboard designs, mouldings, fancy turnings in posts and pillars, roofing, asphalt slates, etc., etc. Visitors will be interested in finding so much of the "bill stuff" in demand so handy to procure as is practically displayed in this exhibit of the McDonald Co.

EXHIBIT AT THE DUFFUS GARAGE.

The Duffus Garage, with its competent sales staff in charge, are displaying a full line of Ford models, including Touring Sedan and Coupelet and Ford One-Ton Truck. Also a 1920 Dodge Brothers touring car and Gray-Dort "Special" with all the latest improvements, including gasoline tank on rear, emergency brake lever and new style top, etc.

In addition to the above they are exhibiting the marvellous Fordson Farm Tractor and Oliver Plow and other power farming machinery.

They are also exhibiting the McCartney Milking Machine, which is recognized as the most up-to-date milking machine on the market.

The Duffus Garage hold the record of being the first to exhibit automobiles at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition some seven or eight years ago and from year to year the exhibit has grown until it is now equal to anything at the Toronto Exhibition, and their many customers and prospects find it a great pleasure to visit the exhibit and familiarise themselves with the new models and up-to-date changes from time to time.

LIVING ROOM EXPOSITION BY RICHARD HALL & SON.

Handsome and home-like as have been the artistic settings by Messrs. Richard Hall & Son of this city of a model living room as developed in former years' exhibitions at our fair, never before has the firm done itself so much credit as in the design shown in their exhibit this year in the centre aisle of the main building.

At no more appropriate time of the year than now—just before the Fall home making—could such an appropriate object lesson in home decoration have been evolved for the benefit of home lovers.

Two requisites that every living room should possess, is service and refinement. They can only be attained by the proper selections in such harmony as will best survive the test of careful blending of tones. In this way can the home-lover accomplish a transformation from the common and unattractive to the beautiful and refined appearance.

In this model design of a living room as revealed in the Richard Hall & Son exhibit, at this fair, it is not so much the expenditure of money that determines the worth of the good effect, as it is the amount of happiness and comfort which one sees reflected and which is so ingenuously portrayed. Culture and refinement is shown, and the tout ensemble strikes a responsive chord.

The skilfully chosen selections which contribute to make such a pleasant and artistic effect in design, is produced by a pretty bay window draped in Radio velvet trimmed in Egyptian edging in gold to harmonize with the blended walls. There is also shown a cosy tapestry brick fireplace, complete in every detail for use, built specially for Richard Hall & Son by Mr. W. J. Mein.

Just three pieces of furniture is shown—a Chesterfield and two big arm chairs, which are made and designed throughout by expert employees of the firm. Two of these pieces are covered in a very fine toned black ground tapestry, with a beautiful all over floral design, with soft effects of old blue, old gold and Persian rose, giving a soft Radio effect. The odd chair in the room is covered in a two-toned Radio striped velvet. One of the duties of the home decorator is to produce chairs specially constructed to suit the heads of the house and in proportion to their sizes and shapes. The floor coverings displayed are fine samples of Wilton rugs, in Persian effects, and harmonize with the shades of the room. Two Chesterfield lamps are shown, properly placed; sometimes as many as three of these lamps are used in rooms this size, with the colorings in the shades, of course, suitably blended. What appeared to be quite a new revelation to the ladies were the unique style of cushions shown. Both in shape, material and colorings these cushions are decidedly novel and fresh, having been evolved specially for the occasion by the firm's expert decorators.

The pictures selected for the wall decorations bespeak the connoisseur's taste. They were loaned by Mr. R. J. Soden, some of which are reproductions of world famous paintings, specially framed by Mr. Soden, in an appropriate manner. Among these artistic pieces are the following:

"The Frugal Meal," by Israels.
"The Bay of Baiae," by Turner.
"Rembrandt," by Rembrandt.
"Going to Work," by Millet.
"By the Sea," by Artz.
"The Waggoners," by Rosa Bonheur.
"Landscape," by Leader.

How hospitable the reception to your friends would be an evening where the welcome extended covers the enjoyment of a living room such as is here depicted.

Rugs can make or mar the appearance of an otherwise perfect room; but here the good taste of the decorator has been able by careful blending of tones to accomplish what only charming rugs can do in assisting in this most interesting and restful display.

Richard Hall & Son's facilities for furnishing living room furniture, is most complete. It is not necessary now to furnish the room with complete suites. One can take advantage of separate pieces of furniture by securing arm chairs, sofas, divans, rockers, as individual productions when luxuriously furnished in fancy coverings of any desired material. In this connection it may be mentioned that if one can procure any old pieces of furniture with mahogany or rosewood frames, they can be recovered in first quality upholstering that will appeal to correct decorating tastes. This work is done by an expert decorator employed by Richard Hall & Son. If decorations, curtains, rugs, etc., in keeping are needed to complete the scheme of furnishing, they can easily be selected from the wide range of samples in the Richard Hall & Son's store.

Warmth brings cheer, whether produced by coal, wood or electricity. The evening newspaper, the big armchair and a good after-dinner cigar, never prove so alluring as when accompanied by the warmth and cheer that is radiated by a good stove.

To those at the Fair, who felt the chilly autumn air stealing in upon them yesterday, the superb display of stoves by the Peterborough Hardware Co. had an appealing effect. Here was brought into view a most comprehensive range of Electric Ranges an dElectric Heaters, as well as the famous Gurney-Oxford Coal and Wood Stoves and Ranges. Other allied lines were shown, consisting of Electric Plates, Toasters and Irons, all goods of superior merit and of the most seasonable character. The display made of these modern stoves and ranges and allied goods, was sufficient to attract streams of visitors which thronged the exhibit.

The stove problem and the coal question have been anxious subjects for consideration for several years, but the Gurney-Oxford people claim that they have got round all sides. The Peterborough Hardware Co. stand back of this statement and declare that they can show that in the Gurney-Oxford stoves and heaters they offer the best service on the market, at a price as low as it can be made. They give a guarantee that if any stove, for any reason fails to give satisfactory results, they agree to refund the price paid them on this stove, any time within 100 days of the time of purchasing.

As usual the Gurney-Oxford "Chancellor" steel combination range for coal, wood or gas came in for marked attention. Its "economizer" feature demonstrates how the fuel bill can be cut down. It tells you how to control the heat so as to get just the heat you want when you want it, saving one-fifth of the fuel. The "Chancellor" range may be operated with either coal or wood; and hubby will certainly smack his lips when he tastes beef or biscuit fresh from the ovens of this even-burning range. It is trimmed with highly polished nickel and neat white enamel, the large bake oven, warming oven and other good features it possesses making it an ornament to any well-arranged kitchen.

Among the special inducements offered buyers of Gurney stoves is the unusually close prices the various stoves and ranges are sold at. In addition to this, the freight and all delivery charges are paid on all stoves sent out, and repairs and extra parts can be had here at any time.

A combination gas and coal stove was shown, which appeared to catch the attention of spectators as a handy outfit for many reasons. And the various coal heaters, gas heaters, and oil stoves proved to be interesting to many who are wondering how best to economize their coal supply.

Electric heating and cooking stoves are receiving more and more attention every day because of the problem of cost and insufficiency of coal, being so much in evidence. Many housekeepers are now being considered lucky whose kitchen is equipped with an electric cooking range. One of the most conspicuous and desirable features of the electric range is the rapid and easy control of starting and shutting off of the heat. Besides, everything is always neat and clean about the store—no ashes, no dust, no smoke, no dirt. The fire may be regulated at will in a twinkling, and the heat lowered or increased in a moment.

In this interesting exhibit of the Peterborough Hardware Co., there are displayed a full and complete collection of new and handsome modern electric ranges, heaters and other allied lines. These drew marked attention—so much so that Mr. Fox, the versatile representative of the National Electric Heating Co. was kept busy explaining the salient features of each particular stove, etc. Ladies will find it worth while to visit this exhibit and learn what they can of the merits of electricity in their domestic equipments.

Washing machines were another feature of this exhibit which attracted attention. Some new low pressure and electric power machines had many admirers. They do the washing in one-fourth the time it takes by hand, and is one of the best investments in the house. Hand-power washers were also shown, with a hand tub stand and wringer combined.

The Sherwin-Williams Paints and Varnishes were, as usual, among the outstanding features of this firm's Fair exhibit. So general have these paints come to be used in all classes of work that little is now required in the way of recommendation. But Mr. Stinson, an expert representative of the Sherwin-Williams Co., is in attendance at the fair and will be delighted to furnish enquirers with full and valuable information on their paint requirements.

Robert Pogue, Rev. H. A. McConnochie, South Monaghan, Rev. Geo. Craw, Springville, Rev F. J. Wolland, Norwood, Rev. J. A. MacKenzie of Knox Church, Rev H. L. Bennie of Grafton, Rev. Dr. W. D. Lee of Millbrook, Rev. R. McEachren of Keene, Rev. C. F. McIntosh of Campbellford, Rev. R. McGillivray of Warkworth, Rev. Thomas McNaughton of Harwood, Rev. P. L. Jull of Lakefield, Rev. Victor Walker, Janetville, Rev. W. A. Brennen of Cobourg, Rev. A. W. Gardiner of Brallieboro and Dr. Gandier of Knox College. The elders present were Messrs. J. H. Rateman of Bethany, J. E. Dodds of South Monaghan, David Armstrong of Keene, Jas. Gardiner of Norwood, Geo. Bennett of Port Hope, John McIntosh of Springville, H. B. Cowan and Robert Harrison of the city, and Rev. James Rollins who was appointed Moderator.

First Consideration.

The first question considered was the reconstruction of the boundary of the Presbytery. The change suggested was placing the Southern charges into the Presbyterv of Whitby. The committee which had been previously appointed to investigate the matter was retained to consider the reconstruction further and to confer with all interested. The congregations to be affected are Port Hope, Cobourg, Baillieboro, Grafton Bethsada, Colborne and Brighton

Report on School.

Rev. Mr. Craw gave a report on his visit to the Summer School at Geneva Park and spoke very favorably of the inspiration and spiritual profit received.

Mr. Harrison, the treasurer gave a report of the finances of the Presbytery and asked that a levy of 13 cents per unit be levied for the ensuing year.

Mission Fields.

Rev. Mr. Craw gave a report of the mission field of Harvey and Marmora and said that Mr. Hislop was missionary for the former, Mr. McQueen for the latter. It was left to the Convenor of the Committee to look after the winter supplies.

Professor Gandier gave an inspiring address on the "Forward Movement, its Scope and Aims."

The meeting then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

93RD BATTALION ASSOCIATION MEETS

MEMORIAL SERVICE WILL BE HELD IN MEMORY OF FALLEN COMRADES

A large number of former members of the 93rd Battalion attended the meeting of the 93rd Battalion Association in the G. W. V. A. Rooms on Saturday night, when a report was given of the formation of the Association at the picnic at South Beach.

Col. Johnston gave a detailed account of the battalion funds, explaining that a portion had been used in helping some members and the dependents of former members of the 93rd Battalion, and that the balance was in the hands of the trustees.

A vote of confidence in Lieut.-Col. Johnston and the other officers of the battalion in connection with the funds was carried unanimously.

It was decided that the Association shall meet on the first Tuesday in every month.

The filing cabinet of the 93rd will be retained for the use of the Association. The cabinet contains the records of every man in the 93rd, and will be most useful for future reference. It was decided that the Battalion funds shall be left in the hands of the present trustees to be used to alleviate the needs and necessities of members and dependents of the 93rd on the recommendation of the committee.

A motion to hold a memorial service in memory of the fallen members of the 93rd Battalion was carried unanimously. Pews will be reserved for members of the families of the fallen comrades.

Wives and parents of members of the 93rd Battalion were declared eligible for membership in the Association.

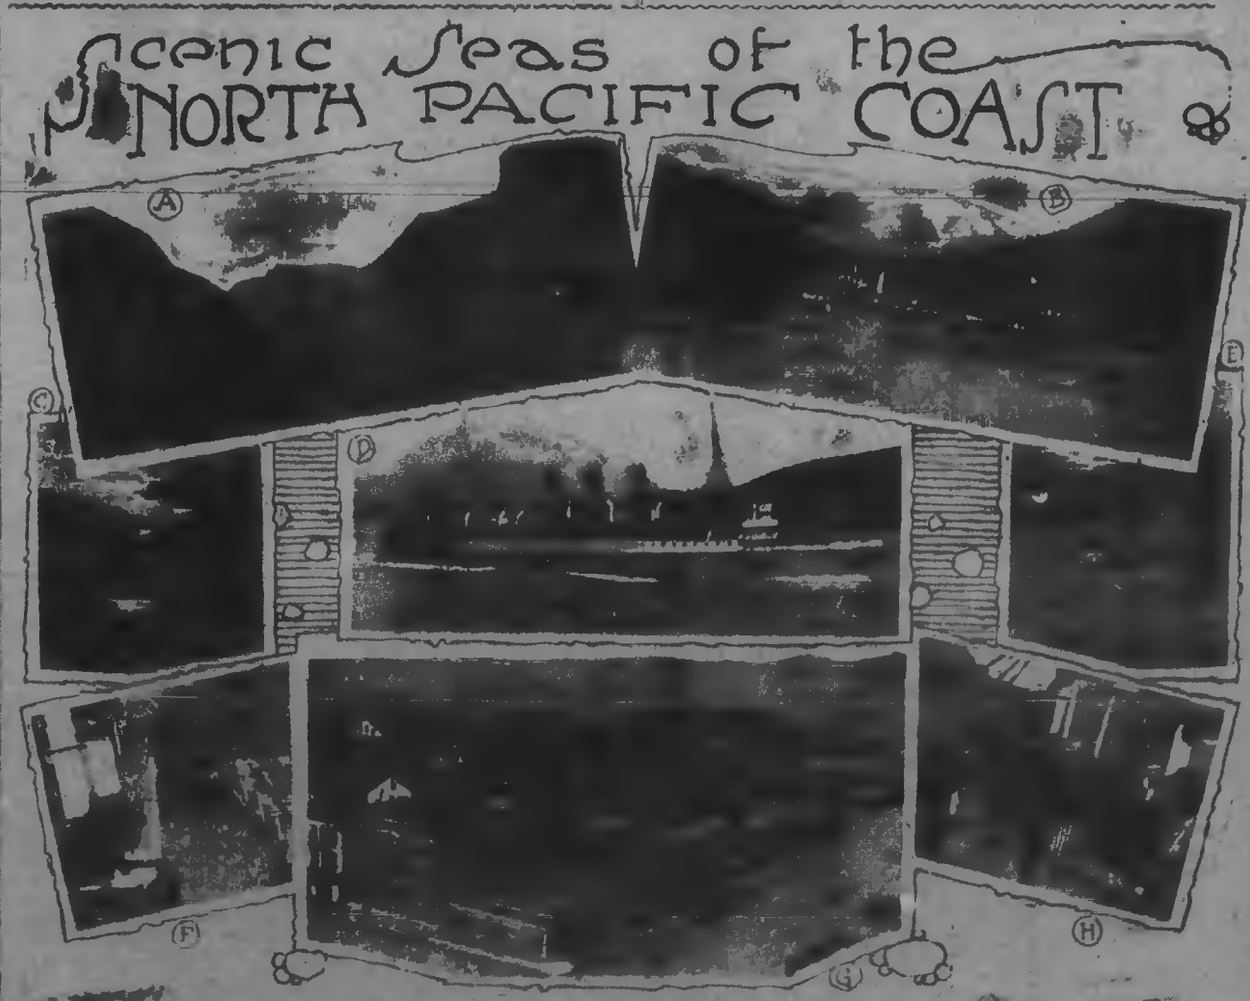
Scenic Seas of the NORTH PACIFIC COAST



There is no more beautiful water trip in America than the sail from Anyox and Prince Rupert to Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle. To those who have made the trip, not one word need be said, but to those who have not, remains in store a trip beyond description. Eight hundred miles on the palatial, ocean-going craft of the Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship company, through what is known as the "Inside Passage," where the waters vary from a mile to five miles in width to narrow channels of but a few hundred yards, and where the mountain scenery is ever beautiful on all sides, briefly speaking, outlines the trip.

B—View at Swanson Bay—a port of call on the trip between Prince Rupert and Vancouver, and the site of the Whalen Pulp & Paper company's plant.

D—Grand Trunk Pacific steamship Prince Rupert. The Prince Rupert and her sister ship Prince George are conceded to be the finest and fastest steamships in the North Pacific coast trade.

The Cattle King Favors Irrigation

Homestead at Gleichen, Alberta,—many such new homes stand on rich irrigated land that was formerly too dry to grow a crop—and the great C. P. R. Irrigation Dam at Bassano, Alberta.

Pat Burns in an enthusiastic interview at Calgary on the subject of irrigation said that if irrigation were general in Alberta there would never be any fear as to drought. As a converted old timer, he writes to Colonel J. S. Dennis of the C. P. R., and William Pearce to congratulate them on the triumph of irrigation, admitting that he did not pay much attention to it in the old days. Now after having just completed a trip over the irrigated district, west of Calgary, he felt that he should make amends by expressing his appreciation, and so has handed copies of congratulatory letters to the press for reproduction. Touching on the tangible proofs of irrigation that he saw, and commenting on the wonderful adaptability of the land for the purpose, and the supply of water available he concludes "If this had only been undertaken years ago there would be no talk of a possible shortage of food for cattle, but it would be now what it will be in the future, one of the richest localities in America. Really I think that the West should be proud of the possession of two far-seeing citizens like yourselves, and if your advice is followed and further miracles worked by spreading the water over other portions of southern Alberta, thus converting them into as fruitful a country as parts now are, you will both deserve the fullest recognition of your fellow citizens in Alberta."

Commenting editorially on the interview, the "Calgary Herald" says: "Looking back over the history of irrigation development in the west the controversy and animosity of the farmers towards the proposed scheme are remembered as well as the criticism and condemnation of the men who were responsible for it, and that those men suffered, and suffered severely is beyond question. They who in the early days foresaw the need of water on the land, if agriculture in Southern Alberta was to endure, and who in spite of being laughed at as visionaries and theorists, induced the C. P. R. to go ahead and construct the systems now in operation, are at least seeing their visions realized. That is some measure of compensation and satisfaction to them, but as Mr. Burns points out in his letter published today, they deserve more; they deserve in addition the fullest recognition of their fellow citizens in Alberta. Five names stand out definitely in this connection: Those of Col. J. S. Dennis, Lord Shaughnessy, Sir Wm. White, William Pearce, and Sir A. T. Galt. Messrs. Dennis and Pearce it was, who determined the practicability of the scheme, the source of water supply, and who constructed the system; Sir Wm. White urged it upon the C. P. R. management. Lord Shaughnessy approved, authorized and provided the funds to bring it to fruition, and Sir A. T. Galt constructed and began operation of the A. R. and I. project south of Lethbridge. Of these five men, two have passed away, and neither criticism nor approval can now affect them. One, Lord Shaughnessy, has in great degree retired from active railway life, but the other two, Messrs. Dennis and Pearce still live and work among us, and it is to them and of them that Mr. Burns writes in recognition of the benefit that their far-sightedness has conferred on this country.

Nobody knows the value of irrigation better than Pat Burns, Canada's cattle king. The career of this man, now a champion of irrigation is one full of interest:

Pat Burns was the son of a farmer and was born in Kirkfield, Ontario, at the age of eleven he was a cattle trader.

This meat millionaire has a business today which requires huge packing plants in Calgary and Vancouver, to supply the needs of over seventy-six distributing houses and retail stores throughout British Columbia and Alberta. At Calgary, Burn's headquarters, the packing plant and office form a town in themselves. The plant in Vancouver is on the water front, and will have a wharf at which ocean-going steamers will be able to load with beef on the hoof, or dressed meats for foreign trade. The two plants can kill, clean, dress up, and get ready for market over 500 steers a day.

Burns came to the West "raw" with a pick and shovel, and worked for $1.50 a day as a navvy on the C. P. R. By careful living and saving, he managed to save up enough money to buy a little stock, and he homesteaded near Brandon. He continued to save, and by working on his homestead and on the railroad as well, he managed to roll up quite a snug little bank account. When the Canadian Pacific drove its last spike, he moved further east, and settled in Calgary, then a little "cow town", as a rancher.

British Columbia began to open up. Mines were discovered in the Kootenays. The C. P. R. began to advertise, and settlers swarmed in. Burns saw his opportunity, and from his prairie herds, he shipped beef into the mountains. His remarkable career began then, and continued in progressiveness until today he is one of the millionaires in the thriving Western metropolis of Calgary, which has grown from its "cow town" stage into a big city with imposing buildings and an atmosphere of "hustle" which impresses even the visitors from Chicago.

Unquestionably, Burn's success had been due to foresightedness. He knew the West and its possibilities when others saw it merely as a feeding ground for cattle; and when the time came, he was prepared to "stick"; he sensed the invasion of capital, and bought real estate with the shrewdness that has always characterized his investments; and today Burns is one of the biggest landowners in Alberta.

He holds a majority of stock in almost every legitimate stock enterprise in the Province, and boosts that enterprise to the limit. He always knows where he is going before he starts, and he is always on the job.

He has a magnificent stone house in Calgary, which is known as "Pat Burn's Castle". He doesn't care a whoop about society, drives in the front seat with the chauffeur, is hail-fellow-well-met with everyone, and has never been known to be called anything but "Pat" Burns. Nobody says "Patrick" and nobody says "Mister", It is "Pat", short and simple. Because he is of Irish descent and his parents reverenced St. Patrick, they called him after the patron saint of the Emerald Isle. He is of the kind that people take to and they call him "Pat" for short, and perhaps it is that element of human kindliness, exemplified in his absence for formality, that has had much to do with making him "Canada's Cattle King".

WAYS OF THE COWBIRDS.

They Think They Can Sing and Won't Build Nests For Themselves.

Just as a man is known by the company he keeps, so this bird is named for the cows which he follows all day. Why the bird prefers the company of the cows has always been a mystery. Once it was thought he ate flies which followed the cows, but recent examinations show that the bird's favorite food consists of weed seeds and grasshoppers. Yet he'll follow the animals all day, sometimes perching on their backs to steal a ride. You've guessed his name, the cowbird.

Farmers have learned to value this bird very highly. He destroys millions of harmful insects and quantities of weed seeds. But then he should be able to do a lot of good work for the farmer, because the bird has no family cares.

Mrs. Cowbird, you see, instead of building a nest of her own, lays her egg in the nest of another bird, usually picking out the nest of a bird much smaller than herself. She always depends, too, on the good naturedness of the owner of the nest to hatch the egg and rear the young bird.

Sometimes the owner of the home will push the strange egg out on the ground. The yellow warbler often goes to work and builds another nest over the intruder. Other birds hatch the strange egg, and then spend much time and energy feeding the young bird.

You'll know the cowbird by his brown head and neck and glossy black coat. He thinks he can sing and tries very hard, but you'll laugh at his efforts when you hear him. — Philadelphia North American.

Spoiled the Compliment.

"Yes," said the voluble crank, "I used to be as bad as you, but I made up my mind to quit smoking and drinking, and I did it."

"Indeed!" remarked Manley. "I guess a man who can quit smoking and drinking could quit almost anything"—

"Oh, yes."

"Except talking about it."

OLD TIME PITCHERS

Some of the Former Stars Who Won Fame on the Diamond.

THEIR FEATS OF ENDURANCE.

Spalding All Alone Twirled the Old Boston Nationals to Victory Four Years in Succession — Radbourne's Great Record—Some Sad Finishes.

What becomes of all the great pitchers who thrill the baseball populace for a day? That depends upon the age in which they lived. If a man won his fame in the period from twenty to forty years ago he probably went back penniless to manual labor whence he came, or else he found an early grave. But if he was fortunate enough to make his baseball fame within the last score of years he may still be drawing a good salary from some club treasury. Or he may be enjoying prosperity as a successful business man.

A. G. Spalding was one of the few men who won nation wide fame on the diamond in the earlier period, was absolutely unspoiled by it and then followed it up with even greater fame in the business world. Spalding jumped into the limelight as a seventeen-year-old boy with the Rockford (Ill.) club way back in 1867. Talk about the endurance of the modern twirling giants! Just consider what this original iron man did in the early seventies. During that period he was a member of the Boston Nationals, and he won the league championship for his team four years in succession. He was Boston's only pitcher, and he twirled every game the team played, though in those days games were scheduled only every other day and the season was shorter than it is now.

Old timers love to dwell on the prowess of Charles Radbourne, who shone with quite as much brilliance as Spalding until consumption cut short his career, about twenty-five years ago. Radbourne was a member of the Providence team, and when Charles Sweeney deserted that club in midseason only Radbourne was left for slab work. But that didn't bother Radbourne, for he not only jumped right in and did all the pitching, but made a new world's record by winning eighteen straight games and the championship for Providence. This gameness, however, cost Radbourne his life, for his health broke under the strain, which was generally credited, with having caused his consumption.

From day laborer to the world's premier pitcher and then back again, is, in brief, the history of Amos Rusie, who from 1889 to 1894 thrilled the baseball world. Rusie had a narrow escape from being cast into the utter darkness of oblivion before he could get started. The first day he entered the big league he was weighed by Bancroft, the manager of the Cleveland team, and found wanting. After watching him pitch one game Bancroft let him go. But John T. Brush, owner of the Cincinnati club, had faith in this youngster, gave him his chance, and suddenly the recruit blossomed forth into the greatest pitcher of his day. But prosperity and the applause of the unthinking crowd were too much for Rusie.

Then there were Tim Keefe and John Clarkson, about whose respective merits the fans are still divided. In 1888 Keefe won nineteen straight games for New York, while in 1889 Clarkson pitched seventy-two games for Boston, winning forty-six of them. These two men, whose exploits were heralded from one end of the country to the other, were radically different in temperament. Clarkson utterly ruined his health by not taking proper care of himself and died in an insane asylum. But Tim Keefe retired with money in the bank.

Probably more printers' ink was used to tell of the exploits of the eccentric Rube Waddell than any other baseball player that ever lived. Rube was always good for a story, no matter what he did. On the diamond this man was forever breaking records, first in jumping from one team to another and then by making new strikeout records. Probably his greatest feat was when he called in all the outfielders and then retired the side in order. But consumption finished his broken down constitution.

Cy Young belongs to a different school of pitchers. He was a shining example of baseball longevity founded upon clean living. This marvelous man, who broke into major league baseball in 1890, pitched every season for twenty-two years, a record still uncreated.

WHEN YOU LAY YOUR PAPER ASIDE

After you've read the news, have you gotten all the valuable information out of it? Not until you have read the advertisements.

Reading the advertisements should be as much a part of your day as reading the news columns.

The advertisements in your favorite newspaper are a daily record of what your local merchants have laid in store to meet your needs and add to your comfort.

They tell you what the manufacturers of these goods, who are constantly striving to please the public, have done to add to your advantages and comforts. The news, while always interesting, may often concern you only in a general way.

The advertisements are almost certain to tell you something that may mean a great deal to your home life or your business and social welfare.

LORD MAYORS MUST BE RICH.

Have to Show They Can Afford to Spend $50,000 a Year.

Those people who imagine that a Lord Mayor has a well-paid job with £10,000 and a baronetcy thrown in, make a sad mistake, says Spare Moments. Supposing a man with insufficient means, in order to satisfy a life-long ambition, were tempted to try to scrape through somehow, the City Council takes good care to veto his plan—partly for his own sake, and partly for the sake of all those who may be independent upon the would-be Lord Mayor, or who have business dealings with him.

The fact that he has at last become eligible for the chief magistracy is some evidence of pecuniary capacity, since he must have been alderman for about ten years, at an annual cost to himself of £400 or £500, and he must also have been sheriff which will have cost him from £2,000 to £3,500. But being Lord Mayor is, after all, a different matter, and the city demands that the most convincing proof of the candidate's financial standing shall be afforded to it.

Before the time for his election comes, a secret sifting of the Court of Aldermen is held, and at this sitting the alderman who is next in rotation for the chair practically lays bare to his brethren his financial position. He produces proof that he is in possession of means which will warrant him in spending £10,000 over and above his allowance without impoverishing his family. If his brother aldermen are satisfied all is well.

Needless to say, the giving of such information is a very serious matter to a city magnate, but the secrets he discloses after he has thus "given bond" are never under any circumstances told outside. It would go ill with any alderman who became a traitor to this absolutely secret court.

NOTICE BY THE VOTERS' REGISTRATION BOARD

PERSONS entitled to be put on the Lists are warned that the Revising Officers will sit To-morrow at the Court House for the purpose of disposing of all Appeals as yet not disposed of under the Notices of Appeal regularly given, and on Thursday for the purposes of disposing of all Appeals which have come in since the comencement of the Sittings up till Tuesday last.

Take Notice also, That for the South Ward Mr. Hatton will on Thursday next sit from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in the Morning, at the County Council Chamber, and from two o'clock to five o'clock in the afternoon, and from eight to ten o'clock in the evening, at W. G. Fraeburn's Store, 108 Lock Street, for the purpose of disposing of all Appeals from the South End.

The Board has ordered that the Lists must be finally settled by Thursday. Should, however, this not be possible, the Last and Final Sitting will be on Friday next. Have your Name on by Thursday next if you wish to be safe.

A Drop of Water.

Figures are sometimes impressive simply by being so stupendous that the human mind grasps them with difficulty. An instance in point is afforded by the illustration once offered to his hearers by an eminent scientist, who, in order to bring to their comprehension the idea of ultimate particles of water, stated that if he were to empty a tumbler containing half a pint of water, letting out each second a number equal to 1,000 times the population of the earth, it would require somewhere between 7,000,000 and 47,000,000 years to empty the tumbler. Lord Kelvin has assured us that if a drop of water were magnified to the size of the earth the particles would be between the size of cricket balls and footballs. If that statement is correct the drops of water in all the oceans are not many times so numerous as the particles, or molecules, in a single drop.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REDUCE WRINKLES

Remember that wrinkles and bagginess of cheek or chin are due to the muscular tissue losing its strength and shrinking. The skin is then too large in area to fit such tissue smoothly. It wrinkles or sags.

To remedy this condition, there's nothing so effective, so quick-acting, as a simple wash lotion easily made at home. Just get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite at your druggist's, and a half pint of witch hazel, mix the two and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and solidifies the underlying tissues—which, of course, smooths out the lines and draws in the sagging skin. It also stimulates capillary circulation, bringing natural color to faded cheeks.

$50 FOR SHILLING OF BEER.

WEDDING BELLS

REID—WOOD.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wood, of Otonabee, at 11 o'clock on Friday, Sept. 12th, when their eldest daughter, Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Mr. Henry R. Reid of the same township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Honey in the presence of near relatives only. The bride was given away by her father, while Miss Leta Wood played the wedding march, and her little sister Jean acted as flower girl. After luncheon the happy couple went on their honeymoon, intending to visit Toronto, Hamilton and the Niagara Peninsula. On their return they will reside on the 4th line of Otonabee.

MONTGOMERY—FREEBURN.

On Tuesday, September 9th, the wedding was quietly solemnized in St. John's church, Rev. Canon Davidson officiating, of May G. Freeburn, of Vancouver, to John Montgomery, of Hall's Bridge. They were unattended. Mr. Montgomery recently returned from overseas. He enlisted with the 93rd Battalion. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will reside at Hall's Bridge.

STUNT FLYING A GREAT FEATURE

CAPT. SALTER AND LIEUT. DALLIN PERFORM MARVELLOUS FEATS WITH GERMAN FOKKER

The exhibition of flying by Captain Salter and Lieut. Victor Dallin at the Peterborough Exhibition is one of the outstanding features of the big show. Peterborough has seen a number of aviators at work, but none of them have pulled off the daring stunts in the air that the two crack flying men are performing. Looping the loop, spins, and rolls are nothing to this pair, and their exhibition is the last word in skilful flying.

Lieut. Dallin was the performer in the Fokker machine yesterday afternoon, taking the air shortly after two o'clock and going through the whole programme of tricks. The Peterborough boy has a reputation as a 'stunt' flyer, and he showed yesterday how he earned it. He was over the Exhibition Grounds the greater part of the time, so that the crowd had a splendid opportunity of seeing him in action.

Last evening Capt. Salter, who has a record of bringing down fifteen German planes in aerial combats in France, performed in the Fokker, duplicating the daring stunts of the afternoon.

The two aviators, who are connected with the Bishop-Barker Company, have a Curtis plane with them in addition to the German machine, using the former for carrying passengers. They are flying from the lot to the south-west of the Exhibition Grounds, and a number of citizens were passengers this morning.

Messrs. S. Bonnick and E. W. Mees, of the Aerial Photographic Services and Advertising Department of the Bishop-Barker Company are here in connection with the flights. Incidentally the people of Peterborough will be interested to learn that they have some excellent pictures of Lieut. Dallin, which will be on sale to-day and to-morrow, and which will give the admirers of the Peterborough flyer a chance to secure a splendid photograph of the airman.

VOL. XLIII NO. 64 PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1919 PRICE TWO CENTS

FULL PROGRAMME AT THE EXHIBITION TO-NIGHT

Yesterday's Crowd of Nearly 20,000 Broke All Records For Local Fair

PAID ATTENDANCE IN THE AFTERNOON NEARLY DOUBLE THAT OF SECOND DAY LAST YEAR—NOT A SINGLE MARRING INCIDENT AND EVERYBODY APPEARED DELIGHTED WITH THE FAIR'S SUCCESS.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMME

TO-NIGHT'S CONCLUDING PROGRAMME.

Airplane flight at 7 o'clock.
Baloon Ascension.
Vaudeville Acts at 8 O'clock.
Concert by G.W.V.A. Band.
Special Fireworks.

The best evening programme at the Exhibition has been reserved for the finale to-night. Citizens are asked to note the special bill that will be offered, beginning with the airplane flights at seven o'clock and including the vaudeville attractions on the grandstand, a choice programme by the Great War Veterans' Band, balloon ascension, aerial slide, and a big display of fireworks. The mid-way and exhibits will remain open to the last and everybody is assured of the best time of the entire Fair to-night.

A Record Attendance.

Yesterday's crowd broke all the attendance records in the history of the Peterborough Exhibition. The total number of paid admissions was 18,944, practically 16,000, but this omits the hundreds of exhibitors, concessionaries, members and attendants. Counting these groups it has been estimated that close to 20,000 persons passed through the gates from morning until night.

The afternoon attendance was 11,400 as compared with 6,070 on the afternoon of the second day last year. In other words yesterday's crowd was nearly double that of a year ago, and it has every appearance of exceeding any of the best figures of the past.

The paid attendance at night was 3,451 against 2,228 of the corresponding night last year, and the grandstand reported 1148 tickets in the afternoon and 895 at night, as compared with 1014 and 800 on last year's second day.

17,000 Paid Admissions.

The total number of paid admissions for the two days, as shown by Mr. Felix Browniscombe's carefully tabulated statement, was 17,000. It should not be forgotten that the passes to members, exhibitors and assistants all represent more or less money paid into the treasury, but the story of the turnstiles is the main text for official reports.

A Smiling Crowd.

Yesterday's smilling throngs came early and stayed late, and enjoyed themselves heartily. They were provided with a continuous performance, with little unavoidable delays here and there, for it was seven o'clock before the last horse race was decided. Many farmers who motored long distances enjoyed their meals in picnic style in their cars or on the grass. Others joined the city crowds who stayed for the night show, and with appetites edged by the cool autumn air, consumed everything the dining tents had to offer and at eleven o'clock the last "hot-dog" had been consumed. It was a big, good-natured holiday crowd, obviously pleased with the Exhibition, and if any entertainment had been overlooked by the directors the people found plenty of diversion on the midway.

There were no untoward occurrences. Chief Thompson reported that one complaint had been made to police. There were the usual stray children who had parted from their parents. Some of them were returned to their guardians on the grounds and others were taken to their homes by directors. There were no accidents and the only incident was the closing of the wheel of fortune that gave small hams to the holders of winning numbers. Detective Brodie of the Dominion Police, ordered this concession to pull up its stakes early in the afternoon.

Great Racing Programme.

The races yesterday were worthy of the record crowd. There were two harness horse races as well as two heats for the running horses, and as the 2.18 class went the limit of five heats, the race fans got their money's worth. In fact it was 7 o'clock last evening when Dr. Sinclair and his corps of judges and timers left the judges' stand, the final heat of the 2.18 class just over.

The 2.18 event was a great race, in spite of the fact that there were three "bad actors" who made the scoring a long and tedious operation and gave Dr. Sinclair a busy afternoon getting them away. There were five starters, Lucy L owned by J. T. Payett, of Penetang, who won out, Betty D, owned by Tucker of Orillia, who won a heat and took second money, Adrian Pointer, Dr. Johnston of Port Hope, also a heat winner, George Laconda, McDowell of Toronto, and the veteran campaigner, Furioso, Hepburn, Beaverton.

Adrian Pointer won the first heat in comparatively easy fashion. Betty D came fast at the beginning of the last quarter and threatened the heat winner, but the Orillia mare broke and lost her chance. Lucy L delayed the start a long time and was finally left far in the rear when the word "go" was given."

The Penetang mare also got a bad start in the second heat, but got under way quickly and was right up with the bunch at the wire, finishing in second place and chasing Betty D. to the limit.

Lucy L then came through and won the next three heats in commanding style, the win being seemingly a popular one with the crowd.

1	Luck L. Payett, Penetang	5	2	1	1
2	Betty D. Tucker Orillia..	8	1	2	8 2
3	Adrian Pointer, Johnston, Port Hope	1	8	5	2 4
4	George Laconda, McDowell, Toronto	2	4	4	4 8
5	Furioso, Hepburn, Beaverton	4	5	4	dr

Time — 2.17 1-4, 2.17 1-4, 2.17 1-4, 2.19 1-4.

The Named Race.

Birdie Wilkes, owned by S. Palmer ,of Port Hope, showed her heels to the rest of the field in the named race, winning the event in straight heats. She had too much speed for the other starters ,although challenged several times, especially by Maximilian in the second heat. The result:

1	Birdie Wilkes, S. Palmer, Port Hope	1	1	1
2	Jack Brookes, Dinsdale, Lang	2	3	2
3	Doris Patch, Elmhirst, Allandale	2	4	3
4	Maximilian, Payett, Penetang	4	2	4
5	Sadie B, Page, Millbrook ..	6	5	dr
6	St. Lawrence Boy, Downer, Peterborough	5	6	dr

Time—2.22 1-4, 2.20, 2.26.

The Running Races.

As on Monday, the running races proved a big feature. The crowd took a great interest in the thoroughbreds and the two heats in the 4 1-2 furlong race for three year olds, provided plenty of excitement. In the first heat Waska, owned by Whitewood, of Toronto, and ridden by Jockey Fallon, was first under the wire, with Mona G. second, but the winner was set back to last because of the rough riding of Fallon. Chappelle, who had the mount on Mona G. complaining that Waska's rider had used his whip on him. The complaint was sustained by the judges.

Mona G. had not much trouble in winning the second heat, with Waska second. Jockey Johnston, riding Hemisphere in this race, was thrown and his horse went through the fence, but neither rider or horse was hurt.

The results:

First Heat.

1 Mona G., F. Fortune, Toronto.
2 Thomas G. Mulhall, Toronto.
3 John Thompson, Wilson, Toronto.
4 Hemisphere, Johnston, Toronto.
5 Waska, Whitewood, Toronto.

Second Heat.

1 Mona G. .
2 Waska.
3 John Thompson

Programme Pleased.

The grand stand programme pleased the crowd at yesterday afternoon's session. The vaudeville acts were all well received and the other features, such as Bonnette's slide for life down a long cable, the daylight fireworks and other features all were entertaining. The Great War Veterans' Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Hughes, played a splendid programme and their work was appreciated by the crowd. The band also won praise for their playing in the evening. Capt. Salter and Lieut. Dallin gave two exhibitions of stunt flying in the Fokker machine, while the Curtis plane made many trips over the grounds.

PREMIER WILL SPEAK TO-NIGHT

LLOYD GEORGE WILL ADDRESS THE INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD CONGRESS

WILL AGAIN ASK FOR CO-OPERATION

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 17. — Premier Lloyd George's return to England last night from his vacation at Deauville, France, and a brief visit in Paris, will be followed to-night by an address which will be delivered at the London city temple, and which, in view of the extreme political and economic unrest prevailing in the country, is awaited with keenest curiosity and interest.

In view of the fact that his speech will be addressed to the International Brotherhood Congress, Mr. Lloyd-George will probably confine himself mainly to elaborating his recent appeal for co-operation in the establishment of a new world order, leaving other matters for the address he has promised to deliver elsewhere.

WILSON REPLIES TO LABOUR COUNCIL

INTERPRETS THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS COVENANT

(Associated Press.)

ON BOARD PRES. WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Sept. 17.—Setting forth publicly for the first time his interpretation of the League of Nations covenant as it affects Ireland, President Wilson said in a statement to-day that the League would constitute a forum before which could be brought all claims for self-determination which are likely to affect the peace of the world.

"The covenant would not bind the United States to assist in putting down rebellion in any foreign country," he asserted, "nor would it limit the power of this country to recognise the independence of any people who seek to secure freedom."

He said Ireland's case was not heard at Versailles because it did not come within the jurisdiction of the Peace Conference.

The President's statement was in reply to a series of questions sent to him by the San Francisco Labour Council. It is understood that within a few days he will reply similarly to questions put by other labour bodies regarding Shantung and the representation of the British Dominions in the League Assembly.

DRAW FOR CAR THIS EVENING

Drawing for the $1375 Maxwell car, being raffled by the Peterboro branch of the G.W.V.A., will take place before the Grand Stand at the Exhibition to-nigh at 7 o'clock. The officials of the G.W.V.A. are determined that the draw will be absolutely open and above board and, for that reason, a disinterested little girl will be chosen from the audience in the Grand Stand for the purpose of pulling the winning ticket.

All members who have tickets still in their possession must hand in same to secretary in his office no later than five o'clock this evening. All monies, proceeds from sale of tickets, must be deposited at same time. Secreary S. Whatley.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Yates, Optical Specialist, 410 George street. 4tf

REPUDIATES COL. CURRIE'S STATEMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Colonel John A. Currie's statement in the Commons that 4,000 soldiers were in Burwash Reformatory is contradicted by W. W. Dunlop, Provincial Inspector of Prisons. While not having the exact figures before him, Mr. Dunlop said there were not more than about 380 men all told in Burwash, and he did not think more than 25 were soldiers or former soldiers. The soldiers who were serving terms for violations of the O. T. A. were all released when the Amnesty was granted on Peace Day. When Whitby, Central Burwash, and Fort William Prisons were being operated together, the combined population of these institutions was only about 1,400, Mr. Dunlop said.

VISITORS VOLUNTARILY PAID TRIBUTE TO PETERBORO' FAIR

COMPLIMENTS WERE FREELY OFFERED YESTERDAY BY JUDGES AND OTHERS—SUCCESS EMPHASIZES THE PROBLEMS OF EXPANSION.

MUST PUSH FORWARD

If there are any doubts of the success of Peterboro's Exhibition, or if any citizens desire the assurance of visitors whose wide experience qualify them to speak with authority in regard to the leading fairs in Ontario, it would be an easy matter to prepare a symposium of the congratulatory expressions volunteered by judges and other men that would convince those persons if there are any, who may not realize the extent of the local achievement. Comparisons were made yesterday with the quality and even the quantity of exhibits at the Toronto and Ottawa Fairs.

Mr. Graham, of Claremont, known throughout the Province as a breeder of horses, stated that in the agricultural class of horses Peterboro, this year, surpassed Ottawa. Mr. Frost, who judged the flowers, visited this city for the first time yesterday and told some of the directors that he was surprised by the crowds and the volume and excellence of the exhibits. Referring to the flower display, he remarked that with the exception of the massed or banked effects at the Toronto Exhibition, for which prizes ranging up to $300 are given, Peterboro's show was better than that of the big "Ex."

Mr. Carter of Londesboro, the poultry judge, was also seeing Peterboro for the first time. He praised the quality of the local birds, making special mention of Mr. Harry Lush's flock, and declared that this city should be proud of its poultry department. He added that further efforts in co-operation between the Poultry Association and the Fair Board should give this branch a fresh impetus.

Mr. G. A. Brethen of Norwood, who judged the dairy cattle and who has a wide reputation among Holstein breeders, also complimented the Peterboro Exhibition upon the big showing in the dairy class. Incidentally his work met with complete satisfaction and approval by the exhibitors.

Another Compliment.

One of the members of the Bonnette Trio stated that he had rarely seen carriage horses that equalled those shown yesterday afternoon. These and other voluntary commendations should be as encouraging to the citizens as they are to the directors, who are fully aware that success depends primarily up the sympathy and support of the people of the city and county.

It's "Home-Grown," Too.

Farmers who had visited the Toronto Exhibitions asserted that they had enjoyed themselves more yesterday among the home crowds than they had in Toronto with its endless attractions. Prominent men from the outlying townships told the directors of their pleasure and satisfaction that the Peterboro Fair had reached its present stage of development. On all sides were unmistakable evidences of pride and delight at the uniform growth of the Peterboro Exhibition in all its phases.

Obvious Needs.

Of course the reverse side of this pleasant aspect was more or less obvious, but the needs of the grounds are fully realized by the directors, who have been prevented only by lack of funds, from carrying out the ambitious schemes they have contemplated. Adequate lavatory ac-

HOLLAND MAY JOIN LEAGUE

(United Press.)

THE HAGUE, Sept. 17. — At the opening of the Dutch Parliament, Queen Wilhelmina announced that the government proposed joining league of nations. Referring to the recent controversy with Belgium, she said that the Dutch government was forced to maintain the independence of Holland and support her rights and interests. The dispute between Holland and Belgium, referred to by the Queen, relates to the revision of the treaty of 1839. The Dutch declare Belgium has been seeking to acquire the province of Limbuhg.

THE MIDDLE WEST OPPOSES LEAGUE

SENATOR BORAH RETURNS FROM A SPEAKING TRIP

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — The Middle West is aflame with opposition to the League of Nations covenant in its present form, Senator Borah, Idaho, declared today on his return to Washington from a speaking trip.

Borah returned at the urgent call of Senator Lodge, because the Treaty advocates are seeking to force the Opposition to act on Treaty amendments without further debate. Borah said that Senator Johnson, who is also on a stumping tour, will be allowed to continue for the remainder of the present week, at least.

CONCERT IN THE FLOWER TENT TO-NIGHT

FULL CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC ORCHESTRA TO GIVE MUSICAL PROGRAMME—SOLOISTS

Prof. Gliddon has kindly placed the Conservatory Orchestra at the disposal of the Fair Board to-night, and will give a full programme by the full orchestra in the Flower Tent from 7.30 to closing time.

In addition to the musical programme by the Orchestra several first-class vocalists will appear on the programme.

This is an added attraction for the great many who are interested particularly in the exhibits and displays at this part of the Grounds.

Y.M.C.A. MINSTRELS

A meeting for organization of the Y.M.C.A. Minstrels will be held tomorrow Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The performances of last season scored such a success that it has been decided to reorganize with the purpose of putting on an even better program during November. Mr. Huycke will again be conductor and has ambitious plans that will make possible a fine attraction. The men, who have returned since the last performance are specially invited to attend to-morrow night. A much larger chorus is planned for.

DISCUSSED THE "ONE BIG UNION"

ST. CATHARINES TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL DECIDED TO TAKE NO ACTION AT PRESENT TIME

FAVOURS SHOP STEWARD SYSTEM

(Special to The Examiner.)

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 17.—St. Catharines Trades and Labour Council last night took up the question of the One Big Union, but after discussion it was decided to take no action at the present time.

Peter Grant, a prominent Labour leader here, said he didn't want to see the Trades Union machine thrown on the scrap heap. "I want to see it perfected and brought up to date," said he, "so that it will meet the new conditions. I consider as a step in that direction that the American Federation of Labour should organise in industrial diversion instead of along craft lines. What the people of the world are looking for to-day is something that will put an end to industrial disputes, and I contend that the shop steward system is the best means to that end. It is the best strike deterrent I know of, and that has as yet been suggested."

SAYS CONSTITUENCY PROFITED LITTLE

Without Opposition; Very Little Enthusiasm Shown.

The Conservative Convention at Millbrook, yesterday, according to all reports, was a rather tame affair. The attendance was much smaller than usual, the majority of the delegates coming from the north. Only five Port Hopers were present, D. H. Chisholm, Henry Reynolds, James Walker, F. Outram, J. H. Magill and Victor Bradburn

Mr. James Paul presided, and the nomination was tendered to Mr. Preston without opposition 'This is the sixth time for Mr Preston to receive the nomination, and in all these years the constituency has profited little by his representation.—Port Hope Guide.

FEATURES FOR THOSE WHO WILL ATTEND THE EXHIBITION TO-NIGHT

CLOSING PERFORMANCE WILL BE THE BEST—SOME ADDED ATTRACTIONS —MAKE TO-DAY A RECORD FOR A CLOSING DAY

The programme to-night will close the best Fair Peterborough has ever held. Every record in connection with the Exhibition has been broken so far and the directors hope that to-day's attendance will break the record of any previous closing day.

This will mean that the citizens who have not as yet seen the Fair should turn out in large numbers to-night to see the closing performance.

Everything will be going at full swing. Go as soon as you have had your supper. You will see the aeroplanes, the balloon, the full grand stand programme, merchants' displays, exhibits of all kinds.

Band concert by the G. W. V. Band.

Orchestra programme and soloists by the Conservatory Orchestra in the flower tent.

The grounds are brilliantly illuminated. Midway in full swing.

WILL SUSPEND PUBLICATION OF THE MAGAZINES

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—At least three magazines of nation-wide circulation will suspend publication in New York and move to other cities to avoid the demands of the New York union printers, according to a statement issued here by John Adams Thayer, secretary of the New York Publishers' Association.

One hundred and fifty-two other periodicals are ready to suspend if the wage increases and other demands by the printers are insisted upon, it was announced by the Periodical Publishers' Association.

Business will be established in the Western cities, where the publishers "may be free from the radicalism of local labour unions," Thayer's statement added.

CATTLE MARKET

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards: 1,803 cattle, 279 calves, 2,028 hogs, 4,411 sheep.

Sheep sold steadily, but there was a break in lambs. Calves were firmer. The tendency in cattle was weak, and hogs are easier.

Choice export, $13 to $14; choice butchers, $12 to -12.50; medium, $10.50 to $11; Common, $8.25 to $9.25; bulls, $9 to $10; feeders, $10 to $11; choice stockers, $8.50 to $9.50; light, $7.50 to 8.50.

Ewes, $8 to $9; lambs, $12 to $12.50. Hogs, $18.25; free on board, $17.25. Calves $21 to $22.50.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of his famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Miss Jane Gregory, daughter of former Attorney General Gregory, who has pledged herself to support three Belgian war orphans, has been awarded the Order of Queen Elizabeth.

YESTERDAY'S CROWD OF NEARLY 20,000

agance of farmers in buying cars was a national scandal. But to one who cised up the situation yesterday afternoon, as viewed from the splendid automobile exhibit of the Gillespie garage at the local fair, mighty little attention has been paid to these croakers. For there could not have been a better testimony to the increasing interest in motor cars, etc., than was constantly in evidence around this interesting exhibit of the Gillespie garage.

1 Maxwell Touring Car, 1920 model.
1 Chalmers Touring Car, 1920 model.
1 Maxwell One-Ton Truck.
1 Cleveland Tractor.

The Maxwell Touring car has had a rapid and steady growth. Improvements have been added gradually, but the fundamental idea was always kept in view, viz.: to produce the best, the lightest, most efficient and economical car possible to manufacture. Regardless of the fact that to-day the car is larger, roomier, handsomer than ever before—that it is now equipped with every convenience in use on the highest priced cars, such as electric starter and lights, one man top, demountable wheels, longer wheel base, longer springs and numerous other refinements—the weight has been held down and tests show that greater efficiency and economy of operation has been obtained than ever before.

It was no surprise, therefore, to notice that the crowds that visited this exhibit consisted so largely of farmers and farmers' sons, because the Maxwell's merits appealed to them strongly— efficiency and price being such strong features.

The Chalmers car in this exhibit, was a new aspirant for honors at the Gillespie garage, but it made friends very quickly, judging by prospects secured by the representatives in charge of the display. Mr. G. A. Gillespie was personally present, taking a keen interest in the exhibit, and was highly pleased with the results of the display at this Fair.

What is known as the Hot Spot engine has made the Chalmers car one of the great cars that has been designed. It has resulted in getting the last bit of power out of gas. So satisfactory has this engine proven that its type is destined to continue indefinitely. The seven passenger touring model shown, affords extra capacity, and the numerous refinements in upholstery and finish tell their own story.

Maxell Motor Trucks are gaining friends every year. "I like the Maxwell truck as well as any of them, and, for my business, a little better." That was the nature of some of the expressions regarding the Maxwell truck shown at this exhibit. "Our truck is in use nearly a year and has stood up fine under some rough work," said a Peterborough manufacturer.

The Maxwell is an enclosed worm drive truck, and is noted for its remarkable economy in gasoline and oil Its stocky frame of hydraulic pressed steel, extra heavy wheels, solid tires, and all other structural features make the Maxwell proof against the heavy loads and constant jarring of any strenuous class of service. It does not plod. It carries its load with a facility that puts snap and ginger into delivery work, enlarging the day's operations and minimizing the running time.

The Cleveland Tractor made a fine showing and attracted crowds of farmers. It was a marvel at work and its performances astounded the onlookers. It did things that they never believed a tractor could do. One of the special advantages of the Cleveland is that it travels on its own endless tracks just like the famous battle tanks, and that, therefore, it does not sink into the ground, but goes over the surface without packing the soil. It is built by Cleveland Tractor Co. of Canada, at Windsor, the largest producers of Crawler-type tractors in the world, and the Gillespie Garage, Aylmer street, has the agency. It was announced that a field plowing demonstration by the Cleveland would be made on Thursday at 1 o'clock on Mr. William Anderson's farm, near Crawford's Grove.

CHI-NAMEL DEMONSTRATION

One of the biggest features of the Peterborough Hardware Company at the Fair, is the exhibition and demonstration of Chi-Namel, in charge of Mr. Johnson of the Ohio Varnish Company, who is demonstrator.

Chi-Namel can be used for many purposes. It is a practical method by which anyone can apply beautiful, washable, heelproof, hardwood effects over old discolored wood, or previously finished floors, doors, woodwork or furniture.

You can finish your car yourself with full confidence that it will be a good job. You do not need special skill, nor need to dread "making a muss of it."

Chi-Namel varnishes are for new or old hard or soft wood, imparting highly protective lustrous surfaces, equal to factory finish.

If you attend the Fair to-night, you are cordially invited to visit our display and demonstration, by Mr. Johnson. Ask any question you wish, and they will be answered to your satisfaction. Peterborough Hardware Co., Limited.

"HATS OFF" TO THE CRESSMAN CO.

The "Publicity" staff of the Cressman Co., have distinguished themselves at our Industrial Fair this year by their resourceful ingenuousness and artistic expedients to bring credit to their firm and attractions to the Exhibition. It took bright brains and skilled hands to originate and construct the outstanding "Peace" float which drew such spontaneous and flattering applause from the crowds of spectators during the spectacle of the grand parade on the opening day of the Fair, and which captured the first prize pannant for its beauty of design, elegance of decoration, and gracefulness of delineations. Not satisfied with this elaborate contribution—which alone was deserving of the high praises received—the Cressman decorators put up an exhibit in the main building in a distinct class by itself and characteristic of the lavish spirit of enterprise of this firm. The exhibit consisted of a completely furnished living room as well as a model dining Room of modern design. The realistic home-like air which these two model rooms imparted appealed to the thousands of visitors who were around the exhibit continually. To the ladies, especially, it was a section of the building to which they were constantly flocking and the words of feminine admiration spoken and unexpressed were of the most complimentary nature.

The Dining Room design showed the walls covered with a subdued tapestry hanging, with foliage effect. Two windows were prettily draped with cream tint English net, Bird of Paradise design and over-curtains to match in French figured cretonne. A pretty Axminster rug decorated the floor, on which stood a circular dining table, a buffet, a china cabinet and three chairs in Italian oak with Italian finish. On the table was a handsome spread and complete setting of silver, with cut glass tumblers and bouquet holder filled with yellow chrysanthemums. The China Closet was stocked with fancy china and on the buffet stood a silver electric teapot and coffee pot and a cut glass fruit dish.

The Living Room Model was furnished harmoniously throughout the walls being decorated with ooz leather hangings The two pretty living room windows were curtained with embroidered Brussels net and over-curtains, vallences and drapes to match. A sumptuously upholstered Chesterfield, adorned one side of the room. It was a handsom piece in elegantly designed Tapestry with double Marshall Springs, side springs an arms, and equipped with loose cushioned seats. A big broad over-stuf fed arm, chair to match filled another section of the room excellently finished and upholstered in a tapestry of Copenhagen blue, figured effect with dark blue outlines, same as Chesterfield. A pretty Jacobean library table beautifully finished occupied the centre of the room and on it was a pretty library electric lamp lighted—the whole forming a strongly cozy living room possessing a charming individuality.

Incidentally it may be mentioned that much of the success of the Cressman features at this Fair was the outcome of the practical development of the firm's resourceful Publicity Committee.

MILLER, POWELL & WATSON ELECTRICAL EXHIBIT.

The newly constituted electrical firm of Messers. Miller, Powell & Watson, to be known as "The Electric Shop," set a good pace on the Fair grounds by their well arranged electrical exhibit. The members of this young firm are all practical electricians, with their place of business at No. 488 George street, formerly Alexander & Miller.

The Moffat electric cooking range shown, and the Moffat fireplace were greatly admired by the ladies, as were also the handsome electric fixtures and domestic heating conveniences displayed. Electric wiring in house, office or factory is a leading specialty with this firm, each member being qualified to assume the entire responsibility of every job.

Electric lighting on the farm received important attention from this firm, and the installation of rural lighting outfits is a hobby. The Delco system, which has been demonstrated at the Fairs by the late Alexander & Miller firm, is now taken over by "The Electric Shop."

In the last ten years the value of farm property has increased tremendously. Specialized farming has found favour, as shown by the increase in dairymen and live-stock producers. There has been evidence for the most part of a prideful upward impulse to improve the building by such improvements as electric light and power. The farmer and his family are reading more and thinking on a higher plane, applying business principles to more efficient methods. In consequence the family demands in the country home the same conveniences which are found in modern city homes; then they buy good furniture, wear good clothes and ride in automobiles. Electric lights light the way to their homes, and house and barns are equipped with every convenience for light and power, application. With light, and plenty of it, bits of harness, halters, tools, implements, such as pitch-forks, shovels, etc., are not left where they may be carelessly dropped. Instead of being mis laid, everything is in its place, and readily found when needed.

The "Alpha" farm lighting equipment, manufactured by the De Laval Co. of our own city, should strongly induce the advisability of farmers to equip their premises with electricity. Thih system, as demonstrated by the Miller, Powell & Watson exhibit, received much attention during the Fair, and proved a strong drawing attraction.

THE NEW DE LAVAL MILKING MACHINE.

Who has not heard about what is called the "drudgery" of milking, especially from the boys and girls on the farm? Sure enough, milking the cows by hand has long been regarded as one of the tedious chores around the dairy. Not only does it require a good deal of valuable time, and sometimes diplomacy as well, with discontented cows, but it is imperative, and must be done every day, and at set times every day. Besides, now-a-days hand-milking is not considered agreeable work, although our grandmothers thought so, for they "just loved to" milk. But now large herds

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 17TH, 1919.

A RECORD SUCCESS.

Yesterday's record crowd at the Peterboro Exhibition brought satisfaction not only to the directors, but to every citizen of Peterboro. It was proof that the people of the district are solidly behind the management in their efforts to make the Peterboro Exhibition one of the finest in the Province. It furnished evidence, too, that the improvement on the Exhibition last year have had fruitful results and in that respect it provides the assurance that twelve months from now the people will turn out in still larger numbers, satisfied that they will see a Fair that that is worth while. Already the directors have begun to plan for next year. Among the improvements that they have in mind is greatly increased grand stand accomodation, the doubling, at least, of the present stand. And another is the erection of a new and commodious main building, the present structure steadily improved and rebuilt, as it has been, is far too small for the merchants who wish to make exhibits. The special exhibits this year have never been equalled in Peterboro and with a new main building, an even greater showing may be expected.

President Denne and his Board of directors and all who have been associated with the Exhibition are to be congratulated upon the magnificent success they have achieved. Their efforts have had magnificent results; it is no longer "the same old Fair."

DIVIDING THE SOLDIERS.

The agitation over the war gratuity question threatens to divide the returned soldiers into rival camps, a consummation that will be pleasing to many of the enemies

a united body of former fighting men was not on the whole a pleasing spectacle. The reception given Sergt. W. C. Turley, the provincial secretary of the G. W. V. A. at the mass meeting under the auspices of the Gratpity League in Toronto the other night shows how rapidly the breach is widening. No one individual in Ontario has done more in the interests of the returned soldiers or of the dependents of those who will not come back than Mr. Turley. A veteran of the 1st Contingent, himself, he was among the first to vision the possibilities before an organization like the Great War Veterans' Association, and he threw himself heartily into the work. The hooting and jeering he received on Monday night seems a poor reward for the service he has done in the interests of the returned men. Mr. Turley has, it is true, been opposed to the plan of a $2,000 gratuity, but that is surely not sufficient grounds to warrant the treatment accorded him by some of those who were present at Monday's meeting.

THE RIGHT WAY.

The Great War Veterans' Association is going the right way about the business of making itself serviceable to the returned men as well as to the Government in pursuance of its work in behalf of the returned men, Says the Mail and Empire. Facts and not rumors or emotional extravagances, are the foundations on which the Government's policy in regard to returned men must be built. There may be many facts on which the Government is not in possession. There may be many cases the merits of which ave not found their way to headquarters. The G W. V. A. proposes to make itself a reliable source of information about all the returned men who have served overseas. To its 570 branches, questionnaires are to be sent for distribution among the $250,000 members of the Association and to as many other returned men as the numbers can through these questionnaires is expected to show the total number of returned men in the country, the number of the permanently disabled, the number of the unemployed, the number whose employment is but temporary, the number who have vocational training, the number of these who have secured employment as the result of the training, the number wo have settled on the land, and the number who are eligible to take advantage of the Soldiers' Land Settlement. These statistics ought to be welcomed by the Government. They ought also to be useful as a means of training the Association's influence upon specific objects in the interests of the returned men. The data will give weight and precision to the Association's endeavors and make it a more telling power for the good of the country's defendsar. Mere enthusiasm and overflowing loyalty to the cause advocated cannot but be at a disadvantage, if they are not backed up by something more substantial than general and unproved assertions. The facts are what count. They cannot be ignored by Government and they are all-powerful with the public. The Association will, it is hoped, be careful to verify all the information it puts on its files, and in no case risk its influence with the Government or with the public by putting its stamp on over-statements or other inaccuracies in the returns of the questionnaires. Prove all things.

THE GRATUITY QUESTION.

Canada should meet every just and wise request of the returned soldier. If an immediate payment of $2,000 per man who has fought is in his best interests and is consistent with the rights and interests of others, those who were not permitted to go should be willing to share their last loaf with him. If it were a case of merely going to the public treasury and paying out the money—and that seems to be the public conception—there would be no objection, provided that the funds were available without injury to the country. But if the consequences are likely to be such as to make the project an economic boomerang in its effect upon the welfare of all the Canadian people including the returned soldiers, after they have spent the $2,000, it is a matter for very grave consideration.

The request of the soldiers is entitled to every consideration. The whole matter should be thoroughly investigated by experts in a position to judge of the country's financial resources and the probable effect of raising millions for this purpose. If it is not possible to make the grants without serious consequences, then this should be made clear to the people and better plans evolved to aid the soldiers.

Unfortunately, the impression has been given that the soldiers' case has not had fair consideration at Ottawa and we think this is true. For this, the Government must take the responsibility. There has been a disposition on the part of the majority of the members of the Cabinet to turn their backs upon a serious and unpleasant situation.

The developments may be of a very grave character. It is known at Ottawa that the plans of the German agents failed in Winnipeg, because of the stability of the majority of the returned men and the sanity of the old-established labor unions. It is known too, that it is hoped by these agents that when the present gratuities have been exhausted, there will be a state of discontent amongst the soldiers which will pave the way to an industrial uprising. To this end the present agitation will be encouraged by every possible means. To ignore the issue and the men's request is to play into the hands of the agents of the enemy who, having failed on the field of battle, is now at work to gain his ends by wrecking our industrial and social organizations.

Let us consider, however, the demand which the soldiers are making, and what its granting would involve. The present situation is that the national expenditures are at a much higher rate than national revenues. To greatly increase the "overhead" charges to the extent of the amount of the annual interest and the necessary fund necessary to carry the financing involved in the gratuity request would greatly aggravate this already serious problem. Apart from this there would be the question of raising the money—of floating an immense loan when there is already some doubt of the success of the much smaller forthcoming issue; or of issuing the bonds themselves to the soldiers to be disposed of by them, as has been suggested. These are some of the main points to be considered apart from the more involved economic questions of the effect upon the condition of the people in the present and in the future—of creating an enormous volume of new money which could not be limited by any means to internal expenditure.

is to-day about $1,700,000,000, apart from another $4,000,000,000, which is authoritatively estimated as the amount involved in provincial and municipal loans, railroad guarantees, etc. To issue an additional $800,000,000, even at the improbably low rate of 5 per cent., would mean a national debt of about $2,500,000,000 (if sold at par which is quite improbable), and a total liability of about $6,000,000,000 with interest of $125,000,000 and $300,000,000, or $16 and $37.50 per head of population, without allowing for sinking fund redemption, which must be provided for. Our national debt has already gained proportions where it means a burden of about $200 on the average family and this must be earned and paid each year by the bread-winner—much of it into the pockets of the foreign investors. We cannot believe that the people of Canada would like to see this burden increased or that the returned men would care to assume the responsibility of doing so to the extent entailed by the present proposals.

To-day, despite the fact that the war is over, the estimated expenditures for the year are $620,000,00, as compare with estimated evenues of $250,000,000. Thus, we are now spending on current account, $370,000,000 this year more than we are raising. To issue an additional $800,000,000 of bonds would aggravate the situation to the minimum extent of $70,000,000 per year with sinking funds extra.

These figures indicate the dire necessity of the Government reducing expenditures. We cannot continue to spend beyond our income. If we do this, the soldier will suffer in common with all the rest. To raise the debt by $800,000,000 under these conditions would have very serious consequences The need for retrenchment and production is to-day as great in Canada as it is in England. The seriousness of the situation cannot be ignored.

For a young country, Canada's debt has already reached unhealthy proportions. It is, in fact, a very serious question as to whether $800,000,000 could be raised for the purpose referred to. To-day, the success of the forthcoming loan for $250,000 000 or $300,000,000 is regarded with some doubt. Who—with adequate knowledge—would have the courage to say that the people would support an issue of $800,000,000 for gratuities? It is safe to say that only a fraction of the amount could be raised and it is certain that it could not be floated to any foreign market under the conditions now prevailing or likely to prevail for many years to come.

The suggestion is made that the bonds could be given to the soldiers and that they would sell them to the people. We cannot think of anything that would be more certain to bring financial disaster. The effort to float such a volume of bonds on an unorganized market, would of a certainty mean that values would be slaughtered. As prices slumped under realizing sales the value of all the outstanding war and other loans of the Dominion would be carried down at the same time and all other securities would fall in sympathy. This would mean that every security holder and every dependent woul suffer. It would raise the current rate of money everywhere in the Dominion, limit development and increase taxation.

To come down to the final analysis, the result would be that the great bulk of the returned men would have to sacrifice their bonds for what they could get and in consequence the $2 000 expectation would shrink materially. The bonds would largely get into the hands of people with money at bargain prices and the latter would eventually get par for them, while the children and the grandchildren of the veterans who fought for Canada would pay the difference and would be paying the interest year after year at the rate of at least $5 for every man, woman and child in the country with sinking funds extra, a burden which would only be lightened by the increase in population.—Financial Post.

Mabel McKinley—Niece of the Late President of the United States—Takes Nuxated Iron for Health and Strength

And Says She Regards It as The Ideal Tonic For All Weak, Run-Down Nervous Women

Dr. George H. Baker, Formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, Explains Why Iron Is One of the GREATEST OF ALL STRENGTH BUILDERS

Says: He has found nothing in his experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron.

Every woman who wishes to possess health, strength and beauty, should carefully read the statements of Miss McKinley who, after her personal use of Nuxated Iron tells of the results she obtained.

Miss McKinley says: "While I had often heard of Nuxated Iron I must admit that prior to using it myself I had no idea of its remarkable value for building up the health and strength.

"Following the strain imposed by months of the most exacting work singing for the soldiers in the various army encampments, together with my social engagements and charitable pursuits, I found myself in such a weakened, run-down state that I feared a complete collapse.

"It seemed utterly impossible for me to drop everything and go away for a complete rest, but I realized that as my condition was serious I must either do this or find something that would actually rebuild my waning strength and enable me to continue my activities.

"I had always been prejudiced against tonic preparations which, for the most part, I found only acted as a temporary stimulant and usually left one worse off than ever. However, when my own family physician insistently recommended that I give a fair trial to Nuxated Iron, I consented to begin its use, with a result that after a few days the weakness and exhaustion from which I suffered began to be replaced by a feeling of renewed strength and vitality. In less than three weeks' time my whole system was tingling with energy and power and I was overjoyed to find that I was once more in superb physical condition.

"Nuxated Iron has accomplished so much for me that I regard it as the ideal tonic for all weak, run-down women. As a strength, health and blood-builder, I am convinced Nuxated Iron has no equal."

In commenting on Miss McKinley's statement, regarding the efficacy of Nuxated Iron, Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, says: "It is my opinion that in practically nine times out of ten, unstrung nerves and failing strength and vitality are due to deficiency of iron in the blood. Many a woman who is run-down, nervous and who quickly tires out, suffers from iron deficiency and does not know it. I am convinced that there are thousands of such women who, simply by taking Nuxated Iron, might readily build up their red-blood corpuscles, increase their physical energy and get themselves back to vibrant and vigorous health. By enriching the blood and increasing its oxygen carrying power, Nuxated Iron will often transform the flabby flesh, toneless tissues, and pallid cheeks of nervous, run-down women into a glow of health, and make them look younger within a surprisingly short time."

Among other physicians noted for its opinion was Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital, New Jersey, who says: "What women need to put roses in their cheeks and the springtime of life into their step is not cosmetics or stimulating drugs but plenty of rich, pure blood. Without it no woman can do credit to herself or to her work. Iron is one of the greatest of all strength and blood-builders, and I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron."

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron which is sometimes ordered by physicians is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike the older inorganic iron preparations, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

Miss McKinley has a voice of unusual quality and it was following her work singing for the soldiers that she became weakened and run-down and had recourse to Nuxated Iron. Once more in superb physical condition, Miss McKinley says she is convinced that Nuxated Iron has no equal as a Strength, Health and Blood-Builder.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

AN UNEXPECTED VISITOR

CHAPTER LXVIII.

I wept bitterly after Neil had gone. For over an hour I cried and sobbed before I could reason myself into calmness. Then I bathed my swollen eyes and wondered how I should ever get through the day. Neil had been so disagreeable; he might be still more so when he found out that I had made a second visit to his office asking to look at his letters. I could set myself at nothing. Even my boy annoyed me with his childish questions, usually so interesting. I had just about decided to order the car and take him with me for company, and ride out into the country, when the telephone rang.

"Hello," a masculine voice called, I should like to speak to Mrs. Forbes."

"I am Mrs. Forbes."

"This is Mr. Frederick speaking. I just got in and found your telephone number in my box with a request to call. You are in no trouble, I hope?" real anxiety in his voice.

"No—not anything much — I am glad to hear your voice. Won't you run up and lunch with me? I will call Neil and ask him to come home."

"I shall be delighted to come. One o'clock?"

"Yes—one o'clock."

I immediately called Neil. Not until I had him on the wire did I think he might wonder why Mr. Frederick should come up to luncheon with me, instead of remaining down town with him, as he often did, neither did I think that it might look queer to Neil that Mr. Frederick had called me up.

"What is it?" he asked shortly. I had told the operator who I was.

"Can't you come home to lunch, Neil? I have—"

I was about to say "I have asked Mr. Frederick," when he interrupted me gruffly:

"No I can't! I am going elsewhere to luncheon. Good-bye!" The click of the receiver effectually prevented my saying more. My eyes filled again at his tone, yet I also experienced a feeling of relief. I would have to make no explanations, and I could talk alone with Mr. Frederick.

I had not decided to confide in him. Really, I thought I would say nothing of my awakened doubts of—not Neil, but his business methods. I would just chat of impersonal things, and forget I was unhappy.

He came promptly, and seemed so glad to see me, he held my hands in his so warmly, that I had all I could do not to again burst into tears. I was so nervous, upset because of my worry, my sleepless night, Neil's manner toward me, and my fear that I should not be able to make him understand my motives. So the hearty greeting of this great-hearted Westerner touched me deeply.

Fortunately luncheon was all ready and we immediately sat down. I told him Neil had a previous engagement so could not join us. "In fact, he was in such a hurry I did not have time to tell him you were to be here," I told him, then blushed to think he might imagine I didn't wish Neil to know since he would not join us.

"I can understand that; he has been away, has he not? I saw his name in a Chicago paper as a guest at one of the hotels."

"Yes, he only came home last night," I replied, then we chatted of ourselves. He told me of much he had done, where he had been. He admired the new furnishings, and I explained that I also had been very busy. I had almost forgotten that I longed to tell him my suspicions, almost forgot that Neil was angry with me, so pleasantly did the time pass. But after we had finished luncheon, and we were sipping coffee in the library, all my anxious thoughts returned to me. The cause, a question he asked:

"You have been crying, little lady. May I ask if you are in trouble, and if you are, is it anything I can help you bear?"

To-morrow—Mr. Frederick Cannot Give Barbara Much Comfort.

ARE PAST CREST OF HIGH PRICES

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Urging the ratification of peace as the first step, above all things in the readjustment of conditions, and also firm in the belief that prices will tumble, Herbert Hoover, returned from Europe, arriving from England on the liner Aquitania

"We have entirely passed the crest of high prices," he said, "There are economic reasons why prices will fall of their own weight There has been speculation by merchants all over the world and stocks have increased everywhere. This condition exists throughout the entire food world. It prevail sin Argentina and in India. The assumption has been that there would be an enormous outlet in Europe. That is an illusion Credits have not been established for any such move. New production will come on top of this accumulation all over the world and it will mean the tumbling of prices.

PRESENTATION TO MISS A. WILLIAMS

TEACHERS AND SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFICERS ENTERTAINED

Rev. and Mrs. Neville, 351 Charlotte street, entertained the teachers and officers of Trinity Sunday School, at their home on Friday evening in honor of Miss Alys Williams, whose marriage takes place Wednesday, Sept. 17.

During the evening Miss Williams was presented with several pieces of silver, a bouquet of roses and the following address:

Dear Miss Williams:—Your friends in the Sunday School of Trinity Church have learned with very mingled feelings of your coming departure from Peterboro. While we would assume the privilege along with your many other friends of offering you our congratulations and best wishes on the eve of your marriage, we are also conscious that the place which you have occupied in our Sunday School life has been so efficiently and unassumingly filled, that you will be greatly missed from that place when you leave us. You have spent your whole life, so far as Sunday School surroundings are concerned, in Trinity Sunday School, first as scholar in the various grades and the departments; then in the primary department as teacher and more recently as teacher of a class of junior girls. It is not to be wondered if the ties that bind you to us and us to you are very close, and that we should keenly regret the necessity which takes you from us when viewing matters from our own angle of profit and loss. But we are so desirous that your cup of happiness should be filled to the brim, that we willingly surrender our claims upon you, not only to your husband-to-be, who will be the chief sharer and source of your happiness but also we hope to some other Sunday school in which you may make use of all those God-given talents with which you have enriched our school through the past year. Will you accept this little token of our good will and friendship and with the present also take the promise of our prayers and best wishes for you as you go out to make new friends and establish new ties of Church and Sunday School life. Signed on behalf of teachers and officers of Trinity Sunday School.

PRESENTATION AT FOWLER'S CORNERS

MISS MAUD ACKISON ADDRESSED THE MEETING

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of Lakevale Presbyterian Church was held on Thursday afternoon, Sept. the fourth in the Church.

The President opened the meeting in the usual manner with hymn 447 and prayer after the minutes were read and roll call we had an address from Miss Maud Ackison, who is to leave for Formosa, Sept. 16th., as a missionary. Her address was most interesting and inspiring. we were most pleased to have her and vry proud of her, she being a girl from our community, she was presented with a purse and the following address:

Dear Maud,— We have gathered here today to attempt to show in small measure the feeling we have for you and the work which you represent. Words can never express the pride we feel in the girl of our community for we still count you as our who is giving up home life and all the comforts and pleasures connected with it and going forth to sow the seed for the Master's Harvest, you have fully grasped the meaning of th words of our Saviour, "Inasuch as ye have done it unto me". Please accept this accompanying gift as a small token of our deep interest and sincere sympathy in your chosen field of labour. We will follow your career, with best wishes for your future happiness, we commend you to the care of him whom you so faithfully serve.

Signed on behalf of the Lakevale, W.M.S.

The meeting then closed with hymn 458 and prayer after which refreshments were servd and a social hour spent.

The Citizens' Liberty League, consisting of prominent men and women in Ontario, place themselves on record as being unqualifiedly opposed to any measures that tend to bring back the bar and the unrestricted sale of spirituous liquors.

On the other hand, the Citizens' Liberty League sincerely believes that the present situation demands a repeal of the unsatisfactory Ontario Temperance Act, and the inauguration of sane, moderate temperance legislation.

These leading men and women, with no selfish ends to serve, and having in mind only the best interests of all the people in Ontario, are convinced that the true solution to the temperance problem is to allow the general sale of more appetizing, non-intoxicating beer and light wines, with the sale of spirituous liquors placed under proper Government regulations and restrictions.

Unite with the Citizens' Liberty League in its earnest, sincere endeavor to obtain temperance legislation which meets the needs of all but curtails the liberties of none.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

LABOUR CONDITIONS DISCUSSED AT THE NATIONEL INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE NOW IN SESSION IN OTTAWA

THE SPEAKERS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—R. Thompson, Carleton Place, started the ball rolling at the National Conference to-day. The question of an eight-hour day was still under discussion, and on behalf of the employers he took the view that organised labour, representing only 10 per cent. of the workers, was not authorised to accept a 44-hour week for the rest. "Saturday is a bad day for work," said he. "Why not make it a 40-hour week and not work on Saturday?" (Hear, hear, chorused the Labour benches.)

"But you'll pay more for your necessities," reiterated Mr. Thomson.

"We have to pay more anyhow," came back the Labour delegates.

Mr. Thomson took issue with Col. Carnegie that as much could be produced in an eight-hour day as in a longer working period.

Col. Carnegie: "I have actual proofs that everything I said is true."

Mr. Thomson then pointed out that if labour had gone to the employers, and without the manifestation of bad blood, asked for an eight-hour day in those industries where it could possibly be put in force, employers would have granted it.

H. McCutcheon, Winnipeg, said extremists took the view that labour should not work longer than it took to produce what was required for everyone. Others took the view that people worked to live. "After we've had the eight-hour day," he said, "and a 44-hour week, if we find that there are still many unemployed, we shall again come back and ask that the hours be further decreased. We will then be able to bring more people to enjoy the blessings of industry."

"We must always remember that there is a third party that is vitally interested in and affected by industrial disputes, and that is the general public," said J. Fraser Gregory, of St. John, N.B., who outlined the position of seasonal occupation. He dealt more specifically with the lumber industry, emphasising the necessity of getting through all possible work in a brief season, and failure to accomplish this meant a year's delay. He frankly opposed a reduction in hours from 9 to 8, maintaining that such a decrease would adversely affect the production, saying "if a man does his utmost for 9 hours he cannot be expected to produce as much in 8 hours."

Capital Invested.

J. A. Gillies, Sydney, N.S., representing the Iron Workers, declared an eight-hour day resulted in efficient service for an honest day's work at an honest rate of pay. "Capital invested is entitled to a legitimate return—but capital as represented by air and water is not capital in the eyes of labour. How can you expect loyalty from your employees if that loyalty is to be one-sided? He maintained that capital must first begin by giving up a share of the profits."

J. S. McKinnon, Toronto, eulogised the arguments put forward by Mr. Melville White yesterday. He said it was impossible to deal with this question without taking into consideration the national debt and the payment of the cost of the war. He wanted to know whether they were really discussing an eight-hour day or a wage problem. He accused the labour men of hurling threats across the floor that if the eight-hour day were not recommended by this conference, industry would be paralysed by a general strike.

J. A. McClelland, Montreal, moved that the matter be referred to a committee appointed for that purpose. He briefly reviewed the speeches of previous speakers, objection having been taken by employers to Mr. McClelland again addressing the conference. He having opened the debate, Mr McClelland pointed out that he was merely winding up the debate for the Labour representatives. "So far as I am concerned," said he, "the other side can continue the debate all day long if they like." France and Great Britain were providing for an eight-hour day, some of the Toronto houses were also working 40 hours a week—8 hours a day for five days—with evident satisfaction.

Third Group.

"I have an open mind on the question of hours," said Col. J. A. Cantley, of the "Third Group." He maintained that the question was entirely a matter of judgment, with special consideration to each industry. In some of these he cited, most satisfactory results had been obtained by a six hour basis, in others eight was essential, in others even more. He cautioned the Conference on the score of certain individual firms' attitude favouring a shorter work day. Many such firms, he contended, were either fully protected by sole patent rights or by a secret process, which practically left them without competition, or the firms had in reality merely substituted piecework for day work, while many people confused this with a reduction of hours. In conclusion he said, "An eight-hour day is desirable—a universal eight-hour day throughout Canada is impossible, but that, of course, is my opinion only."

SHARE PROFITS.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—Threats of strikes were deplored and a new warning from labour to employers issued before the National Industrial Conference had proceeded very far with this morning's session.

The Conference opened in a sort of fighting mood.

J. S. McKinnon, of Toronto, said labour had been going too far in using the term "Conscription of wealth" and threatening to strike to enforce the eight-hour day in all industries. There should have been more of the spirit of British fair play. The Conference was not called for that sort of thing.

J. A. Gillies, delegate from Sydney, N.S., steel workers, disclaimed any attempt to force class legislation. No industry had yet been ruined by reducing the hours of labour, but labour should not be speeded up to earn profits on air and water. "We must be fair with you," he said, "but you must also give us a little more of what you have been pleased in the past to term profits."

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN IN TO MORROW NIGHT'S BOXING ATTRACTION

To-morrow night's boxing program in the Brock street rink is a dandy and will bring many surprises to the large crowd that is arranging to be present. The opponent of Jordan is a Canadian champion and this bout as well as the main bout will be worth the price of admission alone.

There are those who are mainly interested in the main bout and for their information it might be said that it will be about 9.45 o'clock when it begins.

If you want to see the greatest night's sport in years go to the Brock street rink to-morrow night and see a good bill of boxing bouts, all fought on the level.

BALLOONIST CHASED BY BULL IN SWAMP AT MIDNIGHT HOUR

M. BONNETTE ALIGHTED IN OTONABEE LAST NIGHT AND HIS TROUBLES BEGAN RIGHT THERE

When C. C. Bonnette, the aeronaut at the Exhibition, disappeared into the darkness last night about ten o'clock he hadn't the least idea of the troubles that awaited him when he made his landing across the river in Otonabee. Nor had he any choice, which is some advantage over the normal flights of the aviators who generally can pick out a comparatively smooth field, and who confine their flights to daytime.

The two red lights attached to M. Bonnette's parachute traced his course for the watching crowds below. The outline of the balloon had been blotted out in the night sky, and twinkling lights indicated the progress of the big gas bag as it was carried southeasterly across the river. Down in the grandstand the opinion formed that the balloonist did not liberate his parachute, and the whole performance took on the illusion of safety that recked not of the actual experience.

Tangled in Tree Top.

M. Bonnette cut adrift from the balloon and gently settled down in a tree top on Robert Wilson's farm. After disentangling the ropes of his parachute he climbed down and found himself in a swamp as dark as the night sky from which he descended. With considerable difficulty he floundered out to comparatively firm ground and suddenly found himself confronted by a belligerent bull. It bellowed at him, and tried to "mix it up" with the airman, who shook the parachute at the animal, and slowly made his way out of the swamp. The bull kept close to him and for the greater part of an hour Mons. Bonnette cautiously retreated until, with a sigh of relief he reached a fence, and crawled through it and reached a road.

Autos Passed Him By.

Directing his steps toward the lights of the city he waved at passing automobiles, but the drivers probably mistok him for a tramp as they noticed him trudging along with a parachute slung over his shoulder like a nomad's kit. About midnight M. Bonnette arrived in Peterborough, but this morning he was very much minus his balloon.

Found By Airplane.

Every line of communication failed until Webber Turner commissioned Lieut. Dallin and his airplane. Within ten minutes they saw it as they flew at a low altitude over the fields and farms of Otonabee. The deflated bag had dropped close to Mr. Albert Crowley's front door on the 19th concession of Otonabee, and about three miles from the city. This discovery was made at 11.30 o'clock this morning and shortly after dinner the balloon was brought back to the Fair grounds. It was stated that Mr. Crowley had seen the empty bag this morning but paid no attention to it, thinking it was valueless, and in the meantime M. Bonnette and directors of the Exhibition were anxiously combing the countryside in search of it.

At one o'clock, M. Bonnette was ready for his afternoon ascent, but he has strong objections to swamps, angry bulls and the utter darkness of night in the townships.

BOY SCOUTS HELPED SICK AT FAIR GROUNDS

The services of the Boy Scouts were much appreciated on Tuesday afternoon at the exhibition grounds, when they carried in two little victims into the emergency tent of the Metropolitan Life. Nurse Lillie Simons and Drs. King and Morgan gave the necessary attention. The lad, who was from East City, came to the show with his little brother and sister, and became like them overtired. The Scouts first piloted the brother and sister home and when the boy had revived, escorted him to his house.

The little girl and her grandmother, who had lost their way, were also escorted home by the Scouts.

"She needs to be more friendly," said Mrs. Carrington, "why that woman actually passed me on the street three times last week without noticing me. But here she comes now—let's see whether she will notice us or not."

Mrs. Brown came toward the corner smiling happily. She approached the two friends cordially and said,

"You can't guess how happy I am. With three new changes I find that overnight's hop is my limit. The previous night no matter what I wore, it was the same old story always meeting their friends on the street while I never seemed to see anyone I knew."

SHE BELIEVES IT SAVED HER LIFE

WINNIPEG WOMAN'S RECOVERY BY TANLAC CONVINCED ALL HER FRIENDS

"My wonderful recovery has been a surprise to all who knew of my dreadful condition," said Mrs. Amelia Hooley, of 863 Fleet avenue, Fort Rouge, Winnipeg, Canada, recently, in one of the most interesting and remarkable statements yet published in connection with Tanlac.

"My system has been badly run down for several years," continued Mrs. Hooley, "and although everything was done for me that could be done for a person I got worse instead of better. I had begun to think Tanlac was going to fail me too, as I could not see much improvement, if any, until I started on my third bottle. At one time I thought of giving it up, but if I had it would have been the mistake of my life for really and truly it has made a new person of me. My stomach was in the worst kind of a fix and my appetite left me entirely. Nothing tasted good and even the most dainty and tempting foods did not appeal to me. What little I did eat soured on my stomach and the gas from it would bloat me up and made me miserable. Then I contracted rheumatism in my left leg, which finally affected my whole side, and it was as much as I could do to get around. In fact I was right down in bed for six weeks, and hardly able to move. This leg would pain me so, especially at night, that I couldn't lie still. There was also a terrible pain that started in my left shoulder and went up the back of my neck clean to the top of my head. This pain was so severe at times I thought that I would go distracted, and I have used mustard and the strongest kind of liniments until I actually burned the skin off trying to get relief. I would lie awake night after night just suffering agony, never getting a wink of sleep. I would get up in the mornings feeling like a wreck, unable to do or do my housework, and would get so weak I would almost faint and feel like I was dying. I would have dizzy spells when I could hardly stand up and these left me so weak and faint that I feared my heart was going to stop beating.

"Last year all arrangements had been made to put my children in a convent, as I had been given up to die. My nerves were in such a shattered condition that I couldn't stand the slightest noise. Even the children playing around would almost make me frantic. I had fallen off in weight until I was scarcely more than a frame of skin and bones. At the time I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 93 pounds and my condition was really alarming. My husband wanted me to stick to Tanlac until I had given it a fair trial, and while I was taking my third bottle I commenced to get relief. I have used five bottles now and my improvement has been nothing less than wonderful. A few days ago I went to visit a friend and she had so much to say about how well I look that I asked if I had really been very sick and she said she never had any idea that I would live. I have not only gotten relief from all my suffering but I have actually gained twelve pounds in weight besides, and I am just so happy and grateful over my recovery that I want to tell everybody about Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough my W. B. Warne Drug Co., Limited; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers' Corners, by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert, by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle & Son.

LICENSE INSPECTOR STEWART WAS ON STAND AGAIN THIS MORNING

ADMITS OFFERING P.C. WIGG FIVE DOLLARS FOR INFORMATION—TE EVIDENCE.

The cross-examination of License Inspector Joseph Stewart was continued this morning, and Mr. R. R. Hall asked him if he thought it probable that Hamilton and the gang would go to Moore's house, break in the house and carry out two boxes that weighed 250 pounds each. Mr. Stewart replied that in such times men did not weigh the danger in the balance. He further stated that he firmly believed that Hamilton's statement was true.

"Did you ever prosecute W. J. Hamilton successfully?"

"I don't think I did because he is a very hard man to ketch."

Repeated Evidence.

Mr. Stewart repeated yesterday's evidence that Hamilton told him on the train that when the liquor was stolen from Moore's house by the gang suspicion would be diverted to Stewart and that he had disposed of it in some way.

Mr. Stewart had Hamilton's statement the time of the Rae Sullivan trial but never produced it to his counsel, Mr. Joseph Wearing. This drew a reprimand from His Honour, who informed Mr. Stewart that the statement should have been produced in court at the time of the Sullivan trial or else handed over to the Board of Police Commissioners.

Five Dollar Fee.

"Did you ever offer $5 to any member of the police force who would give you any information which would lead to conviction under the O. T.A.?" asked Mr. Hall.

"Only one, Constable Wigg, was the reply.

For the information of the court Mr. Hall explained that if Mr. Stewart institutes proceedings against an offender the fine goes to the Ontario government, but if the city police force prosecute the fine levied goes to the city treasury.

"I am told that you bered $5 to Sergts. Deannard, Blade and Detective Newhall if they would give you any information leading to conviction."

"In my life, never."

"Did you ever promise Constable Webster of Lakefield 10 per cent. of the fine if Webster would take returned soldiers to the Lawless House and get them drunk and afterwards have them arrested?"

"Never," replied Mr. Stewart.

The court disallowed the question, as it did not relate to the city police.

"What about the liquor you found in the old Conservative Club rooms which Levasseur was selling there?"

"I confiscated it and took it to the police station. There were two cases of lager beer. Levasseur was fined $200, but in the meantime left town, and has never been heard of since."

Mr. Stewart then re-told the story which he related yesterday regarding the liquor going to Chief Thompson's house.

The re-examination of Mr. Stewart by Mr. O'Connell began at noon and the Inspector denied Mr. Hamilton's evidence that he (Stewart) told Hamilton that Magistrate Dumble had cancelled his license. He also denied that he told Hamilton that he would have been granted his license if he had stood by him and backed him up.

Chief Alexander Kidd, of Parry Sound, formerly a sergeant on the local police force, was the next witness called. He confirmed Mr. Stewart's evidence of the raid on the Conservative Club and that two cases of lager were left at the police station.

"Do you know what became of that lager beer?" asked Mr. Widdifield.

"I do," was the reply. "It was either sent to the House of Providence or St. Joseph's Hospital. I sent it."

"I never told Mr. Stewart any such thing that I had packed larger beer for the Chief's house," stated Chief Kidd. He must be mistaken."

Mr. O'Connell then began cross-examination of Chief Kidd and inquired how he was informed of the investigation and what he asked to come to Peterborough for?

The case is continuing.

OCCUPATION OF EASTERN LANDS

Agreement Reached Between French and British Authorities.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 17. — Agreement reached by Premier Clemenceau and Field Marshal Allenby of the British army concerning the occupation of Syria provides for evacuation of all the area north of the frontier between Palestine and Syria on or before November 1 by British troops, according to morning newspapers. The British will be relieved by French forces, with the exception of the districts of Damascus, Homs, Hamah and Aleppo, which will be left out of the area of occupation but will pass under French influence.

Mothers' Advice

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl. When a girl's thoughts become sluggish with headaches, dizziness, or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs and a desire for solitude, her mother should come to her aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of this medicine, and what it has done for their daughters.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 18 years of age, very shaky and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered against from headache and dizziness and was without appetite. For 3 months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching as if she did not know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and looks much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. E. Fulton, 252 Harry Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

YESTERDAY'S CROWD, ETC.

of cows are to be milked, and dairy farmers have the difficulty of securing and keeping help.

As if to solve these problems, comes the De Laval Co. with an entirely reliable and practical milking machine, that does the work in half the time and draws the milk without the use of human hands, and, it may be said, even better than the human hands.

De Laval engineers, and mechanics, after many years spent in careful constructive work, have put on the market this revolutionary milker, to which all cows take so kindly.

Says one farmer:

"I never saw anything in the line of a milker as kindly in its action on the cows. We put a couple of pure breds, which we recently purchased in our barn. They had never seen a milker, but with gentle and sensible handling they did not need to be even watched the second time they had the machines put on.

"I can say the machine saves us on twenty cows easily one man's time. There is a feeling of satisfaction in milking twenty or thirty cows alone and getting away from the job without being physically tired, which is hard to estimate financially."

Udder Pulsator close to cow's udder.

Pulsation speed cannot be tampered with.

No pulsator springs, washers or regulating screws.

Alternation action at fixed speed.

Self-adjusting teat-cups.

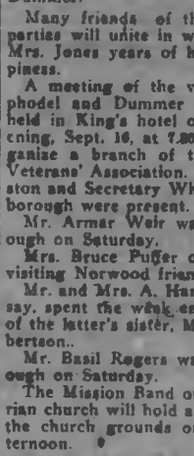
Fastest method of milking cows safely.

It claims to be more reliable and more sanitary than any other method of milking. To-day thousands of cows are being milked by it, and the large additional orders from users afford evidence of the splendid satisfaction these machines are giving.

The shortage of milk, butter and cheese has so increased the demand for dairy products that this type of milking machine will undoubtedly help to relieve. The man that milks three times as many cows in an hour by the De Laval method is helping on the construction work in a practical manner.

The De Laval exhibit at the Fair was in charge of competent salesmen, who demonstrated the superiority of this machine to large crowds of farmers and dairymen, and reported good business being done.

The De Laval Cream Separator and other De Laval products were also displayed, and their merits fully explained to enquirers.



WHITE BROS. BICYCLE DISPLAY

A splendidly arranged bicycle exhibit was made by the enterprising young firm of White Bros., Hunter street, with show rooms at 174 Hunter street. Their exhibit contained several of the newest ideas in Massey bicycles, including one done in the new color, battlefield grey. They show a full range of accessories such as pedals, chains, wrenches, belts, etc. An interesting article in this exhibit is one of the new Hercules brakes such as are used in all Massey wheels, shown in cross section. This gives one a good idea of the working parts of this clever brake. It is worthy of note that within an hour after placing their exhibit in this section of the main building this firm had sold one of their highest priced machines. Anyone interested in bicycles would do well to look this exhibit over to-night.

Oh! Such Pain dizzy—dragged-

With dull headache backache — reaking with pain here or there — poor woman, she's one of many. On those days each month, when in other circumstances she would go to bed she must still be at the desk or counter, or struggle through the day as best she may with her housework or her family cares. Usually she who feels those dragging-down or dizzy symptoms, and other pains caused by womanly disease, can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the cause of these pains. Faded, jaded, tired, overworked, weak, nervous, delicate women are helped to strength and health by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. In liquid or tablets.

Sherman, Ont.—"Before a woman I have the occasion to use 'Favorite Prescription' quite often. I recommend it to my patients and it has done a wonderful help to many of them. I never know of a case where it failed. I have a patient who is using it now, and is doing fine. She has taken it regularly and got the very best results. I consider it the best medicine there is for women who are ailing."—Miss Ruth Moore, 3 Bridge Street.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers —Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

OPEN LETTER TO PROHIBITIONISTS

Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir:—Fellow Prohibitionists, allow you to offer you my sympathy. You are called upon to take a dose of medicine that is but little to your taste and in addition you are expected to be cheerful while you take it; in fact you are expected to admit that the medicine offered in the form of The Ontario Temperance Act is all that is required to make you happy. Will you allow me, as an out-and-out Total Prohibitionist, of over forty years' standing, for I stood for total prohibition before I was ten years of age and got licked for my pains, to ask you, in all seriousness to take your medicine with as few faces as possible. We want the Total Suppression of the traffic in strong drink, being fully persuaded that there will be trouble in some measure so long as the popular drug is procurable, but we must admit that we are not everybody and as the general public shows signs of being willing to go with us as far as the O.T.A., it will be our best policy to act on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread.

It will be difficult for us to vote for a measure which allows the importation of any reasonable quantity of any kind of alcoholic drink for private use, but it will be something worth while to have the temptation of the open bar removed together with its attendant vicious treating system. With the bar removed there will be a great lessening of the number of recruits for ranks the alcoholic drug habit, and so we may reasonably hope that as the time goes by there will be less and less importation, and less and less drunkenness, with more and more disapproval of it by the community.

It is difficult for us to vote for a measure with which the public will likely be content for a long time to come, and which falls so far short of what we want, but we must remember that all legislation partakes, more or less, of the nature of compromise and that while we do not get what we want the other party is not getting what it wants. I know that we shall be told that we ought to be content with the O.T.A. and that is a Prohibitionist law and that we are unreasonable if we ask for more, but given time I am convinced that we shall yet have Total Prohibition by the will of the people of Canada. Thoughtful students seem to be agreed that it can come only in one or two ways, either by the gradual approach, or, by a big battle. I am not by any means sure that the people of Ontario are ready to give us the victory now, or in the near future, but even if they did there would certainly be a strong beaten minority, and there might be a great many who would feel that they were performing a public duty in preventing the law from being effective. I judge that we would get prohibition sooner if we simply stood out for nothing less, but I fear that it would not be so secure or so satisfactory. Would there not be a better chance for a successful clean-up if the benefits of even a measure of sobriety were exhibited to the public over a period of years. Some of us would die before our aims were accomplished, but then, so would many of those with the drink crave, and so there would be less cry about the hardship of not being able to procure the drug.

I have been asked how, as a Prohibitionist, I can vote for the O.T.A., and certainly that is a reasonable question, and one like a good many more reasonable questions in that it is much easier to ask it than it is to answer it. I hardly know yet how I am to bring myself to vote for the sale of beer with an alcoholic content of 2½ per cent by bulk and strong enough to intoxicate, about twice as strong as what is permitted in the United States. However I have made up my mind to do it, and I now appeal to those who are on the Prohibition Wagogn with me to climb down, even if the other team laughs at us, and show that we are minded to play the game of give and take. We know that the other fellow is not having a good time either. It may pay us in the long run to have earned the right to be regarded as having supported what to us is a distasteful measure in order public good might be promoted. The O.T.A. is not to us an ideal measure by any means, but it is the best thing in sight for us, and for the country, and half a loaf is better than no bread. Let us fall in line with the great mass of citizens who are wedded to no one idea in connection with the drink problem, but who, because they consider that to vote No to all four questions of the Referendum will be good for the community without inflicting very great hardship on any one are going to vote to leave the Act where it is.

I am your hopeful fellow-sufferer.

JOHN GALT.

Voice Of The People

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:—Lately there has been much agitation in the papers concerning an increased gratuity for soldiers who represented Canada in the war. The system or method, which in the past and now is in operation, has been to pay the soldiers from four to six months gratuity based on their rank on discharge (if they did not revert to go to France) and the length of service they had in the army.

The main reason for this gratuity was to aid the boys to re-establish themselves in civil life, at least that is the reason given by the Government who granted this war bonus.

The present demand of the G.W.V.A. is for a demand of a $2,000.00 war bonus, which, I understand, has been turned down by the present Government on account of the country not being able to afford the same, and if that were a fact, I am quite ready to believe it; however, in view of the many different cases that have been presented to me in the last few months, I can hardly believe that the Bordon Government is sincere in all their statements. Many a man has come to me with the statement that he would like all his gratuity in one lump sum in order to start in business for himself, but when I applied to the Government for the same, I was met with the reply that there was no authority for such a thing, notwithstanding the fact that it was only an order-in-Council that was needed to remedy the defect. In many cases this was remedied by myself lending the money to the applicant. Another error on the part of the Government was to pay the officers more than the private soldier when it was only reasonable to know that in nine cases out of ten that the officer could more easily adapt himself to the new circumstances than could the private. The private offered his life as well as the officer, and consequently should have the same consideration.

A. W. WIDDIFIELD.

To the Ministerial Associations and Friends, and Salvation Army Officials.

Dear Worthy Sirs:—There is to be an unveiling and ceremony of a memorial to the Late Joseph Scriven at Kidd's Corners, near Bewdley, Rice Lake, nine miles north of Port Hope, on the first Sunday in October, (October 5), at 1 p.m., with the beautiful hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," birth and date of the author's death and history, inscribed thereon.

You and the friends and lovers of that beautiful hymn are cordially invited to attend. The Salvation Army are also invited to come with their bands. Dean Wallace and Dr. McLaughlin of the Toronto University are coming to preside. The S.A. Temple Band of Toronto is supplying the music.

An appeal will be made to the public gathering for substantial funds to erect a suitable memorial over his grave. I am asking the Port Hope Committee, Toronto, Millbrook and Peterboro to co-operate. Would ask all representatives of each committee to be present, Rev. C. S. Applegarth, Rev. D. S. K. Byrne, Rev. J. R. Webb of Peterboro, Rev. C. H. Spencer of Millbrook of the various committees who are launching this campaign, will be present.

It will be arranged that a service will be held in the little Bewdley Church, prior to the unveiling of the Scriven memorial at Kidd's Corners.

All friends and lovess of the Late Joseph Scriven, in the vicinities of Port Hope, Bewdley, Millbrook and Peterboro are cordially invited to attend.

Sincerely Yours,
D. S. K. BYRNE,

Editor, The Examiner,

Dear Sir:—Would your paper make this special appeal to the public, and to all lovers of the Late Joseph Scrivens, philanthropist and author of "What a Friend We Have In Jesus," to send their subscriptions to the Rev. C. S. Applegarth, Port Hope; Rev. C. R. Spencer, Millbrook, Ontario; Rev. J. R. Webb, 544 Aylmer street, Peterboro, Ontario; Edward Jones, Imperial Bank Building Toronto.

All the above are co-operating.

All monies received by the various committees will be applied to the erection of a suitable memorial over his grave; the public is sure that the money will fall into safe hands, and will be applied to that purpose. The Rev. David S. K. Bryne, Montreal, subscribed $300.00, and the Millbrook Committee has received $350.00, Port Hope citizens, $500.00.

On Sunday, Oct. 5, at 1 p.m. the unveiling ceremony of the memorial stone at Kidd's Corners, Bewdley, North of Port Hope. The gathering will be asked to subscribe to it. All subscriptions received at that gathering will be applied to the memorial stone for the Scriven grave. Now this is a worthy and notable object, and I trust that all lovers of this beautiful hymn will subscribe liberally to the erection of the stone, and the upkeep of the little cemetery that one and all will own a brick. We are making this a national appeal.

Special band music and leading people from Toronto, Port Hope, Cobourg, Millbrook, Peterboro and surrounding district will be present at the unveiling ceremony of the memorial stone at Kidd's Corners Sunday, October 5, at 1 p.m. A service is arranged at Bewdley church at 11 a.m. The S. A. bands will be present. You might ask the churches to hold a Scriven Sunday, the 5th of October, and call it the Scriven Memorial Sunday, and take up special offerings in the various churches appealing to the people publicly, and appealing to the congregations individually for special offerings for the memorial fund.

Sincerely Yours,
D. S. K. BYRNE,

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:—A young lady writes you to know how much alcohol the Creator makes. A little while ago there was published in your columns the finding or report of the National Council of Research on this fact. Their report was that the production of alcohol in Nature is universal, and that it occurred wherever the yeast germ and the sugar granule (both natural products only) came together. As nature produces an enormous proportional strength of alcohol also, it may be said that any attempt to limit either the production of strength in nature must be regarded as futile, while if it is to be regarded as morally objectionable, the Creator must stand being condemned to total prohibitionists. There is no royal road to food morals. The whole plan of salvation shows that the "Total" Prohibitionist is really atheistical if he or she only knew it. All their pother is born of the desire to improve on things as they are and were—in a word upon the Creator's creation—and what is to become of it?

Beer or the Boy?

The Referendum Places the Alternative Squarely Before Every Parent in Ontario

HALF a million boys of Ontario have never tasted liquor. The province has been under prohibition for three years and they have had little or no opportunity to acquire the taste or to yield to the temptation. How much better would it be for the safety of the future of these boys upon whom the future of this province depends, if they never acquired the taste for liquor—if the temptation to acquire the dangerous habit of "booze" were never thrust upon them?

Owing to the wording of the Referendum ballot, many parents may not realize that the Beer proposed is intoxicating, more than twice as strong as the beer allowed at the present time under the Ontario Temperance Act, and over five times as strong as the limit allowed for beer defined as non-intoxicating in Great Britain and the United States.

2.51% Alcohol by Weight Means 5.46% Proof Spirits

The Beer of the Ballot is 5.46% Beer. The Ballot says "2.51% alcohol by weight." But that means 5.46% proof spirits, and the Ontario Temperance Act allows only 2.50% proof spirits. The Beer of the Ballot is 118% stronger.

Three glasses of 5.46% beer equals in alcoholic content one ordinary glass of whiskey. Men and boys get drunk on beer. The young fellow when he takes his first drink takes beer. Beer creates the taste for alcohol. It develops drunkards.

A beer drunkard is a lower piece of human degradation than a whiskey drunkard. He is dull, coarse, brutal, bloated, sodden, and very susceptible to disease.

Most beers contain other poisons beside alcohol—lupulin, for example, which destroys the kidneys and shakes the nervous system and is the secret of those crimes of brutal stupidity often laid at the doors of beer drunkards.

The Beer of the Ballot is too strong for your boy or anybody's boy.

What would you not sacrifice for the welfare of your son—time—money—comfort—sleep! Is it too much to ask you to sacrifice 5.46% beer—in the home, in the bar—anywhere within this province of Ontario?

To every question on the Referendum Ballot we ask you to vote—

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

No Repeal—No 5.46% Beer in Government Shops—No 5.46% in Open Bars—No Government Whiskey Shops for Beverage Purposes

Every mother and father in Ontario should vote to retain the Ontario Temperance Act in sacred trust for Ontario's growing boys. Be sure you mark an X after each question and place it under the heading "NO."

Spirit of Industry

Applied to business, the same policy is equally fatal. Whereas, action generates progress.

Our business is barometrical. It presents an absorbing study in creative human nature.

The first evidence of a creative mind at work is apparent in the demand for Power Transmission Equipment. And creators have been remarkably active since the Armistice was signed.

This new Spirit in Business has not been confined to war plants.

Other men have sensed the close of an epoch, and the birth of a greater industrial future.

We are proud that many of these firms have hastened to avail themselves of our experience as power transmission engineers. They realize that the gigantic work we have done in the past four years has had its effect upon our spirit. They know it has made us more efficient.

We rendered magnificent service to customers during the war; but we see now that that was merely a preparation.

The latent possibilities of our organization were a revelation to us; and we do not intend that the high mark of service rendered in 1915, '16, '17, '18 shall be lowered.

Victories of peace are second only to victories of war in their demands upon human energy. But Canada will rise to the occasion, and we are translating this faith into action for every firm that calls upon us.

Chief of Police Gilson has asked Major G. F. Chandler, commanding the New York State Police, to be prepared to guard life and property in the steel city if a strike occurs.

IF YOUR FOOD FERMENTS OR DISAGREES, JUST READ THIS!

Thousands of broken-down, despondent dyspeptics have recently been given back their health.

These happy people don't proclaim it was a miracle that endowed them with a new lease of life—it was simply their commonsense in selecting a tried and proven medicine, one specially adapted to their particular ailment.

All these splendid cures were effected by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which beyond all question have a strange power to restore a weak or ailing stomach.

If your stomach is tired and overworked, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills and note the prompt improvement. Pain before or after eating will disappear. You'll no longer have that nauseous, gassy, bad tasting sensation. You'll get a real vigorous appetite and digest what you eat. Lots of well digested food is bound to increase your strength, to make you brighter and more ambitious. In a week you'll feel like a different person, in a month you'll be permanently restored.

For folks who are out of sorts, not feeling just up to the scratch, perhaps bothered with headaches or constipation, to them Dr. Hamilton's Pills will prove a boon.

LONDON, September 17.—The plot which resulted in Gabriele D'Annunzio's occupation of Fiume, was organized in Venice, according to advices received here.

The Prefect of Venice has been dismissed. Fiume is isolated to-day and little news of recent developments there has reached the outside world.

Six regiments of artillery, it is learned, were about to join the ranks of the raiders, but returned to their barracks upon the advice of their officers.

TO GROW HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Specialist Gives Simple Recipe That Works Fine.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness, and falling hair who having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomforts. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and it also is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original colour, stopping hair from falling out and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces, Lavona de Compose 2 ounces, Menthol Crystals, one half drachm. If you wish it perfumed add 1 drachm of your favourite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Ladies using this preparation should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.

IVESON'S CLAIM WAS DISMISSED

AFTERMATH OF MODEL TRENCH EXHIBIT

In April last Mr. Iveson's action against Major Ackerman for wages claimed to be due in connection with the Model Trench Exhibit which toured the United States in the latter part of 1917, was tried before His Honour Judge Huycke who after carefully going into the matter dismissed Mr. Iveson's claim. From this judgment, Mr. Iveson appealed to the Supreme Court at Toronto. The judges of that Court heard the argument yesterday at Osgoode Hall, and dismissed Iveson's appeal with costs. It was pointed out that these men had all been most fairly treated by Major Ackerman and that he had more than carried out his obligation to them.

Mr. Widdifield presented the appeal to the Court, Mr. Medd opposed the appeal.

(Special to Examiner.

HAMILTON, September 17.—Lieut. Col. Frank Morrison, D.S.O., late assistant Military Secretary of the Canadian Overseas Forces in England, is the representative of the Board of Commerce in Hamilton. His appointment was made by Mr. W. F. O'Connor, in conference with the civic officials yesterday, and Col. Morrison commences his duties to-day.

One of his first undertakings will be an enquiry into a charge against the firm of Gordon & Hyde, grocers, of selling sugar at 15c a lb. to Pollock Bros., grocers. Prosecution of the latter firm, who sold the sugar at 15.75 cents a lb., has already been recomended by Mr. O'Connor. Col. Morrison returned to Hamilton only a few days ago, and Mr. O'Connor said, "the city has reason to congratulate itself that he returned at such a propitious moment. I have every confidence in Lieut. SUGAR SHIPPED OUT OF COUNTRY

FRUIT GOING TO WASTE FOR LACK SUGAR TO CAN IT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 17.—Charges that sugar is still being sent out of Canada by the shipload, while carloads of Western Ontario fruit are rotting in the West because a limited supply can be obtained only by "begging and paying exorbitant prices," are made by A. MacDonald, a former Mayor, in a public statement to the City Council. "Something must be done at once," he said.

Mr. MacDonald asserts that the Board of Commerce seems to have started too late and "at the wrong end." "We have to beg and pay exorbitant prices for a few cars which we get, not because sugar is scarce. On the contrary, it is being shipped out of the country, not by car or train loads, but by ship load. There are carloads of the finest fruit ever grown being sold for less than cost to the producer, and large quantities are allowed to go to waste for want of sugar," he continued.

"HIS PARISIAN WIFE"

ELSIE FERGUSON AS A FRENCH NEWSPAPER WOMAN IN HER LATEST PHOTOPLAY, AT THE ALLEN THEATRE

Heroine Weds Boston Lawyer, the Marriage is Unhappy and After the Wife Wins Fame as an Author, the Couple are Happily Re-united.

Exerting a powerful appeal to all married folk and especially to young brides just entering upon their marital careers, Elsie Ferguson's new Artcraft photoplay, "His Parisian Wife" will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday. The story is one of exceptional dramatic interest and the various situations are most thrilling.

The story deals with Fauvette, a girl reporter on a Paris newspaper, who weds a Boston lawyer after a brief courtship. When Martin Wesley, her husband, takes his bride to the home of his parents, they resent her coming on the theory that since they had not been consulted about their son's marriage, his bride necessarily must be a devil incarnate—a designing creature with a shady past.

This repellant attitude toward the young bride is prolific of numerous harrowing scenes and every effort of Fauvette to win the confidence and love of her father and mother-in-law is frustrated. Her husband finally accepts his parent's views and treats his bride with refined cruelty. A separation ensues during which Fauvette wins fame as a novelist and she and her husband are later reunited and live happily ever after.

Miss Ferguson is well supported, her leading man being David Powell. Others in the cast are Courtney Foote, Frank Losee, Cora Williams, Capt. Charles and Louis Grisel. Eve Unsell wrote the scenario and Emile Chautard directed the production. The craft photoplay. "His Parisian Wife" story has intensely dramatic moments and in Fauvette, Miss Ferguson is said to have one of the finest roles of her career.

In addition the Allen Theatre is showing the third episode of the thrilling serial "The Great Gamble." The fight scene between Charles Hutchison and a half dozen huskies, especially procured for the occasion, is well worth seeing. The Great Gamble is a Pathe serial, electric in its dynamic force and high voltage climaxes, and is without doubt the greatest "stunt" serial produced to date.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff, and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

gasping in amazement, his climax is where a woman is suspended in midair. Inviting his audience to come upon the stage to see that there are no wires Blackstone suddenly fires a revolver and the whole exhibit vanishes in a breath apparently dissolving in air.

The company carries the largest equipment of illusions and magical effects on tour ever offered patrons of this theatre and during his engagement here is expected to create a sensation with the many marvelous illusions and feats offered by his lengthy programme.

WHERE THE BREAD WENT

The wanderings of four sandwiches form an important part of the story of "The Fire Slingers", Rupert Julian's latest Universal Special Attraction, which will be shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Empire Theatre. They are perhaps the most costly articles of food ever handled about on the screen, for the filling is made of $200,000 in greenbacks.

The story tells of the determination of a dissolute and wealthy publisher to run away with a proof-reader vampire—something new in movie "vamps", by the way.

He intends to take $200,000—principally his wife's money—with him, but is afraid the proofreader will get the money and shake him. So, with drunken cunning, he seizes on a loaf of bread left behind on the kitchen table, as a hiding place for the money.

VISITORS VOLUNTARILY PAID TRIBUTE, ETC

commodation is essential and a sufficiency of benches or other provisions for resting must not be overlooked again. The grandstand is too small, and even the new performance stand built this year, was not large enough for the vaudeville acts that have entertained the crowds at this year's Fair.

An Exhibits Building.

The erection of a big building for the exhibits of the merchants and manufacturers cannot be postponed much longer. There is no doubt that two or three times the present space would be filled, and not only would local firms respond even in greater numbers than at present, but it is altogether likely that companies doing a Dominion-wide business would seek concessions in Peterboro especially with a week's fair.

In the old building and in the tents the crowds kept the dust constantly in the air to the detriment of baluable goods that were shown in the various booths. With the best of facilities this difficulty could not be easily avoided, but it could be minimized in a new spacious building that could be easily swept when necessary.

Co-operation Is Heartening.

The midway needs realignment and there are other alterations and improvements that will doubtless materialize within the next few years. The spirit of harmony and the desire to promote the Fair evidenced by farmers and citizens alike this year warrants bold strokes within the next twelve months. President Denne and his staff must have been deeply gratified and inspired by the exhibits and the crowds of yesterday, but few of the citizens realized the thinness of the ice upon which the Board was skating this week. With only two days after Monday to catch success they ran a dangerous chance of failure that might have proved disastrous had the weather been wet. At least seven thousand dollars, it is understood, had to be counted before the returns would begin to show a profit, and a big deficit would not only have set the Exhibition back indefinitely, but for any such sum the directors were personally responsible. Progress depends upon the balance after the prize money and accounts are paid. Frequently the directors have declared that some day when the Exhibition is securely established and producing a yearly revenue, the city will covet it as strongly as they refuse to accept the liability for it in its present struggles.

In the meantime while the local mind is forming the conviction that the plans of the Board are more than idle dreams and that Peterboro will soon have one of the first fairs in the Province, the groundwork of future success is being laid in the attracting of new exhibits every year and the welding of the city's and county's pride and community spirit into a force, of which yesterday's crowds are but an earnest and index.

WILSON INVADES COAST CITIES

THE "DOVE OF PEACE" DISCUSSES THE PEACE LEAGUE

(United Press.)

(By Hugh Baillie.)

Aboard the President's Train Approaching San Francisco, September 17. — Answering questions of the San Francisco Labor Council with regard to Ireland's status under the peace settlement, President Wilson to-day pointed out that the "League of Nations sets up a forum to which all peoples can bring any matter that is liable to affect peace and freedom of the world."

The drive for the ratification of the treaty as it stands is being carried by Wilson to-day into San Francisco and Oakland, stronghold of Senator Johnston, who is on the road in a counter-offensive against the pact.

WEDDING BELLS

O'LEARY—ADAMS

At the George Street Methodist Parsonage last evening the wedding was quietly solemnized, Rev. A. J. Thomas officiating of John Joseph O'Leary and Phoebe Adams, both of Toronto. They were unattended and will reside in Toronto.

McCULLOUGH—MILES.

The wedding was quietly solemnized this afternoon at the George street Methodist Parsonage, of Zella Gracetena Miles, of this city, and Wm. McCullough, of Smith's Falls, Rev. A. J. Thomas officiating. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dummitt. Mr. and Mrs. McCullough will reside at Smith's Falls.

KING—QUINLAN

The marriage of Catharine Mary Quinlan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Quinlan, Newcastle, Ont., to Mr. Edward Murray King, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin King, was solemnized by the Rev. Chas. C. Camillon of Toronto, in the Church of St. John the Baptist, Newcastle, Sept. 16th. On the arm of her uncle Mr. P. Kenifick, the bride entered the church wearing a charming suit of navy blue with hat to match. Her bouquet was her prayer book and beads.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Noreen Quinlan wore a pretty dress of royal blue and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Jos. E. Emond. Her aunt, Miss Kenifick and Miss Farncombe presided at the organ. The alter and church were beautifully decorated with ferns, roses and many flowers.

SAWERS—RUSH.

In the presence of a very large number of the friends of the contracting parties the wedding was solemnized in St. John's Church at 2.30 to-day of Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Henry Rush and Rev. John Frederick Sawers, rector of St. Peter's Church, Cobourg. The bride who wore her travelling suit of navy velour with a small hat to match and a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses entered the church which was beautifully decorated with asters and Michaelmas daisies under the escort of her father. She was unattended. The ceremony was performed by Canon Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sawers will spend a honeymoon in the north country.

GRAY—WILLIAMS

At ten o'clock this morning in Trinity Church Parsonage, the Rev. F. E. Malott officiating ,the wedding was solemnized of Alys Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, 522 Sherbrooke street, to Harold Wilmer Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Gray, 916 6th Avenue, Calgary, Alberta.

The bride who wore her travelling suit of taupe gabardine with hat of Pekin blue trimmed with ostrich tips an corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses was attended by her sister, Mrs. P. L. Brown, who looked very well in a black satin gown with sequin and ostrich trimmed hat, while her niece little Eleanor Brown made a dainty flower girl. The bride's only ornament was a diamond necklace the gift of the groom The groom was supported by Mr. J. J. Menzies, brother-in-law of the bride.

The young couple left on the noon train C.P.R. for Ottawa and other Eastern cities to spend a few weeks and on their return will reside in Calgary. Many beautiful gifts were received by the young couple testifying to the high esteem in which they were held.

NOT ANXIOUS ABOUT HAVING NAMES PUT ON VOTERS' LIST

REGISTRATION BOARDS ARE IN FOR A BUSY SESSION

Three registration boards at the Court House are having a lively time recording the appeals of voters names left off the lists. Mr. G. Sherry, who is hearing the appeals from the West and North wards had up to yesterday 308 appeals and to-day approximately an additional 100. Judge Huycke who is revising officer for the Centre and East wards had 74 appeals from the centre and 24 from the East to.day. Mr. Hatton, who is revising officer for the South has also had a large number but the exact figures could not be obtained. "There is no indication of any discrimination in the names unrecorded," Mr. Sherry said, but all were left off through oversight. It was also stated that all were left off the lists are not attempting to have their names put on.

MINIMUM SALARY FOR THE MINISTERS

SUBJECT REFERRED TO AT THE PRESBYTERY MEETING

At the afternoon session of the Peterborough Presbytery, held yesterday in St. Andrew's Church, it was resolved unanimously that the Presbytery of Peterborough desires to call attention to the great opportunity afforded by the taking of a Referendum on 20th October of the Chrisitan people of Ontario to demonstrate clearly and emphatically that the time has come for the complete eradication of the legalised liquor traffic from the Province. For years those who believed in the fullest possible measure of temperance reform have urged the taking of a Referendum free from political influence.

This opportunity has at last been given. We would, therefore, urge upon the members of the congregations in the Presbytery to take the fullest possible advantage of this opportunity by seeing that the various issues involved are fully explained to the voters, and that where deemed advisable demonstration in the marking of the ballot be arranged for, and that every effort be made to organise and bring out the vote and to encourage the women to take advantage of their franchise.

Fixed Minimum Salary.

At a former meeting of the Presbytery, the Clerk was instructed to write to all the congregations within the bounds which were paying their ministers less than $1,500 a year and a free manse, calling their attention to the action of the last General Assembly in fixing the minimum salary at the above amount, commencing from April, 1919, and a most encouraging response was received, nearly all the congregations coming up to the minimum fixed by the Assembly.

Budget Allocation.

The budget allocation for the Presbytery of Peterborough of $27,600 was accented, and ordered to be apportioned to the various congregations.

Appointed Convener.

Rev. P. L. Jull, of Lakefield, was appointed convener of the Committee on Systematic Giving, to succeed the Rev. Mr. Earchman, former minister of Port Hope, now assistant minister of College Street Church, Toronto.

On the Synod.

The Clerk, Rev. T. A. Thomson, and Mr. Anderson, of Keene, were appointed to represent the Presbytery on the Synod on the Bills and Overtures Committee.

Adjourned Meeting.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The annual Harvest thanksgiving service in connection with St. John's Church will be held to-morrow (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock. The address will be given by Rev. Canon Plumptre of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto. The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 10 a.m. tomorrow as the opening service of the Festival. The church is being decorated to-day with harvest emblems, and the well-known harvest hymns will be sung, together with appropriate music by the choir. The public generally are invited.

10 YEAR OLD GIRL MAKES FLIGHT

One of the youngest persons who made a flight with Captain V. Dallin yesterday was Miss Bud Parker, 279 Williams street, who although but ten years of age displayed not the slightest fear at going up. While in the air the aviator made a half loop.

"You're the bravest yet". Captain Salter told Miss Mollie Young, 560 Charlotte street, when they made a landing yesterday afternoon after taking a thrilling trip in the air. At Miss Young's request Captain Salter looped the loop and did several other spectacular stunts in the air with her as a passenger at 4.30.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Irregularity of prices to-day featured the Stock Market opening. Most of the increases and declines were fractional. U. S. Steel opened at 104 3-4 off 7-8; Bethlehem B. at 96 1-2 off 1-8; Sinclair Oil at 60 off 3-8; American Locomotive at 109 1-2 off 7-8; U. S. Rubber at 115 1-2 up 3-4; Mexican Petroleum at 215 1-2 off 1-8; Royal D. N.Y. at 98 1-4 up 1-4; Studebaker at 118 3-4 up 3-8; American Tobacco at 260 1-4 up 4 1-4; and American Linseed at 76 3-4 up 1-4.

Most of the steel shares advanced from 1 to 3 points from the opening level before the end of the first half-hour. Bethlehem B. was well above 99. Crucible opened at 187 1-4 up 1 1-2, and then ran up above 188.

U. S. Steel, before one o'clock, sold off 2 points, and the whole list became unsettled following the statement of Union Leader John Fitzpatrick that he and his associates at Pittsburg were 100 per cent. in favour of a strike. At no time did the market become actually weak.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Bombardier Herbert Chesterfield Dixon, 60th Battery, formerly of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, C.E.F., son of Albert E. and Blanche M. Dixon, of 784 George street, Peterborough, Ont., who was killed in action in France 17th September, 1918.

MINISTER URGES DEFINITE RATE MONEY EXCHANGE

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Robt. Schmidt, Minister of Food, urged in an interview to-day that the nations of the world establish a definite rate of money exchange, and that the Allies enable Germany to obtain loans and raw materials.

He intimated that the Associated Powers could not tolerate a worthless German currency.

First Fruits of the Labour Conference Reported To-day

RESOLUTION ADOPTED AT THE OTTAWA INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE—BOTH SIDES AGREED.

GOOD RESULTS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—That the advantage of uniformity in the laws relating to the welfare of those engaged in industrial work in the several provinces of the Dominion of Canada be brought to the attention of the Government of Canada and the Governments of the several Provinces respectively, and that this National Industrial Conference suggests the following as a means towards the end desired, namely, the appointment of a Board composed as follows:

1—As respects the Dominion, "A," a representative of the Government, "B," a representative of the employers, "C," a representative of the employees.

2—As respects each of the Provinces, "A," a representative of the Government, "B," a representative of the employers, "C," a representative of the employees; and that the Dominion Government be requested to ask the Government of each of the Provinces to select or have selected representatives in respect of the Provinces as above set forth.

The above recommendation is the first fruits of the past four days' deliberations of the National Industrial Conference. It was introduced by the committee dealing with the Unification of Labour Laws during the debate on collective bargaining.

Mr. J. R. Shaw, for the employers pointed out that the report of the committee was a unanimous one, and a minute later the conference had adopted the report with a single dissenting voice.

As emphasising the good work being accomplished by the conference to-day's debate makes it clear that there is very little difference between the employers and employees so far as collective bargaining is concerned, which was interpreted as an entirely modern industry and not a mere right by Dr. D. Strachan, of Sarnia, for the employers.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Most of the leading issues opened lower on the stock market to-day. General Motors, however, was up 1 1-8 at 241; American Locomotive up 1-4 at 105 1-4; and American Tobacco up 1 1-2 at 264 1-2. U. S. Steel was off 1-8 at 103 3-8, and Crucible opened at 183 1-2, with Bethlehem B. at 96. Studebaker opened at 116 1-2 off 1-2; Pan-American at 118 off 1 1-2; Goodrich at 78 1-2 off 5-8; Marine at 58 off 7-8; Marine Pref. at 117 1-2 off 5-8; and Northern Pacific at 86 1-2 off 1-4.

Advances of from 1 to 3 points over the opening among recent leaders, marked the transactions during the first half-hour. Further selling entered into the market as a result of the statement of the steel labour leaders that the union workers would go on strike on Monday, but at no time during the first hour was there any real weakness. U. S. Steel held above 103. This stock, naturally, is the particular target for the bear attack.

American Tobacco reached 269 7-8 up 5 7-8, and U. R. Stores was also strong. American Snuff was up 16 5-8 at 37.

A THRIFT STORY FROM KITCHENER

(Special to The Examiner.)

KITCHENER, Sept. 18.—This city has long been noted for its industry, but for industry and thrift the following story perhaps caps the climax.

Two Serbians who have been residing here for the past eight years decided to leave for their native land to spend their remaining years in comparative ease. Before leaving, they drew their savings from a local bank, which amounted to $10,000.00 and $6,000.00 each.

MAY SPEED UP "DOVE OF PEACE"

FIUME COMPROMISE SUBMITTED TO WILSON SEVERAL WEEKS AGO

(United Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 18. — Gabriele D'Annunzio's annexation of Fiume is expected to hasten President Wilson's decision on the compromise settlement offered by Signor Tittoni, the Italian foreign minister, according to the sentiment in the French and the Italian peace circles here.

Under Tittoni's proposal Italy will get the cities of Fiume and Zara, and several islands, while the port of Fiume and the railway will remain under the league of nations.

The plan is said to be fully approved by Clemenceau and Lloyd George and accepted by the American delegation. It is understood that the compromise was submitted to President Wilson for final approval several weeks ago.

THE TIME HAS BEEN EXTENDED

The voters registration Board have extended the time for appealing until tomorrow night. Appeals must be in the hands of the clerks to-morrow. This is final.

BANK CLEARINGS EXCEED MILLION

SECOND TIME IN THE HISTORY OF PETERBOROUGH

For the second time in the history of banking in the city the clearings amounted to over one million dollars for the week. This increase is largely due to the Exhibition.

Clearings for week ending September 18, 1919, $1,012,463.
Same week last month, $749,692.
Same week last year, $866,664.
Same week two years ago, $598,000.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street. dtf

Formal Probe Into High Cost of Living Opens on Tuesday

DRASTIC ACTION TO CURTAIL COST OF NECESSARIES—NO ADVANCES WILL BE TOLERATED.

FANCY BACONS

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18—Judge Robson left last night for Toronto, where the Commission will open a formal probe into the cost of living on Tuesday next. It may be necessary to go on from there to Montreal, he said.

Judge Robson stated that F. W. O'Connor's request for "full power" to deal with the Toronto and Hamilton milk situation arose out of the threatened increase in price. He had telegraphed Mr. O'Connor to "go ahead."

Drastic action in the cutting down of the cost of necessities will be taken by the Board of Commerce just as soon as evidence at the different "probes" has been taken, Judge Robson declared. No advance on necessaries will be tolerated, he said. The Board aims to prohibit the sale of all fancy bacons. The retailer who takes a profit in excess of one cent per pound on any sales of sugar is liable to prosecution.

The Davies Stores.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 18.— J. A. Nelson, general manager of the Davies Retail Stores, again took the stand and submitted a list of the Davies stores as well as other statements which Col. Price had asked for yesterday. These include several price lists which were in force from June to September.

Col. Price— "You make out your retail price every two weeks?"

Mr. Nelson — "It depends on the number of changes."

"Your cost list would be made out in the same manner?" "It is generally made out weekly." "You have nothing to do with fixing the prices at which you receive goods from the company?" "No."

"You only fix the price at which the goods are sold in your stores?" "Yes."

Col. Price observed that the price list for June 23rd was not among those submitted.

Mr. Nelson — "You have all the price lists that were issued."

Col. Price—"You have also missed the cost list from August 16th to Sept. 1 and Sept. 6 to 15. "Your production of these lists is not satisfactory," said Col. Price, "because it does not give the total retail price lists and all your total cost lists. Why not bring what we are asking?" "Well, I endeavoured to do so."

Col. Price commented on a number of reductions in price between Sept. 2 and Sept. 12. Picnic hams had dropped two cents, breakfast bacon three, trimmed backs two to five cents, rolls four cents, Wiltshire sides eight cents, streaky bacon three cents, ham four, collars two, pickled backs four, bellies four, fresh pork five.

Lower Market.

"What is the reason for the fall in prices?" "We have a lower hog market in view and I wanted to get away from high prices as soon as possible."

"You could raise your prices from two to fifteen cents in various commodities." "We are in a falling market and can sell for lower prices.

Mr. Fox stated the prices depended on the actual price of the actual hog which went into the product. Unless the former prices represented profit, there is something wrong with the demonstration.

Col. Price —"Before these reductions you must have been making big profits."

Mr. Nelson—"No, I don't think we were, and we are making very little profit now."

"Before making this you were making seven, eight or nine cents on your hams?" "Yes, and we figured that a very moderate profit, in view of the price."

"On your sugared hams you must have been making nearly twenty cents profit?" "Perhaps."

Mr. O'Connor—"You told us yesterday you tried to do a large business on a small margin of profit." Mr. Nelson—"That is why I reduced these prices."

"You are able to set the pace for other retail dealers, by reason of your overhead expenses?" "I don't know."

"But you are in a position to sell ore cheaply than other retailers?" "I believe so."

Mr. O'Connor — "Then if your prices are high the retail dealers cannot be expected to sell at a lower price than you, whom it costs far less to do business?" Mr. Nelson: "I don't know wabout that; they can buy almost as cheaply as we can."

Mr. O'Connor— "You are contradicting Mr. Fox, who said you based

THREATEN TO DESTROY TOWN

TOWN ISOLATED

(United Press.)

ROME, Sept. 18.—Gabriele D'Annunzio, assuming the governorship of Fiume, has announced that he will hold the town at all costs, blowing it up rather than surrender to foreign forces.

Both the citizens and the soldiers of Fiume, according to reports received here, have thrown in their lot with the poet, and have joined in measures for destroying the city if it is found impossible to resist.

Brigades of Lombardy Bersaglieri have surrounded Fiume, reports today said. Many officers of Allied contingents are quattered in the Slav village of Sushak.

The Duke of D'Assta, former commander of the Third Army, has been summoned to Rome by King Victor Emmanuel.

General Badoglio, deputy Chief of Staff, has arrived in Fiume, armed with full powers to deal with the situation.

Italian warships had formed a blockade against the port, as it is believed unlikely that the Jugo-Slavs will revictual the town.

Lack of food and other supplies may force D'Annunzio to come to terms.

Fiume has been completely isolated, with telegraph and telephone communication interrupted.

PRINCE OF WALES NOW "MORNING STAR"

NEW TITLE CONFERRED ON HEIR TO THE THRONE

(Special to The Examiner.)

BANFF, Alta., Sept. 18.—Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David Windsor, alias Morning Star, equals Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesay, and Chief of the Stony Indians.

That was the titular tangle confronting European Royalty to-day as the result of Davy Windsor's latest stunt—an incursion into American Royalty. With elaborate ceremony, the young Prince was elected a Chief of the Stony tribe late yesterday, donning the feathered head-dress, the Indian robe, and the Alias of Morning Star, while 300 of his new subjects whooped in approved fashion.

In the past week Davy has successively been cowboy, championship pitcher, and Indian Chief—any one of which would represent the sole ambition of the average young American.

MR. C. F. PORTER WON MAXWELL CAR

SEVENTEEN HUNDRED TICKETS SOLD BY THE WAR VETERANS

In the draw for the Maxwell touring car put up by the Great War Veterans, Mr. C. F. Porter, 224 Charlotte Street, held the lucky number, 2830, winning the car.

The result of the draw is particularly gratifying on account of the fact that Mr. Porter is himself a returned soldier, having served for a long time with the Princess Pats. He is at present proprietor of the Empire Theatre, Charlotte Street.

Mr. Roland Denne supervised the draw, and called upon any young lady in the crowd at the Exhibition last evening to come forward and make it. Miss Sturgeon acquiesced to Mr. Denne's request. The presentation of the car will be made at the next regular meeting of the G. W. V. A. by the President.

A Post-mortem.

In a post-mortem on the means by which the tickets, which amounted to 1,700, were sold, one of the returned men who was on the job said the farmers were the hardest of all to sell to. He approached one burly son of the soil, and upon asking him to take a chance to win a car, was answered that he never took a chance. The returned man, upon reminding him that he took a chance when the Military Service Act was in force, got a ready sale for the ticket.

Tickets were sold to all parts of Canada, as far West as Winnipeg, and one to Cleveland, U.S.A.

REFERENDUM COMMITTEE MEETING

MEETING OF EAST WARD REFERENDUM COMMITTEE, MARK ST., CHURCH SCHOOL ROOM, THURSDAY EVENING, 18TH, 8 P.M. MEN AND WOMEN TO HELP WILL COME, ALL. A. B. CUNNINGHAM, PRESIDENT 2d 64

WITNESS ADMITS HE WAS PAID TWENTY PER CENT. FOR BETRAYING WHISKEY CASES

COMMISSION IN TWO CASES AMOUNTED TO $300—INVESTIGATION ADJOURNED UNTIL OCT. 8TH.

AFTERNOON SESSION

New acts and scenes and new players and conditions entered the investigation at the Court House yesterday afternoon. New phases and sidelights were presented that held the attention of the Court from the raise of the curtain till the closing scenes in the evening.

Edward G. Cooney, a local express man, who, in answer to a query from City Solicitor C. R. Widdifield, stated that about three years ago last Christmas, he took three cases of liquor from the police station to either the House of Providence or St. Joseph's Hospital. He did not remember which.

Mr. Dan O'Connell questioned Mr. Cooney as to the time of enlisting and when he returned. He did not remember and was asked to produce his military papers when called upon.

Found Two Cases

Patrol Sergeant John Deannard was the next member of the witness box. He found two cases which he thinks contained the Levasseur liquor at St. Joseph's Hospital. There are seven bottles still unopened.. Mr. Gerald Dunford, another express man, admitted that he has carried liquor since the O. T. A. came into force.

"How many times," asked Mr. Widdifield. "About a dozen or a dozen and a half," he replied.

"Since when?"

"Last fall, the first about February this year."

He was unable to remember the last time in which he escorted a cargo of the "verbotten."

"He hired you to carry liquor?"

"They didn't hire me to carry liquor," said Mr. Dunford.

"What did they hire you for?"

"They hired my car."

"Who are they?"

"I have carried liquor for Mr. Rae Sullivan, Reginald Winch and Joe Rosenburg."

"How many times for Sullivan?"

"Probably three or four and about the same for the others."

"This March or April were you with Hamilton to Indian River?"

"No."

"Did you meet him coming from Indian River."

"Yes, I did; and we hid the liquor in the bushes but we never saw it afterwards."

Informed Inspector.

"Did you ever, inform Inspector Stewart at any time of these liquor transactions?"

"Yes, I have."

"How many times did you inform Inspector Stewart?"

"It may have been two or three times, maybe more. In some cases Stewart knew about it beforehand. There were trials against these men after I had informed Stewart."

Mr. D. O'Connel objected, suggesting that perhaps Mr. Widdifield had received a cue from the police. This Mr. Widdifield denied and continued the examination.

Sullivan Case.

"In the Sullivan and Johnston cases. I was the one who gave Stewart the information," continued Dunford.

FARMLANDS FOR RETURNED MEN

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18.—By Order-in-Council, Acting Premier Hon. Edward Brown yesterday placed six millions of acres of unimproved Manitoba farm lands on the market for returned soldiers. This is the greatest move made by the Government up to the present for re-establishment of returned men.

TRIANGLE FIGHT RUSSELL COUNTY

U.F.O. SELECTED A CANDIDATE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 18. — Philas Blanchard of Cambridge, was selected yesterday afternoon to carry the United Farmers' banner in Russell County during the Provincial elections to be held "some time this fall." The convention of farmers, which was the first of its kind to be held in the county, also named Marshall Rathwell, of Navan, Ont., as the candidate to contest the Russell seat when the Federal elections are held. The forthcoming elections will see a most bitter contest in Russell county. Mr. Racine, of Casselman, was nominated last week as the Liberal standard-bearer for the Provincial House. It is a certainty that the Liberal-Conservatives will bring out a man and therefore the three-cornered fight promises to be fraught with excitement. There will also be three candidates in the field if the Dominion elections are held in the near future.

LAKEFIELD FAIR WILL BE GOOD

BIG EFFORT BEING MADE TO MAKE IT THE BEST OF THE DISTRICT FAIRS

The Directors of Lakefield Fair promise that this year's Exhibition will be better in every department than heretofore. The Chemong Indian Band will furnish music for the occasion.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make bea... lotion for a few cents—Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

FIVE MASKED MEN ROB MAIL CLERKS

FIVE MAIL CLERKS WERE SECURELY TIED TOGETHER—ROBBERS ESCAPED

(Canadian Press.)

QUEBEC, Sept. 18.—Five masked men bound and gagged mail clerks on the Ocean Limited, Canadian National Railway, near Harlaka, early this morning and robbed the mail car of seventy-five thousand dollars in silver, which had been shipped from Montreal for Halifax.

The Ocean Limited does not stop after she leaves Levis until Harlaka is reached. At Harlaka the train had barely pulled out, according to the mail clerk foreman, then the back door of the mail car was crashed in and five masked men, pointing automatics into the faces of the mail clerks, shouted "Hands up!"

The bandits quickly bound and gagged the clerks, and then made a dash to the bags containing the money.

At St. Thomas the bandits escaped as the train slowed down. It is believed they had an automobile hidden in the bushes, and it is thought they made a dash for the United States border and were expected to attempt to enter Maine.

No one noticed anything wrong on the train at St. Thomas, and it was only at Cap St. Ignace, the next stop, that the conductor, passing along the platform of the station, grew suspicious about the quiet in the mail car.

Making investigation, he found the back door of the car split open and five clerks securely tied together. One of the clerks, E. Rene, was found to be suffering from nervous shock from his experience.

Posses have been organized, and are scouring the country in the neighbourhood of St. Thomas and Cap St. Ignace.

The distance between Levis and Harlaka is about 25 miles, most of it uphill, so that the train generally takes about three-quarters of an hour to make the trip.

The bandits boarded the Ocean Limited at Montreal.

The train reached Levis about midnight, and the bandits were able to effect their robbery and escape entirely in the dark.

STEEL MEN ARE GOING TO STRIKE

HEADS OF 24 UNIONS WENT INTO CONFERENCE TO-DAY

(United Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—"The men are going out on strike. I can see nothing now that will stop them," was the statement of both John Fitzpatrick, chairman, and W. Z. Foster, secretary of the Steel Men's Committee as the heads of twenty-four unions went into conference here today.

"The meeting to-day," Fitzpatrick said, "was not to discuss whether there should be a strike. Its purpose is to lay out a programme and establish details of the strike."

LOST INTEREST IN "ONE BIG UNION"

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 18.—The feeling of friendship held by a large section of the Trades and Labour Council towards the One Big Union has suffered severely through the announcement made recently by the Radical leaders that their main object in life was to kill International Unionism. It is claimed by International officers that Winnipeg is the only centre in which the One Big Union had any hold, and the fact that the Winnipeg members have to contribute to the support of the officers of skeleton branches elsewhere is steadily weakening the local Council.

THE GUNN CASE WAS DISPOSED OF

Mr. Harry Rush, J. P., and Mr. Vincent Eastwood, J. P., tried the Gunns in the police court this morning. The Sextette made their third opearance, but the three boys were only formally charged. They didn't know whether they were guilty or not, but their counsel, Mr. J. F. Strickland, assured them that they were.

The case was adjourned for ten days and it is understood that the whole battery of Gunns intend to leave on the first way-freight for No Man's Land.

INFLAMED GUMS— A CAUSE OF LOOSE TEETH

Pyorrhea is undoubtedly a vital danger to both gums and teeth. Tender gums indicate it, and with it come loosening teeth. Imperceptibly, at first, the gums recede from the normal gum line. They inflame. They present many tiny openings for millions of bacteria to attack the unenameled tooth base. Tooth-base decay quickly follows. Even if the cavity be filled and the tooth saved, the gums continue to recede. Remember, too, that inflamed and bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Against this Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) ordinary tooth-pastes are powerless. Yet Pyorrhea attacks four out of five people who are over forty, and many under this age. But Forhan's—if used in time and used consistently—positively prevents Pyorrhea. It is a scientific tooth cleanser as well. Brush your teeth with it. See how promptly bleeding or gum tenderness ceases and how your teeth are kept white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

NEWSPRINT FOR THE NEWSPAPERS

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—Commissioner Pringle held a session of newsprint inquiry to-day and adjourned it until the second week in October. Pringle said Canadian newspapers were in a bad way for paper, but as long as he was a paper controller he was going to see that they got paper. Whatever foreign contracts Canadian paper mills might have was a secondary matter.

WARSAW CORRESPONDENCE

WARSAW, Sept. 17—Mr. Alec. McIlvena of Peterboro, was home last week on account of the illness of his brother Oliver

Rev. Hugh Brown returned from his vacation last week and occupied his own pulpit last Sunday.

Rev. Percy H. Robert will preach has farewell sermon next Sunday He leaves on Monday to attend College. Mrs. Robert will remain in the village for some time yet.

Miss Mary Masson of Seymour East, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. David Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Choate have closed their cottage at the Lake, and they and their family have returned to the village.

Mr. and Mrs. David Miller and Miss Masson of Owen Sound motored to Campbellford and Burnbrae, for the week end.

Dr. and Mrs. Munro and little Jean motored on Nairn on Monday to visit Dr. Munro's mother.

Rain Needed

Rain is sadly needed for root crops though the dry weather is giving the farmers a good chance for their threshings. The threshing season will be short this year.

Many people have filled their silos though some have stopped cutting the corn as it was too green.

Attended Fair.

Many farmers attended the Peterboro Fair. Having cars enables the farmers to do their morning chores go to town and return in time for milking.

The regular meeting of the Dummer Executive on the Referendum was held in the Methodist Church last Friday evening. Not much business was done as the voter's lists had not yet been received.

Voter's Lists.

The voter's lists for Polling Division No. 3 Dummer (Warsaw) reached the village Saturday, Sept. 13. There are but 10 days exclusive of Sundays, until Sept. 25 to make any alterations. Now is the ime for any, who had not been resident three months, at the time the numerators went around, to see to getting their names on the lists There are at least two in this polling division.

The Ladies Aid.

On Saturday evening a number of the Ladies of the Warsaw Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, met at the home of Mrs. Jane Clements, with whom her daughter. Mrs. Donald MacIntosh has been spending some months It had been learned that Mrs. MacIntosh was to leave immediately for her home in the West. Mrs. MacIntosh was very much surprised at the ladies coming to bid her good-bye and still more so when they presented her with an address and a group photograph of the members of the Aid. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Though meeting's of the King's Daughters' have been announcd for the last two weeks, unforseen circumstances have necessitated their being cancelled. There will be no meeting this week, on account of the School Fair being held that same day but on Friday, Sept. 26, there will be a meeting in the hall over Mr. Calder's store. It is hoped every member will be present and as many new ones as possible. The class in nursing will start at once and it is earnestly hoped there will be a large class and all who wish to join are urged to do so as soon as possible.

Woman's Institute.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Institute was held in Mr. Calder's Hall, last Thursday afternoon. The President was in the chair. It was almost fortunate that the subject for the afternoon could not he taken up, as the time was almost wholly taken up by School Fair and other business The teachers asked the Institute to appoint the person to conduct the spelling match committee to assist the teachers decorate the hall on Thursday afternoon were appointed, also to decorate the hall for the supper, to be given by the Institute. The proceeds from the supper are for Institute running expenses and for a memorial fund. The supper will consist of cold sliced meat, salads, pickles, bread, butter, tea, pie and cake.

The Institute has done all it can to help on the Fair and many of the ladies feel a little bitter that no provisional prize lists sent out, except for garden plots, chickens etc. and special prizes donated by private individuals or by societies, neither teachers nor pupils had any chance of knowing for what prizes would be given Children cannot prepare much work in two and one half weeks. Crochetted yokes and such work can not be gotten ready now, and it is difficult to get up an entertainment.

School Fair.

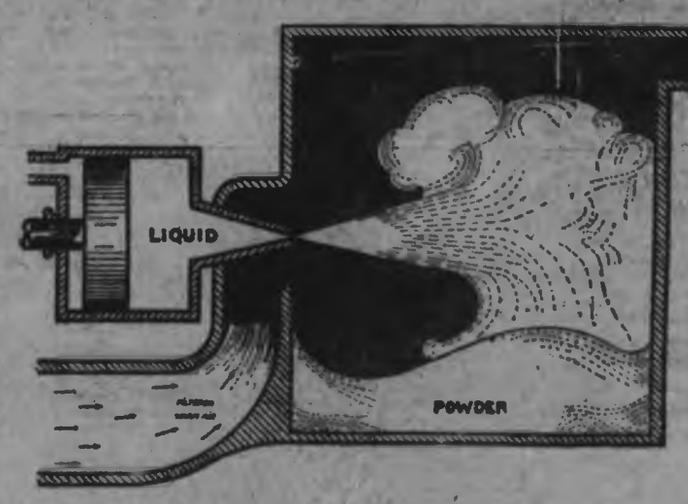
The Dummer School Fair will be held in Warsaw Town Hall on Friday, Sept. 19th. There is no admission fee. It will encourage both teachers and pupils if there is a large attendance. There will be an entertainment in the evening, to which the school children will be admitted free. There is a charge for all others. The proceeds of the concert, also of the booth conducted by the shools, will go towards a memorial fund. Mr. Lees is to give a talk on "Consolidated Schools." There will be an old-fashioned spelling match, also a chorus contest, as well as the usual dialogues, etc. Dr. Munro will be chairman for the evening.

The Warsaw School Fair will be held Friday Sept. 19. Special prizes will be given by the Women's Institute, the Cottesloe I. O. D. E. and others. A school booth will be on the grounds from which ice cream, fruit and etc., will be sold. The Women's Institute will also serve tea. A concert will be held in the evening. The programme will be given by the pupils from the different schools taking part in the Fair. Two interesting features of the programme will be a spelling and chorus contest. The proceeds will be given in the interests of the war memorial.

REVISED PRAYER BOOK IS ADOPTED

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—Approval and adoption of the new revised prayer book of the Church of England was moved to-day by Dr. Matthew Wilson of Chatham and Bishop Williams, of London, and unanimously adopted by both houses of the Synod of the Province of Ontario, although Judge Ermatinger of St. Thomas, explained that he voted for the motion with personal reservations regarding the Athanasian creed. It was pointed out by the Archbishop that this action by the Synod did not mean the general adoption of the new book, but put it in the power of Bishops to advise its tentative experimental use.



Thousands of People Saw the "Spray" Process of Making KLIM—Separated Milk Powder Demonstrated at the Exhibition

THE specially constructed drying-box for demonstrating how liquid separated milk is converted into a dry powder —KLIM—without removing a particle of the food value or changing the natural flavor was the center of attraction for thousands of visitors to the Toronto Exhibition.

For the benefit of the wives and mothers who did not visit the Exhibition this illustration of the "spray" process will be of especial interest as it shows how an ever ready supply of pure separated milk can be kept in the kitchen for use at any time.

Liquid separated milk is forced by cylinders through tiny pinholes at great pressure, coming out in the form of a fine mist just as from a huge atomizer. This fine mist enters a large square room through which are blowing strong currents of warm filtered air. The spray of liquid is whirled about this room just as you have seen the wind blow snow or fog. The moisture laden air passes out through screens which prevent any of the Klim escaping. Drifts of fine, clean milk-white powder pile up in a few minutes and is then packed into the attractive blue-and-white striped tins your grocer sells.

At no time does the liquid or the powder come into contact with human hands. Every machine, pipe, drying-box and utensil is as clean and sanitary as scientific management can devise. The cleanliness of the Klim plants would delight the heart of the most painstaking home-maker.

MILLBROOK CORRESPONDENCE

MILLBROOK, Sept. 17. — The death on Tuesday, 9th September, of Eliza Jane Best, relict of George Jamieson, Mount Pleasant, at the age of 94 years, removes one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Cavan Township. Deceased lady was a daughter of the late Samuel Best, who built the first oat mill in Cavan Township. Her mother's maiden name was Barbara Webster. Both parents were born in County Armagh, Ireland. She was united in marriage to her late husband seventy-five years ago. To their happy union four children were born, three of whom survive—John, George A., and T. W., all of Mount Pleasant. Their only daughter died fifteen years ago. Three brothers and one sister also survive—Samuel Best, aged 92, Magnetawan, Thomas, Mount Pleasant, John of Peterborough, and Mrs. Chas. Argue, of Peterborough The late Mrs. James McLean, of Mount Pleasant, was also a sister. The late Mrs. Jamieson was a member of the Presbyterian Church, a splendid Christian lady, and an excellent neighbour. The funeral took place on Thursday, 11th September, Rev. R. S. Scott officiating, assisted by Rev. W. H. Clarke. The pallbearers were Messrs W. G. Andrew, S. T. Jamieson, Grant Richardson, C. Argue, and H. G. Best. Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. Cyrus Throop, Mrs. H. A Reception.

A very pleasant surprise was given Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Leigh on the evening of 2nd September, when about thirty of the members of the Bailieboro appointment went to the parsonage and celebrated the wedding anniversary of their pastor and his wife. An appreciative address was read by Mrs. Welford Dawson and Mrs. W. Thompson, and a miscellaneous shower of household articles, groceries, and fruit gave evidence of kindly remembrance. Games and music were followed by refreshments, and a pleasant evening was spent. Several of those present had been guests at the wedding twenty-three years ago.

THE PRICE OF CHEESE.

Mr. W. F. O'Connor of the Board of Commerce, is a busy individual these days, and undoubtedly has his hands full in endeavoring to get at the bottom of the high cost of living. He doubtless has a list of commodities that he intends to investigate, and if he has not cheese on his menu, we hasten to offer this product as a fruitful subject for investigation. According to the Farmers' Sun, Gunn's Limited sold cheese at wholesale to grocers last week at 27½ cents a pound. And yet the consumer was paying over the counter from 35c up to 45c a pound for cheese. Making due allowance for the loss in cutting the cheese, doesn't a spread of from 7c to 17c a pound seem too much profit for the retailer to make? That is a question for Mr. O'Conner to settle. It may be that the retailer can justify his prices. If so the consumer will doubtless be satisfied. No one objects to a reasonable profit and the high prices would be more bearable if the public was satisfied that it was not being exploited and that an undue spread of profit was not being extracted. Taking a snap judgment 17c a pound seems to be pretty large profit.

WORK FOR SOLDIERS.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, discussing the gratuity question in the House, declared that what the returned soldiers wanted was work and not money, and advocated that Canada should open out all the public work possible. The trouble is, however, that work of this kind, as a rule, only provides "pick and shovel" jobs, and many of the returned men are either physically unfit to do this class of labor, or unwilling to take this kind of employment as long as there is any opportunity of finding another position. This has been found to be the case locally, as is evidenced by the fact that the contractors building the Hunter Street Bridge have had to advertise several times recently for laborers, in spite of the numerous returned men and others who are out of work at present. There are many ex-soldiers who were accustomed to rough work of this kind before they went overseas, and who have returned in such condition that they are able to return to the same class of labor without trouble. But for the many others who were not used to a job of this nature there should be other employment available, but, unfortunately at the present time, there are few opportunities offering themselves.

A SURPRISING ANNOUNCEMENT.

Whatever the officials of the Great War Veterans Association may think of the announcement of Hon. Mr. Doherty, that the special committee to be appointed by the House of Commons, to consider the question of the civil re-establishment of Canada's soldiers, will not be empowered to discuss the $2,000 gratuity proposal, the public will be surprised at the declaration of the acting Premier. The decision of the Government not to even consider the question further, will only intensify the dissatisfaction of the members of the Gratuity League, and will, it is to be imagined, not be particularly pleasing to the rank and file of the G.W.V.A. Mr. Rowell's announcement a few days ago of the intention to appoint a special committee was misleading to say the least for the impression was certainly created that this committee would discuss the matter of gratuities along with other features in connection with the re-establishment issue. The public was behind the returned men in their agitation to have a proper hearing of all angles of the question; it was felt that the soldiers should at least be given a chance to state their case. However, the Government's decision seems to be final: "We are prepared to stand or fall by it," Mr. Doherty told the House of Commons. The next move of the Gratuity League will be awaited with considerable interest.

THE GRATUITY ISSUE.

If W. L. Smith represents accurately the views of the farmers and his position as editor of the Farmers' Sun, which announces itself as the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, would seem to say so, there is very little probability of the U. F. O. and the Soldiers' Gratuity League uniting their forces for political purposes. Mr. Smith says that the time has come for extremely plain speech, and his article in the current issue headed "Canada is on the Edge of a Precipice," is an interesting view of the present issue. Says the Sun:

"The interest on the national indebtedness of Canada, and pension outlay combined, will involve an annual charge on the average Canadian family of $75 per year. In addition to this there will be all the other charges that must be met out of the federal treasury—the cost of legislation, of administration of justice, the deficits in operating the national railways, cost of the light house service, the digging of canals such as the Welland, outlay on public buildings and harbor improvements, and so on.

"The provincial expenditure on legislation, administration of justice, education, road building, and on all the other Provincial services must be provided for.

"Finally there is the taxation imposed by our municipal governments, up to a few years ago a comparatively trifling affair, so far as township councils are concerned at least, but latterly becoming a very serious matter for taxpayers.

"Altogether, even if no other additions are made to our present national, provincial and municipal obligations, these are already sufficient to constitute an annual charge, for the average family, equal to the cost of maintaining a family in decent comfort, in the rural sections at least, 25 or 30 years ago.

"Now, on top of all this, has arisen a demand for a gratuity of $2,000 each for all those who served in France, with proportionate gratuities for service in England and Canada. It is estimated that granting this demand will involve an addition The interest on that addition alone of $200,000,000 to the national debt, will amount to $20 per family per year.

"How are all these annual charges, aside from the capital that must be repaid some time, to be met? Mayor Church says "let posterity pay." That is all very well for Tommy. He has no posterity and fortunately for the country he is never likely to reproduce his kind. As a matter of fact those of the present generation and those to come later will both have to pay. The burden will for a few years rest on the old and middle-aged, already, on the farms at all events, weighted almost beyond endurance. Later on it will be taken up by the offspring of the very men in whose behalf the $2,000 gratuity is being professedly called for.

"And what is to be gained in the end by any one from conceding what is demanded? The time has come for extremely plain speech. Not all of those who went overseas were heroes, they were representatives of the average life of the communities from which they came and in all communities there are ne'er-do-wells, and worse. The evidence all points to the fact that it is from this latter class the cry has come for the $2,000 gratuity in addition to the gratuities already granted. If what is asked for now is conceded those who are most clamorous in the asking will spend their $2,000 in the same way the gratuities and deferred pay have already been spent, in idleness and dissipation, and when the $2,000 grants are gone they will be no better off than they are now."

"What do you know about the Sullivan case?"

"Sullivan told me that he had been at Kendry."

Mr. O'Connell began the cross-examination of Dunford and the story of double-crossing when liquor was taken off the Montreal train at Norwood and hid in the bushes was again repeated.

Both Mr. Gordon and Mr. Hall objected to the examination of Dunford on this line as they alleged that it did not affect either Inspector Stewart or the police force. Mr. O'Connell stated that his object was to show that this liquor was brought into the city with the knowledge of the police or a member of the force.

The court allowed Mr. O'Connell to continue the examination along this line after Mr. O'Connell had explained his course.

"Is that member of the police force present?" interjected Mr. Hall. "Yes," replied Mr. O'Connell.

"Is he here," was the reply. "It is your client, Mr. Newhall, replied Mr. O'Connell.

"Throw it wide open!" called Mr. Newhall.

Visit to Kendry.

"I was told to go to Kendry, one morning, by a man on the street," continued Dunford, "so I went and Sullivan was there. The whiskey was to be dropped into a berry patch at Kendry."

"On the 13th of April we had nine suitcases of whiskey on the Norwood road. A man by the name of Johnston was with me. Constable Moore and Inspector Stewart met us and arrested Johnston. I took the whiskey to Stewart's office."

Reverting to the Kendry case, Mr. O'Connel asked Dunford if they were to see any member of the police force on their return to Kendry.

"Yes, we were to see Sam (Detective Newhall.) A man called up on the telephone here in town and said that Newhall wanted to see Sullivan. There was a plan to steal the Kendry whiskey from Moore's house and Stewart's office. I was to find out where the liquor was located in Mr. Moore's house. I made out Moore's cartage account and took it up to his house for collection, but I did not locate the 'goods.'"

Lacked Nerve.

Mr. Newhall told me there that there 'wasn't enough men in town that had nerve enough to go down and take it out of the house. First the gang went over to Stewart's office to get the whiskey. Among them was to be Blade, and we waited in a livery barn for Blade to come. George Evans, who was there went away, but soon came back and said that Bladé was afraid to come, as he was afraid of me (Dunford). We went to Stewrt's office but the whiskey was gone. The gang then decided to get the booze from Moore's house, but I and James Akey backed out. One scheme was to phone Mrs. Moore and tell her that one of her relations was sick. To get Mr. Moore out of the house they decided to have Mr. Newhall phone Mr. Moore and ask if he had a warrant for the arrest of Sullivan for the Kendry deal (as they knew he had), and that Sullivan was at the police station. When he arrested Sullivan at the police station the gang were to steal the whiskey in the house."

Cross-Examination.

A vigorous cross-examination was made by Mr. R. R. Hall and he asked Dunford if he ever sold whiskey in his life, but he replied in the negative.

"Were you ever fined for a breach of the O. T. A.?" asked Mr. Hall.

"Mr. Lawson told me to step down into the cellar under his store for a drink. I had one drink and I was fined $200," replied Mr. Dunford.

"Have you ever talked to Mr. Stewart as to the evidence you were to give in this box?"

"Only that I would tell nothing but the truth and about Newhall and Blade in the scheme to get the whiskey."

"You have done a certain amount of work for Stewart? What kind?"

"Driving him around."

"What about information?"

"I gave him information of Rae Sullivan and of the Johnston case. I told Stewart that the whiskey was coming into Norwood and I told him that Winch was coming in with the liquor the next day."

Twenty Per Cent.

"What did Stewart say you would get out of it?"

"I was to get 20 per cent."

"What was Johnston's fine?"

"$500."

"Did you get your 20 per cent., or $100?"

"I did."

"What did you get out of the Rae Sullivan case?"

"$200," was the reluctant answer.

"You got the information from Sullivan and then peached on him and told Stewart?"

"Yes, I did."

"Were there any other people that you worked for and turned around and betrayed?"

He said he hadn't.

"Didn't you leave some whiskey for a Lindsay man on Monaghan Road and afterwards steal it?"

"I left it there but I didn't steal it."

Johnston Case.

The examination went back to Johnston, who was caught on the Norwood Road.

"Didn't you get a party together to release Johnston when he was being brought down from the jail to the trial?"

"Yes, I did. Newhall was in it and I was sent to Mr. G. N. Gordon's office to see what he would do, but Mr. Gordon refused."

Mr. Hall asked if there was not an effort being made to get his fine of $200 remitted by the Attorney General.

Dunford admitted that there was and that Stewart had written to Toronto in connection with the case.

"Did Mr. Stewart ever prosecute you when you carried whiskey when he knew it?" asked Mr. Hall.

"I wasn't supposed to know what was in the boxes, and Mr. Stewart told me I was perfectly within the law. I was never prosecuted by Stewart, although I drew whiskey."

Remission Fine.

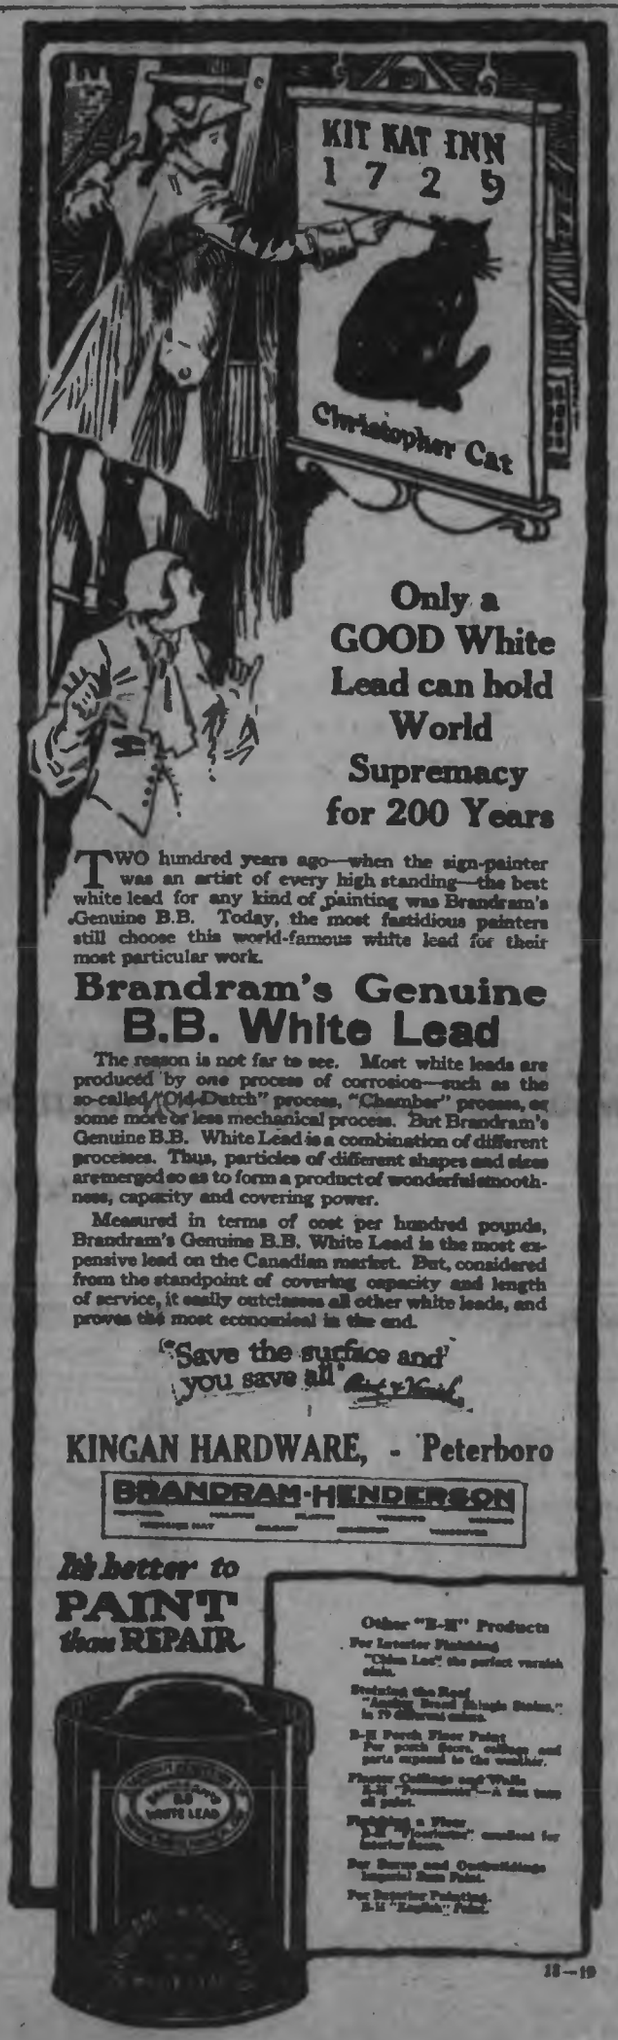
Mr. Hall informed Dunford that an order-in-Council had been passed authorizing the return of $175 of his fine.

"Who interceded for you?" asked Mr. Hall.

"I heard that Mr. Stewart wrote a letter to the Department," was Dunford's reply.

Mr. G. N. Gordon followed Dunford in the box and related how Dunford called at his office and asked for assistance to help Johnston escape from the County Jail.

His Honor Judge Huycke adjourned the Court until Wednesday, October 8, when the investigation will be resumed. There is a large number of witnesses still on the slate to be called, including Chief Thompson, Detective Newhall and Bert Howden.



Only a GOOD White Lead can hold World Supremacy for 200 Years

TWO hundred years ago—when the sign-painter was an artist of every high standing—the best white lead for any kind of painting was Brandram's Genuine B.B. Today, the most fastidious painters still choose this world-famous white lead for their most particular work.

Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead

The reason is not far to see. Most white leads are produced by one process of corrosion—such as the so-called "Old-Dutch" process, "Chamber" process, or some more or less mechanical process. But Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead is a combination of different processes. Thus, particles of different shapes and sizes are merged so as to form a product of wonderful smoothness, capacity and covering power.

Measured in terms of cost per hundred pounds, Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead is the most expensive lead on the Canadian market. But, considered from the standpoint of covering capacity and length of service, it easily outclasses all other white leads, and proves the most economical in the end.

FALL WORK IS WELL ADVANCED

REPORT ON FARM CONDITIONS—GOOD SUPPLY OF HAY

Fall work generally is still well advanced, although plowing has slackened somewhat, especially on clay fields, as the land has been getting dry again.

Some fall wheat is yet to be sown, but the bulk of the crop has been put in, and much of it is already showing up nicely.

Early potatoes are being dug, but the yield is rather light. Late potatoes are still growing and promise to do better.

Roots are now doing fairly well, except turnips, which in several counties are suffering from theattacks of aphis.

Corn cutting is proceeding actively and generally speaking the crop will be a fair one. Silo filling has begun, and indications are that nearly all the corn will be well matured and make good silage.

Pastures generally are only fair, and many farmers are doing some feeding. Lincoln, however, claims that alfalfa is giving good pasture.

Market offerings of cattle are about normal, but good heavy animals are comparatively few. Co-operative shipments, however, show a steady increase. Grade dairy cows are selling at from $110 to $175.

Eastern buyers in Peel are paying from $200 to $250 for good heavy horses.

According to the Wentworth representatives, hogs have been rushed on the Hamilton market on account of the fall in values. Prices over the Province vary from $18 to $19.75 a cwt.

There is a good supply of hay on hand, but there will be less grain for feeding than last year, and straw will be relatively scarce. Haldimand states that co-operative clubs will engage in the sale of their hay, and are already looking to increasing their supply on concentrate stock feeds.

Lincoln claims that more men are going on the farm for winter than in previous years.

PORK PACKERS AT INVESTIGATION

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—W. F. O'Connor, vice-chairman of the Board of Commerce, resumed the inquiry this morning, devoting attention to the prices of hog products. The firms represented were Davies, Gunn's, the Swift Canadian Co., Matthews-Blackwell, Harris Abattoir, and Paddy Bros.

E. C. Fox, representing the Davies Co., stated that they had forty retail stores in Toronto and others in Belleville, Brockville, Galt, Woodstock, and other Ontario towns. Mr. Fox said the company's buyers were given a commission of twenty-five cents per hundred pounds on purchases, and reaffirmed that the Davies Co. had no interest in the Toronto Union Stock Yards.

MR. FREDERICK CANNOT GIVE BARBARA MUCH COMFORT

CHAPTER LXIX.

When Mr. Frederick spoke so kindly to me I once more had to use all the self control I possessed to refrain from crying. I swallowed hard once or twice before I answered:

"Oh, I was just nervous, things went wrong all day yesterday, and again this morning. Like a silly little girl I cried and made myself a sight. I"——

"You couldn't do that; make yourself anything but attractive—to me," he said the last two words so low I scarcely heard.

"My eyes always show I have cried," I said lamely, blushing.

"You haven't told me yet whether I can help you or not. Is there nothing I can do to ease your mind?"

"Yes there is!" impulsively I replied. "I have been told horrid things, things I do not believe. Things I won't believe. "I——

"What things?" his kind cool voice interrupted.

"Things' about Neil—his business, I mean."

I saw a quick change in my listener's face, then as quick a control.

"You know more about business than a lot of silly women. Tell me if people lie about things can't you refute them in some way so others—the public will know they aren't true?"

"I can't seriously believe that Mr. Forbes intends to do anything wrong; yet many I know aren't so lenient when talking of him—rather when talking of his business methods. I don't mean to be cruel dear lady." I had winced, "but if others have talked, you and I may as well look things squarely in the face. It is a terrible thing to do a young business man an unconscious injury. We must get at the root of the matter— if we can. Do you mind telling me what you have heard?"

"Why that men are saying Neil is dishonest— that is what it means. That he gets people to put in money into schemes when he knows, or should know if he doesn't, that there is no chance to make money, scarcely any of getting back what was put in. Then there is another thing—I may as well tell you all, now that I have commenced. In this perhaps I am at fault. They say that Neil and these rich men, coarse vulgar men, with nothing to recommend them but money, go to a certain woman's house, drink and gamble, then put money into these schemes of Neil's. I know it isn't true, not as they tell it, but I cannot disprove it."

"You said you were perhaps to blame. What did you mean?"

"I refused to entertain these men. Men like that Mr. Scott, Neil brought them home, and I was so disgusted with them I told him I would not entertain them here. That he must take them to some club or restaurant."

"Yet I am a common man and you receive me."

"Oh, Mr. Frederick! please do not compare yourself with the men I have reference to. You are a gentleman in every sense of the word. A true gentleman. They are boors."

"Thank you, but really I do not deserve all you've say. I would often embarrass you, any society woman by my ignorance of the social code of manners."

"But you are not common, vulgar! don't you see," I spoke excitedly. I was distressed that I had mentioned anything about these Western men, many of whom he knew, and so perhaps hurt him.

"Suppose we forget me, and get back to our subject. Who told you these things? Anyone of prominence?"

"Yes, one of them a woman friend, one of the smart set, yet a broad minded, kind hearted woman who would not repeat silly gossip for the world. She wanted to warn—to help me."

"Um!—in what way?"

"Why you see I had planned to give some social affairs, just small ones at first, to be followed by larger ones later. She told me people wouldn't come," my voice trembled on the last word. He laid his strong warm hand over mine as he replied:

"I begin to see why you were so distressed. Now tell me all. I cannot help you unless I know just what you are up against."

Just then the telephone rang. I answered. It was Neil.

"Don't wait for dinner. A lot of fellows are in town, and I have to dine with them." I tried to reply, but received no answer. Neil once more had hung up.

THE WEATHER

Last night's temperature was the lowest of the present season, going down to 34 degrees, two degrees from the freezing point. Considerable white frost was to be seen, and it is evident that the summer season is nearing its close.—W. P.

GALWAY FAIR ATTRACTIONS.

BOBCAYGEON, Sept. 17. — Galway Fair, held at Kinmount yesterday, had all the attractions of the shows in the large towns and cties. There was an airplane, Haliburton brass band, horse racing, a procession of school children from Kinmount and surrounding schools, with a prize to the school with the largest number in proportion to its average attendance. Also a big programme of sports for children and a baby show.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. REGULAR MEETING OF THE TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL LAST EVENING

DELEGATES COMPLAIN OF POOR MAIL SERVICE LETTER FROM EX-ALDERMAN MURRAY.

Mr. Marchand presided at last night's meeting of the Trades and Labour and Council. Messrs. Sundman, Duncan, Hawker, Keenan and Sharman of the Painter's Union were seated as delegates.

A very interesting letter was read from Ex-Alderman Alex. Murray, in which he discussed the Hunter street bridge. He still shows a keen interest in Peterboro's well-being and takes the local papers regularly. He was glad the municipality had accepted the 8 hour day and was paying the fair wage. He dealt with the Labor unrest in Britain with advice in keeping with Ald. Murray's views as a Labor man. The letter was received with a feeling of pleasure by the delegates present.

A Donation

The Council forwarded a donation to the Overland employees of Toledo, Ohio, who have been locked out for some weeks.

The Independent Labor Party gave notice of their many activities and several delegates, introduced suggested for the welfare of the campaign. A communication was received from I.L.P. giving a cordial invitation to the Trades Council delegates and their wives to be present at the opening meeting in the Victoria Hall on Friday evening next to hear Brantford's Labor Mayor Mr. McBride address the meeting on labour and political issues.

A vote of thanks was tendered to President Bolwell for his activities on the Labor Day celebration which which netted considerably over $100 on the right side of the ledger for Council.

Street Signs.

The much worn question of street signs was brought up by a delegate, who said it was a shame that people be called upon to carry a pick and shovel around if they wished to find the name of a street in the winter time. After a discussion it was decided to leave it in the hands of the city council, who would no doubt again revive the question at their leisure.

Delayed Mail

A rather animated discussion took place on the irregular mail service. It was stated that mail is often delayed in transit or other ways from 1 day to a week. One delegate stated he got a letter this week that was posted in June A delegate thought that date and hour should be stamped on all mail. One delegate when complaining to the post office officials about the delay of certain mail, was informed that it was only second class matter, to which he replied "the necessary stamps are upon it." This was thought to be an injustice as many a good situation had been lost owing to this delay. A resolution was passed that the secretary write the Postmaster General complaining of the general distribution of the mail. One delegate stated that this condition existed throughout the Province.

THE NEWSPRINT MILLS REPORT LARGE SURPLUSES AND DIVIDENDS

PAPERS COMPELLED TO CEASE PUBLICATION BECAUSE OF THE HIGH COSTS OF PRODUCTION.

While the Toronto Times and many other newspapers have been compelled to cease publication because of excessive costs of production, the mills which make the paper on which the newspapers of Canada are printed continue to report unprecedented surpluses of dividends. Even the "Financial Times," a journal friendly to the paper and pulp interests enlarges upon the extraordinary showing just reported by the Laurentide Company Limited, and points out that it has not only made a large increase in the amount of surplus available for dividends, but has done so after making new and additional provisions for depletion of timber and depreciation of buildings and plant The allowance for timber depletion is an entirely new one, while depreciation has been allowed with what the Financial Times modestly calls "an even more generous hand." How this company has been able to pile up its reserves, etc., and at the same time increase its annual profits is shewn in the following table:

Pensions
1916	$
1917
1918	140,000
1919	150,000
Depreciation.
1916	$ 39,361
1917	116,670
1918	271,883
1919	*505,395
Net Profits
1916	$ 917,823
1917	1,720,012
1918	1,704,656
1919	1,823,657

* Including $175,554 timber depletion.

Even the above profits are an addition to the amounts paid out in War Tax, which in 1919 alone was $249,602.

In other words Laurentide has in four years been able to pay $300,000 into its pension fund, increase the depreciation allowance nearly 750 per cent., and still show an increase in profits of nearly 100 per cent.

Reads Like a Fairy Tale.

When these figures are considered in conjunction with the history of Laurentide, the story becomes one which could hardly be equalled by fiction. The profits of 1919 after payment of the War Tax are equivalent to over 16 per cent. on the outstanding capital stock (as compared with 8.2 per cent. in 1915), but when the evolution of this capital stock is taken into account, the reader begins to realize "the full solemnity of the meaning."

In 1911 Laurentide capital was $3,600,000. In a re-organization which took place in that year, the shareholders received $200 of a new stock for every $100 of old which they held, thus increasing the capital to $7,200,000. Thus the dividend of 19 per cent. available this year applies to $3,600,000 of purely gift stock. And the story does not end there In 1913 the stock was increased to $9,600,000 by an issue of $2,400,000 at par when it was selling on the market at 191. So the 19 per cent. available as dividend in 1919 applies not only to the legitimate stock of the company but to $3,600,000 of gift stock and to $2,400,000 more which was handed out to the shareholders at nearly half price.

How Market Value Has Risen.

If further proof of the extent to which paper mills are profitting were required, it is furnished by the market quotations for Laurentide, and a study of these before and after fixing a $60 price for newsprint last September is particularly interesting. The following table not only affords this comparison, but shows how the whole stock is increased in value by applying the market price to it:

Stock at	Total value
Par value, $100 per share	$ 9,600,000
Close 1917, $152 per share	14,598,000
Close 191, $197 per share	18,912,000
Sept. 15, 1919, 222 per share	21,312,000

The market value of Laurentide stock has thus increased $11,712,000 in excess of par value, even without taking into account that the par value in question includes $3,600,000 stock issued for nothing and $2,400,000 issued at nearly half price.

TWO BRANCHES WAR VETERANS WERE ORGANIZED

NORWOOD AND HASTINGS WILL HAVE A BRANCH OF THE G.W.V.A

The returned men of the Norwood and Hastings area last night organized a branch of the Great War Veterans' Association. Comrade Webb was chosen as President and Comrade William Puffer as Secretary.

The meeting was held in King's Hotel and the entire district was represented from Hastings to Stoney Lake, Comrade T. J. Johnston and Comrade S. N. Dancey, the latter just returned from France, conducted the organization work. They explained the purposes of the G.W.V.A. and urged the great need of organisaion for the men who fought in the great war. There was a splendid response.

The protectio and care of disabled men and dependents of those who have made the supreme sacrifice was emphasized as the first duty encumbent upon the people of Canada. The promotion of the weal and welfare of the veterans of the war would have to come from the men themselves.

There were twenty-nine charter members, while many others joined later in the evening. The splendid calibre of the officers, the plentitude of returned men in the district and the magnificent spirit that marked the inaugural meeting augur well for the future of the new branch. The officers anticipate a membership of well upwards of one hundred. in that the command embraces, Norwood, Hastings, Westwood, Stoney Lake and other points in the district.

A club and home for the members is one of the plans launched and the county council and town councils will be approached in an effort to secure financial assistance. A public demonstration will be held in the near future for the purpose of acquainting the general public with the aims and objects of G.M.V.A. and the general attitude of the returned man Col. Johnson and Capt. Dancey both strongly emphasized the need of having public opinion behind the veterans of the great war. "We have the public with us now," they pointed out, "and we can hold them and what is more we will hold them. It is essential to the future of the G.W.V.A."

TO KEEP YOUR SKIN FREE FROM HAIRS

(Beauty Topics.)

If you are willing to spend a few minutes' time in your room using a delatone paste, you can easily banish any ugly, hairy growth without discomfort or injury. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is then spread over the hairy surface, and after about 2 minutes rubbed off, and the skin is washed. You will not be disappointed with this treatment, providing you get real delatone.

BOSTON FIREMEN WILL NOT GO OUT

Come What May, They Refuse to Join Policemen.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The outstanding development in the situation resulting from the police strike was the delaration of the city's firemen, that come what might they would remain at their posts of duty. The voting of unions affiliated with the former policemen on the question of supporting the latter continued quietly and methodically and there was grave doubt of the outcome. The officials realized the danger still confronting the normal life of the city, but hailed with satisfaction the attitude of the fire fighters.

"Have you noticed that Mrs. Brown is no longer haughty, but actually friendly?" asked Mrs. Smith.

"She needs to be more friendly," said Mrs. Carrington, "why that woman actually passed me on the street three times last week without noticing me. But here she comes now—let's see whether she will notice us or not."

Mrs. Brown came around the corner smiling happily. She approached the two friends cordially and said,

"You can't guess how happy I am. With these new glasses I find that everyone's face is so clear and everyone seems so friendly! I used to wonder why it was that some folks were always meeting their friends on the street while I never seemed to see anyone I knew."

Coats in the Modes of The Hour

In the character of the cut and the cloth the coat mode of 1919-20, in presentation here, establishes new standards of distinctiveness. Originalities appear in the handling of fur and fur fabrics. Every small detail of tailoring has been taken care of.

This number of silvertone is in handsome henna shade. It is made on straight lines with a string belt and trimmed with self-covered buttons on cuffs, collar and the jutted pockets are concealed with same and rows of stitching. The collar is large in a chin chin shape, and the front edges are mitred. Priced at..... $52.75

Cardova brown velour is the material and shade of this charming coat. The Dolman sleeve is featured. It commences with the high yoke from which falls graceful folds and a wide pleat in the centre, which is trimmed with a row of eleven self covered buttons extending from shoulder to hem. The cuffs are deep and button trimmed. The collar is of fur-Kolinsky. The entire garment is half lined with a floral silk poplin. Priced at $69.00

A trig little model is of silvertone in navy blue. A high yoke is shown to advantage from which fall two side and one inverted pleats. Each is caped with a large blue bone button. A short string belt commences under the arm and crosses in front. There is also a frontal yoke finished with small gathers, giving a slight fullness .... Priced at $55.00

A particularly fine quality of English velour has been employed in the making of this model. The shade is a grey tone—known as platinum. The Dolman sleeve assists in forming the waist line—extending in for about three inches. The gathered skirt gives a graceful fullness. A flat broad belt with buckle or self makes a charming finish at the waist line. The large Quaker collar will button close up under the chin, and is trimmed with buttons Cuffs follow collar lines. The CRESSMAN Company Limited

PAID ATTENDANCE 21,712

EXHIBITION ATTENDANCE.

	1918	1919
1st day	880	1405
2nd day	9133	13625
3rd day	6980	6682
Totals	16992	21712

With a gain of 5260 in the total paid attendance for the three days, the Peterbor Industrial Exhibition last night locked up its turnstiles and closed the register for 1919 upon a complete success. In the minds of the directors there were probably little stirrings of disappointment that the third day's crowd was not larger, but they were so grateful for the happy combination of an abundance of excellent exhibits, bright, sparkling weather and satisfied crowds that they hesitated to mention the little detail of the concluding day's attendance. President Denne and many of the directors remained until the grounds had practically emptied and with the realization that their wishes had been amply fulfilled they were more eager than ever to undertake the plans for enlarging and improving the accomodation and facilities for the 1920 Exhibition.

Yesterday's Attendance

The paid attendance for Wednesday was 4,682 ,the afternoon and evening figure being respecively 3,192 and 1,162. The grandsand records show an interesting coincident in the fact that the totals for the three days were almost identical with those of last year. For the three da: in 1918 thre were 3,247 admissions to the grandstand and this year the total was 3,244. It will be some time before the financial statement will be available, but there is every assurance that it will show an encouraging credit balance.

The Horse Parade

A feature of yesterday afternoon's events was the parade of prize winners at four o'clock. Had she seen that display of hackneys, roadsters, carriage horses, heavy draughts and the agricultural class together with the mares and foals, Rosalie Bonheur might have admitted its equality with the original of "The Horse Fair". The directors' of this department, Messrs Graham, Cruickshanks, O'Connell, Cox, Ball, Milburn, Roberts and Wood are to be congratulated upon the splendid classes they were able ot present to the judges.

In every class the entries were large, they were representative not only of this county but of the district of Midland Ontario, and horses superior ot those shown in the parade will not be found in any but the Toronto Exhibition This was the consensus of the interested spectators and likewise of the exhibitors. The Fair justified all the difficulties of its preparation in the horse show alone. The automobile is certainly replacing the horse in many branches of labour after yesterday's display of winners there need be no fears that it will be entirely eliminated. In fact it was apparent that a re-action has set in and that the horse has been elevated to a higher estate than ever. The competition for all the prizes was of the keenest and the cup winners had no walkover. One of the finest turnouts ever seen here was shown by Mr. G. N. Graham, but in thir own and less spectacular class the draught horses in shining harness and big bright waggons exerted a general appeal. The display of Percherons by Wm. Roberts and Sons was as usual a fature in itself.

Concessionaires Move Quickly

As early as possible many of the concessionaries had packed away their kewpies or other lures to swell th midway at the Newmanville Fair and on Friday and Saturday they will be doing business as usual at Lindsay When departing last night many of the concession men, the vaudeville performers and others told Secretary Hall that they would be glad to return to Peterboro next year, and if the circuits permit they will be back with more and better attractions.

Yesterday's Racing.

The racing at the Exhibition yesterday was not so interesting as on the first two days, especially in the free-for-all. The latter race was not the feature that the open event usually is, beause three of the four starters were owned by one man, Payette, of Penetang, and the other entrant, that old campaigner, Hal B. Jr., was not a serious contender The Payette entry had things all their own way, and Hazel H won in straight heats, with Camelia providing the opposition in the three. The first heat was stepped in 2.18 1-4, the fastest time made at the meet. The results:

2 Camelia, Payette, Penetang	2	2	2
3 Hal B Jr., McDowell, Toronto	3	4	3
4 Helen M., Payette, Penetang	4	3	4

Tie—2.18 1-4, 2.18 1-4, 2.14 1-4.

The 2.20 Class.

The 2.20 class provided some more interesting competition before it was eventually won by Payette's fast mare, Lucy L., winner of the 2.10 class on Tuesday, thus making the Penetang owner a double winner for the day. There were only three starters, Betty D, Tucker of Orillia, and Babe Parker, H. Parker, Marchmont, fighting it out with Lucy L. Betty D won the first heat after an exciting battle, but Lucy L came on and won the next three, the Orillia mare tiring on end. The results:

1 Lucy L, Payette, Penetang	2	1	1	1
3 Babe Parker, Parker, Marchmont	3	3	2	2

Time—2.18 1-4, 2.18, 2.17 1-4, 2.20.

The Running Events.

The feature of the running races, 4 1-2 furlongs, open to all, was the double defeat of Old Pop, winner of the race for three-year-olds and up on Monday. The son of Martimas was beaten in both heats by Elia Jennings, the Gibson mare coming from behind in both cases to win the decisions. There were six starters in each heat. The results:

1 Elia Jennings, Gibson, Toronto	1	1
2 Old Pop, Crew, Toronto	2	2
3 Little Pete, Lewis, Toronto	3	3
4 Mona G, Fortune, Toronto	4	4
5 John Thompson, Wilson, Toronto	5	5
6 Waska, Whitewood, Toronto	6	6

Tie—68 secs., 68 secs.

NOTES OF THE FAIR.

The judges of the Ladies' Work recommended a prize for the soldier's exhibit shown by Corp. W. W. McWim, 756 George street, late of the 21st Batt.

One exhibitor of white asters showed 21 blooms instead of 12, as called for in the prize list, and his exhibit was consequently disallowed.

Mr. S. A. Frost of Toronto, judge of the plants and flowers, made a special note of C. W. Downer's exhibit for C. W. Clee's special prize for the best basket arrangement shown by amateurs. The exhibit is "well arranged and the color is good" was the remark in the report.

The concert by the Conservatory orchestra in the Flower Tent last night, provided delightful entertainment for hundreds of persons. Vocal solos by Miss McLaren and Miss Eastwood, were pleasant surprises.

Ther were many entries in the Ladies' Work Department that suggested a deeper interest by the expert needle workers of this city. There are many who would undoubtedly carry off prizes if they would show their best work and it is likely that this class will keep pace with the general development of the exhibition.

DISTINCTIVE EXHIBITS

THE "EMPIRE" MECHANICAL MILKER.

Mr. F. J. Doughty, the well known Eastern Representative for the "Empire" Cream Separator Co. of Canada, made an attractive exhibit of the Mechanical Milker in an exhibition tent near the east entrance to the Fair grounds. It consisted of two double unit outfits with their new double cylinder pump, operated by one of their own engines. The "Empire" Milking Machine, after many years' experience, is now a perfected machine, and many of the users in this district called at the exhibit during the Fair to report their satisfaction with their milkers.

The new pistonless pulsators attached to the pail, require no oil; and another decided improvement is the mercury column vacuum gauge, insuring a positive flow of vacuum. The elevated tank is also new, and with its bottom working on swinging doors ensures ease of taking care of the pipe line.

The outfit exhibited was sold to Mr. McGregor, of Smith, and two other new outfits were disposed of to be placed at once.

In order to show the great labour-saving qualities of the "Empire" Milker, the following remarkable record was actually made during this Fair. It seems that on Wednesday evening, 17th instant, at just ten minutes to six o'clock, Mr. Milburn, of Smith township, accompanied by his neighbour, Mr. Harold Sanderson, left the Exhibition grounds to go home and to attend to their milking. Mr. Milburn had ten cows to milk and Mr. Sanderson had eleven, making a total of twenty-one cows in all. At half past seven they had arrived back on the Exhibition grounds, after driving eight miles, getting in their cows from the field, changing their clothes, doing their evening chores, and milked the twenty-one cows with the "Empire" Milker. The whole time occupied in this remarkable performance was only one hour and forty minutes. Their milking machine was installed three seasons ago. It is al-

Sure Way to Regain Robust Bloom of Youth

A smooth, velvety-soft skin, with a delicate peach-like bloom, is one of the Creator's most exquisite works. When the first blush of youth is over, this beautiful tint and satiny lustre are rarely seen. How to preserve them—that's the question. Famous beauty experts abroad long have known that ordinary mercolized wax works wonder in this direction. It actually gives a new surface to the skin, restoring that marvellous girlish colour and softness in a remarkable manner. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will convert a faded, wornout, discoloured, freckled or pimply complexion into one of captivating loveliness in less than two weeks.

No special skill is necessary in applying mercolised wax, it being smeared on at night like cold cream, and washed off in the morning.

INSPIRING SERVICE AT THE HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

REV. DR. RIBOURG, OF ST. ALBAN'S, TORONTO, PREACHED AN ELOQUENT SERMON.

The annual Harvest Festival service held last evening in St. George's Church was attended by a very large ... on representative of the congregations of the city. Ribourg of St. Alban's ...ral, Toronto, gave an eloquent ...n urging that a greater measure ...f thankfulness be accorded to ... for the gifts he has given to the ...

...e service was conducted by ...on Davidson assisted by Rev. ...nes Price the rector and the lessons read by His Honor Judge Huycke and Mr. Henry Rush.

The Sermon

Dr. Ribourg's text was taken from Psalm 9, verse 1: "I will praise thee, Oh, Lord, with my whole heart" that text he said seemed singularly appropriate for the bountiful harvest which is a tangible token of God's goodness. Gratitude for the blessing sent by God," he said, "is our bounden duty and is an acknowledgment of a sterner fact, the fact that all things came from God."

Two Movements

In every human breast there are two movements one inhaling breath the other exhaling, and so in every soul there should be two movements one receiving gifts, the other pouring forth thanksgiving for them in the form of thanksgiving and church offerings. Every gift comes from God. In the first place God has given us natural life with the supreme gift of creating us with an independent will and an immortal soul. We are indebted to Him not only for the life he has given us but for its continuance. Every thought and movement of our bodies is an expression of the Divine power. "Let us try", Dr. Ribourg urged, "to let devotion not always take the form of weary burden of want but let it express thankfulness for the blessings received and lift up a tribute of thanks The speaker dwelt upon the duty of children to parents. Too often he said we forget the sacrifices of our parents and repay them not with thankfulness but with shameful neglect. Too often those of us who have climbed the summit of the mountain of success forget the friends who advanced us to the position we have reached. Too any of us forget the benefits we have received from the living and the dead. Every man is born with an inheritance which he had no hand in earning. We who live now are heirs to all ages and have received as a patrimony the offerings of religion and science. And yet the pressure of time makes us overlook the gratitude we owe to those who have been instrumental in handing down to us these blessings.

Vice of Ingratitude

The vice of ingratitude, Dr. Ribourg went on to say is so hateful to God that he has made a severe condemnation of the Jews who are virtually a despised race throughout the world, Who today will say we have nothing to be thankful for? Has not the Almighty sustained us in the past five years? In the vast economy of nature elemental moral forces are as indestructible as the forces of matter. The great war just ended was a gigantic conflict between the forces of good and the powers of evil. A struggle between Kultur and Civilization The law of right has asserted itself over the law of might as always is done in a universe which is governed by a righteous God.

We have many reasons to be thankful to God in the year 1919 which will go down in history as the year of the ending of the Great War We have found that in spite of materialism and love of ease we have been able to produce giants in courage and valour who have lived and died for something greater than themselves. We have reason to be thankful for the conditions of things generally in the world, for the fact that the British Empire still subsists after five years of unprecedented turmoil for the fact that Christianity still survives, for the fact that immortal ideals still rise over the ruins of war and yet heal the wounds of mankind.

The speaker concluded with an urgent appeal for a greater and yet greater measure of thankfulness to be given to God calling on every power of mind and soul to praise Him.

Short Address

In a very short address Rev. Mr. Price spoke of the finances of St. George's Church .He said that while the lot and building had aggregated some seven thousand dollars there is yet a debt of only about $50 to be paid off and he tendered a tribute of the generosity of St John's Church which has materially assisted in the upbuilding of the Church.

Mrs. Ethel Parks, who is in charge of the financial department of the Democratic National Committee, studied law before entering politics.

CLERKS SAW ROBBERS GET ON THE TRAIN

(Special to Examiner)

QUEBEC, Sept. 18.—The following statement was given out this morning at the postmaster's office here:

"I. C. R. Mr. 300, Ocean Limited, left Levis at 12.10 this morning. Mail clerks Gosselin, Lachance, Vailleau, Rene, and Bumoulin in charge of the mail car.

"Passing in front of Dohen's Hotel, Levis, one of the clerks noticed a man who jumped on the railing of the side door, and who sat there. The mail clerk did not interfere, believing the man to be a tramp stealing a ride, and not caring to kick him off for fear of killing him on the track. A little farther on, the mail clerk saw other men jump on the train. He signalled them to hop off, but they paid no heed, and stood between the coupling of the mail car and the baggage car behind.

"At Harlaka, where the train stopped to enable the pushing engine to uncouple and return to Levis, two of the bandits entered the car, held the crew at the point of revolvers, and rifled the mail. The robbers were well clad, wore automobile goggles, and spoke English."

your prices on the cost. If your testimony is correct it was only when you bought the cheaper priced hogs that you reduced the prices. You have reduced these prices in an entire contradiction to the principle set forth yesterday by Mr. Fox, as the governing principle in price making at your establishments."

Witness replied he had modified his price very much in view of the lower priced hogs, which would come on this fall.

"Have you read to-day's Union Stock Yards market report?" "No."

Mr. O'Connor — "The opinion of the Union Stock Yards is that it is this cost of living agitation which is causing a reduction in the price of hogs. Is your opinion different?" "It may have had some effect on it. No one wants lower prices more than myself, because modified price brings more business."

O'Connor—"Everybody doing business welcomes moderate prices." Witness disputed Mr. O'Connors suggestion that witness wished to disagree with Mr. Fox.

"Then you had better abandon your idea. I think it would be wiser to leave it to Mr. Fox, because he is pretty wise."

"I notice in your price lists and cost list from August 11th to 16th that you bought from the Wm. Davies Co. pork tenderloin at 44 cents and your sale price was 55c. a pound. You made 11 cents on your retail price." Mr. O'Connor: "What per cent. is that?" Col. Price: "That's exactly 25 per cent. At the same time your cost lists show that you bought fresh shoulders at 45 cents and sold at 52 cents. That is a profit of 7 cents. Why do you make a profit of seven cents on one piece and 11 and 12 on another?"

The Humble Liver.

"There is so little of tenderloins we make this on something else." "You used to give liver away." "We used to sell it at five cents apiece, and now at five cents a pound."

"Now you get about 25 or 30 cents for them." "No."

"Now you get charged 15 or 20 cents and you formerly charged 5 cents."

"As far as hearts were concerned what were formerly 6, 10 and 12 cents were sold at 10 cents a pound."

"You have doubled and trebled the price of hearts. You have doubled and trebled the price of liver," said Col. Price, "and you make from 15 to 19 cents in pork."

"You were practically giving them away before the prices rose," said Col. Price, who pointed out that there had been a reduction in 10 days of 5, 10 and 15 cents, but the little things had trebled in cost.

"I do object to any man trying to play this board," protested the Commission, as if they are not men of ordinary sense, and as if we were people of much simplicity that we cannot follow simple arithmetic.

Mr. Wilson protested that nothing was farther from his mind. 'But don't tell us that your reason for charging 31 cents and 16 cents a pound for the best portions is because you are losing so much more on others. You are making four or five times more, although the cost to you is not four or five times what it formerly was."

"You have a reason," added the Commissioner, "but not a sensible reason."

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS OVERCOME BY SAFE METHOD

Worry, overwork, overstudy, and indigestion cause insomnia.

Healthy, natural sleep can be produced by drugs.

First, the blood circulation must be improved.

Congestion of blood in the head must be removed.

Irritation in the brain must be relieved.

For building blood and nerve, for instilling force and life into overworked organs, for establishing strength and vitality, where can you find anything so efficient as Ferrozone?

Remember, sleep is just as important as food.

You must sleep, or break down, but if you'll use Ferrozone and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep, you'll get well quickly.

Ferrozone is not a narcotic, not a dope; it is a health-giving tonic that any child or delicate woman can use.

Absolutely safe is Ferrozone.

Take it for a month, take it for a year — no harm, but immeasurable good will result.

To sleep well, look well, feel well, to be free from depression, nervousness or blues, use Ferrozone. It's a food tonic, a healer to the weak and wretched, a boon to the sleepless — sold in 50 boxes, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

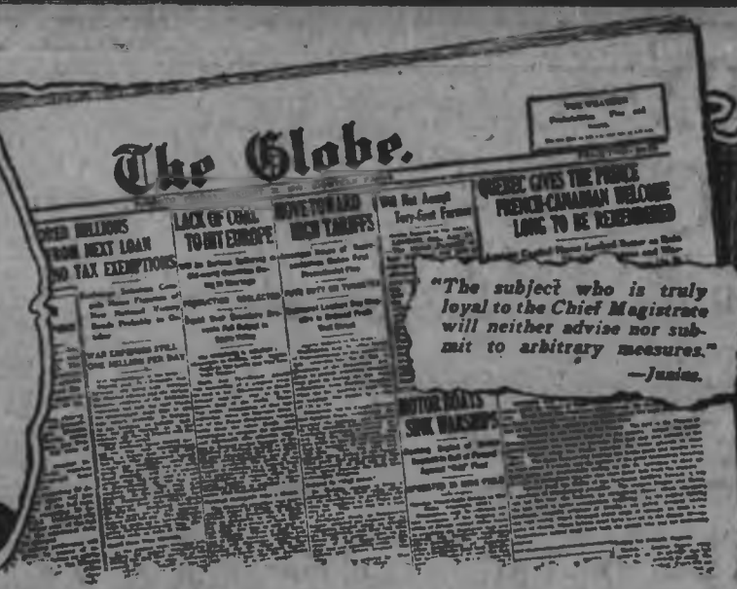
The Late George Brown.



The Globe.
QUEBEC GIVES THE PRINCE FRENCH-CANADIAN WELCOME LONG TO BE REMEMBERED
"The subject who is truly loyal to the Chief Magistrate will neither advise nor submit to arbitrary measures."
—Junius.

George Brown's Ideal; Robert Jaffray's Ambition

THE Globe was founded for a cause—that cause was Responsible Government, the Abolition of Clergy Reserves, the overthrowing of the Family Compact. It fought for Ecclesiastical Reform, for Representation by Population, for Confederation. All through the bitter controversies of those early days, The Globe stood conscientiously to its task. It helped lead the country through many dangers and pitfalls to great nationhood.

This was George Brown's ideal. He fought for it by his personal service in public life as well as through The Globe, which he founded in 1844. He lived to see Canada emerge from the struggle a fully confederated Dominion, stepping on to the highway of great national progress and prosperity.

What The Globe Stands For

The Globe stands for Canada as a nation within the British Empire, entitled to share in the settlement of great Imperial issues—such as peace and war; for the arbitration of all disputes between nations; for the equality of all Canadian citizens—regardless of race or creed—before the law—for the right of women to vote in all elections and sit in Parliament and the Provincial Legislatures; for the national ownership and operation of railways and telegraphs; for the development under Provincial or municipal control of all available water powers and the extension of public power lines wherever practicable to the farms as well as the cities and the towns—for the prohibition by Federal law of the importation, manufacture or retail sale in Canada of intoxicating liquor for a reform in the land laws and in the system of land taxation throughout the Dominion which shall encourage use and discourage speculation; for the strengthening and enforcement of the law against combinations in restraint of trade—for a tariff based on revenue requirements; for a more equitable division between Capital and Labor of the wealth produced by their co-operation in industry; for old-age pensions and the insurance of wage workers against unemployment and sickness; for the simplification of Court procedure and the lessening of appeals so that the poor shall not remain at a disadvantage; for an educational system in all the Provinces that shall promote citizenship by the abolition of illiteracy.—Stewart Lyon—Editor, The Globe, in the 75th Anniversary edition of The Globe.

Robert Jaffray received his inspiration from George Brown, whose guide, counsellor and friend he was. The management of The Globe by Robert Jaffray, was characterized by an ambition to maintain the George Brown traditions, and The Globe's position as the Great Family Newspaper George Brown made it.

"I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true" declared Lincoln during the darkest hours of the Civil War. As an advocate of reform and an organ of public opinion, this has been The Globe's principle. Strict adherence to and the continuance of its traditions have realized the George Brown ideal, and fulfilled the Robert Jaffray ambition.

Says the Orillia "Times": "The Globe is to-day in point of influence the foremost newspaper in Canada, and has won for itself the proud place it occupies by sheer merit. Its remarkable strength was shown during the war, no other Canadian paper approaching the excellence and detail of its cable service. The Globe was founded as a defender and exponent of the rights of the common people, and so long as it remains true to its honorable traditions, it deserves to, and will succeed."

The Globe still stands for and advocates unity, Democratic Progress and British Connection. Its present publishers are actuated by the traditions laid down by the two great personalities that directed The Globe during its early days and later development. Nothing is spared to make The Globe the paper these leaders would have it be.

It is the organ of no political party. It has always been conducted with an independence that knows no master. It submits to no outside dictation.

Like Lincoln, The Globe has stayed with its friends when it has deemed them right, and parted from them when it has thought them wrong. It has stood, and still stands, by what it considers the interests and rights of the people.

From its very inception, The Globe fought for a prohibitory liquor law, for nation-wide education, for freedom of trade and commerce, for uniform and equitable legislation, for cheap postage, for the curtailment of arbitrary executive power.

To-day The Globe is still the servant of the people. Its association with the Liberal Party is not that of a mouthpiece, but of an ally in the promotion of all good causes, and of an honest critic when leaders of Liberalism lag in the advance.

The country is facing big problems that are vital to every Canadian. The Globe will consistently and persistently press its viewpoint. The discussions on these big questions and the news of passing events during the coming months should be followed very closely by all people.

The Globe is a Great Family Newspaper

It is rich with honorable traditions, always true to the causes which brought it into existence, always the advocate of every good cause.

Because to-morrow's Globe will be what it was to-day, what it was yesterday—because it will be what it has always been, it is worthy of a place in your home.

INSTITUTE MEETING DISCUSS TEMPERANCE

OMEMEE, Sept. 18.—The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas McConnell with a fair attendance of members.

The opening exercises over, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary. The subject being Temperance, a paper was read by Mrs. L. A. Mahood on "Booze and Throttles," also a reading, "Mrs. Moriarity's Boy," by Mrs. T. R. MacPherson. Mrs. C. L. Morcombe and Miss Lila Parsons delighted those present by singing a duet, "Somebody's Boy," after which "The Referendum made plain for young readers" was read by Mrs. Wilbert Fee. The meeting was brought to a close by the National Anthem. The hostesses provided lunch, they being Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. MacPherson, Mrs. R. Cornwall and Mrs. Mahood. The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Bannan.

A Shower.

On Wednesday evening of last week a miscellaneous shower was given to Mr. and Mrs. W. Brockley at the home of Mr. F. G. Sandy by friends and members of the Presbyterian Sunday school of which he is a member. A very pleasant evening was spent in games and music, after which the gifts were opened and a neat speech was made by Mr. Brockley, whom it will be remembered has recently returned from overseas with his bride. A dainty lunch was served, after which the gathering broke up.

GREAT PROGRAMME FOR TO-NIGHT'S BOXING BOUTS

There should be a big crowd of fight fans a Brock street rink to-night when Red Cattle of Toronto, will meet the formidable Kid Brompton of New York, in a return bout. Two weeks ago the pair met in a ten round engagement that was one of the fastest hard-hitting bouts, local followers of the game have seen. The decision then was a draw neither boy was satisfied with his showing so the management booked them up again.

In addition to the main bout there will be a number of good preliminaries. Irish Jordan, who won several championship medals overseas is matched with a Buffalo unknown and real bout should be the result, while young Dugan and Babe Anthony are slated to go six rounds. In addition there will be a wrestling match between Minard and Dunsford so that all through the mill looks like a corker.

TEX RICKARD WANTS TO SEE WILLARD IN COME-BACK

BELIEVES THE MONEY GRABBER TOOK RECKLESS CHANCES—MIGHT ACCEPT SHORT END

There are two men who are anxious to have Jess Willard again enter the ring and make an attempt to wrest the title from his conqueror, Jack Dempsey

One of them is Ray Archer, Willard's business manager, and the other is Tex Rickard, who promoted the Toledo battle. Tex believes they will draw again and contends that Willard can do much better the next time and declares he is willing to dig up a spot and talk business if Jess and Jack will consent.

Would Jess Accept Short End?

Tex has not much hope of inducing Willard to go through a severe training grind again and take the short end of the purse just to get even with Dempsey, but he is ready and anxious to start the ball rolling if the fighters give him the word.

They argue that Willard was too confident, took reckless chances and was licked by a punch he took because he did not think he could be hurt. Now that he knows better, they say, Jess would fight carefully as he always did before, and perhaps do things to Jack after the latter tired trying to accomplish what he did at Toledo when "Jess was holding his chin out for him."

Here is the way Archer talked about it when in Chicago recently:

"I don't know how Jess feels about it. I am on my way to see him now and will learn all about his plans. Jess has plenty of money and is all wrapped up in the oil business. He might agree to another fight, but I haven't much hope. I know if I were Jess I surely would fight Dempsey again. I still think Willard can whip him to a certainty.

"Willard was in good physical trim at Toledo except when he neglected to harden his flesh. If his right eye had not closed up he would be fighting yet. Dempsey was tiring fast and if Jess had been able to see him he would have kept on going. Jess would be sure to pickle his countenance for another fight.

"Another mistake —Jess did not think he could be badly stung by a punch. He saw that left coming and did not try seriously to get out of the way of it. Also, he would know better than that if they signed up again.

"Willard did no fight as he can fight. He chased after Dempsey in that first round and kept leading to him. I never saw Willard do that before. That was what gave Dempsey a chance to shoot over that left. I disagree with the experts who claim that first body punch hurt Willard. It was the left to the chin that licked him. He did not recover until after the fight, and then it was too late, of course.

"Jess is a great fighter and has a great fight left in his system. I would like to get him to start again if Dempsey will give him a match. Tex Richard told me that he would promote it."

The cost of living keeps rising, yet none of us seem to suffer any more than we did before. Though we have to pay out more than formerly, we are also taking in more. In all cases the balance has not as yet been satisfactorily adjusted but we may hope that in time all inconsistencies will be smoothed out. We can't hope for much decrease in the cost of living unless we are also willing that our incomes return to what they formerly were.

If we look within ourselves we may find the inconsistencies which we so readily complain of in others. The nearer we ourselves approach perfection, the fewer faults we see in those about us.

Joy, sorrow, fear, contentment, disaster, all human experiences, follow each other in rapid succession. The world is constantly changing. Yet there is one thing which, if possessed and cherished, serves to steady us in the midst of the whirl, temper the blast and to tinge, our joy with thoughtfulness. And that one thing is a life-long love, a love which lifts us over the rough places, helps us to forget the sorrows, and inspires us to press ever onward.

It has been said that two of the strongest human emotions are love of life and fear of death. Our actions, however, belie this statement, for little do we think of what might occur as, we stuff ourselves with unhealthy food, ride recklessly in our motor cars, or waste our energies in useless frivolity. Yet it seems to be a fact that those of us who take least thought of our lives usually live the longest.

When a youth will do any sort of honest work, no mater how menial it may be, rather than be idle, he will some day make his mark in the world. The young man who is so proud that he would rather starve than do something that he considers beneath his dignity will never amount to much. All honest toil is honorable. There is nothing so degrading as the aversion to manual labour, for that aversion is usually due to laziness and conceit.

THE POWER OF MUSIC.

Some of the oldest myths that have been handed down to us deal with the power of music. It is told that rocks and trees danced when Orpheus played. Ferocious wild beasts, in many legends, were quieted by sweet strains of sound, and even to-day many demonstrations have been made showing the power which music exerts over animals. And if concord of sound can affect creatures that are naturally ferocious, is it not reasonable that it has a quieting effect on human beings? Such is indeed the case. Music will quiet overwrought nerves, sooth an angry temper, and banish care and sadness. When music is brought into the home discord flees from it, for inharmony of atmosphere cannot long abide where harmony of sound holds away.

CHILDREN IN THE HOME.

Who gives you joy and purpose in living? Who brightens your days, gives you something to plan for and look forward to? It is the children in your home. What object, pray, would you have to work for, if it were not for them? All your thoughts and plans for the future are bound up in your children. Could you imagine what it would be like if you did not have them?

And yet thousands of men and women have no children in their homes and do not seem to miss them. If they only knew what pleasure they are losing they would gladly adopt the homeless little beings, so many of whom grow up in a hard world with no one to care whether they live or die.

Why are more babies not taken into these childless homes? Many people offer the excuse that they are afraid the children will not "turn out well", and they are afraid to take the responsibility. But that is a poor excuse. Are they not shirking a responsibility by refusing to take the little ones into their hearts and homes? Even if the children should not become the men and women hoped for, yet those who have cared for them would at least have done their duty and given the youngsters a chance. And it is undoubtedly true that the happiness they themselves would experience would more than compensate for any anxiety or worry involved. Once a child has come into a home, the world is not the same.

FAMOUS MAGICIAN COMING TO GRAND

WILL HAVE A GOOD CAST OF CLEVER ASSISTANTS

Blackstone, the Great Magician, Coming to the Grand Friday and Saturday.

The great Blackstone, the world's greatest magician, will appear at the Grand with his own big company on Friday and Saturday, with a popular matinee on Saturday. This is the first appearance here of the great magician and from the great interest his coming engagement has aroused, he will be assured of a crowded h. at each performance.

For this engagement Blackstone will offer the cream of all his sensational illusions, the same which created such a furore of awe and excitement during his last New York engagement, including the same cast of clever assistants, a company of fifteen people. Practically everything he produced in magic he is originator and inventor of. He runs his illusions at aeroplane speed, offering thrills and sensations every minute of his performance.

His production is truly an eclipse, his achievements in the creation of illusion, transformation, phantasm and human disappearance, his sleight-of-hand work is beyond description, working right under the eyes of the spectators without fear of detection, his whole performance is marvellous. A scale of prices has been arranged within the reach of everyone. Evenings: Best seats $1.00, 75c., 50c., 25c., and a popular matinee Saturday at 25c., 50c., 75c. Seats can be reserved by telephone now.

VARIETY PROGRAMME AT GRAND TO-NIGHT

It is a well known fact that the moving picture lovers of Peterborough enjoy a variety programme of pictures, and Manager Dahn has arranged one of the best variety programmes for to-day that is possible to book.

Bessie Barriscale will be seen in the great society drama in five acts, "The White Lie." As an added feature a big western production, with Wm. S. Hart in "The Marked Deck." Two side-splitting comedies and a special Gaumont week will complete this star variety programme.

By public demand Mr. E. E. Caldwell, the famous high baritone, will sing again to-night.

PETERBORO' MAY ENTER RUGBY TEAM

MATTER IN HANDS OF ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

There is some prospect of Peterboro appearing on the Rugby map this fall. The Athletic Association of the local Collegiate Institute has received a proposal from the Belleville High School to form a High School Rugby League. Belleville has already communicated with Kingston, Cobourg, Whitby and other High Schools in Eastern Ontario and should the answers be satisfactory a meeting of representatives from the schools intending to enter the league will be held soon. As yet the local Collegiate has taken no action, however.

JACK CANUCK COMING HERE

been so overworked that it has come to be "the bunk" with a good share of the public. The term, however, will take on a measure of reality when Mack Sennett's latest and largest farce production, "Jack Canuck in Berlin", is spread out for the public gaze on Thursday and Friday, October 2 and 3, at the Grand Theater.

In this film, which is said to set the high mark for the comedy king of the screen, will be found five reels of sustained at a high pitch instead of the customary two from Sennett, and all the Sennett farceurs assembled in one array for a broadside of ridicule at German Bluff and Bluster.

Charlie Murray plays an Irish soldier; Ford Sterling enacts the kaiser; Chester Conklin and Ben Turpin, Marie Prevost and Eva Thatcher are ideally cast the Sennett Bathing Beauties splash their way into consistent scenes and Bothwell Browne, the noted male actor of feminine roles, was engaged for what may be considered the pivotal part that of an American aviatory who, in disguise, as a gay "vamp," worms his way into the imperial household and learns both state and domestic secrets of value to the U.S. Government.

It will cause no little flutter among the admirers of those California scintillants, the Bathing Beauties, that they are to make a journey to the Grand under special dispensation and appear in person in a beautifully staged act and series of illuminated poses in connection with the film comedy. Never hitherto seen outside their closely guarded studio haunts, they are to make a journey to the flying visit to the east and appear in five of the largest cities.

Mack Sennett yielded to the persuasions of Sol L. Lesser, who bought the American and Canadian rights to "Yackee-Doodle in Berlin," and the dual attraction thus brought about is entirely unique in the exhibition of motion pictures

RAISES IMPORTANT MARITAL ROBLEMS

Elsie Ferguson's New Photoplay Affords Opportunities for Discussion as seen at the Allen.

Is it wise for a man to wed a French girl and then take her to the home of his parents? Can one overcome the objections and suspicions of one's parents if they happen to be Puritanical in their views on matrimony If not, is it possible for the newly wedded couple to be happy?

These are the questions which Elsie Ferguson, the charming Artcraft star answers vigorously as Fauvette, the French bride of Martin Wesley, in her latest photoplay, "His Parisian Wife," which is being shown to-day for the last time at the Allen Theatre. Her volatile temperament was not understood or appreciated by her husband's parents and despite every effort made by her to win their confidence and love, they persisted in treating her as a girl with a "past" and therefore unworthy of their respect.

This hostile attitude finally convinces the husband that his wife may not be as pure as she seems and a separation ensues. Fauvette is cast upon her own resources and finally wins fame as an author. When another man enters her life the husband's waning love revives and after a series of thrilling scenes, the pair are reunited. The story has a deep psychological interest and its development supplies real dramatic interest and appeal. David Powell is Miss Ferguson's leading man, and the supporting cast is excellent.

Emile Chautard widely known as a master hand at his art, directed Miss Ferguson in his "Parisian Wife," as he did the same star in "Under the Greenwood Tree." Mr. Chautard as a director of wide experience and his judgment is one of his soundest assets. Both are displayed to signal advantage in his latest production.

The story was written by Ivy Duke Sell, who is one of the best known scenarists in the country. She has written scores of screen successes, but in none has she done better work than in this new screen vehicle for Elsie Ferguson. The story is an ex-

There is no such thing as a bad boy. The worst boy is likely better than the best man, and if rightly treated will show noble traits of character that have been stunted through wrong and unfair treatment. Before you condemn a boy, try to get his viewpoint and then decide what you would do if you were in his place with his surroundings and temptations. What is condemned as wicked in a boy's conduct is often merely his mischievous spirit, which has taken the wrong path through ignorance and lack of mature judgment

Fair exhibit—D and Weekly so worthy of mention that eight of the winning herds at the Fair have been milked for five years with the "Empire" Milker.

This interesting exhibit was attended by Mr. F. J. Doughty personally and Mr. James O'Reilly the local representative. Both report growing interest in this milking machine by practical dairymen in this district.

FITZGERALD & CO'S GARAGE MOTOR CAR DISPLAY.

"Everything comes to the man who goes after what the other fellow is waiting for," was evidently in the minds of the pushing sales force of [illegible] & Co's Motor Car [illegible] street. They put up an [illegible] exhibit in a large exhibition tent on the fair grounds, which drew crowds of prospective buyers to its display.

There is only one time that a man will not listen to advice, requires no friendly help, and insists, no matter what the opposition may be, that he is right, and that is when he is choosing a wife. Buying a car is different. He is not sure in his knowledge of just what [illegible] he should and can buy, or just [illegible] much he really expects for [illegible] oney, and from the performance o[illegible] his car. When he has saved enough money to be married, and decides to buy a car instead, he asks the opinion of men who have driven, looks around carefully, propounds questions, listens to dozens of varied ideas, and has to depend on somebody else's judgment in the end.

And so when the "Brisco" and the "Studebaker" cars came in for inspection, at this exhibit, prospective buyers rarely left the tent without having signed the order sheets for one or other of these spanking cars. All lookers experience the same sensation when viewing them, and thoroughly appreciate the power and "pep," the luxury and the smooth-running features of both these well-tested, well-tried modern cars.

MERRILL & MEREDITH'S MEN'S FALL FASHIONS.

A formal display of Autumn fashions for men was made by Messrs. Merrill & Meredith, the George street clothiers, and was one of the neatest and best dressed exhibits in the Main building. The styles favoured for Fall season, in gentlemen's full dress suits were cleverly shown, as well as the new woolens for suitings. Models of correct dress attire were exhibited that caught the eye of good dressers, who showed an interest in the fashions and informed of the trend of the new styles by courteous attendants. Authoritative styles in men's ready to wear business suits were also demonstrated, as well as [illegible] the newest fancies in Chesterfield [illegible]oats and other correct designs. The firm carries an exceedingly well chosen stock of cloths, tweeds, worsteds, serges, etc., for [illegible] overcoatings for made-to-[illegible]ers in their own tailoring [illegible] at 380 George street, and gentlemen of exacting tastes have, for years, been satisfied patrons, and rebooked their orders.

Natty samples of boys' clothing were also shown for Fall wear, with all the pleasing juvenile effects. This firm contrive to handle 20th Century Clothing, which has given customers continued good results. Samples of new Velour felt hats, fancy tweed caps, and neckwear completed a tasteful exhibit which received merited attention during the three Fair days. Mr. H. E. Henry was in charge.

CHEVROLET GRAND EXHIBIT FROM THE MANNING GARAGE.

The big display of Chevrolet motor cars made by the Manning Garage, Water street, was one of the largest motor exhibits on the grounds. It embraced:

One Chevrolet "Baby Grand" Touring Car, Model FB.

One "New Series, Four-Ninety" Roadster.

And two "New Series," Five-Passenger "Four-Ninety" Touring Cars, and One Ton Chevrolet Truck, Model T.

The two energetic partners of this busy garage, Messers. Manning and Howson, were present and had their time well occupied attending to prospective buyers and visitors.

The present-day value of an automobile lies in its degree of utility. The more it serves the more it saves. And in measuring the value of the Chevrolet by these standards, its real worth is revealed. Like a true friend, the Chevrolet will wear well. It will not be a burden to keep. And on closer acquaintance the greater will be the charm in its possession.

The Chevrolet represents an unusual value. But to know the full extent of its real worth, one must know more of the efficiency of its service—its capabilities for practical time and labor saving utility.

The popularity Chevrolet cars have attained is a reflection of the sound judgment of thousands of discriminating purchasers. And the remarkable records that Chevrolet cars have made in the hands of these owners is sure proof that Chevrolet quality has an unquestionable right to the recognition and endorsement of all who believe in sane spending and sound values.

The specifications of the Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" Touring Car are so strong that the honest criticism is silenced. The equipment is complete and up-to-the-minute. Electric lights and starter, highest type two-unit system, single wiring used. Complete lamp equipment; top, top cover and side curtains; tilted windshield; speedometer, electric horn; extra rim and carrier on rear; complete tool equipment, including pump and jack. Footrest, robe rail, pockets in each door.

The specifications and equipment of the Chevrolet Roadster are equally as sound and invulnerable, and leave no room for objections on the part of critics.

In the Chevrolet Model "F. B." Touring and Roadster cars, there stands out the same strong points of merit. The "F. B." Touring is a big, splendid looking car, of a smart new design, which is sure to distinguish itself by noteworthy performances.

The Chevrolet Model T. One-Ton Truck is a worm-drive machine, that can be used profitable for all purposes where quick and economical delivery is necessary.

J. M. GREENE & CO.'S MUSIC DISPLAY.

So inspiring were the musical effects produced by J. M. Greene Co.'s display in the Main Building that a constant concourse of people flocked to see and hear the attractions each day of the Fair.

During this period of post-war reconstruction, it is well that public attention should be drawn to musical education, and the public are indebted to this firm for their fine display. Music, it is being constantly urged, should have a more important place in the curriculum of school studies. The cultivation of a love for good music and the development of the ability to sing and play, would be a means, too, for encouraging the patriotic spirit and the control of the expressions of the emotions.

Visitors at the Fair spent more time than usual at this exhibit, getting information respecting the J. M. Greene Co.'s splendid instruments, especially the upright pianos and player pianos.

A New Scale Williams piano and several Edison gramophones were shown, as well as the new Greene and Columbia phonographs, in oak, mahogany, and walnut finishes. Obliging attendants demonstrated the merits of these instruments, and gave all inquirers every information desired.

PETER HAMILTON COY'S FARM IMPLEMENTS.

A goodly portion of the grounds were occupied with a strong exhibit of modern farm implements by the old established agricultural implement firm of Peter Hamilton Coy. The display received large attention from the farmers who took real pleasure in inspecting the various machines of interest in the display.

There was shown a "Tornado" Blower; an Ensilage Cutter; a Carrier machine; a Stiff-Tooth Cultivator; a Spring-Tooth Cultivator, with Power-liff and Fore Carriage; a No. 6 Straw Cutter, hand or power; a No. 3 Pulper; a "Comet" Scuffler; an I.X.L. Plough; a Combination Plough; a Diamond-tooth Plough; and an all-steel harrow.

To the splendid display of Agricultural Machinery, the farmers gave marked attention. It was easily the most representative display of the kind at the Fair; and the well established reputation of the Peter Hamilton Co., proved their machines to have gained and retained the confidence of the farming community. Needless to say the Peter Hamilton Co. machines have not only met with ready sales in the nearby surrounding counties, but can be found on many of the well cultivated farms throughout the province.

Mr. A. R. Nichols, the well known salesman for the firm, was in charge of the exhibit, and was one of the busiest men on the ground.

THE F. R. J. MACPHERSON STOVE DISPLAY.

This was one of the most practical exhibits at the Show, and was a busy centre for visitors. It was a well-set-up exhibit, each feature of the display being clearly and prominently arranged for the public view.

The chief attraction of the display was the FiReCo Ranges, which the firm claims will cut the fuel bill in half. The war is over now, but there is the same need for economising fuel as before; and it is claimed that a FiReCo range can save $25.00 per annum in the kitchen coal bill. Not only that, but evidence was given that this range is doing this in thousands of homes in Canada.

The FiReCo system is said to be the only positive air-tight stove on the market. Made air-tight by the use of patented sand joint; all joints being absolutely air-tight gives an entirely different flue system, which does away entirely with dampers and baffle plates, and effects a fifty per cent. saving in fuel, also greatly reduces the operating labor and creates only about one-third as many ashes, and makes a much better baking oven.

There is nothing complicated in the construction or the system, so the operation is much more simple than other stoves, the entire stove being controlled by one slide draft.

The FiReCo system was first thought of ten years ago, it was four years in its evolution and was perfected six years ago. It has passed the experimental stage. Over eight thousand users are glad to testify to the system doing all that is claimed for it.

The MacPherson & Co. are also agents for the Detroit Vapor Stoves, said to "work like gas." There are no wicks, no odor, and burns oil, gasoline, or distillate. It bakes quickly, and is easy to operate, and you can have "a hot fire in a jiffy." This is a good stove to buy if your room is limited—just 42 inches long—and it is liked because of its compactness and other features.

The Time-Saver Electric Washer shown drew crowds of interested spectators. It was in full operation, is of convenient size, easy to move about, and it is said that clothes washed by this washer last four times as long as when washed in the tub.

A Hot-Point Vacuum Cleaner and a number of domestic electric appliances and fancy table lamps, fans, etc., were also in the exhibit. A sample mantel and fireplace, which this firm make a specialty of, was also shown.

INTERESTING STOVE AND PLUMBING DISPLAY

The Charlotte street firm of R. G. Sturgeon & Co., plumbers and gas and water experts made one of the most attractive and instructive exhibits at the Fair. They showed the "Good Cheer" line of stoves and ranges in various sizes and designs, a line of new combined types of stoves in a class by themselves. The "Pennant, Jr." is a two-piece range, adapted for either gas, coal or wood. To show the suitability of this two-piece range, already car loads of them have been sold in Peterborough and district without a single complaint Many use the gas for a short service rather than open up a coal fire. One oven is used for all fuels and it is a guaranteed baker with either fuel. A special feature of this stove is that it answers both summer and winter purposes; in summer it gives you less heat by the use of gas, in the winter it is a coal or wood range. The use of the Pennant Jr., means kitchen economy and convenience.

The simply constructed "Quick Meal" oil stoves and ovens shown attracted many visitors eager to learn how to simplify and economize fuel. With these stoves coal oil or gasoline may be burned. Half a cent an hour is the approximate cost to operate these stoves and the heat furnished will warm a room comfortably.

Messrs. R. G. Sturgeon Co., are also well known throughout this district as experts in heating and sanitation and water services having carried out important contracts for plumbing sewage disposal and water systems with entire satisfaction. The firm has devoted considerable attention to these systems for heating, water supply and sewage disposal in rural homes, schools and factories.

The Sturgeon Kawartha Water System was fully demonstrated at the Fair to appreciate county visitors This system gives to rural homes the same water pressure as enjoyed in cities or towns It is operated by either gasoline, hand or electric power, and its installation will give suburban residences and farms the convenience of bathrooms, shower baths, power, electric light, an fire protection. In conjunction with this water pressure R. G. Sturgeon & Co.'s sedimentation tank has been found a convenient and sanitary means of disposal of all sewage in a simple and affective manner.

R. G. Sturgeon & Co.'s place of business is 202 Charlotte street Peterborough, where all inquiries will receive prompt attention.

Backache only a Symptom

"It Seems as Though my Back Would Break."

This is a common expression among women, yet they toil on day after day heedless of the significance of this distressing symptom.

Backache is often a warning of some inward trouble that requires attention, and which unless relieved will sooner or later declare itself in more serious ailments.

If it is caused by female derangement Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is what you need. It quickly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women.

For more than thirty years this good old fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring women to health.

The Splendid Recovery of Mrs. Fleet

Brantford, Ont.—"I have been a user of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find there is nothing better for female troubles. I was taken sick with sharp pains in my right side and up over the hip to the back and the doctor said I would have to be operated on. I was in the hospital three weeks and did not get any better so I went home and took the Vegetable Compound. I stayed in bed three weeks more, then I was able to get up. Now I am all right and I have recommended your medicine to several friends and my daughter is taking it and all are pleased with the results from its use."

MRS. FRANK FLEET, Brantford, Ontario.

Mrs. Hunt tells how it helped her

Detroit, Mich.—"I was in a general run-down condition, was very nervous and tired, had backache and other troubles. I suffered for several years, was not able to work at times and tried doctor's medicine with no results. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, and after taking it a short time I was much better. I am still taking it myself and giving it to my daughter, and am glad to recommend Vegetable Compound at any time."—Mrs. M. E. Hunt, 171 Davison Ave.

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp, and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Voice Of The People

By the kind courtesy of the Editor of The Examiner:

Fellow sufferers from the Ontario Temperance Act, please to allow an out-and-out Total Prohibitionist to have a real friendly talk with you in all sincerity. Prohibitionist as I am, I have no difficulty in regarding you as perfectly honest, and as I have been giving good, even if unwelcome, counsel to Prohibitionists, allow me to offer some of same brand to you also. Many of my best friends are in your camp, and some of my nearest relatives have been right in your trade. In connection with my work I have been in as many bar rooms in a week as most Liberty League men have been in in a year, or maybe in a lifetime, and in all my travels I have never known a man in the business who was not much too good for his job.

I am a Prohibitionist down to the ground, and have been ever since I knew enough to answer back, and so I ought to know the prohibition mind pretty well, but the anti-prohibition mind is known to me much better, for the reason that I have had to deal with it a great deal more, and have taken more pains to understand it. You will not fly off the handle, I know, you will only be hugely amused when I ask you in all seriousness to vote for the Ontario Temperance Act, for the reason that it is the best thing in sight for your side. I know that it is reasonable to suppose that you would prefer to vote for something more favorable to your views, which is quite reasonable, but then so do the Prohibitionists and as neither of you can, under present conditions, get all you want, it is simply a matter of common sense to vote for the best thing in sight, and as far as you are concerned that is the O.T.A., as I hope to show you right now.

In your skillfully drafted advertisements you plead for sane legislation but, wisely, do not say just what sane legislation is. Well I take it that from your point of view sane legislation would be the kind that would enable the people of Ontario to do what they wish to do in regard to the common sale of alcoholic drinks and yet provided for you liberty to get some just as those who do not want it would be free from any obligation to provide you with facilities. You claim the right to have an alcoholic stimulant without having to be a law-breaker. Well and good. The total abstinence people claim the right to exercise their liberty in getting out of a business of which they do not approve. You know of course, that every preacher and Sunday school teacher and all the rest of the people who are, playfully, spoken of as being adicted to turning up the whites of their eyes, are shareholders in the liquor business so long as it is a source of revenue in the country, of which they are citizens and that they think it reasonable that they should not be compelled to continue in the business just as you think it reasonable that you should be compelled not to get what you want for your own use. The O.T.A. provides for you in that you may import what you want for yourself and allows the sale within the Province, of beers, etc, not quite as strong and you might desire, but a great deal stronger than the prohibitionists think should be sold. You want it just twice as strong and the Pros, want it just half as strong, or none at all, so the O.T.A. is actually the half-way house at which both parties may manage to meet with a moderate measure of advantage to both. In fighting this Act, you are allowing the Prohibitionists to appear in the eyes of the public as the reasonable people who are willing to give way in their demands for the public good, while you appear to be out for all that you want, so your present attitude seems to me to be wonderully poor policy.

If you win in this contest there is one thing certain, and that is, that you are in for such a fight with the Prohibition people as you have ever seen. They will put forward their full demand which is the total suppression of the traffic in alcoholic drinks, and as it has been put "Root, Trunk, Branch, Blossom and Fruit," and if the greater liberty that you win should be abused to any very great extent they will be able to put up a very fair case.

The local option contests that have taken place all over the country show that the people as a whole are strongly prohibitionist in their views especially in the rural communities, and you cannot be ignorant that the new Rural Community Movement and others of a like tendency, shows that the country people are not going to be "Like dumb, driven cattle," much longer. Just as soon as there is a general election we are going to see a large increase in the number of rural men in Parliament and these men will be hard to manage when it comes to a subject like this. If you defeat the O. T. A. at the referendum you will find that every candidate will have to declare himself a total Prohibitionist and that the women will make that their politics.

Speaking just as an individual, but one who has been taking notice of public events for forty years, and who has studied history with a view to knowing how and why things come about in human affairs, allow me to say that I judge that the O.T.A. is the best thing in sight for those who hold with the writers of the Liberty League for we prohibitionists are as a whole, going in for it so strongly that if it is sustained we practically lose our chance of getting anything stronger for years to come, unless, of course, it falls out that the personal liberty provided by it to you, to get something stronger than water, is grossly abused. Public opinion will crystalize over the referendum and after all it is public opinion that rules in a country like this. The most radical legislators cannot legislate much ahead of public opinion and make the law effective while the most reactionary cannot legislate without being put out of office.

I submit that if you defeat the Act at the Referendum you will lose more by it than we Prohibitionists for you will really be playing our game and in a very few years we shall have Canada as dry as a whistle. We can and we will put up such a fight as we have never put up yet and we think we know how to win.

Personally I like any law that permits the sale of any kind of intoxicating drink about as much as a kitten likes mustard. If you feel as I do that the O. T. A. is far from satisfactory, well, then do as I am going to do: Vote for it because it is the best thing in sight for you.

Submitted most respectfully, without any wish to do your thinking for you but in the hope that you will think over my thinking of your case.

JOHN GALT.

Dear Sir: I thank you for the valuable space given me in yesterday's issue of your paper. Will you allow me space to-day to add that prohibitionists do not want a one-sided victory. We wish to hear the voice of all the people. Whether citizens are for or against prohibition we wish to see their names on the voters' list and to see them record their votes. Some of us have tramped the streets of this city, footsore and weary, calling from house to house, that none might be overlooked.

When the Court of Revision opens on Thursday it will be a sad disappointment to us if any who are entitled to vote, and whose names we have handed in, are too indifferent to appear and have their names recorded. And what will be said of them "Ye knew your duty but ye did it not."

H. M. Manning.

CRUMBS—(Matt. 15:27.)

Helpless and weak to Thee I come,
Thou Ruler over all,
And fain wou'd gather up the crumbs
Which from Thy table fall.

Weary of wandering to and fro
Amid earth's din and strife,
To whom should I for succor go,
Thou hast eternal life.

To Thee, Oh blessed Lord, I come,
Oh, hear my humble prayer,
And if it be but one small crumb,
Let me Thy mercy share.

Great is thy faith, thy prayer is heard
Thou shalt rewarded be,
Be it according to thy word,
Thou hast prevailed with Me,
—J. H. Taylor.

The Editor of The Examiner

Sir:—The workingmen of Peterboro should not fail to hear Mayor McBride of Brantford, who is to speak in Peterboro on Friday evening, as Mr. McBride is certainly one of most successful men in handling municipal affairs in the Province of Ontario; he is a workingmans representative all the way; progressive, constructive, but not extreme. He is to speak on Extra Gratuity Pay for soldiers and how the finance can be met by the Government. This should interest all returned men. Also on the subject of co-operation between U. F. O. and I. L. P Mr. McBride is a very active member of the latter organization. The Independent Labor Party expect to have a straight I. L. P. candidate in Northern Ontario from Kenora to Sault St. Marie. In Cochrane the U. F. O. will support them. In St. Catherines a strong I. L. P. man is put up, and is solidly backed by the farmers. Owen Sound a monster demonstration was held at which 10,000 enthusiastic supporters were present in the Park. Also South Bruce is in the field with an independent candidate. So Peterboro workingmen, returned soldiers, all farmers, should come and fall in line with the rest of the Province. It is up to you workingmen and farmers to attend, listen and make up your minds.

the Pathephone is supreme

DOLLAR for dollar, you obtain more sound enjoyment and solid satisfaction out of a Pathephone than is possible out of any other musical instrument, and, in addition, the Pathephone, unlike most other phonographs, is a beautiful and correct piece of furniture. Remember that every plays all records, and plays them best, because of its wonderful all-wood tone chamber—because of its perfect tone-control device—because of its smooth, silent, powerful, long-running motor—because of its marvellously efficient and exclusive Pathe' sound-box. Best of all, of course, it plays Pathe' records—because with these you may utilize the Pathe' sapphire ball—by which scientific tests have proved forty per cent. more tone color is derived than from any other method of reproducing, and without in any way injuring the records. Four popular Pathe' designs are shown herewith.

Few People Know This

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

WEDDING BELLS

SMITH—HUDD.
In the presence of a large number of friends of the contracting parties, the wedding was solemnized by the Rev. F. E. Malott, at Trinity church, at 6 o'clock last evening, of Elsie Lavine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hudd, of Peasedown, St. John, Bath, England, and Mr. Harry Smith of this city.
The bride who arrived at the church on the arm of Mr. Frank Davey, wore a very pretty dress of pale blue silk crepe de chine with hat to match. She was attended by Miss Violet Hutchinson, who wore a very pretty dress of pink silk crepe de chine, with hat to match.
The groom was supported by Mr. Harry Kelsey.
Mr. Fred Hartshorn presided at the organ.
After the ceremony a reception took place at the home of the grooms parents, where a large number of friends sat down to a sumptuous breakfast.
Many beautiful gifts were received by the young couple testifying to the high esteem in which they were held.
Mr. and Mrs. Smith will spend a few days in Toronto and on their return will reside in this city.

HARRIS—HENDERSON.
At the All Saints' Church yesterday afternoon the wedding was quietly solemnized, Rev. R. B. Grobb officiating, of Sanford Tremayne Harris and Birdie Ann Susanna, only daughter of Jas. E. Henderson, both of this city. They were attended by Miss Hattie Duncan and Mr. Melville Harris. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will reside at 207 Perry Street.

Situation Is Still Serious

PUBLIC WILL BE FULLY INFORMED OF DEVELOPMENTS AT FIUME

MEN MUTINY

(United Press.)

ROME, Sept. 19.—"Calm and harmony" in dealing with the situation which Poet Gabriele D'Annunzio has created by occupying Fiume, were urged to-day by Premier Nitti. "The moment is grave," he said, "and it is improper to add difficulties to the situation by useless excitements." Nitti was speaking before the Chamber of Deputies. The reply of D'Annunzio to the proclamation that every soldier refusing to leave Fiume would be considered an enemy of Italy has been received here. "An infamous order worthy of a vile government," was the D'Annunzio's expression. He reiterated that he would defend Fiume to death. The City of Fiume is bedecked with flags, and placards are posted in prominent places bearing the inscription "Long Live King Victor Emmanuel." Italian citizens by about the streets wearing placards reading 'Fiume or death.' Admiral Casanova, aboard the "Dante Alighieri," hoisted his flag in a visible signal to his officers and men to rejoin the vessel and leave the harbor. They refused to obey, according to advices received here, and the Admiral has been unable to maintain discipline. Premier Nitti has promised the Chamber of Deputies that the government will keep the public fully informed of developments at Fiume.

The anti-government press has been attacking Nitti's restoration of the censorship, which members of parliament have regarded as unjustified because of the delicacy of the situation created by D'Annunzio.

However, we will be able to resume distribution to-morrow afternoon, and we feel we have sufficient on hand now so that everyone who desires a copy will be able to obtain it.

CORPUS CHRISTIE STORM MADE CLEAN SWEEP

Whole of Beach Houses Swept Out—23 Blocks Blotted Out.

(Canadian Press)

CORPUS CHRISTIE, Texas, Sept. 19.—Through the storm swept area or Corpus Christie are white stretches of sand and shell, where but Monday stood homes that had made this city of eighteen thousand a resort of national repute. Fifteen hundred homes stretching along the beach for twenty-three blocks, were crushed and hurled away or wrecked by the tidal wave which reached depths of fifteen feet in some places.

From Star street, where the business section on the beach terminated, to Reid street, every one of the hundred beach homes have been destroyed, most of them beyond recognition, while here and there a palm tree, hanging low, with its oil begrimed leaves, marks the spot of some fashionable shore place. Oil from shattered tanks at Port Arkansas coats everything, even to Pelicans along the shore, which are so burdened with oil they cannot fly.

NIGHT GANG NOW ON THE [illegible]

WORK SHOULD BE FINISHED THIS TIME NEXT YEAR

To speed up the building of the Hunter Street Bridge, a night gang of 60 men has been placed on from 8 o'clock in the evening until 6 in the morning. The new arrangement, which was commenced at the beginning of the week, has been found absolutely satisfactory. No new lights have been placed for the work, the men finding the present system of lighting satisfactory.

BULGARIANS RECEIVE PEACE TREATY TO-DAY

TREATY PROVIDES FOR READJUSTMENT OF BOUNDARIES AND AIMS TO PROMOTE THE PEACE OF THE BALKANS.

PREVIOUS TREATIES ARE RENOUNCED

United Press:

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Without any ceremony, the Bulgarians were handed the Peace Treaty at the French Foreign Office to-day. They were given forty-five days to make a reply.

T. Theodoroff, the Bulgarian Premier, and head of the peace delegation, made an address, in which he urged that mitigations be granted in the peace terms. The delivery of the treaty took place in the presence of a single representative of each Allied country and ten newspaper correspondents.

The readjustment of the frontiers, aiming to promote the peace of the Balkans and the recognition of a new State, form the leading feature of the Bulgarian treaty, which follows the Austrian treaty in general outline. The most important territorial changes provide, first, that Bulgaria modify her boundaries in four places in favour of Serbia, and second, that Western Thrace be ceded to the Allies for future disposition. The frontiers with Roumania and Greece remain practically unchanged. Other provisions of the treaty are that Bulgaria reduce her army to 20,000 men, pay a reparation bill of $450,000,000, and recognize the independence of Jugo-Slavia and renounce the treaties of Brest, Litovsk and Bucharest. The disposition of Western Thrace was the question which delayed the completion of the treaty, the American delegation [illegible] Bulgarian claim [illegible] Aegean Sea. Should settlement is made the Bulgarians, it is stated, will be granted an outlet to the Aegean Sea.

MANY DELAYS.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The treaty of peace between the Allied and Associated Powers and Bulgaria was presented to the Bulgarian mission this morning at 10.40 o'clock. After the delegates had assembled, Georges Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference, spoke briefly. He was followed by General Thodoroff, head of the Bulgarian mission.

Many delays have marked the consideration of the Bulgarian treaty. Work on the pact was begun on May 26, but negotiations with Germany and Austria prevented the Peace Conference from completing the convention until late this week.

The disposition of Thrace was the subject on which the Peace Conference was forced to spend most time in the preparation of the treaty. As it develops, this question has not been finally adjusted, but Thrace is to be excised from Bulgarian territory and left under the supervision of the principal Allied and Associated Powers, which will later announce their decision as to the future status of the country.

Theodoroff spoke for fifteen minutes, pleading that the Bulgarian people were not responsible for the war, but that the Bulgarian Government had thrown the country into the struggle. He realized, however, that the people must share the responsibility.

"They are willing to do so," he said, "but feel that in no way have they committed such crime as will compel them to accept servitude."

All twenty-seven Governments participating in the Conference, including Roumania, were represented.

Twenty-five days are allowed Bulgaria to present observations on the treaty terms.

The ceremony ended at 11 o'clock.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 19.— From information received from members of the Norris Government, it seems probable that the Government will enact legislation at the coming session for the establishment of Government liquor dispensaries throughout the province.

WORK FOR THE LOCAL POLICE

WILL INVESTIGATE FOOD PRICES IN RESTAURANTS

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—Two important announcements were made to-day by W. F. O'Connor, vice-chairman of the Canadian Board of Commerce. The first is that prices of all foodstuffs in restaurants will be the subject of an investigation. For this purpose the services of the local police and special officers will be enlisted. The other is that the order passed in Toronto prohibiting an increase in the price of milk for forty days is effective throughout the whole of the province.

WM PROUDFOOT DREW HIS PAY

$5,000 Was Received For One Session.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—"I do not [illegible] money [illegible] and was paid," said Mr. Wm. Proudfoot, former Leader of the Opposition in the Legislature of Ontario in reply to the address of Hartley Dewart at Durham yesterday. Mr. Dewart explained that he discovered that all of the $5,000 voted for the salary of the Leader of the Opposition had been drawn by Mr. Proudfoot. "It is perhaps hardly fair to say that this was just for the last session," added Mr. Proudfoot. "It was understood to be for all I had done while in the position."

TROOPS LEAVE MURMAN COAST

(Canadian Press.)

ARCHANGEL, Sept. 19.—The evacuation of the Archangel front by the British is proceeding as smoothly as could be expected in view of the formidable difficulties attending the operation. The difficulties have been enormously increased also by the fact that in addition to soldiers, thousands of civilians are being removed. Small raids against the Bolsheviki are being continued for the purpose of screening the movements of troops and keeping the Soviet forces guessing. A number of British troops are now here ready to embark. The men are in high spirits at the prospect of returning home.

NO TRACE OF THE TRAIN BANDITS

Wednesday Night's Robbery is Still Unsolved.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19.—No trace had been found to-day of the bandits who held up the eastbound train of the Canadian National Railway Wednesday night between Harlaka and Montmagny, 80 miles east of here. It is thought the robbers left the train at Montmagny, escaping in a motor car. A mud-stained automobile was seen making a great speed south of Montmagny early in the morning. An investigation was carried on here and at Montmagny and it was disclosed that nearly $100,000 was on the train. It is thought this sum may represent the robbers' loot, although the amount reported yesterday was $76,000.

WELL KNOWN SPORTSMAN DIES TO-DAY AT TORONTO

Mr. J. H. Burnham Proposes A Resolution Dealing With The Struggle For Existence

ANOTHER ILLUMINATING RESOLUTION APPEARS ON THE SAME ORDER PAPERS IN WHICH A MESSAGE-DESPATCH IS DECIPHERED FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE DEAR PUBLIC

HOUSE MAY APPOINT WHITEWASH SQUAD TO DEAL WITH THE MATTER

"Orders of the Day" for the Ottawa House of Parliament as issued yesterday, contains the following resolution proposed by Mr. J. H. Burnham:

No. 20.

September 16—Mr. Burnham—Proposed Resolution—That, in the opinion of this House, whereas the struggle for existence expresses itself largely in the cost of production and the cost of consumption, and whereas confusion and therefore injustice and unrest are developed by the constant struggle to maintain a due relative proportion between these two costs, it is desirable that this House should discuss the situation to the end that the scientific method may be applied to Canada to the struggle for existence, and whereas it is desirable that the directing head or Government of the nation should conduct itself and all business, according to the said method to the end that such order and success as attend, for example, the affairs of a department store, should be applied to the national business; therefore, be it resolved, that a definite plan of Government in this respect be laid before the people at the next General Election, and that a committee be appointed for that purpose.

No. 9.

September 2—Mr. McKenzie—Proposed Resolution—Whereas, the following telegram was despatched in code from Winnipeg by the Honourable Arthur Meighen, one of the Ministers of the Crown, to the Right Honourable Sir Robert L. Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, on [illegible] but the 30th November, 1917:

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY'S TELEGRAPH
Winnipeg, November 30, 1917.

Sir Robert L. Borden, Ottawa, Ont.

Duncan, Lodge, Osler, Tottering, spasm, weapons, avenged. Leaves (sacas Manitoba ordaining, work, towed, imaginative, fracas, Selkirk battle, dress, blamable, Provencher, MacDonald, antiquarianism, Springfield, Scarlatina, pruned, ordaining, drifting, nurtured, mentally, [illegible], paddock, amphibological, meretricious, belle.

Charge Union Government Committee.

Arthur Meighen.

and, whereas, the said telegram when deciphered reads as follows:

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY'S TELEGRAPH.
Winnipeg, November 30, 1917.

Sir. Robert Borden, Ottawa, Ont.

Would like [illegible] thousand soldier votes at large for Manitoba, of which 200 [illegible] dividing [illegible] Provencher, Marchand, [illegible] special [illegible] what [illegible]

Charge Union Government Committee.

Arthur Meighen.

and, whereas the said telegram indicates the existence of a widespread system of manipulation of votes, under the direction and with the approval of Ministers of the Crown, for the purpose of defeating the will of the Canadian people as expressed at the polls, and

Whereas, such scheme of manipulation involves not only the honour of the Ministers concerned, but the constitutional rights of the people;

Therefore, be it resolved that in the opinion of this House, a Parliamentary Committee should be chosen immediately for the purpose of investigating the matters expressed or implied in said telegram, and that the said committee be vested with all power and authority necessary for the purpose of said inquiry, including the right to summon witnesses and to cause to be produced all necessary papers and documents.

SOVIET LAYS HANDS ON RUSS LAWYER

Lawyer Vipper Prosecuted Jew—Now On Trial for Act.

(United Press.)

LONDON, September 19.—M. Vipper, the prosecuting attorney under the Czar's regime, who directed the prosecution several years ago of Mendel Beliss, Jew, charged with a hitual murder, is now on trial before a Soviet jury, it was reported here to-day in a wireless message from Moscow. Beiliss was accused of having killed a boy to obtain the latter's blood for a religious rite.

Jews in other countries defending Beiliss declared at the time that the prosecution was the result of anti-Semitic feeling.

FUNERAL TOOK PLACE TO-DAY

The funeral of the late Elizabeth Eleanor Thurton, beloved wife of Mr. J. J. Cocks, took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to Little Lake Cemetery. Service was conducted at the family residence by the Rev. James Rollins. The deceased was an active member of St. Andrew's Church, and her death will be regretted by a wide circle of friends.

Over 500 women are employed by the street railway companies in New York City.

DISTRICT MEETING WAS HELD TO-DAY

REV. A. J. THOMAS PRESIDED—BUSINESS TRANSACTED

Both sessions of the district meeting of the Peterboro District of the Methodist church were very largely attended. In the morning the financial meeting was held and arrangements for local programmes of church work were discussed. It was proposed to have Sunday School Institutes this fall.

Two resolutions of considerable importance were passed. It was resolved that the Peterboro District be allied to the Lord's Day Alliance and will give the movement their hearty support in maintaining all the principles it stands for. It was resolved unanimously to support the inter-church National campaign.

THE SPEAKERS.

The speakers this afternoon were Mr. W. B. Sparling of Lindsay, Rev. H. B. Kenny, Campbellford, Rev. W. B. Rogers, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and Dr. Burns of Toronto.

Rev. A. J. Thomas, M.A., B.D., presided at the meeting and Rev. J. F. Chapman, M.A., acted as secretary.

CHILDREN AT THE EXHIBITION

On Tuesday afternoon the 16th inst., eight children from the Children's Shelter had the enjoyable privilege of visitin gthe great Peterborough Exhibition. This was made possible (in the first place) through a number of boys who held a concert in the 'Homewood theatre,' the proceeds of same [illegible] they took to Mrs. Read, and then the Exhibition president granted free passes into the Fair. Mr. Ferguson kindly gave free passes on street car, and also the man in charge of the merry-go-round let them on at half price, so through the efforts of the boys the children were not only able to go to the Fair but they visited St. James' tent for a 20c lunch, merry-go-ground, ice cream cones and some candy.

MILK SCHEME FOR WINNIPEG

(Special to the Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 19.—Winnipeg ratepayers will vote on a by-law authorizing the expenditure of $400,000 on a municipal milk scheme at the civic elections on November 29th. The $600,000 to be asked for is, according to R. D. Hughes, Toronto expert, enough to establish and operate a full modern milk and milk product distribution plant. He recommends the city securing a monopoly by buying out two large existing companies.

HARMONY AT THE CONVENTION

LITTLE SPEECH-MAKING—WORK IN COMMITTEE

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—Unanimity in committee, and perfect harmony on the floor of the convention, marked today's proceedings of the National Industrial Conference. There was little speech-making, and the convention got down to the real business of putting their recommendations on record. The keynote of the proceedings can be gathered from the remarks of Fred. Welsh, of Vancouver, "While neither of us have got all we desire, we have nevertheless, through the spirit of co-operation of this conference, reached a decision that can be accepted by both sides, feeling that we have done our best to safeguard the interests of all parties—capital, labour and the community," said he.

Following the adoption of the report on proportional representation, the committee on joint industrial courts brought in the following unanimous report: "We therefore recommend that a bureau should be established by the Department of Labour of the Federal Government to gather data and furnish information whenever requested by employers and employees or organizations of employers and employees that whenever it is desired to voluntarily establish councils, the fullest assistance should be given by the bureau.

"Your committee is of the opinion that there is urgent necessity for greater co-operation between employer and employee. We believe that this co-operation can be furthered by the establishment of joint industrial councils. Your committee does not believe it wise or expedient to recommend any set plan for such councils."

The convention then adjourned to give the remaining committees an opportunity of completing their work before the afternoon session.

PROGRESS OF BABY CLINIC

At the regular monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women, held yesterday, it was unanimously decided to bring Mrs. Pankhurst to the city to speak, and a committee of Dr. Jessie Birnie, Mrs. F. C. Neal and Mrs. A. J. Thomas was appointed to look after arrangements for the hall and the subject upon which Mrs. Pankhurst will speak. The latter will be carefully investigated, as one member of the Local Council stated that she had been informed that Mrs. Pankhurst was speaking in the interests of the Liberty League. It was also decided to ask the Women's Voters' Leagues to consider asking Mrs. Ralph Smith, of British Columbia, to speak in the city.

Endorses Prohibition.

Without a dissenting voice a resolution was passed endorsing prohibition and urging every woman to vote no to all four questions on the ballot for the referendum. It was stated, amongst countless other arguments in favour of total prohibition, that the doctors in the city claim that since prohibition has been in force there are no poor people, and that all their patients are paying their way, whereas in other days they could not meet their bills.

Boom For Exhibition.

The question of the standard of side shows shown at the Exhibition Grounds was revived yesterday, when a letter in answer to one sent out by the Local Council to the secretary of the Exhibition, protesting against an attraction shown last July was read. Mr. F. J. A. Hall, the secretary, in answer to the letter, stated that the amusements came to the city highly recommended, and that directly the Board's attention had been drawn to the objectionable show, it had been suppressed. It was stated, however, that later attractions had been far from ideal, particular reference being made to one side show at the Industrial Exhibition, and the secretary of the Women's Council was instructed to write Mr. Hall, stating that there is still room for improvement, asking that something be done to forestall the class of amusements brought in before the youth of the city is allowed to attend.

Committee For Memorial.

On the reading of a letter from Mr. S. R. Armstrong, asking that the Council of Women send representatives to confer with a committee from the City Council as to what form the proposed memorial will take, Mrs. A. Mowat, Mrs. W. R. Morris and Mrs. A. Stevenson were appointed. In a short discussion as to what form the memorial might take, Mrs. F. Neal said she would like something useful rather than a stone memorial. Mrs.

Scott's Profession.

"What was Sir Walter Scott's profession?" asks Mr. Birrell. "Was it that of a man of letters who chanced to be called to the bar, or of a man of law who wrote the Waverley Novels?" The question will be a startling one to a number of people who were under the impression that they knew all about the novelist, and now find themselves quite unfamiliar with the lawyer. Mr. Birrell answers it, to his own complete satisfaction, by pointing out that Scott was called to the Scottish bar six years before "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" was written, and thirteen years before the first Waverley Novel appeared. From 1806 to 1830 Scott was a clerk in the Court of Sessions, which entailed almost daily attendance, while the court was sitting. Those who want to learn about Scott as a lawyer—in all he gave judgment in 114 cases—cannot do better than read what Mr. Chisholm has to say on this subject in his book, "Scott's Occasions in the Sheriff Court of Selkirk," just published.

Hospital for Birds.

A hospital for wild birds has been established and is maintained at Colorado Springs, Col., by Dr. W. W. Arnold, which consists of a commodious aviary in which there are constantly from 25 to 30 birds which have been disabled by coming in contact with wires and in other ways in the course of their migrations. Incidentally, the doctor is acquiring a fund of information about the habits of his feathered patients.

Valuable Nuts.

Pound for pound, walnuts, butternuts will receive the recognition that they equal in food value of a juicy steak, contain more protein (tissue building) food than white bread and but one-third less than eggs. In these days of food scarcity and high prices it is likely that the vast crop of native American nuts will receive the recognition that they deserve—

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous days poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleasing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real crank on the subject shortly. .

We In Parliament.

"If men promise something which is dishonorable at an election, the shameful thing is in keeping the promise and not in breaking it."—Lord Buckmaster.

"The landowner is regarded as an animal with a double dose of original sin from which his critics, by Almighty Providence, have been mercifully spared."—Major E. Wood, M.P.

"It is perhaps conceivable that there are wicked vendors who, when they sell land, desire to get a price which is high. It is just possible, too, that there are virtuous purchasers who, when they buy land, desire to pay a price which is low."—The Attorney-General.

"No jazz dance has such complicated steps as those which have to be pursued by a local authority which wants to buy land."—Major Barnes, M.P.

"All I know about Russia is that it is a place I do not want to go to."—Mr. M. Jones, M.P.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

SENTENCE HAS BEEN POSTPONED

TRAITOR WAS TO HAVE BEEN SHOT THIS MORNING

(United Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 19. —Pierre Lenocc, sentenced to death by court martial for complicity in the treason cases of Bolo Pasha and Charles Humbert, former French senator and proprietor of Le Journal, received a postponement of his execution to-day. Lenocc was to have been shot this morning. This request that authorities postpone his death was granted when he declared he wished to make sensational revelations which had not been brought out in his trial. Pierre Lenocc, a son of one of the leading advertising agents in France, was the principal owner of "Le Journal" in 1915, when Humbert was alleged to have purchased the paper with German money. Lenocc was charged with dealing with the enemy.

EAT LESS AND TAKE BITRO-PHOSPHATE TO PUT ON FLESH

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

Frederick S. Kolle, M.D., Editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says that weak, nervous people who want increased weight, strength and nerve-force, should take a 5-grain tablet of Bitro-Phosphate just before or during each meal.

This particular phosphate is the discovery of a famous French scientist and reports of remarkable results from its use have recently appeared in many medical journals.

If you do not feel well; if you tire easily; do not sleep well, or are too thin; go to any good druggist and get enough Bitro-Phosphate for a two weeks' supply—it costs only fifty cents a week.

Eat less; chew your food thoroughly, and if at the end of a few weeks you do not feel stronger and better than you have for months; if your nerves are not steadier; if you do not sleep better and have more vim, endurance and vitality, your money will be returned, and the Bitro-Phosphate will cost you nothing.

The average man thinks it is up to him to purchase a larger hat every time he has ten cents' worth of fame thrust upon him.

GRATUITY OPPONENTS WERE OMITTED

(Special to the Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—Two noticeable omissions from the Parliamentary committee of nineteen, appointed to consider soldiers' re-establishment are the names of Capt. (Dr.) Manion of Fort William and Major Redman of Calgary, who strongly opposed the $3,000 gratuity request in the Commons last week.

DE VALERA STILL ON WARPATH

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. — Calling the League of Nations "a trick of England," and saying that "England would be safer with Ireland free than under present conditions, Ramonn De Valera received a seven minute ovation at an address last night. Resolutions were adopted asking Congress to refuse further loans to Great Britain to carry on tyranny and oppression in Ireland. Recognition of Irelad as a republic was also asked.

Try Magnesia For Stomach Troubles

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomachs and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn, and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that, provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

Both France and England were forced to confer military rank on women in the medical service when the shortage of men physicians made it necessary to call large numbers of women to the service.

What's Wrong With Your Eyes?

DO you suffer from Headache? Do your eyes tire? It is a sign of overwork. Perhaps unconsciously, you strain your eyes. Good eyesight is not always strainless sight. Eyestrain with good vision is a most common and dangerous form of eye trouble.

DON'T tamper with the precious gift of eyesight. Heed natures call for help. Have your eyes examined. What you need is proper glasses. They work wonders for the eye and usually tone up the whole physical system. We have all the facilities for testing the eyes and fitting glasses. Why not see us about it. No charge for examination

THE "TIMES" MAY COME TO LIFE

TWO WELL KNOWN PUBLISHERS INTERESTED IN ITS PURCHASE

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 19.— There are evidences to-day that the Toronto "Times," which suspended publication two weeks ago, may shortly resume publication under a new ownership. Two well known publishers interested in its purchase are here to-day, B. A. McNab of Montreal, who is said to have the backing of an important railway corporation, and W. F. Herman, of Saskatoon, publisher of the Saskatoon 'Star,' Regina 'Post' and the 'Border Cities Star,' Windsor; Knox Magee, until a week ago editor of the Winnipeg Telegram, is also reported to be a prospective purchaser in the interests of a powerful Conservative group of capitalists, headed by Hon. Robt. Rogers. It is understood that $75,000 is promised for the plant and all the good will of the newspaper.

Where there is a will there are usually a lot of lawyers in the way.

NOT VERY CONSISTENT.

Hon. N. W. Rowell complains that Hon. Chas. Murphy, M. P., made an attack upon him while he was ill and unable to be present in the House. The President of the Privy Council is, however, not very consistent in his attitude, inasmuch as he waited eighteen months to make his reply and then chose a time when Mr. Murphy was out of the country. Mr. Rowell's address was hardly worthy of eighteen months' preparation and there seems no reason why it could not have been held over until Mr. Murphy was back in his place in the House. At least Mr. Rowell need not debate any further upon discourtesy on the part of his political opponents.

WHY THE DELAY?

The date of the referendum vote is only a month away and still the people of Ontario are left in doubt as to whether or not the Provincial elections will take place on the same day. The different parties seem to be preparing for an election, but Sir William Hearst continues to keep the date of the appeal to the country a mystery. What political advantage he hopes to gain for himself or his party by this policy is difficult to see, but nevertheless the Premier remains silent. It is said that many of his own candidates are pressing for an announcement. They have business of their own to attend to and under the present conditions are all at sea. This is true indeed, of all the candidates. If the election is not to take place until next year a declaration to this effect by the Premier would settle the present confusion. On the other hand if the contest is to take place next month it is high time that the people were officially informed of the fact. There is no justification for the existing situation, the blame for which must be entirely borne by the Government.

BACK TO OLD TIME.

Daylight saving comes to an end in Peterborough at midnight Sunday night, Mayor Duncan having issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens to observe the change and to turn thier time pieces back one hour to standard time. People should, however, understand that although Peterborough returns to the old time on Sunday night, the railways will continue to operate on daylight saving time until the new system comes to an end in the United States. Beginning on Monday train time will be an hour earlier than Peterborough time, a very important point to remember for the next few weeks.

The difference will be an inconvenience for many citizens, but there will be little complaint about the Council's decision to go back to standard time. The daylight saving method is a splendid thing during the summer months, but the middle of September is quite late enough to terminate the system. Unless adopted by urban centres on their own initiative next summer, it is likely that the daylight saving scheme will not be in operation again. The United States has killed the system, and as their railways will operate on standard time, the Canadain lines in order to avoid confusion in connections at the border, will have to follow their example.

TOWN PLANNING.

A city must, first of all, be a place where its inhabitants pursue their gain-getting activities; it is the sphere of their daily labours, whereby they earn the means to live. But, if it be nothing more than this — and some manufacturing towns, unfortunately, are little else— it fails to fulfil the functions of a city; it is nothing but a sort of permanent camp lacking the true qualities of a home. Men desire not only to live, but to live in bodily health, to have wholesome recreation to improve their minds and characters, to strive upwards after beauty, truth, and goodness. The city must be a place where the best yearnings of the human soul are not warped or tainted, but where they find a nourishing and congenial soil. A city that provides environment for the social and spiritual needs of its citizens wins thir sentimental attachment, it becomes their "home," of which they are justly proud and for which they conceive a strong municipal patriotism.

City planning is, then, the expression of a complex idea, an expression which cannot be the work of one man nor of the men of one profession, but which must be participated in by all the citizens. The city planner supplies the basis on which the community, all and severally, must rear the superstructure. City planning may improve the facilities for business, but cannot make the business successfuly; it may instal the most up-to-date sanitary systems, but cannot make persons cleanly in their habits; it may provide safeguards against accident, but cannot give people caution; it may lay out beautiful parks and well-equipped playgrounds, but cannot instil an appreciation of the beauties of nature nor teach the art of rational recreation; it may reserve splendid situations for imposing public buildings, but cannot ensure that a government will be honest, efficient and wise. City planning deals only with externals; the moving spirit must come from the citizens.

It is true, of course, that organized planning is impossible in a city that has not already reached a certain degree of public virtue, and it also true that an improvement in environment, once its value is demonstrated, may make more easy the exercise of that virtue. Yet it must not be supposed that city planning is going to work wonders without perseverance and self-control, a conscious, sustained and general effort to secure improvement; its good results cannot be achieved by simply calling in a board of experts and setting them to work, but require the loyal co-operation of every member of the community.—Conservation.

THE CURRY CHARGES.

"I charge that the Government of the Province of Ontario in power at that time (1905-6, knew that there were combinations in restraint of trade, in respect to every article that went into a man's house or into the household, and that there was sufficient influence brought to bear to cause the Government to desire the prosecutions to end, and the prosecutions did end with my resignation."

This is one of the charges against the Conservative administration in Ontario made by J. W. Curry, K. C., former Crown Attorney for Toronto. It is a serious allegation, only equalled by Mr. Curry's other inference that the Attorney General's Department of the present day is responsible for the unhindered continuance of profiteering in Ontario. No doubt the Government will attempt to brush he Curry arrangement to one side by calling it "ancient history." The point, however, is that the conditions he complains of him as interfering with his work fourteen years ago are are still in existence. No improvement has been shown and the Attorney General's Department is just as lethargic in 1919 as it was in 1905. As Mr. Curry points out, nearly every article that enters the homes of Ontario has been the subject of combinations and profiteering. The accuser of the Ontario Government knows his facts; he was not speaking of matters about which he had nothing but hearsay information. He tells the people of the Province that when he endeavored to break up the combinations that he knew existed there were sufficient influences brought to bear to stop the prosecution and accordingly he was compelled to resign. "From that day," declares the former Crown Attorney "the combinations went on just the same up to the present time, until I believe they are getting bolder and bolder as highwaymen always do."

The people of Ontario will wait with more than the interest they usually accord Hon. I. B. Lucas and his statements for an answer from the Attorney General of Ontario.

Baby Clinic.

Dr. Jessie Birnie gave a brief report of the progress the proposed Baby Clinic has made, and said that, with $50 which the Business Girls' Club have donated, the funds for the Clinic are now $490. The committee of doctors, Doctors Amys, Mann and Kelly, who were appointed from the Medical Association to look into the matter, is considering what may best be done toward the proposed Clinic.

A Protest.

Miss Lancaster urged that a protest be made by the Local Council of Women against the high - handed legislature which prevents the delivering of mail on Saturday afternoons, leaving the population without mail from Saturday morning until Monday, and in case a Monday holiday until Tuesday. Something, she said, should be done to enable the people to get mail on the holidays. She also protested against the fact that the receiving stamp which is supplied is never used on the letters received in the Post Office. No action was taken in connection with the matter yesterday.

A National Problem Solved

Pure, Wholesome Food + Nujol = Health

PURE, wholesome food is necessary, but it is not enough. The purest, most wholesome food will hinder rather than help health if allowed to clog the colon—the large intestine. And doctors agree that about 90% of our ailments are caused or intensified by constipation.

Some part of even the purest and most wholesome food is waste. If this waste is not kept moving out of the body, it stagnates and breeds poisons which saturate the system and cause or nourish disease.

The old, wrong way to attack such stagnation was to force a passage through the impacted mass.

The new, right way to overcome it is to let Nujol induce easy self-elimination.

And since health is as much a matter of how we eliminate waste as how we assimilate food-fuel, it must become evident to every thinking person that the use of a natural, drugless lubricant is as sensible and necessary as the eating of pure, wholesome food.

The three vital processes upon which health is based are Mastication, Assimilation, Elimination.

Therefore, the perfect recipe for health is thorough Mastication; Pure, wholesome Food, and Nujol.

Try this trinity. Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist to-day.

For valuable health booklet—"Thirty Feet of Danger"—free, write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) 50 B'way, N. Y.

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may refer them to physicians. "Regular as Clockwork"

A FULL CONFESSION

CHAPTER LXX

"Will you remain to dinner with me?" I asked, as I returned to my guest. "Mr. Forbes is not able to come home. He had to dine with some out of town men. We will order the car and take a drive through the park, so that you will not be bored." Disregarding my invitation Mr. Frederick asked:

"Does this woman whom you said your husband visited with his out-of-town customers, or clientele, live with her husband? Has she one?"

"Her husband died a short time ago. She is received — to a certain extent in good society although she always has been very unconventional

"You aren't—jealous of her?" he asked the question haltingly, not looking at me.

"No, and yes.—I am not really jealous as one usually thinks of jealousy ,yet I AM jealous that he spends his time per.

"I see. Well I do not think I shall accept your invitation to dinner tonight. I will hunt up Forbes and see if I can't trail along with his outfit. Excuse my expression, but I too am Western, you know. I will drive with you, then go to his office Perhaps you will let me telephone him."

"Certainly." The door was open, Mr Frederick talked rather loudly, so I could not help overhearing his conversation with Neil who came to the telephone at once.

"Hello, this is Frederick. Are you going to be disengaged this evening —I see!—anyone I know—you don't say—why yes, if you are sure I won't be butting in At the club—six-thirty—yes, that suits me—I'll be prompt. Good bye. Not one word about being with me.

"Nothing like fishing," he laughed as he returned "Forbes bit!"

"I have something else to tell you I did something while Neil was away that angered him. I haven't had time to tell him just why I did it; that it was no lack of faith in him that urged me on, but a wish to set him right before my friends, and his—or those who pretend to be friendly to him. I went down to his office to see if I couldn't find something to refute what I thought, still think were lies. His private office was locked, and so of course I failed. I told him I had gone down there, and my reason,—as far as he would let me But he was very angry."

"I don't really wonder. You see I am honest with you. No man wants anyone, even his wife, rummaging among his business papers. It would cause most men to lose their tempers if it were done"

"You also blame me?"

"Yes. You should have waited and told him what you had heard, and given him a chance to explain or not as he chose."

"But I couldn't bear to wait, Mr. Powers told Lorraine's father not to put any money into his, Neil's schemes, warned him that he would lose it if he did, adding that he, Neil was doing crooked work.

"Powers—um—that's too bad He's a pretty big man, not a narrow one either."

"Yes, and I so wanted Mrs. Powers to be at my affairs."

"Um—I see —A wheel within a wheel. That was why your friend advised you to give up the idea of doing the society act at present?"

"Yes—I am so mortified."

"Had you sent out invitations?"

"No—but intended to this week."

"Don't!" Then: "I don't know much about society, but I know you and I don' want you to be hurt. If Powers is slamming your husband, be sure Mrs. Powers will slam you. Just put off this party idea until I have had a look in and see what I can do—if anything, to set Forbes right. He probably has been foolish and given people some cause to talk. I shall know more after I have dined with that bunch to-night."

"Are they going to Mrs. Orton's?"

"I judge they may be going to as your husband told me meet him at the club Now don't worry. I guess on second thought I won't drive with you I might make it convenient to have business with Powers before night. You go and try not to worry. Your big brother has it in charge. Be sure I shall find some way to help you if it is possible."

"I know you will," I replied, walking to the door with him, already happier. I had at least shifted my load upon broad shoulders.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR WEEK

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES—Psalms 19:7-14; 119:9-0; 97:165; Acts 17:10-12; 2 Tim. 3:14-17; Heb. 1:1, 2.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path, Ps. 119:105.

1. Psalms 19:7, 8. How did God reveal his law, his testimony, his statutes and his commandments, words that practically mean the same?

2. What are the general effects of observing God's revealed words?

3. When Moses and other men received a revelation from God, and published it, what proof did the people then, and now have of its authenticity?

4. How does the reading of the Bible impart wisdom to the head purity to the heart and vision for the future?

5. Psalm 19:9. What is the meaning of the phrase "the fear of the Lord," and what does it result in?

6. Verse 10. Why is it that an obedient knowledge of God's will gives more satisfaction than all the treasures of earth? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

7. Psalm 19:11. What are the chief warnings of the Bible that we do not get from any other source?

8. What are the chief rewards that we get in keeping God's commandments?

9. Psalm 119:9. What is the Bible plan for keeping our hearts pure?

13. Psalm 119:10-12. If a man serves God with less ardor than his "whole heart" what will the result likely be?

14. To what extent is it necessary for us to study and heed the Bible if we would live successful lives?

15. Psalm 119:13-16. To what extent is it our duty and privilege to habitually tell others what we know about God's will?

16. Psalm 119:97. If we do not love to know the will of God more than all beside what are we in danger of?

17. Psalm 119:165. What is the evidence that those who absolutely love the will of God are never upset or perturbed?

18. Acts 17:10-12. In view of the fact that the Bible is admitted to be the highest authority on life and morals, why is it not actually wicked to keep it from being in the public schools?

19. 2 Tim. 3:14-17. Notwithstanding all our Sunday School effort there is lamentable ignorance of the Bible; what more can be done to increase its study?

20. Heb. 1:1, 2. What has been, and what is to-day, the influence of the study of the Bible, and the words of Jesus upon human progress?

21. What evidence is there against or for the belief that God still reveals his will direct, to individuals as in the past?

Lesson for Sunday, Sept. 28, 1919. Review: Jesus our Savior and King. Selection for reading: Matt. 21:1-9; 15, 16.

RECORD OF FORGETFUL BRIDEGROOMS FREES ANOTHER.

London. — John Landsdowne, a clerk, under arrest on complaint of his bride-to-be for forgetting to show up for the marriage ceremony was freed by a local magistrate, who declared:

"Many famous men have had memories in regard to the same subject. The Rev. George Harvest was to have been married to the daughter of Bishop Compton, of London, but on the morning fixed for the ceremony he forgot all about it and went fishing. M. Pasteur, the scientist, was so absorbed in his work on the day of his marriage that he kept his bride waiting an hour at the altar without putting in his appearance.

"After Thomas Edison's wedding he returned to his workshop and entirely forgot his newly-made wife for 48 hours. When John Kemble, the great tragedian, was married, he returned to the stage a few hours after the ceremony. After the show he went to his bachelor apartment, forgetting what had happened to him on the fateful day."

Catching the spirit of the economy wave sweeping over Great Britain under the impetus of Premier Lloyd George, Queen Alexandra has dispensed with the services of two of the three police chauffeurs assigned to her by Scotland Yard.

Two Splendid Things

One is plenty of open-air exercise.

If you can't get all of that you should, it's all the more important that you should have the other tried-and-true remedy for a torpid liver and bowels that don't act freely and naturally.

Take one pill every night; more only when you're sure it's necessary.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvelously beautiful hair, which, when loosened from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture and in colour a glorious, glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said:

"Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in colour, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics, but they never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well-known physician. It is said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Composee and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it and had my druggist mix 2 ounces of the Lavona de Composee with 6 oz. of Bay Rum and 1-2 dr. of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My how quickly my hair did grow. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet and, while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it ,at least until my hair reaches the floor, I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it."

Those who use it should be careful not to get it on the face or where they

A Sweet Full Tone

The sound chamber of the CORNA is a marvelous piece of all wood-work. This is where those delicate perfectly modulated notes are given full volume and resonance, and their proper value. This chamber is also reponsible for that very natural and unmechanical rendition of all record music which is such a joy of the CORNA and places it in so high a position among phonographs. Judge it for yourself by hearing it at our store. We are sole agents.

IT COSTS NO MORE TO DRESS WELL

NO more, in fact, than to dress otherwise. It all depends upon WHOSE clothes you buy. There are GOOD reasons why

Merrell & Meredith's

20th Century Stylish Suits and Overcoats for this Fall are being chosen by young and old men who always dress well—in an M. & M. Suit or Coat they know they are attired in perfect taste, that their money has been well spent, and they have no disturbing "after regrets."

20th Century Clothes are quality garments, embodying workmanship of the highest order and materials with no "guess" in them. The full styles are ready for your inspection.

THE FIREMAN without a hose

FLAMES in a great tenement imprisoned scores of persons in the appartments above. The Fire-chief ordered a hose played on the blaze. His men jumped to obey. Their wagon was empty. The hose was missing.

A missing word is a missing tool. The man who can't express his thoughts can't convey his ideas. If you don't know words, and how to use them, you are as bad off in business or society as a fireman at a fire without a hose. What chance would you stand against the fires of competition if you could neither write nor speak?

You must keep apace with the language to keep up with the world. Education today is progressive—not confined to yesterday's language and activities. War and new discoveries have brought into general and proper use so many new words that all dictionaries published before this year are wholly out of date. The

C.P.R.'S NEW RECORD

The re-employment of returned soldiers has been carried out by the C.P.R. so whole-heartedly that according to the official records up to the end of August, actually more returned soldiers have been given employment than left the Company for service overseas. The exact figures are as follows:—

Total reported as joining the Army	10,536
Dead	1,000
Wounded	1,953
Re-employed in the service	6,024
Other soldiers given employment	5,543
Total soldiers given employment to date	10,567

In finding employment for returned soldiers, the C.P.R. has found by experience that in most cases it is advisable to reinstate them in the same department as that in which they worked previous to enlistment. The freight handler who has ambitions to become a dining car waiter is not encouraged to change his vocation unless he can prove that he learned something about waiting, for instance, at an Officers' mess during his military life. His military experience has probably made him a better man than before for handling freight but has not qualified him for the skilled trade of a dining car waiter. Baggage men who have served in the Army come back as a rule all the better for their experience, but the Army training has not qualified them to be sleeping car conductors or ticket clerks, and if they prove to be misfits at a new job the only result is friction and discontent. The general experience, however, is that the normal returned man who goes back to his old or a similar job is all right, indeed is often improved by the discipline and teamwork which he has learnt in the Army.

The policy of the C.P.R. has been to find a position at least as good as the position given up, and this policy has been carried out in the higher ranks of the service as well as in the lower ranks. Thus:

Mr. T. S. Acheson who was employed as General Agricultural Agent at Winnipeg, enlisted in October 1915, was re-employed in the same capacity on January 1st, 1919.

Mr. G. W. Curtis, who was employed as Industrial Agent at Montreal, enlisted in November 1916, was re-employed January 1st, 1919 in the same capacity.

Mr. M. L. Duffy, who was Chief Clerk, Freight Department, at London, England, enlisted October 1914, was re-employed March 1st, 1919 as Agent at Glasgow.

Mr. F. A. L. Gascoigne, who was Superintendent Car Service, Montreal, enlisted July 1915, resumed duty as Secretary Treasurer of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services Ltd., Montreal, in October 1918.

Mr. Gerald Hiam, who was District Freight Agent at Fort William, enlisted in June 1915, and returned to duty on March 15th, 1919, as District Freight Agent, at Cleveland.

Mr. W. M. Kirkpatrick, who was Assistant Freight Traffic Manager, at Montreal, and enlisted in September 1915, resumed duty on February, 1st 1919, as Assistant Freight Traffic Manager at Winnipeg.

Mr. T. M. Leask, who was Chief Surgeon at Moose Jaw, enlisted in February 1916, and resumed duty as Chief Medical Officer at Moose Jaw on June 1st, 1919.

Mr. B. H. Muckleston, who was Division Engineer in the Natural Resources Department at Calgary, enlisted in April 1916, and resumed duty as Division Engineer on March 17th, 1919.

Mr. G. G. Ommanney, who was Special Assistant Engineer at Montreal enlisted in August 1916, and resumed duty in July 1919, as Assistant Engineer in the Chief Engineer's Department at Montreal.

Mr. L. C. Ord, who was Assistant Works Manager at Angus Shops, Montreal, enlisted in September 1915, and resumed duty in the same capacity in May 1919.

Mr. C. W. P. Ramsey, who was Engineer of Construction, Montreal, and who took command of the Canadian Overseas Railway Construction Corps in February 1915, resumed duty as Relieving Superintendent on Eastern Lines in March 1919.

Mr. M. J. Robertson, who was Assistant to the Manager of the C.P.R. Real Estate Department, Montreal, enlisted in June 1916, and returned to duty in his former position in March 1919.

Mr. H. B. Yewdall, who was Purchasing Agent in the C.P.R. Right of Way Department at Winnipeg, enlisted in November 1914, and resumed his former position in June 1919.

CAR TRIED TO CLIMB A TREE.

Lost a Front Wheel in the Attempt.

At 10.30 this morning a car driven by Mr. W. F. Turner crashed into the curb in front of the residence of Dr. T. N. Greer, corner of Aylmer and Simcoe streets.

The front wheel on the right hand side was broken off at the axle by the impact.

Mr. Turner was driving west on Simcoe street and attempted to turn south on Aylmer but the turn made was too wide with the result that the car after smashing into the curb precipitated itself on the sidewalk.

No one was hurt and Mr. Turner adjusted the damage by placing another wheel on the axle.

BOBCAYGEON VISITORS LIKED THE PETERBORO' EXHIBITION

A LARGE PARTY TOOK IN THE BOAT TRIP--WHAT THEY HAVE TO SAY

BOBCAYGEON, Sept. 17. — The Peterborough Board of Trade advertised a round trip excursion via steamer Stoney Lake to Chemong and automobile to Peterborough Fair for fifty cents, and being in line for the worth of the money, we, with some two score or so of 'Caygeonites, took in the trip to the Lift Lock City and saw the city and the Fair. We were assured uptown that the Fair this year was the best ever, but when we asked one of the managers on the grounds, he informed us they always had a good Fair, and we agreed. The city and county take a pride in it. The grounds were handsomely decorated. The exhibits were fine. The horticulture display sent one into ecstacy. The stock pens of sheep, pigs, horses and cattle were all filled to overflowing, among which was Mr. James Seymour's famous Holsteins, with their records tacked up of 100 pounds of milk a day and over 14,000 pounds in six months and a half. The machinery and agricultural implements and automobiles exhibit was fair, and while the midway and the ring seemed to be the chief attraction, where you had all sorts of bargains offered for a dime, yet thoughtful people soon hiked along to leave the fortune-tellers and the glass balls and the two-dollar bill man behind, while they saw the part more in keeping with agriculture. During the afternoon the school children sang in competition and an aeroplane hovered over the grounds at frequent intervals. It was a fine all round Fair, good grounds, a fine day and a fine crowd.

His Worship Mayor McLean of Lindsay, wired Ottawa and received permission to change the post office clock back to standard time. The post office hours so far as the despatch and receipt of mails is concerned, however, will be the same as railway time.

NORWOOD SCHOOL'S SPLENDID SHOWING

100 P.C. Candidates from High School Secured Standing.— Additinal Results Annouced.

Four more students of the Norwood High school have received word from the Dept. of Education of their successful completion of the Junior Matriculation course, viz.:

Reba Squire
Jean Minore
Everett Finlay
Andrew McGee

Candidates from the Norwood High school attained remarkable success at the Departmental Examinations this summer, in that one hundred per cent. in both Normal Entrance and Matriculation received honor or pass standing. In a couple of instances the successful candidate was starred in one subject, which may be written off at any time, but does not interfere with the standing secured on all the other subjects written on.

The same staff of teachers, Principal Lawlor and Misses Gillies and Sangster, will have charge of the work again this year, so that there is little doubt that Norwood school will continue to occupy first place amongst the schools of the province.

It is interesting to note that excellent work was also accomplished in the Norwood Public school last term, when a high percentage of the Entrance pupils were successful. This percentage was recently added to by the granting of an appeal for another of the scholars.

HEAVY GRAIN SHIPMENTS FROM WESTERN PROVINCES

OVER SIX THOUSAND CARLOADS MOVED OVER THE C P R. IN TWO WEEKS

(Special to the Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 19.—The movement of grain towards Winnipeg this fall beats all rapid records, it was reported by railway officials to-day. According to officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the greater part of the grain will be out before navigation closes. Terminals are working overtime to handle the sudden influx of grain from the western provinces, the officials said. As an example of the movement figures from Sept. 1 to 17 were given. This year in that period 6,563 carloads of grain were sent out of Manitoba over the C.P.R., compared with 2,296 for the same period last year. One reason for the heavy movement is that the grain began to move three weeks earlier than in 1918. Plenty of harvest hands have facilitated the early harvesting of crops. Officials stated that there were plenty of rolling stock to handle the movement and that the terminals at Fort William and Port Arthur were prepared to handle any increase in the rush that was possible. Heavy rains have caused considerable delay recently in the loading of cars and in threshing.

PREPARED TO CLOSE PLANTS IF MEN STRIKE

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Steel plants in the Chicago district will be closed if the workers strike Monday, officials stated to-day. No efforts will be made to use strike breakers it was said. Plans to this effect were being worked out to-day by corporation officials. They believe it would tend to prevent possible bloodshed. A canvas of the Gary, Ind., plants, however, by officials of the company, showed that 8,302 out of 10,126 men interviewed, expressed the opinion that they would remain at work and not walk out on Monday.

"TELL THEM TO SEE ME" HE SAYS

WANTS EVERYBODY TO KNOW WHAT TANLAC DID FOR HIM—GAINS 30 POUNDS

"I don't believe there's any medicine on earth can equal this Tanlac," recently declared F. J. Richardson, a well-known switchman on the Rock Island, living at 50 South Fifteenth Street, Kansas City, Mo.

"I've gained thirty-seven pounds since taking it and I feel stronger than I have for many years," he continued. "I suffered for a long time from stomach trouble and indigestion, and I tell you I sure had a time of it. I didn't have any appetite, and what little I did force myself to eat would sour and form gas that would get up around my heart and smother me so I could hardly get my breath. I had terrible headaches and dizzy spells every now and then, and I had such a pain across the small of my back that it was all I could do to get up, when I sat down. I just couldn't get a good night's rest, and I lost a lot of time from work on account of the way I felt. Of course I took a lot of medicine, but no matter what it was, nothing did me any good.

"A few weeks ago I decided to try Tanlac, and I hadn't taken one bottle when I began getting hungry, and then I found what I ate didn't sour and form gas any more. Now, I'm eating anything I want, and never suffer from indigestion. I sleep sound all night long, and get up in the morning feeling like a two-year-old and ready to tackle any kind of work. Yes, sir, I sure do think a lot of Tanlac. I've recommended it to several of my friends, and whenever they have given it a fair trial, it's benefited them just the same as me. As far as my own case is concerned, if anybody doubts what I say, just tell them to come to see me and I'll prove what Tanlac has done."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Limited; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Bringle & Son.

STATES WILL HAVE EQUAL VOTING POWER

WILSON DECLARATION WILL BE USED BY OPPONENTS AS AMMUNITION

United Press:

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 19.—President Wilson's assurance that Great Britain will have no more voting power in the League of Nations than the United States knocks the last prop from under the supporters of the Johnson amendment to the covenant, league supporters in the Senate declared to-day. Its opponents with equal assurance regarded the President's statement on this point at San Francisco yesterday as ammunition for themselves. They intend to use it, they say, to show that an effort is being made to mislead the people. The President's statement, coming on the move of the beginning of the decisive fight in the Senate on this amendment, it was regarded as certain to-day that Senator Hitchcock will move next week that the amendment be taken up. It was passed over when the reading of the treaty began Tuesday. The amendment provides that the voting strength of the United States shall equal that of any other nation, including itself, governing colonies, dominions and parts of the Empire. Senator Borah, who has summoned its author, Senator Johnson, from his stumping tour, declared that he and Johnson, as well as other Senators, will debate the question several days, after a conference with Lodge. Borah said no definite programme has been mapped out for the Senate procedure. The impression was left, however, that Lodge expects Borah and Johnson to be the aggressors in the fight on the amendments so he may continue his efforts to unite the still divided faction of the party on reservations.

UNION LEADERS CLAIM MEN WILL STRIKE MONDAY

(United Press.)

BUFFALO, Sept. 19.—Union leaders to-day claimed that between 18,000 and 20,000 men employed in the steel plants in Buffalo and Lackawanna city, will quit work on Monday, the day set for the country wide strike of steel workers.

POULTRY SELLING AT LOWER PRICES

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Poultry at 28 cents a pound was on sale in New York to-day. The meat part of the army surplus was to be sold through 3,000 New York butchers. Alleged sale here of packers' poultry at prices as low as 28 cents a lb., it was at first feared, might interfere with the sale of the Government supplies.

MURRAY STREET CHOIR BANQUTE

REV. J. R. WEBB GAVE A SHORT ADDRESS—OFFICERS ELECTED

After the regular practice last night the choir of Murray street Baptist Church were regaled at a banquet in the basement in honour of Mr. Douglas Carlisle, the new leader. Mr. C. S. Browne, M. A., the President of the choir acted as master of ceremonies and gave the choir some very practical advice with regard to co-operating with the new leader. Short addresses of welcome were given by Rev. J. R. Webb on behalf of the church Mr. Joseph Wearing on behalf of the Music Committee and Miss Florence Scott on behalf of the choir. Mr. Wearing also spoke of the splendid work done by Mr. Huycke and voiced the appreciation of the Music Committee and the church generally for his services. A letter from Mr. Huycke was read in which he thanked the choir for their co-operation with him and promised to assist the new leader and the choir in every way possible.

The officers for the year were elected as follows: President, C. S. Browne, Vice-President, Miss Florence Scott, Secretary, Mr. Leo Smith, Treasurer, Miss Ethel Eagleson, Chairman of Social Committee John Jary, Librarian Cecil Lapp.

FIVE YEARS FOR A DRONE

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 19.—On a charge of manslaughter, Neil C. Coutts, of Toronto, was sentenced at the Fall Assizes here yesterday to five years in the Provincial Penitentiary. At first Coutts was charged with the murder of William Limbach at Ayton on July 28 last, but yesterday morning the plea of not guilty to the charge of murder was withdrawn, and a plea of guilty to a charge of manslaughter substituted. This action was taken after a conference between the counsel for the accused, the Crown counsel and the Judge.

HARVEST FESTIVAL ST. JOHN'S CHURCH LAST EVENING

CHURCH BEAUTIFULLY DECORATED —SERMON BY CANON PLUMPTRE

A large congregation attended the annual Thanksgiving Harvest Festival held in St. John's Anglican Church last evening. The church was decorated with the products of the field, and sprays of wheat decorated each pew. In the words of Rev Dean Alford, who wrote in 1844,

"Come, ye thankful people, come,
Raise the song of harvest home,
All is safely gathered in,
Ere the winter storms begin."

Rev. Canon Plumptre, of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, one of the most widely known of the Anglican clergy, preached an eloquent sermon and suggested lines of action for the Forward Movement which is now taking place in the Church of England as well as the other Protestant denominations.

The subject of his discourse was taken from the 50th Psalm, 14th verse, "Offer unto God thanksgiving: and pay thy vows unto the most high"; and from the 116th Psalm, 12th and 13th verses, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?" "I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord."

Three Yearly Feasts.

Canon Plumptre stated that the Jews were a people greatly given to thanksgiving. They had three great yearly feasts besides numerous others. One thing that we have dropped, and that is the making of vows to God. In the old days these vows were usually made in times of stress and anxiety. The Canon mentioned the time when Jacob, on the way to seek a wife, lay on the ground with a stone for a pillow and vowed that if the Lord would bring him back to his native land, that the Lord Jehovah would be his God. The Lord brought him home, and Jacob fulfilled his vow. The early Christians made vows like the Jews, but to a great extent it has dropped out among us except in the Church of Rome.

"It is easy to understand why we have abandoned it," continued the Canon. "Although I am not sure whether it is the very best thing, it seems too mercantile and too much in the nature of a bargain; it is too much like the business world of today. This is how it was allowed to be dropped."

Canon Plumptre related how in the great stress of the war St. James' Cathedral was filled every day by business men who left their warehouses and offices to offer prayers for the success of the Allied arms.

Two Suggestions.

Further, he made two valuable suggestions to the congregation of St. John's in the coming Forward Movement. He said that the movement should not only be a movement of the Church as a whole, but among each individual. He thought that the Anglican Church needs something in development and progress. "There is not enough fellowship." He pleaded that sectionalism be forgotten and that we be all brothers in arms. He made mention of the comradeship at the front and among the labour unions, and that the Christian Church ought to know what fellowship is.

"We should do more in practical sympathy. The first charge upon the resources of the Church ought to be for help for bona fide members of the Church."

His next suggestion was a plea for democracy in the Church. The war was fought for democracy, although the great questions of democracy have not yet been solved. He thought that if there was democracy in the State that there ought to be democracy in the Christian Church. Explaining in part what democracy stands for, he said that all who are of age have the power to vote, and the Church should use this power. This power is in the hands of the laity, but they do not use it. They can appoint the bishops, etc., but the matter of appointments is in the hands of a clique. He thought that perhaps the clergy were to blame in part, but that the laity were too afraid to speak out because they were afraid they might shock somebody.

"We shall not get whole-hearted co-operation unless the laity make use of their power," declared the Canon. "There must be more politics in the Church, not that in politics which is sordid and the wire-pulling, but all that is good, and this we must transfer to the affairs of the Church. There is no more critical time for the Church than now, and in twelve months' time we shall not have the same chance of going forward. Either we shall go forward in the esteem and the affection of our people or we shall go backward and the people will drop away from us."

The service was chorally rendered splendidly by the choir of fifty voices to Tallis' setting, the Canticles to Winchester, and the anthem, "He Watereth the Hills," with solo by Mrs. W. G. Perks, a triumph of choral work. Mr. R. J. Devey presided with his usual ability at the organ.

A Presentation.

A choir social was held in the Schoolroom after the service to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberts, Lieut. Dick Perry, and Mr. Packman from overseas, and to present Mrs. Cooper with a gold cross before leaving for England on Monday next. The presentation was made by H. W. Morphet. Mr. R. J. Devey spoke heartily of the immense value of a corporate body of singers such as formed St. John's choir, and urged the younger choristers not to form the bad habit of only attending one service a day. Short addresses were given by Mr. Roberts, Lieut. Perry, and Mr. Packman, after which Mr. Charles Coleman served refreshments.

Sir Roger de Coverly was danced by the whole company, and a pleasant re-union terminated with the National Anthem at 11 p.m.

PORT HOPE YOUTH'S DEATH A MYSTERY

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN MR. R BYERS' CAR OUTSIDE TOWN HALL

PORT HOPE, Sept. 18.—When Mr. Roy Byers, of Peterborough, stepped into his automobile at the Town Hall here at an early hour this morning after a dance he was startled to find a man cuddled up in the back seat and covered with rugs. Being unable to rouse him he came to the conclusion that he was drunk, and lifted him out on the lawn. The caretaker of the Town Hall was called, when it was found that the man was in a dying condition. Guests at the dance hurried to Mr. Byers' Assistance, and the man was carried into the Town Hall, but death occurred before he reached the building.

The man has been identified as Herbert Rawlingson, and was employed as a farm hand by Mr. Charles Beighton, a few miles west of this town. The cause of the death is unknown. A post-mortem examination was held this afternoon, and the stomach has been sent to Toronto for analysis. Deceased was twenty-three years of age, and had no relatives in this country.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. — Steel shares continued to hold up well at the stock market opening to-day, U. S. Steel opening at 108 3-4, off 1-8; Bethlehem B at 95 1-2, also off 1-8, while Crucible gained 1 1-2 points over yesterday's close, opening at 183 1-2. Other leading issues opened irregular also. Studebaker at 115, off 1-8, Central Leather at 96 1-2, off 7-8, Mexican Petroleum at 209, American Loco at 107 3-4, up 3-8, Marine at 56 1-2, Texas Co., at 265 3-4, up 1 3-4, American Tobacco at 271 1-2, up 1-4, Part-American at 117 1-4, off 1-4, and U. R. Stores at 105.

The whole list advanced slightly toward the end of the second hour, with U.S. Steel above 103⅛. Bethlehem B sold at 97 3-8 and Republic at 91. Kelsey Wheel was off 29 points from the week's high.

No great pressure was brought to bear on any part of the list during the first half hour and the market continued to act most orderly.

The market closed reactionary, U. S. Steel was off a point from the early high near the close, when some selling entered the market. Bethlehem reached nearly two points, U. R. Stores eased off to 106 3-4, after selling well above 108. Baldwin, although reacting about 2 points from early high, was well taken.

GRAVENHURST INSTEAD OF ARMY

James Rose Obtained a Better Position Than One Under the M.S.A.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—James Rose did not report for duty under the M.S.A. Instead, he became an assistant engineer at an institution in Gravenhurst. The law did not recognize the second as good as the first. This fact was made abundantly clear to-day when Magistrate Cohen fined Rose $250 and costs, or six months. Rose offered no defence, contenting himself with a plea of guilty. Inspector McClinton, of the Dominion Police, is looking for a brother of James, also of military age.

TALKING AT CONCERTS.

Thoughtless persons who insist on talking during a musical performance, marring the pleasure of those who would listen to the music, we have always with us. It is curious to note that this particular pest was already extant more than two thousand years ago. In the ancient book "Ecclesiastics" we read, "Speak, thou that art the elder, for it becometh thee, but with sound judgment, and hinder not music."

The most decorated woman of the war is probably Mrs. Hilda Wynne, of the British Red Cross Society, who was awarded no fewer than seven medals, crosses and other distinguished honors for her fearless efforts on behalf of the wounded fighters in Italy, France, Belgium and Russia.

Extraordinarily Efficient

Put half an inch of MENNEN'S SHAVING CREAM on your shaving brush. Work up the lather on your face.

Shave.

Notice how cleanly your razor acts? Rub your hand over your chin. Feel the smoothness? Notice how comfortable your face feels? That's shaving efficiency.

You never knew there could be such a difference in shaving soaps, did you?

Precision

The correct time is the desideration in a good Watch. Guaranteed Movements, such as those found in the Watches carried in our stock, cannot fail to register the correct time.

Present day preference for models in both Pocket and Wrist Watches is well represented also.

The New and Correct Autumn Hats

YOU WILL BE INTERESTED IN THESE.

Shall it be large Hats or small? Whatever your question, our Millinery will answer. Interesting and lovely are the new Hats, rivalling each other in beauty. There are small Turbans with soft shirrings of Velvet—so kind to the face—and much is made of Ostrich as a trimming, for it not only has Paris' endorsement, but is unequalled for charm of line and colour.

The woman who likes the new and fashionable in Millinery, evolved with that which is particularly appropriate and becoming to her, will find that we have many models from which she will surely be able to make satisfactory selection; while she who desires the very last word in style, fashion's latest fancies, will discover that here the variety is abundant and the styles most authentic.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM ON THE GRATUITY

FROM HANSARD SEPT. 16

Mr. John H. Burnham, Peterboro West: I think, Sir, that every member on such an occasion as this should express as far as possible the feeling which prevails in the district he represents. I am not one of those who think that every question should be relegated to a committee, because I am convinced that this House has some brains and that its members are capable of imparting to one another the information which they severally possess and that having a certain degree of judicial faculty, they are well able to exercise it. At the same time of course, we must bear in mind that matters of detail are always referred to a committee and in that respect there can be no objection to that procedure. The soldier wants one thing and one thing only, and that is employment. To give him money is simply to postpone the evil day, if he has not employment. To give him money when he is unemployed is merely to attempt to cure a disease by administering a palliative. The soldier, I repeat, does not want money as much as he wants employment, and the opportunity to settle down seriously to earn something for his family as he formerly did. Under the circumstances, therefore, when I heard on former occasions the ex-Minister of Public Works, the hon. member for Carleton lay down the dictum that in order to effect economy in this country, we must realize that there was no necessity for engaging in public works, I felt that the death knell of the soldier had been sounded, and the soldiers thought so too. They said that they evidently were to fight the battles of the country and were to be compelled to pay for the war on their return. Naturally the soldier was very much irritated. It is apparent, Sir, that it is a short-sighted policy to leave any considerable proportion of the population without employment, for this is only to create another disturbing element in the community even if the soldiers are provided for. The country stands in a position exactly similar to that of the man who wishes to borrow money. If he goes to a money-lender and asks for money inevitably the question is put to him: What purpose is it needed for? If it is intended for improvements, then ten chances to one the money will be lent; if on the other hand improvements are not contemplated it will not be advanced. You can borrow the money in a country that has more money than it knows what to do with, namely the United States. This Government could and should borrow money for public works and give employment now and during the coming winter to the soldiers and every other idle men in the country. The Government can raise $350,000,000 more; for what purpose? To waste it? Not by any means. It is only using it as a medium of exchange and we could have the soldier translating his work into buildings for the betterment of the country at the same time benefiting himself. I think that the Government did the worst thing in the world when it conceived the idea and gave expression to it that economy consisted in cutting down expenditures in necessary public works. I say we should go on with public works. Borrow money and proceed with public works which will be an enduring monument to the technical ability of the country and which will serve the very urgent purpose of giving employment to those who are in need of work, thus amply justifying the expenditure. Build good roads and bridges and erect buildings; do anything you can conceive of that will be of permanent benefit to the country for the future and that will give much needed work to those who are suffering, and you will render a magnificent service to the soldier who wants employment above everything else. That is the service he wants. He does not want a donation as a means of pacifying him; he wants work. He went to the war as a man nad and tt home he desires to be treated as such, and it is altogether unfair to the soldier to portray him as a begger. He is not a begger. Give him work; give every honest man work and there will be no fear of rebellion or revolution.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

SOME NEGLECTFUL PARENTS.

Aside from the fact that the study of music is a remarkable mental discipline, and, in truth, a tonic for physical and mental energy, there is no other study (aside from the three Rs) that will add more to a child's future happiness and soul life—and it may be said that music is the vestibule of religion.

The neglect and indifference of parents generally as to the musical part of their children's education is to be deplored. And the higher one goes in the strata of the well-to-do, the so-called "society" people, the more indolent and mentally shoddy are the children—they are usually humoured and "babied" by the mothers, and neglected by the easy-going dollar engrossed fathers. These children, accustomed to riding on automobile cushions expect that the study of music should come with the same ease, sans effort or energy. When such pupils fail to come up to a good teachers' standard, the mother explains apologetically, "Mildred did not do well—you see, she seemed to have taken a dislike to her teacher." Then a third-rate teacher is engaged, who gives her lessons and condones her indolence. Thus the child now has a teacher that she "likes very much." And in three years from this time (unless she has long since quit) she still plays second-grade pieces or perhaps worse, fifth-grade pieces in second-grade tempo and style.

And such people, who would not think of buying third-rate clothing or third-rate groceries, are satisfied with third-rate food for their children's minds.

INVALUABLE ADVICE FOR YOUNG VOCALISTS.

For sensible and well-known physiological reasons a girl should not begin the study of singing until the age of sixteen, or in very exceptional cases, fifteen. It is true that some celebrated singers, a very few, have studied at fifteen or even at fourteen, but they became coloratura, bird-like sopranos, with voices rather attenuated, perhaps by too early study (see Adelina Patti). Girls of thirteen may amuse themselves by singing about the house, moderately and without throat effect, but they should on no account study singing. They should also be very careful in their high school class singing, never to sing out of their compass and never to indulge in loud singing.

Owing to the change which takes place about this age, a boy ought to give up singing directly the change begins to occur and not study singing until about the age of eighteen. In this he may be guided by a competent teacher, because much depends upon his physical development and state of health. During this period of waiting both girls and boys should make good use of their time by studying piano and music (solfeggio and theory). This will prove a great advantage to them when they begin their vocal studies. Because a singer should be complete (or more complete) a musician as the instrumentalist — and then some, literature and languages, for example.

WHY GIRLS SHOULD RETAIN INTEREST IN MUSIC AFTER MARRIAGE.

It is a great mistake for a girl to discontinue her musical studies after marriage. Home duties, of couse, are many and various, especially where there are children in the family, but, by careful planning and conserving of time, a woman can devote some part of each day to the study of music.

The recent war has brought to the attention of the world, as never before what an inspiration music is to mankind, and the power it has to give peace and consolation to the troubled hearts and minds of all humanity.

Even though active professional life may have been given up at the time of marriage, the knowledge that one can give pleasure and happiness, not only within the immediate circle of the home, but to friends as well, should prove an inspiration to one to study and progress in the art of music.

Music in the home certainly has a refining influence upon the young folks, and if the mother is an accomplished musician and cultivates the love of good music in her children and the desire on their part to play some instrument, many pleasant hours are spent together in the home.

SELF-EXPRESSION IN PLAYING.

While the physiological study of the playing apparatus may seem unnecessary to many, still a general idea of the functions of our muscular endowments is necessary, but after all the sensations at sing from the proper use of them will be the best test for self-discipline. The need of muscular relaxation is indeed felt by all, and we see many ludicrous illustrations of it. Especially is this true of accompanists who use all kinds of arm gyrations and hand flarings, more noticeable than the direct results of their playing. They forget that a thorough mastery of the use of the muscles conceals all external demonstrations and that it is not what they do after the tone is struck, but the conditions of the arms, before the sound emissions, that will produce a beautiful tone, and that the tone will answer their slightest wish, if it is properly treated before percussion.

The aim of all pianists should be to express a musical thought in an artistic way, and the technique is, therefore, simply a means to this end. The acquirement of this beautiful technique can also be a most artistic accomplishment in itself, and with a more foundational study of the subject the coming generation will be able to express themselves in a musical way that will not overtax the requirements of their instruments.

KID CROMPTON WINS DECISION OVER CATTLE

Kid Crompton, who boxed a draw with Red Cattle here two weeks ago, met the same adversary at Brock Street Rink last night, and in an interesting ten-round bout won the decision. Crompton ,who is a husky battler, earned the verdict by his aggressiveness and skill, and lasted better than Cattle, despite the fact that he had had a hard bout against Peters, of Toronto, at Fergus, the night before.

The crowd was not large, very little better than at the previous bout, and it was noticeable that many of the patrons were from outside.

In the main preliminary Young Dugan of Peterborough won the decision from Babe Anthony, also of Peterborough, in a six-round go that was always interesting. Dugan's superiority in boxing ability was apparent early. He used a good left jab to advantage, and occasionally came through with a right swing that reached his man. Anthony was strong and willing but lacked the ability to land his punches. Referee Jordan declared Dugan the winner, and no other decision would have been fair.

Two youngsters, Young Rex and Kid Lavery, mixed it up freely in a three-round preliminary. The verdict was a draw.

Fred Dunsford, who was thrown by Joe Minard in a wrestling bout two weeks ago, received the decision last night, throwing his opponent with a body hold in short order. Mr. Eugene Hurtubise was referee for the wrestling.

Mr. G. N. Graham was the third man in the ring in the main bout. Crompton and Cattle put on a fast exhibition, in which the red-headed boy gave a good account of himself in the early stages. Crompton, however, had both experience and stamina on his side, and he piled up a wide lead in the last six rounds. Cattle was very tired on end. The decision went to Crompton.

Frankie Bull was advertised to meet Jack Jordan of Peterborough, but wired that he was unable to come. Bull is billed to meet Crompton, the winner of last night's main bout, in Kingston in the near future.

DEMPSEY IS OUT FOR REAL MONEY

Wants a Cool Quarter of a Million Dollars For Fight.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. — Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, has set a price of $250,000 for the heavyweight king's services, according to Redmond Barry, English promoter, who came over with an offer of $110,000 for a fight in London. Barry is reported to have said that Kearns put his price at $250,000 and refused to consider anything else.

WILL HOLD LABOUR CONGRESS ALTHOUCH TREATY NOT RATIFIED

International Body Will Meet in Washington Despite the Fact That the Treaty Is Not Yet Accepted by U. S.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Whether or not the United States' Senate ratifies the peace treaty a British delegation will go to Washington in mid-October to attend the International Labour Congress, according to Stuart Bunning, president of the British Union Congress. Bunning believes the meetig will be held regardless of the fate of the treaty in America. He said the rejction of the peace treaty in all probability would deprive the conference of its official character, but believed it would be feasible to establish the Labour Congress as an advisory bod yand to impose its decisions by moral influence.

ELECTORAL SYSTEM NOW UNDER FIRE

Old "ToTronto News" Editor Pokes a Hole in Something Else.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.— The Industrial Conference committee on proportional representation through Sir John Willison, chairman, to-day presented a resolution setting forth that as a Royal Commission on Industrial Relations had classed imperfection of the present electoral system among the causes of unrest, this conference welcomes the declaration of the Prime Minister that the Speaker's conference will be called to investigate merits of proportional representation and urges that such action be taken without delay.

THE GRAND TWO SPECIAL FEATURES FOR MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

DAINTY EMMY WEHLEN IN ROMANTIC COMEDY

EXQUISITE STAR WILL BE SEEN IN "A FAVOUR TO A FRIEND," AT GRAND THEATRE

The romantic comedy-drama entitled "A Favor to a Friend", with the beautiful Emmy Wehlen as its star, is the headline attraction at the Grand Theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next.

Among the most popular of the feminine stars of the screen, Emmy Wehlen has an enormous following of her own, who will be glad to learn that in her latest Metro vehicle this comedy of favors, she will once more return in a part that permits her wearing many new and gorgeous sartorial creations of her own design.

The story is one of action and thrills, pulsating through a plot which depicts the attempts of a young Western girl who comes East to New York to claim her deceased father's estate, and who, upon her arrival, becomes entangled in a series of adventures in rapid succession.

It is said to be by far the best thing that Miss Wehlen has done on the screen, and in it she is well supported by the handsome Jack Mulhall, Hugh Fay, Joseph Kilgour, Effie Conley, Jack Miller, Jr, Harry Todd and Fred H. Warren .Arthur Martinelli photographed "A Favor to a Friend", and Maxwell Karger, Director General, personally supervised the entire production.

"THIRTY A WEEK" STARS MAGNETIC TOM MOORE

"Thirty a Week" Tom Moore's second Goldwyn starring vehicle, is undoubtedly the greatest production in which the handsomer popular young star has ever been seen. The role of Dan Murray, the chauffeur, offers the Goldwyn star every opportunity to give freely of his admirable art, appreciation of which is found in the hundreds of requests Goldwyn received to make the talented player a star in his own right.

Dan elopes with his employer's daughter, Barbara Wright. Her father, vexed at her marriage to a chauffeur, put every obstacle in the couple's path. So does Freddy Ruyter, the man the Wrights had chosen for Barbara's husband. Ruyter meets Barbara frequently and tells her Dan is unfaithful—that he has seen him give money to a woman he has met at a race track, where Dan has finished third in the big annual automobile classic. When Dan makes no satisfctory explanation Barbara leaves him and goes back to her parents. Wright offers him a fortune to agree to annulment of the marriage but Dan declines it. He loves Barbara and will move heaven and earth to and earth to prove it.

The Wright's lawyer discovers that Dan has given the woman money to save her sick husband and so notifies Wright, who sends for Dan. He goes to Barbara's home, firm in the resolve that he will not give up Barbara, and is surprised with a cordial greeting from Wright and the sight of Ruyter being ordered from the house. Explanations follow and before long Barbara is again in Dan's arms.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"THE WHITE LIE."

"The White Lie," the feature picture at the Grand Opera House, provides excellent opportunity for Bessie Barriscale, the star, for a display of her charm and versatality, and the picture, combined with the other offerings on the week-end programme, is one of the biggest attractions yet at the Grand.

The story of "The White Lie" is that of the struggles of a young wife to protect an old school friend who has adopted the life of a thief, and to keep her husband's love. In accomplishing both objects she becomes hopelessly involved in seeming intrigue. The play opens with a charming picture of a young capitalist's home, in which conditions are apparently ideal, especially the strong love displayed by the father for his little daughter. The father is suddenly called to San Francisco on business, and while there occupies the room owned by a young architect, where, to his horror, he finds a photo of his wife. Filled with vague suspicion and jealousy, he attempts to unravel the mystery of the photograph by asking the architect to his home, and by doing so puts his wife and the architect through a mental torture, which is wonderfully portrayed by both actors, the wife (Bessie Barriscale) and the architect. In attempting to confer with the architect at his own apartments, the young wife finds him stabbed in the back, where his assassin, a former confrere, had left him. Her husband, who had arrived earlier, had been found by the body and was held in the room next. On the promise of the detective to keep her secret, and, unconsciously, in the hearing of her husband, the young wife reveals the true story of her "White Lie," showing that the architect murdered was an old school chum, to whom in befriending at the time of the death of his wife, she had given her promise to look after his child. In order to retain her husband's love, she represented the little girl to her husband, who had been on relief work in Belgium, as being their child. At the critical moment the real assassin confesses to the murder, and the husband and wife are reunited.

By special request Mr. E. E. Caldwell, the famous baritone, again delighted the large audience with several selections.

"THE WAY OF A MAN WITH A MAID"

As Shown at the Allen, Mr. Washburn Has a Delightful Role as a Notions Clerk, Who Seeks to Live an Aeroplane Life on $21 Per.

Arthur MacArney, a shipping clerk at $21 per week, is discontended with his lot, but he reminds himself that many another young chap is getting along nicely with $10 or $12 a week, and is happy. He is laid off occasionally during dull times, but he doesn't mind that much, for it enables him to see the ball games.

One night, at the Purple Gondola restaurant, whither he had been invited by his friend Bick Olson, of the Continental Motion Company, where Arthur hopes some day to be employed, he meets Elsa Owenson, a beautiful stenographer, and instantly falls in love with her. Among her admirers is Sankey, a fat wealthy broker. Sankey pays his devoirs to Elsa, who views him with greater tolerance than Arthur cares for. Arthur takes Elsa home in a taxi and to meet a bill of $10.20, he gives up his last four dollars and his watch to the chauffeur, who accepts both with the remark that "there's one born every minute."

Arthur borrows money from Bick to keep him going thorugh the week, and the latter incidently advises him that Elsa is a pretty good girl for a man with $21 per "to pass up." Arthur cannot appreciate this advice, and when, the next day, he is laid off and threatens to quit for good, Hallett, his manager, treats him coldly. Instead of redeeming his watch from the chauffeur on pay day, Arthur buys flowers for Elsa. He intended buying $3 bunches, but when Sankey buys $10 ones, he gets extravagant and buys one at that price too. Then he gets to Elsa's side first, and when Sankey comes with his bouquet, Arthur is gratified to discover that Sankey's flowers are turned down while his are retained. Arthur is obliged to work at the office evenings, and this disgusts him so that when Bick intimates that he may get a good job with the Continental, he is half inclined to accept. He is offered an increase of salary by Bick, and when Arthur mentions this offer to Hallett, the latter meets it with an offer to increase Arthur's pay to $30 a week. Arthur is elated with his good fortune, for now he will be able to have far better times with Elsa.

He invites her to a Hallowe'en party, even though it will cost him his week's salary. How he makes love in his spare moments while compelled to work overtime; and how he captures the heart of Elsa and baffles the wealthy Sankey makes an intensely interesting story with Bryant Washburn at his best. The support of Mr Washburn in this photoplay is in every way excellent. Wanda Hawley is the leading woman, and she portraves the role of a pretty stenographer with expensive tastes, with rare artistry. Fred Goodwins, who recently returned from the front, is excellent in his role.

MARIE WALCAMP IN A NEW SERIAL, "THE RED GLOVE," AT THE ALLEN THEATRE.

Adapted From the Story, "The Fifth Ace," By Douglass Grant, and Directed by J. P. McGowan.

Those who are going to follow the newest serial treat of Marie Walcamp fame have some thrills in store for them. When you realize that the scenes of "The Red Glove," which are going to make you clutch the edge of your seat and hold your breath, mean for Maria Walcamp astounding feats of daring, sometimes at the risk of her life, always with the possibility of severe injury, you will appreciate that you are watching the exploits of a real star.

When the famous serial, "The Lion's Claws," was being filmed, Miss Walcamp crawled to the end of a limb over a pool in which were a score of alligators waiting for her to fall into their yawning jaws — in the jungle scene. The limb cracked. Members of the company rushed to fight off the alligators with barbed hooks, but the daring star caught a slender strand of vine hanging from the tree. The director ordered the picture to stop, but Miss Walcamp shouted to her rescuers, "Stay out of the picture and keep shooting; I am all right."

Don't miss the thrilling "Red Glove Stunt Reel," which will be shown at the Allen to-day and to-morrow.

Voice Of The People

WAR PROFITS AND COUNTY WEALTH.

Editor, Evening Examiner:

Sir,—We desire to give the farmers who read your valuable paper some startling information in regard to war profiteering.

We will first take East Peterborough, which is made up of seven townships and two smart villages, Norwood and Havelock, who all have representation in county matters. These townships and villages, according to their own local assessors, are valued at $5,477,196, with a population of nearly 12,000. Three or four of those townships are splendid agricultural districts. Scores of the older residents have retired, and are living in the villages and city, on a competence they have made by almost a lifetime of industry and saving. Some of those townships were partially settled in 1818, one century ago.

It has taken 100 years so make this magnificent riding worth $5,477,196, with a population at present as stated above. Yet the firm of which Sir Joseph Flavelle is president cleared up in one year's operations $5,000,000, according to the statement of the official appointed by the Dominion Government to report on profits made by firms dealing in war materials. You will notice that his huge profit would pretty nearly buy out the entire riding of seven townships and two pretty villages with one year's profit at the value placed on the riding by their local assessors.

Now for West Peterborough. There are in West Peterborough five townships and one pretty village, Lakefield. These five fine townships and village are assessed locally at $3,775,231, with a population of 7,306. This is, of course, outside the city. Yet Sir Joseph Flavelle's firm could buy out the whole west riding outside the city) and also thrown in the township of Cavan, in the county of Durham. These townships are amongst the wealthiest and most prosperous in the province.

Some tell us these profiteers are not making too much money. Canada at present has a debt of two billion dollars, with a population of less than 8 million. This huge debt must be met and paid. We will not try to evade it by any means, but are we to sit idly by and allow these huge profiteers to keep all these funds, and ask our returning 400,000 boys, who have won honour and fame for Canada the world over to the bloody fields of Flanders, to turn in now and fight this huge debt for the next half century, and allow these profiteers to wallow in this wealth? Is it not time for Canadians to speak out in no uncertain way with regard to the disposition of these excess profits, amounting to multi-millions. Canada must have leadership.

Canadian.

Rheumatism

Comes in many disguises all due to the condition of the blood, which is overburdened with acid poison and shows that the kidneys are out of order. With the kidneys and bladder in a diseased condition, literally clogged with matter they are unable to expel, there can be no relief from the terrible pains of Rheumatism. Rheumatic pains are classed as acute, chronic or muscular, largely in the joints and sometimes accompanied by swelling that refuses to be reduced. In its early stages Rheumatism can be quickly relieved by using Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills to help the kidneys to do their work and get them in condition again. Long established cases may be stubborn but are bound to yield to continued treatment. Your money back if they fail.

FREED AFTER SERVING 10 YEARS PUNISHMENT

MAN CONVICTED OF MURDER IS EMANCIPATED AFTER NEW TRIAL.

A case which deserves much thoughtful consideration is that of Wm. H. Barron, 168 Morgan Street, Bennington. For ten years Mr. Barron suffered the agonies caused by Rheumatism. At times he was bound hand and foot by the grip of Rheumatic pains. On the advice of a friend he stood for a new trial and used T.R.C.'s.

Read what he has to say:—

"I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for ten years. Have been so bad at times I could not move hand or foot for months. A friend advised me to try Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, and I have been thankful ever since. They worked wonders for me, and I have never felt any return of the disease."

It's practically impossible to obtain evidence stronger than this testimonial, and a word to the wise is always sufficient. If you suffer, have a new trial—use T.R.C.'s.

Ask your Druggist or write us for our new booklet; it is interesting and costs you nothing (Templetons, 142 King West, Toronto). We mail T.R.C.'s ourselves on receipt of price.

FURS TO YOUR HEART'S DESIRE

The lavish display of elegant and costly furs from Barrie's Limited, which attracted so much marked attention in the Main building of the Peterborough Fair as well as the remarkable and unique collection of raw fur skins shown in the Barrie float at the opening day parade are deserving of more than the hurried attention they received.

It must be a very gratifying thing to those of us who do not happen to live in a large city, to know that it is possible to find on our own town the same smart clothes as the Montrealer or Toronto resident may find. This was not always the case. It could not be done even ten years ago But the times have changed owing to the alertness and ability of our local Furriers, Barrie's Limited; and now the same models shown in the largest cities on the continent are shown in Peterborough.

Our local furriers used to be afraid to take to the model they considered "extreme", but now, what Montreal Toronto, and New York wear, Peterborough wears.

Barrie's Limited were the first to realize how publicity spreads the change of fashion, and brings us together—even the moving pictures, as well as the newspapers, tell the story of furs latest fashion frolics. And now our local furriers dare to manufacture the smarter better, models, knowing that they will be appreciated by the women of our community.

Barrie's Limited Retail Warerooms and their Wholesale Factory at 312 George street, is largely the outgrowth of this enterprising fur movement in Peterborough. The store itself, its costly and complete stocks, its methods, its courteous service, its reliable merchandise, and its guarantees are standards high enough to fit their business from the ordinary.

But it is of the appealing exhibition of manufactured furs display at this Fair that suggested this article. It consisted of the new short and sport coats in Hudson Seal, Persian Lamb, Otter, Beaver, Sable and Opposum so beautifully trimmed in the contrasting furs of Alaska Sable, Fox, Lynx, etc., that these models appeal to the more youthful trade as being more chic and smart than long er models. We noted the longer coats for auto and driving wear, one beautiful model in Hudson Seal with girdle trimmed in large shawl collar of Black Lynx, and lined with a peacock brocade and others in plucked beaver, natural coon and natural Black Rat attracted our attention as being very beautiful in design incorporating the straight lines, a little fuller in the skirt and with or without girdles. Some of the shorter coats have a ripple back that is longer than the front and the front is belted in. Small capes extend to well below the shoulders with or without collars and the coatees are hip length and free fit to the waist.

Neck pieces full animal effects lead in the finer long haired furs such as Fox, Wolf etc., while the flat scarfs and caperines are more in evidence in Mink, Sable, Mole, Beaver, Opposum Squirrel and all the shorter haired furs. Muffs are of the ball barrel and canteen variety with elaborations of heads and tails where suitable. A beautiful model in a mink coatee, a long wide scarf of seal and mole, a choice animal in silver tipped fox with muff to match called forth many expressions of astonishment as to their beauty and quality.

Some valuable Fur skins were intermixed such as bundles of choice Alaska, Sealskin, Hudson Bay Sables Martins, Mink, Persian Lamb, Ermine, Cross Fox, etc. In fact the whole exhibit was replete with quality in Furs, not alone in the skins composing them but in the linings, trimmings and style incorporated. With their stores in Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw, Barrie's Limited secure an output and a connection that gives entrance to the largest markets and to the trapping centres of Northern Canada, that few firms have in the securing of choice skins. The exhibit was in charge of Mr. Richardson, one of the firm's principal salesmen and credit should be given for the arrangement and decoration of this by far the most costly exhibit at the Fair.

THE BARRIE FLOAT

This was not only a very unique representation, but in point of value and money's worth easily reached the four figures. Hundreds of raw fur skins were utilised in the construction of this float. It was so unusual in character that it stood out distinctly as the surprise to the crowds of spectators in the streets who watched the progress of the float.

The firm offered a prize of $10 or ten per cent discount on a $250 purchase for the nearest correct estimate of the value of the skin's used on the float, with the following result:

Mr. Tom Henry, 268 Munro Avenue, estimated $7,500, which was the nearest estimate received.

Mrs. G. M. Reazen, 333 George street, made the next nearest estimate viz: $8,945.

The actual value of the skins was $8,017.18.

THE COCKSHUTT PLOW CO. EXHIBIT AT THE FAIR.

Among the implement exhibits at the Fair, no machine had more admirers than the FROST AND WOOD binder which was displayed at the Cockshutt exhibit just east of the main entrance by Mr. T. H. Ruth, the local agent of the Company, whose local warerooms are located at 184 Simcoe street. This machine is equipped with compression grease cups for oiling the packers and pitman, has levers for tightening the canvas, is light, well balanced, has a large steep steel deck, outside reel supports on the wide machines, and is well spoken of by the farmers who have been using them.

The Cockshutt Manure Spreader was also a feature of this exhibit, and with the two cylinders, and the distributor at the back of this machine giving it a wide spread, it has become very popular, and the demand for it is steadily increasing.

Mr. Ruth also had some Cockshutt Plows on exhibit, among them being the famous KID KANGAROO Gang Plow, of which several hundred have been sold out of Peterboro alone. The demand for this plow is particularly good, and Mr. Ruth has just received a carload to supply the needs of his customers this fall.

Gasoline engines, cream separaters and the Adams wagons were also on exhibition here, and as the Cockshutt Plow Co. also make carriages, and all kinds of seeding and cultivating implements, Mr. Ruth says customers who did not see what they were looking for at the exhibit at the Fair had better call at his warehouse and see the many other lines he sells which he did not have room to display at the Fair.

WHAT TO DO WHEN NERVES GO WRONG

A SPECIALIST'S ADVICE

Men and women who suffer from weak nerves, who tire easily, can't sleep, have [illegible] general weariness, loss of strength, dulled ambition, lack of will power, or any of those symptoms that so surely arise from poor, unsteady, unstrung nerves, or nerve force run low, should try taking a little Ferro-Pepine with their meals for a few days and note results. This preparation is the greatest ginger-up stimulant and nerve vitalizer ever known for putting the good old "pep", ambition courage and real vital energy into a tired, run-down and shattered nervous system.

Here is a test worth trying. The next time you feel tired, blue, or when your nerves are fairly crying out, take a Ferro-Peptine nerve tablet. Then wait for just ten minutes, and note results. Ferro-Peptines seems to go straight to the nerve cells and starts work the minute it reaches them. It brings a ten-minute change from that awful dull, weak, lazy, don't-give-a-hang feeling, to brightness, strength, clear headedness and courage. It calms and strenghtens the nerves of people who get the "jumps" and fidgets, and gives them poise, power and tremendous reserve energy. Ferro-Peptine Tablets are absolutely harmless, contain no dope or habit-forming drugs, and are always safe, easy, pleasant and efficient. Many leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity sell it in large boxes—42 tablets to a package—on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction, or money back.

PRINCE GOLFS IN CANADA--SCENE AT MARLOW REGATTA

(1) A new motor omnibus, submitted to the Commissioner of Police in London for approval. Carrying capacity is forty-six passengers. Large numbers of the old London motor 'buses were used for transport in France.
(2) Aldershot Horse Show.—Earl Haig arriving on the grounds; by him is Lady Murray.
(3) Marlow Regatta.—Watching the racing from the Club lawn.
(4) Wood paving blocks removed for repairs being sold near House of Commons, London, Eng., owing to scarcity of coal.
(5) Three views of the Prince golfing on Royal Montreal Golf Links, at Dixie.

THE PRINCE OF WALES PLAYS GOLF

During his visit to Montreal the Prince of Wales expressed a desire to play a round of golf. The Royal Train therefore, after leaving Montreal, was stopped at Dixie and the party went to the links of the Royal Montreal Golf Club. At the club house His Royal Highness was greeted by Mr. W. R. Baker, C.V.O., president of the club and late secretary of the C.P.R., and Charles Murray, club professional, with E. F. Waterhouse, secretary of the club. Motor cars took the party to the links and the Prince immediately waived all formalities and chose his clubs and walked out on the links.

He gave the honors to President Baker and the latter drove off. The drive was a fair one and the Prince driving off from the tee, fourled. He laughed and turned to Murray saying: "This is worse than making a speech." For the first part of the game His Highness had difficulty in keeping the pace with his opponent.

After the ninth hole, however, the Prince improved wonderfully and for the last part of the match he played fine golf, catching up his opponent's score until they arrived at the final hole with Mr. Baker, one hole up. After Mr. Baker had holed in, it was found that the Prince would have to make the hole in par to even up the match. Playing brilliantly, the Prince made a skilful putt and made the hole in par, ending the game all square.

The Prince said that he had enjoyed the game immensely and that he hoped that when he returned to Montreal in October he would have the pleasure of playing another match on the links. As a souvenir of the game he presented Charles Murray with a tie pin. The latter offered the Prince a brassie and His Highness accepted it, laughingly remarking that he hoped to make good use of it.

After the game the Prince and party were served with tea informally in the Ladies' Club house by the club staff. When it was time to go the Prince expressed the desire to walk across the links to the station instead of going in a motor car, and the party did so. It was 7 o'clock when the Prince left the grounds.

Among the party which visited the links with the Prince were Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, Major-General Sir Henry Burstall, Capt. Lord Claude Hamilton, Capt. the Hon. E. W. Legh, Lieut.-Col. H. W. N. Grigg, Sir Godfrey Thomas and Commander Dudley North.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Passing Cloud

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I have my reasons," snappishly pronounced Mrs. Hardy, irritated and irrational female, and declined further disclosures.

"And I have no desire to pry into the same," said Judge Ashton. "Your husband feels that he was rash and unwise in leaving you as he did, and wishes to make peace with you."

"Oh! does he, indeed?" observed Mrs. Hardy. "How contrite, humble and accommodating, after practically deserting me for a week, creating speculation and gossip and—" smothering a half-sob, repressed with difficulty—"showing that he has no respect or no—regard for me."

"Don't say that, Mrs. Hardy," pleaded the judge soothingly. "I happen to know that Mr. Hardy deplores the impulse that led him to leave you for a visit to his sister. He wishes to return and let bygones be bygones."

The face of his auditor was set stern and uncompromising. Finally she said: "This is his home; no one has turned him out of it."

"Then you forgive and forget, and the dove of peace—"

"I shall never forget," interrupted Mrs. Hardy bitterly. He has affronted me, but I shall try to banish his misdoings from my mind."

"Tell you, Mrs. Hardy," spoke the peacemaker briskly, "we'll call it an armistice, eh? Try out a really good man and make him better; don't be too hard on him, after ten years of happy married life."

Mary Hardy looked unrelenting, but she did not dissent to the suggestion made.

She had not always been thus. After a full decade of comfort and content, John Hardy had seen grow upon his wife a spirit of carping criticism, apparent jealousy and whimsical unsteadiness of temper. He felt that he was being watched, under suspicion, with no reason for the same. She grew peevish, irrational, seeming almost to hate him at times. Then came the crisis—rebellion on his part, stinging insinuations on hers. He had swung out of the house in a fury one day, and the next she learned that he was at the home of relatives in another town.

As they both were seated in the little parlor of their home Mrs. Hardy noticed for the first time that a space behind his ears was shaven clean of hair and bore two plasters. "What is the trouble?" she asked involuntarily, pointing to them. Immediately John, noting the movement of her lips, hollowed his hand to one ear and said gravely: "You will have to speak very loud to me, Mary, as I am quite deaf. I fell off a wagon at my sister's farm and have not heard distinctly since. The doctor says it may pass away in time, but for the present I can hear almost nothing."

"Can—can I do anything to aid you?" she inquired, and then masked the sympathetic impulse expressed in her face.

"I think not, only by being patient with me. The plasters will gradually restore my hearing, the doctor says. Until they do, I shall be a trial to you."

Mrs. Hardy bit her lip. If her husband could not hear, she was deprived of the privilege of giving him a piece of her mind when the mood swayed her! After a week of the new conditions, however, except for unsociability, the process of silence had tamed down the scolding qualities of Mrs. Hardy considerably.

One day a cousin of Mrs. Hardy, whom she had not seen for some years, came to pay her a visit. The following afternoon John was asleep on a couch in the sitting room, when he was aroused by the sound of voices in the parlor adjoining.

"I am so glad you have come, "his wife was saying. "I shall go wild if I do not find relief in speaking out my troubles. Oh, Laura! my husband is so changed during the last six months."

"He is in the next room," spoke the visitor.

"Probably asleep, and, if not, unable to overhear us. It all came from the time he said he was away on business in the city for a week. Oh, the burden of misery I have borne since then!" and Mrs. Hardy broke down weeping.

"Tell me all about it, dear, and let me console you, if I can."

"Well, when he came home I found a lady's fine lace handkerchief in one pocket, and in another a jeweler's receipt for a fifty-dollar bracelet marked 'Gracie.'"

The sound of John Hardy coming to his feet with a tremendous slam, his hearty "Ha! ha! Oh, the folly of it!" roared out excitedly, startled the two women, and he stood before them in a vivid fervency of emotion.

"Lucky my hearing came back this morning!" he cried. "Mary, you're a goose. Mary, you think a deal of me, or you wouldn't be so foolishly jealous! The time I went to the city I one day loaned brother my overcoat to call upon his lady love, the same Gracie you are raving about. So this is the cause of all your wretchedness? Poor, dear soul! Come to the arms of a man who couldn't love anyone else in the world if he tried!"

And that moment ushered in the old-time peace and comfort and love that had been so nearly sacrificed to an unfounded suspicion.

THRACE.

District Has Been the Fiume of the Balkans.

Ancient Thrace, one of the morning lands of the world's history, for parts of which Greece presented claims to the Peace Conference, affords a parallel to the difficulties of self-determination already experienced along the eastern shores of the Adriatic.

It will be recalled that the spirited dispute between Jugo-Slavia and Italy arise from the fact that Italians were predominant in coastal cities, while the hinterland was undeniably Slavic. The Latin peoples of Italy had gone across the Adriatic in past centuries, settled along the East Adriatic shores, but were pushed well out to islands and peninsulas by the influx of Slavic tribes.

In much the same way this phenomenon was duplicated, in an earlier age, on the eastern side of the Balkan Peninsula, where lay the extremely mobile Thrace. The Greeks colonized the coast cities of Thrace, on what now are the Marmora, Black and Aegean seas, not for settlement so much as for trading stations. They did not seek to impinge upon the Thracians of the interior.

Thus Constantinople was founded, and thus Greece early came into possession of the peninsula now called Gallipoli, building a wall across the five-mile neck of the isthmus to keep the Thracians within bounds.

Shrinking and expanding, and changing its conformation time and time again, as Darius invaded it, Xerxes abandoned it, Philip II united part of it with Macedonia and garrisoned the rest, the Romans organized it as a province, Thrace dropped at last into the capacious maw of the Turks with the fall of Constantinople in 1453, that historic date from which some historians mark the beginnings of modern history.

Later the western part that Philip joined to Macedonia, fell within the limits of pre-war Serbia, and the northern part became Eastern Rumelia, which was given to Bulgaria at the London settlement of 1913. The rest remained with European Turkey until the world war exploded that domain and left the pieces to be the step-children of the Allied nations.

Adrianople, once the Paris of Thrace, and later the Versailles of the Turkish Sultans, is a picturesque, if somewhat unkempt, reminder of the ancient days. But more familiar, perhaps, is the name of Philippi, in the centre of the rich gold mine district of Thrace, and near the hill of Dionysius, which owes its fame to neither of these facts so much as to the visits of Paul, who wrote letters to his converts that were incorporated in the Bible as the Book of Philippians.

Dionysius, or Bacchus, as the Romans call the god, typified the loose morality of the wild and barbarous inhabitants of Thrace originally, for the Thracians of historic times already were a composite people.

Every girl passed through a period when she was the common property of the male community before she attained one of those "homes" in

Why Salt Causes Thirst.

Salt has been described as a natural element of the blood in about the same proportion as in the water of the ocean. Under general conditions we do not feel the existence of salt in our bodies because its effect is counteracted by a due proportion of water.

When we eat an excessive amount of salt thirst is created by the demand of nature that we also take a proportionate amount of water and dilute the salt to its proper relative amount. Any food that tends to absorb the moisture of the body will cause thirst for the same reason—that our physical welfare requires a balanced quantity of water.

NOT ASPIRIN WITHOUT THE "BAYER CROSS"

Any Tablet Offered as Aspirin and Not Stamped with the "Bayer Cross" is Not Aspirin at All!

"Bayer" Now Made in Canada—No German Interest—All Rights Purchased from U. S. Government

BAYER

There is not a penny of German money invested in "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" nor will a German citizen profit by its sale or ever be allowed to acquire interest.

The original, world-famous "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is now made in Canada and can be had at your druggist's in handy packages.

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on package and on tablets you are not getting Aspirin at all.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. But there is no substitute for genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" which have been proved safe by millions for Pain, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Colds, Grippe, Joint Pains, Neuritis.

Proper and safe directions are in every "Bayer Package."

Boxes of 12 tablets—Bottles of 24—Bottles of 100—Also Capsules.

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of his old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Pure Milk!
—pure at the source

No matter what precautions are taken throughout the manufacture of Borden's St. Charles Brand Milk, we can not be sure of its final purity unless we know the milk is pure at the source. That is why we are so particular in selecting the dairy districts which furnish it. Rich, clean pasture lands, pure water supply, dairymen advanced in modern methods—these are the first requirements.

St. Charles Brand is the purest of sweet milk, with nothing added. Part of the natural moisture is removed—that is all—then it is hermetically sealed in sterilized cans—ready for instant use wherever ordinary milk is used. Order a supply today—by name.

rnst Haeckel Is Dead

Great German Scientist Followed Work of Darwin

ERNST HEINRICH HAECKEL, professor of zoology at the University of Jena, who is famous among the scientists of the world for his research work in support of the theory of evolution, died on August 10 at the advanced age of 85. Little has been heard of Prof. Haeckel during the war. What news of his actions that reached this country was marked by the same independence of spirit that characterised his life-work. The publication of his work on "God and the Immortality of the Soul," in 1915, brought a recurrence of that vigorous criticism by opponents of his theories that has punctuated his long scientific career.

Prof. Haeckel was one of those who signed the circular demanding the retirement of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg of Germany in the fall of 1916. The circular arranged the Chancellor for his conduct of affairs and attacked particularly his attempts to reach an agreement with England at the beginning of the war. his early attitude on Belgian neutrality and his submarine warfare policy.

The "false cosmopolitan idealism of the German people," was criticized by Prof. Haeckel in a contribution to war literature in 1918. This false idealism he termed "the greatest danger of its national existence."

Haeckel held that just as the highest animals had been evolved from the simplest forms of life, so the highest faculty of the human mind had been evolved from the soul of the brute beast. As a consequence of these views Haeckel was led to deny the immortality of the soul; the freedom of the will, and the existence of a personal God. His religion was "Monism," a term he invented to cover his belief in the essential unity of organic and inorganic matter.

Some of his views along this line he expounded in "The Riddle of the Universe." He found that the simpler organisms or microbes represented a primitive condition of life not only below the distinction of sex, but also below the distinction of animal and vegetable life, and were really such simple forms of protoplasm that they constituted a kingdom by themselves, which he called the Protista, and regarded this as the common foundation and source of both animals and plants.

Another of his theories that is interesting, although one that has not been generally accepted, is "the carbon theory." He held that the chemico-physical properties of carbon in its complex albuminoid compounds are the sole and mechanical cause of the specific phenomena of movement which distinguish organic from inorganic substances, and that the first development of living protoplasm arises from such nitrogenous carbon-compounds by a process of spontaneous generation.

Prof. Haeckel was the first to draw a genealogical tree exhibiting the relationship between the various orders of animals with regard both to one another and their common origin. In a notable paper before the International Zoological congress in 1898, he traced the human race back to simple structureless masses of protoplasm.

He was the leading exponent of evolution upon the continent of Europe, and he carried his researches far beyond those begun by either Darwin or Wallace. Some index to the influence which he had on the scientific world is supplied by the fact that his literary output amounted to some 50 scientific works, including nearly 20,000 printed pages, and that the principal editions have been translated from the original German into fifteen different languages.

Wash The Kidneys!

After Bad Colds or Influenza Look to Kidneys and Bladder

Owing to bad colds, over-exposing or intemperance, or to the after effects of influenza—uric acid and toxic (poisons) are stored up in the body and cause backache, lumbago, rheumatic pains and stiff joints.

It is most essential that treatment be directed toward prompt casting out of the poisons from the body which cause these pains and aches. This means that the excretory organs—(the bowels, skin and kidneys)—should be excited to their best efforts. Every one should clean house—internally—and thus protect one's self from many germ diseases, by taking castor oil or a pleasant laxative such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are made of May apple, aloes and jalap. Take these every other day. This will excite efficient bowel action. If you suffer from backache, irritation of the bladder and the kidneys shown by the frequent calls to get out of bed at night, considerable sediment in the water, brick-dust deposit, perhaps headache in the morning, you should obtain at the drug store "Anuric" (anti-uric acid), first put up by Dr. Pierce.

To build up the strength and improve the blood, take an iron tonic such as "Ironic," manufactured by Dr. Pierce to be had in tablets at drug stores, or some good herbal tonic such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made from wild roots and barks without alcohol, and put up in tablets or liquid.

BRITISH AND OUR WAY.

Eating Habits of Two Countries Are Composed.

One of the most famous of London eating-places is the "Cheshire Cheese." It is as quaint as its name. There, as in the day when London was a town, the guests sit down together at long tables.

The meal is a ceremony; the food is served with ritualistic attention to detail, and it is eaten devoutly. The men who lunch there appreciate the flavor of good food, and of a fine old tradition.

Yet however seriously they may take the roast and the pudding, they are serious in nothing else. Office, courtroom and clinic are forgotten. During the midday hour the old Elizabethan humor and wisdom echo from the ceiling beams of that oak-paneled room.

The most famous of Canadian eating places is the quick lunch. Any noontime you will see newspapermen, bankers, professors and lawyers seated on little stools at long counters or in one-armed chairs. They do not look as though they were particularly enjoying themselves. Each, detached and lonely, gobbles his food in silent haste.

One is preoccupied with its troubles; another is visibly uncomfortable on his backless stool; and yet another is splashing his soup in a frenzy of impatience to get back to the office, where he earns the food which he is now eating with so little appreciation.

The food is often of famous excellence, quite as good, in the way, as the food at the "Cheshire Cheese." But we Canadians who eat it come not so much to eat as to get through eating. We are so busy earning food and leisure that we can spare no time for enjoying them. We scarcely know what it is to live in the present moment. We are always getting ready for the next.

Alkali In Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Camels.

Unless camels have been especially trained to abstinence they cannot go as long as is commonly supposed without water. When marching near rivers they drink twice a day. They feed largely on the tough, scrubby verdure known locally as camel thorn, which grows throughout Mesopotamia, except on the extreme desert wastes. Their habits are peculiar. Unlike horses, they seem to feel no fondness for their human associates, though they will seldom wander far from the caravan tents even if left untied overnight.

The Fragonard Panels.

The celebrated Fragonard panels had their inception, it is said, in the lavish expenditures of the Countess du Barry. They were designed for her chateau, but never adorned it, owing to a dispute between the painter and the king's favorite. Mme. du Barry, notwithstanding her lowly origin, was extremely critical in matters of art and was dissatisfied with these pictures, which are among the greatest prizes of the connoisseurs of today.

Color Blindness.

The ratio of color blind people to those of normal sight is about 65 to 1,154. This does not mean that all of the sixty-five are absolutely color blind, but that that is the ratio of those who are more or less affected. Color blindness is said to have been discovered by the famous Dr. Priestley in 1777.

Try to be happy in this present moment and put not off being so to a time to come.

Britain to Honor Pilgrims.

Behind the efforts of those who are seeking to link Great Britain and America in a lasting union of friendship two historic episodes stand out in bold relief.

It is almost precisely 300 years since the Pilgrim Fathers set sail from Plymouth in the Mayflower to make, on an undeveloped continent, a brave experiment in self government. The actual tercentenary falls next year, and already preparations are in progress to celebrate the occasion in this country in a fitting manner.

By way of contrast to that great adventure one thinks of that other pilgrimage last year, when two million soldiers left their homes in America to speed across the Atlantic to the assistance of the old country. They came actuated by that love of liberty which had been handed down to them from the ancient Pilgrims, and with their British brothers they testified on the battle field to the essential unity of the Anglo-Saxon stock. It is now for Great Britain and America to determine that the friendship which their gallant soldier cemented with their blood shall be a permanent inspiration in their international relations. — London Daily Telegraph.

"GRANDMOTHER" LUNDY DEA

Knitted Four Hundred Pairs of Sock During the War.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sarah Lundy known throughout the Dominion a the grandmother of the Canadian army because she knitted 400 pair of socks for the Canadian Red Cross during the war, died on June 20 at her home in Lundy's Lane. She was 92 years old. She was in good health until a few days ago, when she fell in her home and died from the effects of the fall.

Mrs. Lundy lived nearly all her life in Stamford township. Her mother's family, the Stedmans, settled near Niagara Falls, N.Y., before the Revolutionary War. Their flock of wild goats gave the name to Goat Island. In 1845 Mrs. Lundy, whose maiden name was Sparkman, married Lanty Lundy, grandson of William Lundy and great-grandson of Thomas Lundy, who fought with the Canadian militia in 1812 and 1814.

The historic roadway, Lundy's Lane, was named for the family. Four generations of Lundys have been born on it, and some of the great-grandchildren of the original settler still live there. The property, when an Indian forest trail, was given to the Lundys over the great seal of King George III.

The foundation of the house in which Mrs. Lundy died was laid more than one hundred years ago. The house is close to the old Lundy homestead, in which stands the grandfather's clock brought to this country 140 years ago by William Lundy. The clock still runs.

Mrs. Lundy's fame as a knitter was nation-wide. When Canada first entered the war she joined the little band of women who worked under the name of the Lundy Lane Willing Workers. One day the president of the workers brought Mrs. Lundy a supply of yarn and needles. She thought it would keep her busy for weeks; but in a few days she received several pairs of socks and a request for more yarn. From that time on Mrs. Lundy was kept supplied with yarn, and in four years of the war she knitted one hundred pairs of socks a year.

Men in training at Niagara Camp learned of her dexterity as a knitter, and many of them walked from the camp to her home to have her knit them socks. She had many letters of appreciation from men overseas. Her boast was that her socks were smoothly knit, with no dropped stitches and no lumps and knots on the inside to hurt the soldiers' feet. She won many prizes for needlework at the Toronto Exposition.

Postage Stamps.

The first duty of every self-respecting nation is to issue a new series of postage stamps. Finland already has led the way with a pleasant variety of colors, and the example no doubt will be followed by Lithuania, Livonia and Esthonia, to say nothing of Bavaria and the Confederated German States when they break up the empire on which the sun has set.

Prune Little and Often.

Much of the beauty of roadside trees and shrubs depends upon how skillfully they have been trained. Pruning should be done on the principle of "a little and often." From the start give them that little direction from time to time that will keep them in perfect form and not allow forked main branches. All cuts should be made with a saw and all wounds covered with a coat of paint or some other preservative.—S. T. Maynard in Tree Talk.

His Method.

The little girl who was visiting at a neighbor's house had gone out to look at the horses.

"Here's one of them," she said, "that has watery eyes and coughs and hangs his head just the way papa's horse did last summer."

"What did your papa do for his horse?" asked the owner of the animals.

"He sold him," was the innocent answer.—Pearson's Weekly.

Weak - Nervous Women

There is No Remedy Like Vinol

"Women's work is never done." That's why they are overworked, nervous, all run down, no appetite, and can "hardly drag around." Vinol creates a hearty appetite, induces sound sleep, invigorates the nerves and creates strength.

Here is Proof that Should Convince Everyone

"I was run-down, nervous, and losing flesh rapidly, and had fainting spells, so I had to stop work for weeks at a time. My doctor told me to take Vinol. I did and after two or three days I commenced to feel better. I have gained flesh rapidly and feel better in every way since taking it." —Miss Phyllis Jones, W. Toronto, Ont.

"I suffered from general debility and a nervous breakdown; I was depressed, weak and tired all the time. A neighbor told me about Vinol, and after all other medicines had failed to help me Vinol built me up and made me well. I heartily recommend Vinol." — Mrs. James Stock, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

For all run-downs, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

"BUSINESS IS BUSINESS"

is a hackneyed phrase, showing the lack of true loyalty. It resounds with the echo of "Dollar for Dollar," leaving the pleasure of doing business out of the question and the perfect altruistic idea becomes a dead issue. Let the people "get together" in business lessening the whole with some of the "Golden Rule" idea and BUSINESS then will be BUSINESS. Jimmy, at Nelson's Typewriter Co., 172½ Hunter street, 'phone 220.

SLEEPING AND WAKING

Jimmy's talks were uppermost. A reader of the Examiner mailed us the following:—

"Jimmy has had a good letter,
So I saw by last week's "Ad",
Sure I have had one better,
It's from my soldier lad.
I have not answered it yet,
And he will expect one soon.
A TYPEWRITER I'll have to get;
Can you send it up by noon?
Send one of Nelson's very best
To six-twenty-nine, straight west."

Jimmy would appreciate the writer's address, if sent to Nelson's Typewriter Co., 172½ Hunter street.

IN MEMORIAM

NORTHCOTT— In ever loving memory of my dear brother, Pte. Victor James Northcott, of the 2nd Battalion, who was killed in action at Courcelette on Sept 19, 1916.

"What though in lonely grief I sigh,
For dear ones loved no longer nigh
Submissive still would I reply,
Thy Will Be Done."

—From his sister Mrs. T. Montgomery, Barnardo Avenue.

IN MEMORIAM.

NORTHCOTT. — In ever loving memory of our dear son and brother, Pte. Victor J. Northcott, 7665. He left Peterborough with the 2nd Battalion, and was killed in action on 19th September, 1916.

A brave little lad was he,
His ambition was a soldier to be;
He left his dear home, but was killed on the Somme
While carrying a message for his country.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
As the years pass by our hearts are sore;
But still we hope to meet once more.
"He lives in our memory."

—His sorrowing Sister, Mrs. Day.

AKERS.—In loving remembrance of Dorothy, the beloved child of Reginald and Ethel Akers, who fell asleep two years ago to-day.

God knows how much we miss her,
He knows the tears we shed;
And whispers, "Hush, she only sleeps,
Your darling is not dead."

—From her loving Grandma, Grandpa, and Auntie.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear son, Pte. Victor James Northcott, who left Peterborough in August, 1914, with the 2nd Batt., and was killed in action whilst running with despatches on the Somme front on Sept. 19th, 1916.— From his father and mother, Mr and Mrs. Robert Northcott, Barnardo avenue.

We shall meet but we shall miss him,
There will be one vacant chair,
We shall inger to caress him
While we breathe our evening prayer.

When five years ago he left us
Joy was in his mild blue eye,
But a golden cord is severed
And our hopes in ruin lie.

At our fireside sad and lonely
Often will the bosom swell
At remembrance of the story
How our noble Victor fell.

How he strove to bear our banner
Through the thickest of the fight
And uphold our country's honour
In the strength of manhood's might.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Dorothy, beloved and only daughter of Reginald and Ethel Akers, of 271 Westcote street, who died Sept. 19th, 1917, aged 10 months and 26 days:

Farewell, sweet child, to both our hearts still dear,
Oft shall we bathe thy memory with a tear,
Short was thy life, but long will be thy rest,
God called thee from us soon, because He saw it best.

TROUBLE FOR BOTH TEACHER AND SCHOLAR

"It is not their occupation that causes school teachers to have pupils in their eyes"—but it is sometimes inherited eye weakness or too steady application that gives their scholars trouble in getting up their studies. The children's eyes should be carefully looked after. What seems like dullness may be only the effect of eye strain. Let Dr. Fowler examine the child's eyes if he or she is making poor progress with their lessons.

THE ALLIES TURN THEIR GUNS ON THE CITY OF FIUME

INSURGENTS MAY BE GIVEN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS TO LEAVE THE CITY OF FIUME

ALLIED WARSHIPS HAVE DIRECTED THEIR GUNS ON THE CITY--WILL ISSUE ULTIMATUM.

LATE REPORTS

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 20.— Capt. Gabriele D'Annunzio may be given twenty-four hours to move his forces out of Fiume, upon which city a squadron of Allied warships have turned their guns, according to advices received here by way of Berlin, Laibach and Vienna. It is indicated that this ultimatum will come from the Allied Powers, which are reported to have conferred at Abbazia, about two miles north-west of Fiume, to which place theiy retired when Capt. D'Annunzio entered the latter city.

OBJECTS TO TONE OF ALLIES' NOTE

Huns Agree to Demand Made by the Peace Conference.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 20.— Paul Dutasta, secretary of the Peace Conference, has received a long note from the German delegation at Versailles advising the conference of the acceptance in the name of the German government of the demand for a declaration annulling Article 61 of the German constitution which would give Austria representation in the German Reichstag. Murt Von Lersner, head of the German delegation, takes occasion to complain at what he characterizes as the ironical tone of the last note from the Entente powers.

THRESHING OUTFIT BLOWN TO PIECES

Orillia Packet: A threshing engine and boiler was blown to pieces on the farm of Mr. Frank Gross, lot 9, concession 11. Fortunately no person was hurt. The threshing outfit belonged to Messrs. Jos. Reid and Duncan Mathieson. Mr. Mathieson was cutting wood near by, and Mr. Reid was in the barn when the explosion occurred. Mr. Gross was the only other person in the neighbourhood. The engine and boiler were scattered in all directions. Nothing was left but the wheels, turned upside down, and a few small pieces of the engine. The steam chest was thrown thirty yards, and a large piece of tubing fell over one hundred yards away. The explosion was heard throughout the entire neighborhood. It is very fortunate that no person was hurt and no other damage done.

SAYS GRATUITY SHOULD BE BASED ON MERIT

INDISCRIMINATE DISTRIBUTION OF $2,000 WOULD BE VICIOUS, DECLARES MEMBER OF VETERANS

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20.—Asked for his opinion of the $2,000 gratuity plan supported by many veterans, Lieut. Leonard, chairman of the Finance committee of the provincial command of the Great War Veterans' Association, said that indiscriminate pay to all war veterans of $2,000 regardless of length of service would be vicious, profiteering and that any further assistance should be based on a man's service.

Endorse Wise Legislation

THIS IS THE STAND TAKEN BY THE U. F. O.--POLITICAL SHARPS PUZZLED

THE PRACTICE

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Sept. 20—In the event of the United Farmers of Ontario having a larger representation in the Legislature after the next general election than one or other of the old political parties, who will be entitled to the $5,000.00 "salary" payable by the Province to the Opposition leader?

That is the question that is exciting no little interest among politicians because of the tremendous headway made by the United Farmers movement. Election sharps on both sides of politics have been heard to predict that the U. F. O. will have the second strongest following in the next Legislature. The custom elsewhere is to regard the largest of the Opposition groups as the official Opposition. There seems to be no reason for a variation of this practice unless it be that the U. F. O. so far has no House or party leader, and is not likely to have one until its strength has been determined by an election.

Indeed, it would not be surprising were the U. F. O. to defer the appointment of a leader until one emerged naturally, by reason of ability, out of the discussions of agricultural questions in the House. On the other hand, the U. F. O. leaders say they have not a political party in the ordinary sense, and do not believe in opposing every good move the Government may make, as Oppositions sometimes do. They stand prepared to support wise legislation, no matter from what source. The law makes the Speaker of the House the sole judge as to which member of the House is the Opposition leader.

NEW COMPANY STARTING HERE

WILL MANUFACTURE LADIES' WEAR AND COLOURED GOODS

A $100,000.00 stock company, to be known as the Mon Marche, manufacturing ladies' lingerie, underwear, and white and coloured goods, will start operations on Monday morning in the old Knights of Pythias' Hall, with eight girls and two men as a beginning.

Mr. J. E. Bates, at present employed in the Creasman Company store is one of the principals in the company, and he stated this morning that all of the stock has been sold before they open up for operation.

SMOKE MENACED LIVES OF GIRL WORKERS

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—Twenty-five girl employees of the Burlington-Windsor Blanket Company, King St. West, who were working in the second and third storeys of the building, narrowly escaped being overcome by smoke from fire in a frame picking building to the rear at 9 o'clock this morning. The fire broke out in the picking building from a cause assumed to be from one of the picking machines and gained headway. The smoke was blown from the rear building into the main factory through a pipe which conveys material used in the manufacture of blankets. The girls sought safety through a passageway to the adjoining building of the Adams Harness Co., one door east. None of the girls were affected by the smoke.

GIRLS CONDUCTED SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

A very pleasant affair in the form of a charity bazaar for the benefit of the Sick Children's Hospital of Toronto, took place a week ago in the garden of Mrs. H. W. Clarke, 286 Rubidge street, when her daughter, Miss Dorothy and Miss Belford Nelson arranged and successfully carried out a delightful tea and bazaar. The two children, without any help or suggestion from older people, made their own favors for a fish pond, made the candy for the candy booth and put up their own decoratipns. They were assisted in serving by Misses Dorothy Warboy, Marjorie Warboy, Josephine Dobin, Irene Nelson, Patricia Clarke and Lillian Avery.

The proceeds exceeded $12, which was forwarded to the hospital. They are now contemplating packing a Christmas box or the same worthy cause.

Seven Million Members of Trades Unions Will be Represented at the Convention in Hamilton Monday

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—When the Trades and Labour Convention is called to order in Hamilton on Monday morning, it is expected that there will be approximately 500 delegates in attendance. More than 7,000,000 members of Trades Unions will be represented. The Hamilton Convention will in almost every way be a historic one, and a great number of questions of an entirely new character will come before the Convention. It is almost sure that there will be more than one attempt to force a discussion of the One Big Union on the floor of the Convention. It is likely that the President of the Congress may rule out of order any resolution regarding the One Big Union as opposed to the International Unions.

The Trades Congress is composed entirely of International Unions and Federal Unions, for which there is no International Union.

At the opening the Hon. Senator Robertson, Minister of Labour, is to be present. It is probable that he may explain to the delegates his view of the Winnipeg situation.

The Trades and Labour Congress Convention in Quebec last year passed a resolution in favour of light wines and beers. It is quite possible that someone will bring the question of beer and light wines once more before the Convention. If this is done it might mean a whole discussion.

PERSIA WILL WORK OUT OWN DESTINY

SOME TIME BEFORE STABILITY IS RE[illegible]

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 20.— Great Britain's treaty with Persia does not constitute a protectorate of the latter country in any way. The only object of the agreement being to ensure Persia an opportunity to work out her destiny as an independent country, said Earl Curzon, government leader in the House of Lords.

In speaking at a dinner given here last night in honour of the Foreign Minister of Persia. The speaker admitted there had been a misunderstanding of the treaty, but said there was no ground for suspicion as would be proved by the working out of the agreement. An era of chaos and confusion in Asia was forecast by Earl Curzon, who declared it would be some time before stability is restored in the regions formerly dominated by Russia and Turkey.

ALLAN SUCCEEDS GEORGE F. BRYAN

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20. —Frank J. Allan was notified Friday that he had been appointed Collector of Customs for the Port of Winnipeg. Allan succeeds George F. Bryan, who died recently and has been acting collector for several months. Mr. Allan was born at Perth, Ont. The office is worth $7,000 a year.

GREY ON WAY TO AMERICA

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 20. — Viscount Grey, of Falloden, the new British Ambassador to the United States, left London this morning on his journey to America.

MAGISTRATE DAVID DUMBLE HAD SLIGHT FALL YESTERDAY.

Magistrate David Dumble presided at the police court this morning and is feeling none the worse for a severe fall which he had yesterday when he alighted from a street car before it had come to a full stop.

A small bruise on the side of his head is the only evidence of an accident and his ready wit did not desert him in the police court this morning.

WATERLOO LABOUR MAN SELECTED

WILL ENTER CONTEST IN THE PRO-[illegible]

(Special to The Examiner.)

WATERLOO, Sept. 20.— George C. Haehnel was the unanimous choice of the Independent Labour Party here last night, to contest North Waterloo in the provincial election.

Burt Hughes, President of the Twin City Trades and Labour Council, lost out by seven votes. The selection of a candidate to contest the provincial elections is Labour's first effort to enter the political field in North Waterloo. Candidate Haehnel is a native of Newsteadt, Ont.

U. S. STEEL MAY LOCK OUT ITS UNION MEN

PITTSBURG, Sept. 20.—All parts of the United States Steel Corporation in Pittsburg district, where any employee is a member of the Steel Workers' Union, will be shut down to-night for an indefinite period, according to reports in circulation here last night. Reports could not be verified officially, but originated from trustworthy source, according to local News Bureau. Plants that are one hundred per cent. loyal will remain in operation and loyal men in those plants which will close will be taken care of by the company, the reports say. Those plants which will remain working will continue to do so, reports aver, only so long as operations are not interfered with. Should the mills close it is unofficially estimated that on Monday morning 186,000 men will be idle. The above reports were denied by the Carnegie Steel Co.

ONE MONTH IN JAIL

Thomas Graystock, grey of hair, and appearing to be at least sixty years of age, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on a charge of vagrancy preferred by Detective Newhall. With all his might and main he told Mr. Newhall that all of the police force were going to hell.

Graystock, a familiar figure on the streets and in Jackson Park, works for two or three months and then lives on the money which he saves, occupying his time by repeating past scandals and following people on the streets.

He told Mr. Dumble that he was going to the woods to cut wood last Tuesday, but didn't feel well, and the Magistrate told him he would be improved by a month behind the bars. He didn't think so.

FIVE NEW COMMISSIONERS AND BOARDS ARE LIKELY TO BE ADOPTED

GOVERNMENT WILL SOON HAVE A COMMISSION FOR EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR—NEWS OF THE OTTAWA INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Sept. 20.—A prospective string of five new Boards of Commissions is the most definite result appearing so far from the unanimous decisions of the Industrial Conference. To see labour representatives joining in the request for the appointment of such boards caused some surprise. Labour, like the farmers, has usually been caustic about the Government's confirmed habit of referring difficulties to commissions instead of taking the responsibility for action themselves. The closing hours of the conference to-day may possibly bring forth more specific decisions on the vexed subjects of hours of labour, recognition of trade unions and collective bargaining, but the mild results up to last night were not indicative of any such result. The recommendations in most cases have called merely for further investigation. They largely follow the report of the Industrial Relations Commission except that in some respects the proposals are even less definite than those of the Commission which itself, as usual in such cases, came to what was largely a compromise decision. To secure an endorsation of the Commission's recommendations on specific subjects does mark an advance, but it is for the present a sentimental rather than a practical advantage. Unanimous decisions of the conference, even if they do not mean very much, at least indicate a will towards harmony and co-operation, and just how this in itself may constitute a sufficient justification.

JURY BROUGHT IN A VERDICT WITHOUT LEAVING THEIR SEATS

BENENIT OF DOUBT

MONTREAL, Sept. 18. — Wm. Fallon of Peterboro, Ont., the returned soldier, who was charged with manslaughter in conection with the death of Bella Roy of Ottawa, which took place in a St. Lawrence Boulevard rooming house on July 16th last, was tried before the King's Bench, and found not guilty. The jury returned their verdict without leaving their seats.

Captain Lionel Plante appeared for the defence. The death of Miss Roy was caused by injury to the skull, according to the testimony of the doctors who performed the autopsy, and as the woman had thrown herself on the floor several times in hysterical fits it was impossible to say whether her skull had been injured by striking some article of furniture as she fell or by blows from Fallon.

The speech of the presiding judge reminded the jury that the accused was entitled to the benefit of the doubt should any exist, and immediately afterwards the verdict of not guilty was rendered.

APPLICATIONS AT EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

One hundred and three applications for employment were received at the Employment Agency last week and of these hundred were placed, ninety-two in the city seven shipped to work on the farm and one laborer sent to outside work. Ninety two vacancies were reported at the office.

WHITE STAR LINER ASHORE

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 20.— An evening News' despatch from Kirkwall to-day reports a White Star liner ashore north of Ronaldenay. It is believed, says the message, that two thousand troops from Northern Russia, are on board. The liner ran ashore during a gale, adds the despatch, which gives no further details.

ACTIVITY IN SALE OF M'LAUGHLIN CARS

Mr. Brown, the local representative reports great activity in the sale of cars for this season of the year, he having sold since 1st of September over $13,000 worth of cars.

DISAGREE OVER FIUME INCIDENT

ROME, Sept. 20.— Premier Nitti and Foreign Minister Tittoni have disagreed over the Fiume incident, the latter disapproving of the Premier's attitude according to newspapers. A despatch from Tieste says a fleet of airplanes has landed near Fiume and have been placed at the disposition of Gabriele D'Annunzio, having flown from one of the Italian aviatio camps.

ANNUAL CONVENTION

The second annual convention of the Chapters of the I. O. D. E. of this district is to be held in Hastings, 25th September. All members of the I. O. D. E. are most cordially invited. Those motoring will be able to attend the evening meeting, which will be addressed by Mrs. Bruce, the new President; Mrs. Smith, the educational secretary, and Mrs. Stewart, the new organising secretary—the afternoon meeting being purely a business meeting. THE DUTIES OF A POLICE CONSTABLE

(BY CHIEF OF POLICE THOMPSON)

Chief of Police D. Thompson was to read the following report on a constable's duty before the Police Chief's Convention, which is now being held in Calgary. The Police Commission investigation prevented him from attending:

The Newly Appointed Constable.

The police constable, having been duly admitted to the force will, for the first six months, be busy passing what may be termed his period of graduation, that is to say, he will be acquiring a practical knowledge of his various duties and powers. Every constable, by virtue of his office, is authorized and required to maintain the public peace. But he should exercise such powers legally and with proper caution. He must therefore make himself acquainted with his duties and the nature of the offences with which he may be called upon to deal; also under what circumstances he can and ought to interfere with the liberty of others. One of the first duties that a police constable should take up is that of attendance at police court in order to acquire a knowledge of procedure and to familiarize himself with those methods which he is destined to be called to observe in the near future.

It may be well here to remind the constable that the correct official way to address a magistrate is 'Your Worship,' a judge of the High Court 'Your Lordship,' and a judge of a County Court 'Your Honour.' It is, however, permissible, in order to vary the monotony, to instead use the word 'Sir.'

Minor Offences.

There are of course the minor charges which take but a short time to dispose of. The prisoner goes straight to the dock, and the constable preferring the charge into the witness box. These are usually referred to as night charges, and invariably consist of street offences, such for instance as drunk and disorderly, soliciting, betting and so on; sometimes a prisoner may have a solicitor to plead for him, or he may speak for himself. But it is essential that the constable pay attention to the way in which the more serious charges are dealt with, in order to acquire a knowledge of the working of the Higher Courts, for the methods of dealing with the more serious cases in the Police Court is similar, although in a much modified form, to the mode of procedure adopted in the higher courts, and in order to still further assist the constable graduate I purpose to say a word about about an important possession of a police constable, namely his note book; every police constable is required to carry a note book, in which he should inscribe details which may form the basis of a charge. Notes made at the time of, or as soon after an occurrence or a criminal inquiry, may be referred to in giving evidence, but this practice is not desirable, as the opposite party has a right in such case to examine them, and cross-examine upon their contents. Notes which should be invariably made, and never destroyed, should be read over before going into court, rather than being referred to in the witness box. Where two or more officers are engaged in any case the notes should be made independently of each other. The notes should be made as quickly after the occurrence or acquisition of the knowledge as possible so that very little may be left to the memory, and in order to bring this about it is desirable that the graduate should always be trying to improve his education.

A Word on Reports.

A word may also be given here on the subject of reports. It has been said by the heads of police departments that they experience some difficulty in procuring intelligent reports from constables. Every report should be legibly written on one side of the paper only; if the subject is in any way involved full particulars should be given, without, however, going into excess details. Slang statements should never be used. Reports should be signed by the officer by whom they are made, and submitted through the proper channel, that is, his immediate superior; it is then forwarded to the head of the department.

Erasures in reports should rarely be made if the report has to be transmitted to a third person. Erasures say little for the clearness of the writer's mind, and it will generally be better to write the report again. The constable will do well to take this remark to heart.

It is expected that the newly appointed constable shall acquire sufficient knowledge within the first six months of his service to enable him to carry out his duties in an intelligent manner, when eventually he is allowed to go out into the streets and act entirely upon his own responsibility. Every possible facility for assimilating such knowledge is given him, and it therefore depends a good deal upon himself as to whether he makes the most or but little of his opportunities, also a good deal depends upon how he conducts himself when in the streets whether on or off duty, as to whether he is to be a successful member of the force, or merely a mediocre failure. As to civility and demeanor, all persons should be treated with the utmost civility, forbearance and good temper by the police constable.

Be Courteous.

When a question is put to an officer by any person, he should not answer it in a short and abrupt manner, but with the greatest possible attention, avoiding however, entering into unnecessary conversation with anyone. A civil question will frequently elicit a courteous answer and valuable information.

Above all, ladies, strangers, old people and every person calling at the police station upon any business whatever should be treated with civility.

Occasional mistakes and errors of judgment may be unavoidable on the part of the police, but civility will do much to prevent any resentment being felt.

There is nothing a police officer should more studiously avoid than argument. Suggestions should be courteously received and freely invited, for they will often prove of value, and however ridiculous it does no harm to hear them.

The utility of a constable mainly depends on his own individual bearing and conduct. The exercise of his authority as representing the law on every petty occasion will only provike opposition and resentment. A polite, forbearing demeanor will, on the other hand, if accompanied by intelligence and zeal, enlist the sympathies and respect of the public, and greatly assist him in the discharge of his duties in such a manner as will entitle him to the confidence of his superiors, and secure him ultimate honour and success.

D. THOMPSON,
Chief Constable.

WHAT "TICKLER" HAS TO SAY OF MR. HARRY SCOTT

The Kenogami Tickler, Kenogami, Que., in a recent issue made reference to a former local boy, Mr. Harry Scott, son of Mrs. Hugh Scott, of Peterboro, who was responsible for the saving of a man's life in a large plant in that place. The iteam reads: "A nasty accident was averted by the coolness of Mr. H. Scott, while the process of lining the digester was going on, a bucket of lithatge broke loose from its moorings and would have fallen on Mr. Jim McCauley who was underneath, but Scott diverted its direction and McCauley escaped with a bruised arm.

Booze Costs Years of Life

Insurance Records Prove Moderate Drinking Increases Death-rate 35%

FOR ages folly has accredited "a short life but a merry one" to those who made free with alcohol. Plain truth shows that the misery outweighs the "merriment." Life Insurance figures prove that the excess of deaths among moderate drinkers over abstainers runs from 11% to 74%.

And the highest percentage applies to men in the prime of life.

It is the business of Life Insurance Companies to know the risks a man takes when he uses liquor. Actuaries of the big companies, with access to records of many years and covering hundreds of thousands of lives, have tabulated your chances of death by the great law of averages. And these chances vary according to your use of alcohol.

Actuarial Comparison of Death Records

Ages	Total Abstainers	Moderate Drinkers	Excess Deaths Among Moderate Drinkers
20-30	4,221	4,617	11%
30-40	4,201	7,041	68%
40-50	6,246	10,861	74%
50-60	13,056	18,524	42%
60-70	29,078	34,568	19%

From tables prepared by R. H. Moore, Actuary of the United Kingdom Temperance and General Insurance Company, based on Records of over 60 years' experience.

These Insurance men have no theories to prove and no doctrine to preach. Their figures are as cold as ice, and they make you pay for the risks you run. To them it is simply business—a matter of dollars and cents. But to you it is a matter of life and death.

Are You Willing to Die Before Your Time for Sake of Booze?

BY actual experience of the United Kingdom Temperance and General Insurance Company covering a period of sixty years the number of deaths among moderate drinkers averaged 35% higher than among abstainers.

All insurance companies prefer risks upon lives of total abstainers. Some companies charge lower rates to abstainers. Other companies allot a larger share of the participating profits to policy-holders who abstain from alcohol.

Certain companies in Canada, several companies in the United States, England and elsewhere specialize on Temperance Insurance. Their records invariably show a lower percentage of deaths among abstainers, the average for the Canadian Companies being only 31.5% of ordinary expectation.

Every insurance company wants to know your alcoholic habits before issuing your life insurance policy. If you are and have been a drinker to excess, no Company will insure you.

If during the working years of your life you have habitually taken two glasses of whiskey per day or the alcoholic equivalent in beer or other intoxicating beverages, your chances of dying before your time are double those of total abstainers.

If when you apply for a policy your present alcoholic habits are satisfactory to the company, but your history records excessive drinking in the past, the company deducts four years from your life chances.

And it has been costing total abstainers yearly millions of dollars in premiums to help pay for excessive deaths among drinkers!

Ontario has suffered the loss of 25,000 men killed in battle. We have entered upon a period of Reconstruction. Human life is the nation's greatest asset. In the face of this enormous wastage Ontario cannot afford to lose a single life, or a single year or a day of life, because of beer or whiskey or any other form of alcoholic intoxicant. Ontario's men and women should be 100% efficient.

Vote "No" to repealing the Ontario Temperance Act. Vote "No" to 2.54% beer (equal to 5.46% proof spirits) in Government Liquor shops. Vote "No" to the sale of 2.51% beer (5.46% proof spirits) in standard Hotel Bars. Vote "No" to sale of whiskey, beer, and all spirituous and malted liquors in Government shops for consumption in the home.

Beer of the Ballot

The public should be warned that the Beer proposed in the ballot and described as "light" beer is intoxicating. It is 118% stronger than the beer allowed by the Ontario Temperance Act, and over five times as strong as the limit allowed for beer defined as non-intoxicating in Great Britain and the United States.

Beer 2.51% Alcohol by weight equals 5.46% Proof Spirits as compared to 2.50% proof spirits now permitted.

"The difference between those who drink beer and those who drink water is unmistakable, while the loss on beer drinkers has been almost the same as among wine and spirit drinkers"—From the report of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, New York, after an investigation of classified death records among policy holders over a period of fifteen years.

AN INTERESTING CHALLENGE.

Is beer containing 2.51 per cent. alcohol by weight intoxicating? This is the kind of beer named in the Referendum ballot. The members of the Ontario Referendum Committee declare beer of this strength is intoxicating. On the other hand the Ontario Brewers' Association just as positively declare that 2.51 per cent. alcohol by weight beer is not intoxicating. Furthermore, the Brewers have deposited a $5,000 cheque with the Canada Permanent Trust Company and challenge the Referendum Committee to deposit a similar amount to be forfeited if the committee cannot prove their statement that the beer to be voted on is intoxicating. The investigation they suggest shall take place before representatives named by each of the interested parties, and a third member agreed upon by the two or named by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, if they fail to agree. The challenge is an interesting one.

ANOTHER BIG UNION?

The Gratuity League, the organization of returned soldiers formed to agitate for the $2000 gratuity scheme, are planning to combine the different soldiers' clubs in the Dominion into one huge organization. Canada's ex-service men should however be careful to investigate the Gratuity League and its plans before deserting such organizations as the Great War Veterans' Association. The latter is based upon service not only in the interests of returned soldiers but to fight for the disabled and for the dependents of those who made the supreme sacrifice. It has already done much to improve conditions, and it is to be commended, rather than condemned, because it has chosen to carry out its objects in a constitutional and orderly manner. Selfishness would seem to be the foundation stone of the Gratuity League. Little is said about the widows and orphans or of the British Reservists, and "$2000 or bust" is not the best kind of slogan for an organization of any sort. Sergt. Flynn claims that 50,000 returned soldiers have thrown away their G.W.V.A. badges. If his statement is true it is a very bad thing for Canada and not a very good thing for the ex-service men who have acted in this manner.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

The House of Commons has approved of the principle of a bill fixing the date of Thanksgiving Day each year on the second Monday in November, the date nearest the Armistice Day. The bill, which was introduced by Mr. Isaac Pedlow, the Liberal member for South Renfrew, will likely be carried, thus making Thanksgiving Day a month later than the date usually selected, the second Monday in October. The reason for the change is apparent. It will combine Thanksgiving Day with the anniversary of the day for which Canadians should always be thankful, the day upon which Germany admitted that she was beaten. The selection of the anniversary of that occasion as Thanksgiving Day will probably strike Canadians as particularly appropriate, although for holiday purposes, especially for those who prefer to spend the day out-of-doors, the October date would be preferable. It had been announced that October 13th would be the date of Thanksgiving Day this year, but if Mr. Pedlow's bill, passes, as seems likely, this arrangement will be cancelled, and November 10th will be the date chosen.

A STRANGE UNION.

It is hardly likely that anything will come of the proposal which comes from the United Farmers of Ontario, that there be a union of the U.F.O. and the Labour party and that the united party secure as its leader no less a person than Sir Adam Beck to lead it to victory. But the proposal is an interesting one. It serves to reveal the confidence of the farmers' party in the political prowess of the Hydro knight.

There is no denying that Sir Adam would be formidable as a party leader. Such is his popularity in this province that he would attract the support of thousands of unattached voters and of many upon whom the party yoke rests lightly.

But we do not see how it would be possible for the farmers and the Labour men to maintain a permanent political alliance. The platforms of the two parties show why such a thing could not reasonably be expected. Both platforms are radical enough, but they are radical in different ways. Each is designed to advance the particular interests of the class represented, and these interests clash at some points.

The Labour party, for example, is not a prohibition party, and U.F.O. comes out flatly for prohibition — not merely the prohibition of the O.T.A., but prohibition of the "bone-dry" type. Again, the Labour party is for the single tax; it would derive all, or almost all, public revenue from the taxation of land values. Such a plan of taxation is distasteful to the farmers. The Labour party is favourable to many schemes for the amelioratiron of the condition of the handworkers—such schemes as old-age pensions, unemployment insurance, mothers' gratuities, the minimum wage, etc.; but upon such plans the farmer looks askance, seeing in them devices for increasing the burden of taxation.

The farmer desires to lower the price of labour in order that the cost of manufactured articles—the things he has to buy — may be lowered. The worker in the city is bent upon bringing down the cost of food — the commodities which he buys but which the farmer raises and sells.

The interests of the two classes clash. Even if they were to unite for political purposes, the union could not last. Even the magic of Sir Adam Beck's personal popularity could not hold it together. But for a little while the representatives of the two classes in the legislature might make it impossible for any government to carry on the business of the province without their support and perhaps might be able to dictate some policies before the inevitable split came. — Hamilton Herald.

"PANDERERS TO PREJUDICE."

Speaking of the Gratuity question, in the House of Commons on Tuesday, Captain R. J. Mason, the Unionist member for Fort William, said:

"One of the greatest menaces in this country to-day is the demagogue who is ready at a moment's notice to accede to the demands of any class of people. They are panderers to popular prejudice. They are ready to accede to any demand as long as they do not have to give money themselves. All they care about is getting the votes, and it is a sad commentary on our public life that too frequently these demagogues get the votes while serious-minded men who love the soldiers and love this country of ours, get shoved aside."

It is to be hoped that Sir William Hearst and some of his associates in the Ontario government, have not failed to read the speech of Captain Mason. They should find the extract quoted above particularly interesting in view of some remarks on the subject of gratuities they themselves have used recently. For instance, at Toronto, September 9th, Premier Hearst issued the following statement regarding war service gratuities:

"The returned soldiers are making strong representations for increased gratuity and urging that immediate action be taken to ascertain what further financial aid can be given them. Speaking for Ontario, the home of almost half of our army and the Province from which the Dominion derives nearly half of the public revenue, I feel confident our people are prepared to bear willingly their share of any additiopal grant the circumstances may demand, and the financial position of the country's warrants."

At Walkerton, Sept. 10, addresing the South Bruce Conservatives, Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer said:

"No man would say for a moment that the Canadian people would grumble about supplying finances for another year of war. Then why object if we are asked to apply at least the amount saved by the valor of our soldiers towards helping them resume civilian life? I am strongly convinced that for both the returned men and the returned nursing sisters a reasonable gratuity must be provided. It is a question of how best shall we provide it and how soon."

The two statements read in conjunction with the speech of Capt. Mason are worth more than the passing notice of the electorate.

PROHIBITION AND SCRIPTURE

The following excerpts are from an able article by Frank Anderson, M.A., (Oxon) in the "Saturday Night," of July 19th., in reply to an article in the same paper of July 5th., quoting some passages from the Bible that would seem to favor drink. He says:

"Not one of the scripture passages adduced is of force to show that our Lord or his apostles would uphold the present day colossal engine of human demoralization represented by the liquor traffic.

"Can teetotalism or prohibition be justified by scripture? Emphatically yes! Now let me ask;

1.—"Can a Christian man consistently manufacture or sell liquor? Does not Christ tell us that it were well for a man if a mill-stone were hanged about his neck and he were thrown into the sea rather than that he should cause one of these little ones to stumble?' (Luke 17: 2; R.V.) Is not the man who runs the distillery, the brewery, the saloon, putting a stumbling block in the way of right, living before every man or woman who is tempted by his wares? Is this a Christian thing to do?

2.—"Can a Christian man consistently take liquor as a beverage? What of St. Paul's precept and example? If meat maketh my brother to stumble, I will eat no flesh for evermore, that I make not my brother to stumble.' (1 Cor. 8; 13; R.V.) The principle is clear; the Christian man is expected to surrender his liberty, when the misuse of liberty by a weaker brother, emboldened by his example leads to ruin.

"Further 'Priest' seems to have overlooked the two passages which tell us expressly that Drunkards shall not inherit the Kingdom of God. (1 Cor. 6. 10; Gal. 5; 21) Will a priest of the Anglican church tolerate the saloon-keeper who sells his son that which may 'even by the remotest chance', contribute to his exclusion from the Kingdom of God."

"Doctors are telling us that alcohol is a potent stimulus to sexual vice, and sexual vice begets that hideous monster, venereal disease "Eliminate alcohol' they say, 'and you will largely eliminate venereal disease.' Is it quite impossible, then, that a man whom drink has led to vice, and who through vice has contracted this disease may marry my pure daughter, and hand down my name through no fault of mine to posterity, as the granfather of some defectives and feeble-minded," who have to be shut up at public expense in asylums?

"Of course some people will break the law, and have to adopt sneaky ways to do it, but so does the burglar, yet there is no suggestion to repeal the laws against stealing; the thief dare not steal $1.00 from my son, but the liquor-seller may with impunity steal all his moral fibre, which is more precious than rubies!

"While provincial prohibtion is good, Dominion prohibition would be infinitely preferable. The benefits gained from these laws are almost incalculable, and the very thought of going back to the old system is out of the question."

H. Arnott, M.B., M.C.B.S., Social Service Board.

"For over three years, I was confined to bed with Rheumatism. During that time, I had treatment from a number of doctors, and tried nearly everything I saw advertised to cure Rheumatism, without receiving any benefit.

Finally, I decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives'', Before I had used half a box, I noticed an improvement; the pain was not so severe, and the swelling started to go down.

I continued taking this fruit medicine, improving all the time, and now I can walk about two miles and do light chores about the place".

MURDERED WIFE IN PRESENCE OF HIS TWO CHILDRE

TELLS HOW HE DROWNED HER IN ORDER TO MARRY GIRL OF SIXTEEN.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 18.—Interrupting his game of solitaire in a cell in the county jail at Pickneyville, William Porter Wrolen told, with not a tremour in his voice, how he had drowned his wife in the presence of their two children so that he might marry Mary Brown, a sixteen-year-old country girl.

Mary Brown, Wrolen's bride of three weeks, who is also in prison, sobbed out her love for Wrolen and announced her determination to stick by him to the end.

"I've known little Mary for fifteen years," Wrolen said. "When I was but a youngster they lived on a farm adjoining ours. I love her better than anything else in the world. Tuesday, 7th July, I guess it was, my wife asked me to take her swimming at Calum Creek. While we were driving along my wife turned to me: 'Wouldn't you rather Mary was with you?' I said, 'Yes, I would.'

"We got to the creek and put the children on a blanket. My wife did not have a swimming suit, but put on some overalls and a jumper. When we got in the water she asked me again if I did not wish that Mary was with me instead of her, and I said I did. Then she got hysterical and came toward me, and I hit her on the jaw with my fist, knocking her under the water. She came up, but I did not make any attempt to pull her out. She came up and went down again until she had come up three times. She did not come up any more.

"Then I called for help. I told my neighbours that I had been swimming around the bend of the creek and that when I came back I saw bubbles coming up on the water and knew my wife had been drowned. I did not see Mary until twelve days later. Then we decided to run away and get married, which we did."

CHAPTER LXXI.

I did as Mr. Frederick suggested and ordered the car. At first I thought I would call for Lorraine or some other friend, then I decided I did not care to talk, and would take my boy. He would chatter right along, paying no attention if I did not answer.

We had gone but a little ways when I saw someone bowing to me, motioning at the same time. I told Thomas to draw up to the curb and greeted Mr. Rayburn whom I had not seen for a long time.

"Where have you kept yourself?" he asked. "I have been to every blessed affair in the hope of seeing you, only to be disappointed. Been busy with that wonderful house I expect. I hear it is gorgeous.

"Yes, we think it very handsome. But really it is not the house which is to blame for my remaining at home. Mr. Forbes has been away a great deal lately, and I seldom if ever go without him."

"Foolish lady! does he never go without you?" A meaning in his suave voice which I ignored, although I felt myself flushing, and to cover my embarassment I changed the subject by saying:

"Can't I set you down wherever you are going? Robert and I can easily make room for you." My son was sprawled boy-wise across the seat.

"Thank you, that will be an unexpected pleasure. I have an appointment at the club. But don't let me spoil your drive, I have half an hour yet.

"Then we will go on around the park before we let you off," I said as he took his seat. I had lifted Robert up and put him between us.

"Is Mr. Forbes at home now?" he asked.

"Yes, came back from the West last night."

"His business is prospering, I hear."

"Yes—but he works terribly hard." I so wanted to add; and what else have you heard?",

"It doesn't pay to push one's self too hard. To make money too fast;"

"What do you mean?" I would draw him out.

"Oh, that one misses a lot. Enjoyment, comfort, many things which mere money do not compensate us for."

"What difference if one gets their enjoyment in work, Mr. Forbes fairly eats work." I gazed intently at him as I spoke. I would give him every chance. If he had anything to say about Neil I wanted to hear it—and deny it.

"Forbes is a wonderful fellow. Everyone says he is the cleverest money-maker in town." I did not stop to consider or look for a double meaning in his words. He was praising Neil, that was enough. I felt my lips curve in a smile. Even men recognized his ability. I had been silly, foolish, to listen to what Lorraine and those women in the decorator's shop had said. Nothing ever could come between me and Neil, nothing. Ever since I had first met him he had been all the world to me. I should be proud that a man whom other men thought so unusual loved me. I was proud. Self condemnation had me by the throat. The revulsion from doubt and suspicion left me weak, and trembling. It gave me almost acute pleasure to note signs of happiness upon the faces of the people we passed. Here was a man, my husband, who was strenuously fighting his way to the high places of finance. And because he didn't follow the beaten path, but hewed out a road for himself, I had been ready to blame him.

"A penny for your thoughts," Mr. Raybura's voice startled me. I had forgotten his very existence.

"It is time we turned, Thomas, the University Club please."

I dropped my whilom companion then went home. I found a message from Mr. Frederick.

"If convenient I will call upon you about eleven o'clock to-morrow morning."

I knew he was coming to tell me what he had done for me. I smiled to think how needless it was. My mood again had changed. No one could make me distrust Neil.

PLAIN STATEMENTS
BY THE CITIZENS' LIBERTY LEAGUE

The Citizens' Liberty League is not dominated by selfish interests, nor has it any undisclosed purpose to serve.

The League is composed solely of men and women throughout Ontario who believe that the Ontario Temperance Act is unsatisfactory and that new legislation more in keeping with the wishes and needs of all classes should be enacted.

The Citizens' Liberty League is in accord with the Ontario Temperance Act in so far as it prohibits the unrestricted sale of spirituous liquors. The League is absolutely opposed to the return of the old license system.

What the League wants is:—That the Ontario Temperance Act be repealed and a new Act passed which would make provisions for the general sale of more palatable, non-intoxicating beer (containing 2.51% alcohol by weight), light wine; and the sale of pure spirituous liquors under proper Government control.

You are asked to vote for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act because the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act does not mean a return to the general sale of spirituous liquors, as the Premier, in his speech of April 7th, said: "Now, practically no one suggests a return to old conditions. The distillers in a recent manifesto say that they themselves are opposed to it. Many hotelkeepers say they are opposed to it. The brewers say they are opposed to it. Honorable gentlemen in the House and the people out of the House who are opposed to the present Act, say they are equally opposed to the old order. The labor men who ask for stronger beer say they don't want the sale of hard liquor."

The Premier and the Government, realizing this, would not be parties to a continuance of the general sale of spirits as under the old license system, but would amend the License Act in accord with public sentiment. This would be in keeping with the policy of the Provincial Governments of the past fourteen years, which have from time to time amended the License Act to conform to the wishes of the people. To vote "Yes" to question number one would enable the Government to provide for the sale of beer and light wine in the hotels, and beer and spirits in Government stores for home consumption.

Therefore the only thing to be done is to wipe out the unsatisfactory Ontario Temperance Act and thus enable the Government to bring in new legislation more in keeping with the wishes of the people.

Be sure to vote "Yes" to Question No. 1 for that will be your guarantee that proper consideration will be given to your vote in Questions 2, 3, and 4.

Vote "YES" on All Four Questions

ROCK FROM BELMONT MINES

CONSTRUCT PIECE OF ROAD BETWEEN HAVELOCK AND TRENT RIVER

It is currently reported that the Ontario Government in order to test the qualities of the rock from the Belmont township quarries for road building will construct a piece of road between Havelock and Trent River—a distance of about four miles Provincial Engineer Hogarth of Toronto, accompanied by Warden McIntosh and Deputy Reeve Bell of North Monaghan, and Good Roads Supt. Greer of Cobourg, were in Havelock last week We are not, however prepared to say that their visit was in connection with this proposition.

Should this rock work out satisfactorily it may mean the development of several quarries in this district, and especially now that road building has become so important. The supply north and east of Norwood is almost inexhaustible.

LAKEFIELD AND STONEY LAKE NEWS

Lakefield, Sept. 14—The W.A. of St. John's Church held a meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday School to discuss plans for taking part in the Forward Movement of the Anglican Church. Mrs. Darling, who has been treasurer for a number of years, resigned her office and Mrs. Stewart was appointed in her place. Mrs. Marling had served very faithfully as treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dunn of the Island of Orleans, were in the village for a few days this week with friends.

Mr. Frank Lucano who spent the summer at the Lake returned to the village on Tuesday.

Major F. W. Blakeman who has been overseas for the past four years has returned to the village.

Returned Home.

Major and Mrs. H. A. Ben Oliel and children returned on Wednesday to the village after an absence of more than four years. They went overseas in August, 1915, and in September Major Ben Oliel (then captain) was appointed chaplain of Cliveden Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Taplin. About eight months later he was transferred to No. 2 Canadian General Hospital at Le Treport in France. He was after long service there, moved to the Hastings area and later transferred to No. 5 Canadian General Hospital at Kirkdale, Liverpool. He received his Majority and was senior Canadian Chaplain in the Liverpool area. More than 25,000 men pased through his hands. Mrs. Ben Oliel, who accompanied him did most excellent work also. They returned to Canada on the steamer "Orduna."

Capt. and Mrs. Marling spent Tuesday at "Point of Rocks," Stoney Lake.

An airplane passed over the village on Monday and dropped advertising matter for the Peterboro Fair.

Mr. Wm. Dever of Burleigh, was in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. W. M. Graham is in Toronto on business this week.

Mr. Frank Lucano is visiting with in Peterboro.

Mrs. (Major) Leight entertained a number of her friends at a picnic on Wednesday, in honor of her 80th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Metcalfe and daughter Miriam left on Wednesday for Montreal, where they will embark for England. They intend to settle in Yorkshire.

Sergt. Hope has returned to Toronto after spending several weeks in the village with his family.

Mr. J. N. Ackerman's new cottage at Gore's Landing is nearing completion and is most attractive. It is built on the shore near his brother-in-law's (Mr. T. E. Finley) cottage and is of cement with shingled gables.

Mr. D. H. Charleton of Kawartha Park has closed his store for the season and returned to the village.

Miss Marjorie Hamilton, who spent the summer at Viamede, is the guest of friends in Apsley.

Mr. Fletcher of Juniper Island, closed his store for the season on Wednesday. This is Mr. Fletcher's third year at Juniper and he reports this season a record-breaker.

The steamer "Empress" made the last trip of the season on Tuesday.

Mr. Wilson of Toronto, representing the Imperial Oil Company, was on a business trip to Apsley and Mt. Julian this week.

A number of cottagers and settlers took in the Board of Trade Excursion to the Peterboro Fair on Tuesday. The crowd would have been much larger if it had been sufficiently advertised.

Mr. H. W. Morphet of Peterboro is building a pretty bungalow at Kawartha Park.

TO BE FIRST PASSENGER BY AERIAL ROUTE.

Mr. Herb Graham, the well known cattle drover, has made arrangements to be the first Lindsay passenger to cover the aerial route from Lindsay to Peterboro.

This flight will take place with Capt. Salter the aviator who flew over the town on Sunday morning, and will take place on Tuesday morning.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then Back hurts and Bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, then to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

AN INTERESTING GATHERING IN SMITH TOWNSHIP

EIGHTY-SECOND BIRTHDAY OF MRS. NEIL M'DONALD OF PETERBOROUGH—HISTORICAL ADDRESS

A very interesting gathering of the Young family of Smith street, was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Paul last evening. The occasion was the 82nd birthday of Mrs. Neil McDonald of Peterboro, who, with her brother, Thos Young, her sister, Mrs. Paul and her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Young, received the felicitations of their children, grand children and great grand children. A story of the settlement in Canada of the family was read by Miss Irene Young and many congratulatory letters and telegrams from the members of the family in Canada and United States, were also heard with pleasure. A sumptuous supper was served at which over ninety guests were served. The evening was spent very enjoyably in music and games. Among the interesting relics on exhibition was a piece of bread, left at him home when finishing his last meal there by the Late Thos. Young. It was preserved by his mother and sent over years afterwards, It is hard as stone and so porous in appearance as to resemble a sponge. Two beautiful shawls were shown, one silk and the other cashmere, which graced the shoulders of two brides of the family, in the early days, and also a pen and ink portrait of the pioneer's mother, which is a treasured possession. Mr. Roy photographed the group on the lawn.

The Address.

The following address was read to those assembled:

Dear Friends:—We are gathered here to-day as a family, under very happy circumstances. It is a rare occasion for us, and should be remembered as one of the best family gatherings of our lives. We are all interested in the stories of the past and what should interest us more, both young and old, than the story of the founder of this family in Canada, the Late Thos. Young, of Northumberland, England? This pioneer left England in March, 1832, accompanied by his wife and five children, and after eleven weary weeks of sailing landed in Canada on June 2, of that year. The journey inland was made on a boat, drawn up the St. Lawrence river by oxen which walked along the bank.

During the voyage cholera had broken out on board, and upon reaching Prescott, one of the children, a bright little girl, died and was buried there. By the time the party reached Port Hope, Mrs. Young's father, Mr. Edminson, who also accompanied them, had become so ill with the disease that they were obliged to care for him in a barn nearby until he also died. To facilitate matters, Mr. Young and her children proceeded to Peterboro to the home of her brother, who was living on the old Edminson farm north of Jackson Park, leaving her husband to care for her father. Before Mr. Young reached Peterboro two of the little boys had died, leaving only two children to the bereaved parents.

Took Up Land.

Mr. Young took up land lying along Chemong Lake, where his son Thomas of Charlotte street, Peterboro, resided until a few years ago. During eleven years of the pioneer's life here, he taught the old fourth line school on the site where his great grand children are now getting their public school training. His salary was $130 a year, providing he took only one month off to take off his harvest, and $10 less if her required two months in the summer to attend to his farming operations. The school year in those ways included every alternate Saturday.

Mrs. Young only survived the rigors of Canadian pioneering for nine years, leaving at her death six children, Mr. Young died in the year 1864 at the age of 63 years.

Now, it is to do honor to the surviving members of this family that we are gathered here to-day. To Mr. Thos Young, to Mrs. Neil McDonald, whose 82nd birthday we are celebrating, to Mrs. Paul and Mr. John Young of Peterboro, a sister-in-law of these, we offer our heartiest congratulations. We are happy indeed to have them with us and hope they may be spared to come and go amongst us for many years. Many of our kin are in the distant west, and we know they are with us in thought to-day. We wish to acknowledge their kindly greetings and to reciprocate their best wishes for the future. We are proud to recall the fact that during the recent Great War ten great grandsons of this family saw active service overseas. Several of them bear scars won on the field of battle. One is still with the aviation corps at Archangel, Russia, and two made the supreme sacrifice, viz: Cecil Young of Alexander, Manitoba was killed in action at Vimy Ridge in April, 1917; and Burrit Bell of Smith Township was killed in action near Valenciennes, Nov. 4, 1918. To the parents of these boys we offer honor, that the boys of our family went forward at the first [illegible] with the best blood of Canada and to the mourners we would say: Our hearts grieve, as you grieve, yet with pride, because we know that these were worthy of Canada who died for her, and we feel we must strive to be worthy of them. And now before closing we must welcome the new-comers to our family circle. We believe we are indebted to a young fellow by the name of Cupid for several of these, in recent years, and our welcome is even more hearty to the recent additions brought to us by Mr. Stork. May these little ones grow up to love truth and to follow wisdom, for "Her ways are ways of pleasantness and her paths are peace."

YOUR COMPLEXION BY ALL MEANS

A Beautiful Skin and Stuart's Calcium Wafers Have Made Thousands of Girls Happy.

Don't smear the face with creams, lotions, powders and rouge to hide

what ought to be real natural beauty. Don't try to hide pimples, etc., but get rid of them by clearing the blood with Stuart's Calcium Wafers. This wonderful beauty-maker has a most remarkable action to naturally seek the skin, dry up pimples, so that the impurities pass off.

In a few days the skin becomes clear, pimples dry and flake off, boils cease, blackheads are gone, yellow muddiness disappears and before you can realize it you have a more beautiful complexion. No creams, lotions, bleaches, or other external methods can do this, as all experience has proven. Get a person box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store. Begin to-day.

METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING ADVOCATES FOUR NO'S ON BALLOT

Financial district meeting in connection with the Peterboro district of the Methodist Church was held in the Reid Street Sabbath School, Friday, Sept. 19th.

The ministerial members were nearly all present and a number of laymen from the various appointments.

A strong resolution was passed in connection with the coming referendum Act. It was as follows:

"That we welcome with unboundtion of the provincial and various local referendum committees in their plan to invite all churches, social and moral agencies throughout the Province for a solid vote of four "No's" on the Referendum ballot of Oct. 20."

"That we urge all our pastors and workers to give their committees their fullest co-operation and support in every way possible."

"That we request all our pastors to give special prominence to this matter especially on the three Sundays preceding the vote."

"That we welcome with unbounded confidence the coming vote of the women, knowing it will stand for the protection of the home, the welfare of the child and the continued deliverance of many who had fallen under old conditions, but to-day are sober respected citizens."

"That we urge all our church societies to participate in the educational work necessary to a correct marking of the ballot and that demonstration polling booths be conducted in the cooperation with various referendum committees."

That continuous emphasis be placed on the absolute necessity of voting a full four "No" ballot. Keep to the right of your ballot, and you will vote right. Place your crosses in the right hand column, under the word "No."

Rev. A. McLaughlin, B. A., of Pontypool, was appointed statistical secretary. Aggressive action will be taken on during the year throughout the district, for the inspiration and development of Epworth Leagues, S. Schools and Young People's work.

Very inspiring and helpful addresses were given by Rev. Dr. Burns, Toronto, Mr. W. B. Sparling, Lindsay and Rev. W. P. Rogers, B. A., President of conference regarding the national campaign that is to be inaugurated throughout the churches.

Rev. Dr. Burns outlined the campaign for the Methodist church. M. W. B. Sparling spoke of the Church of to-day its faith and mission, while Rev. Mr. Rogers outlined the financial and spiritual aims of the district. The district accepted the obligations and resolved to carry out the plan outlined.

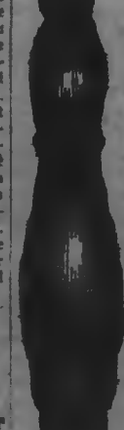
The following committee were appointed to inaugurate a plan of action for the district:

Rev. A. J. Thomas, B. A. B. D., chairman.

Rev. S. T. Tucker, B. A., B. D., Millbrook. Mr. J. M. Greene, Peterboro; F. G. Staples, Cavan, Wm. Harper, Lakefield, Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Peterboro, Mrs. S. S. Spence, Lakefield.

Then Rev. Dr. Burns led the district in spiritual conference and the meeting was brought to a close with a prayer by the chairman, Rev. A. J. Thomas.

IT CURES CATARRH BRONCHITIS



You don't have to wait for relief when you use Catarrhozone.

This wonderful inhaler treatment is guaranteed to cure any case of Catarrh, no matter how chronic.

You breathe through this inhaler and in so doing you send instantly all through the breathing organs a powerful vapour that is full of soothing, healing, germ-destroying properties.

In this way the seeds of Catarrh are destroyed. Sore nostrils and weak throat are cured. Coughing, hard breathing, and sneezing all stop. For lasting cure use only Catarrhozone. Refuse a substitute. Two months' treatment (including the inhaler), price $1.00. Small size 50c., at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont., Canada.

Green crosses are put on doctors' cars to distinguish them from Sunday joy riders.

ANY WOMAN'S STRUGGLE FOR GOOD HEALTH QUICKLY REWARDED

A SIMPLE HOME TREATMENT NOW ADVOCATED THAT GIVES FINE RESULTS.

When a woman's face grows haggard and pale, when she is tired all day and ready to cry when night comes, she ought to know something is wrong.

Putting off only make matters worse. The best advice we can give any sickly woman is to test out the following treatment.

At the close of every meal, with a sip or two of water, take two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets. This seems to be the best thing going for folks that are tired out, run-down and in need of a strengthening, building-up medicine.

Ferrozone's action aids the three principal functions of the body—digestion, assimilation, elimination.

By strengthening digestion it forms an abundance of rich, red blood—this gives good colour.

By perfecting assimilation, Ferrozone supplies nutrition — this gives strength, vim, stability.

Elimination is assured because Ferrozone quickens the action of the liver, kidneys, and bowels—this guarantees the maintenance of vigorous health.

Ferrozone puts you on the right road—the one that leads to health.

Not a man, woman or child needing blood, vigor, endurance—not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in ill-health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozone.

As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and body-builder, Ferrozone is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up and strengthen. Try it yourself—sold everywhere in 50 cent boxes, 6 boxes for $2.50, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

GERMANY A PERFECT DYNAMO OF STRENGTH

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 21.— Germany came through this war a perfect dynamo of strength. Her human military power is practically as great as ever and her sixty-five million people have been schooled and hardened by trials. They have learned economy and self denial. The nation has been compressed into a concentrated mass, which is subcharged with epergy and moving with centripetal forte, while Germany's neighbours are spreading themselves out thin and quarreling and moving with centrifugal force.

Thus spoke Henry Morgenthau, who headed the United States' Investigation Commission which has been at work in Poland, in discussing his observations in Central Europe.

His Flesh Horribly Burnt.

His druggist sold him a cheap acid corn cure; what he should have bought was Putnam's Corn Extractor; it's purely vegetable and acts in 24 hours. Insist on only "Putnam's Extractor." Sold by all dealers.

COMING CAMPAIGN.

The committee in charge of the Y.M.C.A. Red Triangle Fund met to further consider the plans for the coming campaign. The campaign will be held on 30th September to 1st October. The original dates of 5-9 May when the campaign was held throughout Canada, were cancelled in Peterborough in order that the Great War Veterans might have a clear field for their canvass for the new rooms.

The next meeting of the campaign workers will be held at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening at 6.30 to 8, when lunch will be served.

Details of the campaign will be published in the newspapers, including what is being asked of Peterborough and how the money will be expended this year.

DRUGGIST DID BIG BUSINESS.

From the 9th of August to the 9th of September the druggists of Cobourg sold 168 pints of alcohol on 2 doctors' orders, which, the Sentinel-Star reckons, is equal to 800 quarts of whisky. Of this amount two doctors ordered 124 pints. The Attorney-General's Department is being communicated with, as to what action should be taken.

TEETHING TROUBLES

Baby's teething time is a time of worry for most mothers. Baby's little gums become swollen and tender; his bowels get out of order and constipation, colic or even diarrhoea sets in. To make the teething period easy Baby's Own Tablets should be given the little one. They sweeten the stomach; regulate the bowels and keep baby good natured. Concerning them Mrs. Marcel D. LeBlanc, Memramcook, West N. B. writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past six years and have found them indispensable. To my mind nothing can equal them in allaying the fever accompanying teething. I would not be without them and can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Take Your Time, Don't Hurry!

There is no need for so much rushing on baking days, hurrying to get your cakes in the oven—such exhausting exertion adds baking to the list of household drudgeries.

You can take your time yet do more with

EGG-O Baking Powder

than with other brands because the leavening action of Egg-O only ceases when your cakes are properly baked—No matter if you do have to wait several hours for your oven.

And don't worry if your oven does cool off. Egg-O will leaven your baking with less heat than most other brands.

And above all, don't worry about fallen cakes, follow the directions on the label. You will use less Baking Powder, and have better baking.

The new leader of the Murray Street Baptist Choir, Mr. Douglas Carlisle will take charge of the work on Sunday morning and evening and will himself be heard in solo work.

The reception tendered to him and Mrs. Carlisle on Thursday evening speaks eloquently of the co-operation he may expect from the choir.

Regret was expressed that the business demands made upon Mr. Asa Huycke rendered it impossible for him to continue in the work where he was so thoroughly appreciated.

The entire music committee regretted the necessity of his giving up the leadership, but is pleased to hear from Mr. Huycke himself that he will continue his connection with the choir.

UNITED FARMERS' CANDIDATE WAS HEARD AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING OF THE INDEPENDENT LABOUR PARTY

HIS OPPONENT, MR. JAMES THOMPSON, M.P.P., WAS ALSO PRESENT —A VARIETY OF SPEAKERS.

Mayor Morrison MacBride of Brantford missed connections at Toronto when the Brantford train was late. Mr. Thomas Tooms, who came "only to listen" conveyed the Labor mayor's regrets, and although those present were somewhat disappointed they listened with attention to Mr. Thomas Lane at last night's meeting of the Independent Labour Party held in Victoria Hall.

"What are you going to do?" asked Mr. Tooms, referring to the fact that all constituencies in Ontario will have Labor candidates except Peterboro, Ottawa and Kingston.

Mr. Peter McArthur was chairman of the meeting and thought that a Labor man should be placed in the field.

Mr. R. N. Scott of Smith Township said he felt like a "fish out of water" at a Labor union meeting and stated that the farmers and labor unions should have got together 25 years ago. He worked hard for the Conservative party for many years but he thought the old parties had run their gamut and to-day was the harvest of the U. F. O.

Get Together.

"We must get together and I doubt whether the farmers can do much alone or whether the Independent Labor Party can do anything alone." Sixteen hours work a day is no stranger to Mr. Scott and he was sorry that the rain prevented the farmers from attending the meeting. He further stated that there were a great many farmers who wanted to join the Labor party. He threw some hot shot at Sir Joseph Flavelle and said that the bacon magnate made as much money out of the war as the total assessment of the County of Peterborough.

Mr. Tom Lane said he was prepared to expound a few truths which the old political parties do not do, "but," said Mr. Lane, "we can't spread it around like they." Flavelle was tipped over a few times because "he gets the cream and we get the milk." A steam roller was run both backwards and forwards over both the old parties and he disliked that parody on the Bible, "Blessed are they that expect nothing for they shall not be disappointed."

The Union Government is now making a big effort to enquire into the High Cost of Living because an election is coming on.

"Everything is combines and we might as well combine too."

There is no question that the Veterans, the Farmers and the Labor men can put any man in the Commons that they want to."

Returned Soldiers.

Alderman Robert Morrison was in the audience. He thought he could speak about the bridge best, as for a political speech he was sure that it was out of his line.

"There is nothing too good for the returned soldiers. It is about time to see that the returned soldiers received something," said Mr. F. Asta.

"The returned soldiers should have the gratuity. What is $1.10 a day? When a soldier is discharged there should be a check for $2,000."

Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., for East Peterboro was present but he wasn't called upon and he did not express his opinion.

U. F. O. Candidate.

Mr. Ernest N. Macdonald, standard bearer for the U. F. O. in East Peterboro, sat behind his opponent, Mr. Thompson, who did not know that Mr. Macdonald was present until the U. F. O. candidate was given three cheers and asked to speak.

He spoke of the aims of the U. F. O. and declared that Labor and the farmer should get together for decent representation. Profiteering among the pork barons and a brick-bat thrown at Mr. W. F. O'Connor, Vice-Chairman of the Board of Commerce, formed part of Mr. Macdonald's speech. He spoke of cheese sold at the factory for 25c and sold to the people for 40c; wool sold from the sheep's back at 60c a lb. and sold for $3.00 a pound in the form of wool.

"Nobody knows when the election will be. At least the common people don't know and we must get together now. The present member for East Peterboro went up and spoke for the Conservative in North Ontario, Major Cameron," said Mr. Macdonald, "a Conservative."

Mr. Tom McMurray also spoke at length.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY AT GEORGE STREET CHURCH

One of the great days in connection with George Street Methodist Church is Young People's Sunday, when there is a rally of young people, and the services are of especial interest to them. These services will be held to-morrow, and all the young people's organizations of the church are co-operating to make them a great success. Every young person who attends will be provided with a badge in recognition of the day.

The pastor of the church will be in charge and the speaker for the day will be Miss Nelly M. Turner. Miss Turner is a young woman of great ability and a brilliant speaker. She is a grand-daughter of one of the pioneer missionaries of British Columbia, and is, herself, devoting her energies largely to the missionary cause. She is considered to be a marvel in her public addresses.

There will be a fine programme of music by the choir at both services, and in the evening a short song service.

All are heartily invited, and a special invitation if extended to the young people.

SALVATION ARMY TEMPLE NOTES

The week-end services at the Temple on Simcoe Street will be conducted by Captain Spooner and Adjutant Clayton, of Toronto Headquarters. Captain Spooner is territorial organizer of the S.A. Boy Scouts of Canada, and is thoroughly well versed in the management of Scout work of all kinds. He is a fluent speaker, and his addresses will be of great interest to old and young.

Adjutant Clayton is editor of the "Young Soldier," the Army Sunday School paper, and his talks will also be full of interest to his audience.

The open air on Sunday morning will be held at the corner of Townsend and Rubidge Streets.

The Temple is very tastefully decorated with the products of the farm, this being Harvest Festival Sunday. To all of the services the public are cordially invited. Congregational singing a specialty. Come and bring a friend.

PAINFUL RHEUMATISM

MAY BE DRIVEN OUT OF THE SYSTEM BY ENRICHING THE BLOOD

In the days of our fathers and grandfathers rheumatism was thought to be the unavoidable penalty of middle life and old age. Almost every elderly person had rheumatism, as well as many young people. Medical science did not understand the trouble—did not know that it was rooted in the blood. It was thought that rheumatism was the mere effect of exposure to cold and damp, and it was treated with liniments and hot applications, which sometimes gave temporary relief, but did not cure the trouble. In those days there were thousands of rheumatic cripples. Now, medical science understands that rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and that with good, rich, red blood any man or woman of any age can defy rheumatism, can be cured by killing the poison in the blood which causes it. There are many elderly people who have never felt a twinge of rheumatism, and many who have conquered it by simply keeping their blood rich and pure. The blood making, blood-enriching qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is becoming every year more widely known, and it is the more general use of these pills that has robbed rheumatism of its terrors. At the first sign of poor blood, which is shown by loss of appetite, palpitations, dull skin and dim eyes, protect yourself against the further ravages of disease by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have cured thousands of people—if you give them a fair trial they will not disappoint you.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A cool salad is an excellent appetizer on hot days.

MAYOR MacBRIDE MISSED THE TRAIN

BRANTFORD'S FOREMOST LABOUR MAN HAS HAD A STRENUOUS CAREER

Mayor Morrison McBride, of Brantford, one of the foremost Labor men in the province, who was scheduled to speak at a mass meeting of the Independent Labour Party last night at Victoria Hall was not present, as he missed connections at Toronto. Mayor MacBride is known as a moderate and believes with Right Hon. Arthur Henderson in "evolution not revolution." Morrison MacBride landed in the "Telephone City" from the town of Arnprior, as a lacrosse player, when Brantford was on the lacrosse map and before "Knotty" Lee or Joe Keenan ever tried to put Brantford in the limelight as a baseball town. This was fifteen years ago and Mac., as he was familiarly known, set type at the Brantford Expositor when he was not playing lacrosse. He was known as the best defence man that the champion team ever had and played with such lacrosse stars as "Tax" Heedrie and Albert Dade of the champion Shamrocks of Montreal and Bruce Hutton of Ottawa. Later Mac started in the printing business himself, doing job printing and binding. Several years ago he was elected to the Brantford city council and on New Year's Day of this year blossomed out as mayor of his adopted town. At the last Dominion election he came out third best, running as a Labor-Unionist against the then Mayor, J. S. Bowlby, who ran on a straight Laurier ticket, and the successful candidate Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, who is regarded at Ottawa as chief priest of the protectionist group of the Union Government and who was, incidentally, an Honorary Colonel.

A very short time ago Mac. was suggested as Provincial Minister of Labor, a new portfolio which never materialised. Through the press and in speeches he strongly condemned the radical attitude of ex-Controller "Jimmie" Simpson and questioned his allegiance to the Labor party.

GERMANS WANT AN INVITATION TO CONFERENCE

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—German labour delegates have decided not to participate in the International Labour Congress to be held in Washington in October, unless they are invited by leaders of the conference from Allied countries. For their presence merely to be tolerated is not sufficient to attract them, labour leaders said to-day.

The explosion occurred in the engine room. Four men who had been on shore leave and who were coming alongside of the ship at the time of the explosion, are missing.

CONDEMNS HIGH HEELS, POINTED TOES

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Simplification of dress, which should include the abolition of the high heel and the sharp-toed shoe, was urged by Dr. Auguste Rucker, of this city at the session of the International Conference of Women Physicians. Savages of old, she said, developed a better race physically than modern peoples because of their natural and free tendencies.

Discussing unhygienic clothing, the speaker said that stockings worn by children were too short in foot length, which, coupled with tight shoes, reacts later on in life and often causes deformed feet. The posture of children due to wearing elastic garters or suspender straps, she added, stoops them and impedes their growth. Dr. Rucker advocated compulsory physical examinations for all children, at least once a year.

A GAS METER, TYPOGRAPH AND A CHURCH TRAINING

HOW HE ENTERTAINED AN ANGEL UNAWARES

By Frank H. Dobbin, Peterborough

Economy is a mighty good thing if, as Charles Dudley Warner said of agriculture, one does not get too much of it. But the regrettable thing about this excellent practice is that begin to put it into force and at once trouble arises. For the definitions of economy are several and varied. In business and manufacturing economy means a district saving plucked from waste and made helpful. Per contra, any government that proclaimed a policy of rigid economy would deserve and probably would be defeated. Instead, and with wise intuition, it brings forward a "broad and liberal policy of conservation." That sounds much better and does not tie the Cabinet up in perplexing knots. Practice economy in a personal way and your friends will cut you on the street or on the golf links and call it penuriousness, while the hands in the office will rudely state and speak of it sneeringly as pure stinginess. So what would you have?

As an apprentice I was inducted into the kindergarten of economy by being taught to untie a parcel and fold the paper or wrapper and hang the string on a nail. All very well as a matter of discipline, for about the time of the Fenian Raid a sheet of stout paper and a hank of strong string were not to be sneezed at. To-day we know that if rightly applied the time spent in such ventures in economy will earn four times the amount of paper or string saved. These remarks merely open a door to a story of how on a time we took up the matter of economy in the printing office and how in the end we entertained an angel unawares. All on account of a certain and diabolical gas meter.

Gas meters, come to consider them as a class and an infliction, are curious things and have several human attributions. Have a face, hands, lungs and like many people wheels in the head. Also like others, are assumed to seldom tell the truth. At least few of us implicitly believe the figures and charges displayed on the bill as derived from the mysterious workings of the contrivance. But to our story.

We had been lighting the office gas and paying therefore one dollar and fifty cents per thousand feet. The gas was convenient to use but costly. Occasionally along would come a traveller, and emissary of some supply house, with predatory instincts, who would inveigle us into huking some sort of contrivance warranted to assuage the pangs of paying high water mark gas bills and enduce to economy. We have all bought such things and been disappointed. Hoped to get more gas for less money or nay less money for more gas. Promised a saving which never materialized. We just held what we had.

Then there came a day on which we put in our first barcasting machine, one of the Rogers tribe of pious memory. Tell you what, we felt proud. Prouder than a farmer with a new red waggon. A few days after the manager of the local gas works called to present his compliments and say some nice things about our enterprise and venture all the gas up by announcing that in view of our eterprise and new venture all the gas we used for fuel, as he expressed it, would be charged to us at the rate of one dollar and a quarter.

This unexpected piece of liberarity came to the staff as a distinct shock. That a manager, right off his own bat, so to speak, should make an unmaked reduction was thrilling. So much so that the staff proposed to take the afternoon off to celebrate the event, but we suppressed that. After absorbing the situation, which evoked pleasurable feelings, we with presence of mind, asked the manager just how he proposed to separate the two gasses, the fuel from the light, and he said that would be easy. He would have put in another meter to serve the machine. This was done and we went ahead on that basis, the two meters registering side by side the same bad smell and at diverse prices for the same.

Presently we added another barcaster and at intervals a third and fourth. Settled down to the consumption of considerable gas the manager saw a light and called around and invited us to have the building wired for use of electric light. Professed that as a lighting service it would be beter than gas, of which there could be no doubt at all, considering the brand of gas he was dispensing. Besides he would have gas to sell to some other customer who could not for purposes use electric energy. Beats Bannigar how the minds of these gas men work. While in common with many others, we had been warned to receive with discretion propositions coming from what the hands called a bloated monopoly, the idea seemed good. We installed.

That gotten out of the way, back he came, this time with a poor mouth story. The company had lost a ship load of meters off the banks of Newfoundland, or the wind was in the east, or mother was not very well, anyway, the gist of the proposition was that they were short of meters of a size, and if we would let him extract the two that were on duty in the cellar he would replace the twins with one larger meter and the whole amount of gas used, either for light or fuel, would be at the reduced price. Newspaper people are ever receptive to the pangs of a brother in distress. So we agreed.

Besides we had grown tired of once in a month taking all the money in the cash register, emptying the safe and borrowing a trifle from the junior reporter and trotting down the palatial office of the company and reluctantly handing over the avails. So we told him that while he was the pay-as-you-enter kind. In this at it he might as well put in one of way we should pay by instalments and so lessen the shock of deprivation. And as well would know from day to day just what we paid for fuel and be relieved from a monthly incubus. An incubus, it may be explained, is something that affect a fellow's peace of mind, like the prospect of having the forme rollers on the news press melting while you are getintg off the weekly edition on a hot day.

A few days after I found two men with a cart unloading something at the side door of the office. I moved over to investigate. Found that it was our substitute gas meter. About as big as a small refrigerator and a battle-scarred veteran at that. Its terra-cotta colored sides bore the marks of many an avenging monkey-wrench. The men admited that the thing had ben ensconced i the city for several years. Faith, the statement did not lack verification, but I disputed on general principles that if you let the plumber or gas man do as he wants to he has you tied up. I told the mthat I knew where it came from and that they had been and borrowed it in Port Hope, for it bore all the ear-marks of that truculant community. Turning it over on its back, I consulted the dials of the register and say that over a quarter of a million feet of gas had passed through its viels. To my remark that the thing had seen service, the larger of the two pirates said: "You bet," and very positively.

Anyway, they carried it downstairs and stuck it up in the darkest corner they could find. Invariably do so. No deviation from that infernal rule. Always placed where you fall over pipes, shovels, old rollers, fractured type cases and any old debris. Then announced as being in working order, we prepared to go ahead, for of course, it had to be fed with coin. ..othing more or les than a quarter a time would be accepted. Needing gas we had to pay in advance.

Presently we began to have our faith in the rectitude of that gas meter weakened. That is weakened in the right direction. Being a new chore, and not exactly any one person's business, the contrivance often went hungry. Occassionally the flow of gas stopped and then we knew that we had been neglectful. But by and large we gained the impresion that we were making financial offerings rather less than would cover the amount of gas we knew we were using. It would be apparent that if this supposition proved to be a reality we were on the track of some economy. At least it looked that way.

The average for gas used had been about $24.00 per month. First of the month following an emissary of the gas company called and said his painful duty would be to go down cellar and extract the contents from the safety deposit vault that is clamped on the side of the meter. As he went downstairs he was whistling a cheerful tune, but when he came up he had ceased whistling and his manner was not cordial. "See here," said he, "you people have been using considerable les gas this month than in the last." And he spread the plunder out on the counter (it was all in quarters), and the staff got around to see fair play, and we counted it. Totalled up to seventeen dollars. Gee Wiz! We had saved seven dollars in the month. Here was real and practical economy. And at once, mentally, we proposed to take a trip to Europe or to buy a grindstone or to spend the savings in some perfectly reskless way. Things were coming along in our direction at last, on the performance of the meter. He was glum and doubtless. He'd try it another month.

That we might be implicated as conspirators in defrauding the gas company we were careful to insert in the meter all the coin it wanted and had ample fuel. That month all the coin aredlca35 fugazprey the total was about $16.00, there being a holiday and less matter set. After the disinterment of the money, on his second visit, he said that he knew what was wrong, and he'd go down cellar and fix it. What he did we never knew, but were perfectly certain he did it good, for we got off for a full month with a little over $12.00 Now there is a rate of mathematical progression much cultivated by scientists and persons who wrestle with obtruse problems, that when studied and adhered to, indicates what the probable conditions will be at any given time. Dropping into such a reflective state of mind we saw that presently we should be able to burn all the gas we needed and the company would owe us money. That was a foregone conclusion.

The employe went back and made his disgusting report. Day or two later the manager turned up and brought with him the expert, the man who verified and tested meters. He belonged to Belleville. Now as a matter of efficiency, and ripe experience and out of many tribulations, I earnestly plead with the Craft that when anything goes wrong, send for the expert. Don't for the life of you put up with anything else. Don't acept something "just as good," for there isn't. His services are worth the money.

The manager and the expert adjourned down cellar and prowled about a bit and held an inquest, hitching up the pipes that work could go on while they were investigating; sending upstairs at intervals for monkey-wrenches, jimmies, pipe tongs, besides using the nefarious instruments they had brought with them. After a seance of possibly an hour or two they came up, anounced that they had laid the ghost and adjourned across the street to take something and wash off the marks of honest toil.

I have urged the value of the expert. May I do so again. That month we got off with $8.75. When the deplorable result was reported the manager decided on drastic action. He'd have no more fooling, he said. The thing had reached the limit of patience. It was preposterouh. Something was radically wrong and he'd find out when he disembowelled the meter. I protested against such radical action. Pointed out that the meter was the very first thing of its kind that had tried in a conscientious and capable way to do its duty. That it deserved a medal and public recognition as standing alone in its class. He was obdurate, scorned the suggestion and became positively rude about it. Then they brought on a spic-and-span, brand new, Made-in-Canada meter, spotless and fragrant in new paint and fittigs, pluckel out the old one, installed the new and left us to our reflections and a depressing financial future.

In national and private emergencies it is desirable to find out cause and effect, so made some private enquiry, and then the whole horrid truth came out. For seventeen years that meter had been doing duty in the largest church in the city. Consider the circumstances and surroundings. Founded as it were on the Book of Discipline, and sitting, so to speak, under the droppings of the sanctuary it had been environed by the finest posible influences, that had survived and extended to its functions in its new sphere of action, its service showed it. And may not the enquiry be interjected that if we surround our employes and our chattels with good influences, should not we expect results? And weren't we getting them? You bet we were. The foregoing may be tendered as an explanation, what about a reason?

The president and largest stockholder in the company had been a member of the church, and in the goodness of his heart and beneficence of purpose, agreed to supply gas for light at the upset price, charging the difference to his private acocunt, to assit the cause of Christianity by the difference in the price of the illuminant. Who should say him nay Welcome indeed if there should be more of his kidney, and if the preacher's salary would reflect some such munificence. So the combination on the meter, which works in a mysterious way its wonders to perform, had been set that each thousand feet of gas burned cost only one dollar. In such beneficient frame of setting the meter came into our office, and we used for the first two months at the rate indicated. When the man changed the train of gearing he propelled the thing backwards, and gave us gas at seventy-five cents per thousand, while the marvellous work of the expert brought the price down to fifty cents.

Even then our troubles were not over. A few days after the meter was installed the caretaker came in to say that it refused to acept coin. The symptom, while not wholly to be reprimanded, indicated that in some way the thing was plugged. We investigated, but could not define the trouble. Suggestions to administer an emetic were scornèd. An operation seemed to be the judicious course, so we called in the practitioner. His autopsy showed that the meter had actually refused to swallow an American quarter. These coins, it seems are a very trifle thicker than the Canadian, and that thoroughly loyal Canadian-made meter refused to absorb foreign money, so for the future we had to be careful and discriminate, for we knew that if we didn't the meter would.

KNOX CHURCH ORGANIST BEGINS DUTIES TOMORROW

Next Sunday, September 21st, Mr. F. E. Walden enters upon his duties as organist and choirmaster of Knox Church. Mr. Walden has held several important positions as organist and choir leader in the past, and is known to be successful, not only in choir work, but also as a teacher. A full attendance greeted the new leader at his first rehearsal last Thursday evening. Knox Church is to be congratulated on securing such a capable leader for the service of praise.

HER LITTLE GIRL HAD DYSENTERY

Bowels Moved as Many as 25 Times a Day.

Dysentery manifests itself with varying degrees of intensity, but in well marked cases the attack is commonly preceded by some amount of diarrhoea, which gradually increases in severity, and is accompanied with griping pains in the abdomen. The discharges from the bowels succeed each other with great frequency, and the matter passed from the bowels, which at first resemble those of ordinary diarrhoea soon change their character, becoming scanty, mucuous or slimy, and subsequently mixed with or consisting wholly of blood. Never neglect what at first appears to be a slight attack of diarrhoea or dysentery may set in.

Cure the first symptoms by the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Mrs. Jno. V. Tanton, R. R. No. 8, Watford, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was taken down, two years ago, with dysentery, and I could find no help for her until I got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. She was only two years old, and ate something different to what she was used to. She had as many as twenty-five movements a day, and mostly blood. We had the doctor several times, but no relief came until we used 'Dr. Fowler's'. I would not be without it in the house for a good bit."

Be sure and get "Dr. Fowler's" when you ask for it. Price, 35c a bottle: put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The World Of Sport

WILL PETERBOROUGH HAVE A PRO. BALL TEAM NEXT YEAR?

THE MICHIGAN-ONTARIO LEAGUE IS DROPPING AMERICAN CITIES AND TAKING ON MONTREAL AND OTTAWA---HASN'T PETERBORO' A GOOD CHANCE?

About all that remains of the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League is the parchment on which the charter is written, and while the official obsequies have not been sung thus far, there is every certainty that the circuit won't be hyphenated another season. The Mint organization during its short career of one season, if it did not produce everything desirable in baseball, has performed yoeman service in bringing out the possibilities of proffesional baseball in Canada after a three-year lay-off.

Considering the fact that it was a brand new circuit, not organized any too early in the season, the class of ball displayed might have been a great deal worse. The great majority of the clubs managed to show a profit, and those that didn't have not published details. Michigan clubs were the clinging vines of the circuit, however, and hence the general feeling among the Ontario magnates that another year's alliance with the Michigan end would be a mistake.

A Six-Club Circuit.

Shaughnessy of Hamilton, who isn't any tartner out on the feelings of club-owners and such people than he is on winning aggregations usually, in suggesting a six-club all-Canadian circuit, with the addition of Ottawa and Montreal to the present four clubs in the Mint circuit, has probably prophesied what next season's baseball situation will be. The two additions, Ottawa and Montreal, are practically certainties for prospective franchise holders. Ottawa in the old Canadian League proved itself one of the best ball towns in any of the smaller circuits, and the fact that Shag is taking up his quarters in Montreal in the future would indicate that he has every confidence that a Canadian League would have no trouble in breaking in there. The four Western Ontario cities have all made good this season and Kitchener and Brantford will both develop with a better league.

A reorganization of the International League, which seems imminent, would probably cut in on this arrangement if the Ambitious City should be induced to enter faster company, but there are several cities that could take its place and, in fact, have made initial steps for professional ball.

CLAIMS JAKE IS OUT OF HIS CLASS

Our friend Jake Solomon, manager of the Petes in the Central Ontario League, is recognized as a good manager, but before breaking in as an umpire in the Toronto League, he should have been given a tryout in the Peterboro League. — Lindsay Warder.

MICKEY WEEK TO BE HELD HERE

"Mickey Week" will be held in Peterboro just as the larger cities of the big republic to the south of us set a "Mickey" Week, so will the coming leading cities of Canada hold this celebration. We will have with us Mickey Sundaes, Mickey ties, Mickel salads, Mickey phonograph records of all makes; singers will be singing Mickey, bands will play Mickey, song shops will be selling Mickey, beautiful girls on beautiful horses will be portraying Mickey, and to cap it all, Mickey her lovely little self, will be with us. You will never, never, forget Mickey, you will love her, so you will. Mickey will appear here at the Grand soon.

Sometimes doors stick because the screws in the hinges are loose.

AT THE GRAND SOON

"BAB'S" DIARY AT THE EMPIRE

A novelty that is unique in its interest is the Paramount photoplay, "Bab's Diary," from the famous story by Mary Roberts Rinehart, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Bab, the pretty boarding school girl heroine, tells of her experiences with a family which persists in treating her as a little girl, and which she pretty thoroughly frightens by pretending to be engaged to someone they had never seen. The titles are taken from the original book, and their charm lies in the droll spelling and naive character of Bab's own script. This is probably the first time that the idea of filming a diary page by page, has been adopted. "Bab's Diary," starring Marguerite Clark, will be shown on 22nd and 23rd September at the Empire Theatre.

AMAZING FEATS BY THE GREAT BLACKSTONE

AMUSING EXPERIMENTS

The Great Blackstone, magician, extraordinary amazed and entertained a big crowd at the Grand Opera House last night with a cleverly planned and executed programme of feats of slight-of-hand and illusions that perplexed the spectators. Peterboro has seen many magicians but the clever performer now at the Grand will stand favorable comparison with any of them.

Blackstone works smoothly and skilfully, adding to the enjoyment of his performance by his witty remarks. He is at his best in card manipulation, his work in this respect being amazing. Last night's audience was completely mystified by his quickness and dexterity in the various card tricks he displayed.

Spirit rapping is included in the programme. The Land of Cogliostic is used in this particular act and the audience by rapping upon a table, questions answered by members of Some of the questions amused the audience. One man wanted to know if "Ontario was going to get the beer back?" and another, evidently a returned soldier inquired about the possibility of the $2000 gratuity being granted. The answer in the latter case was favorable. A witty youngster in the gallery was responsible for a laugh when he gravely pronounced the question: "If my shoes wear out will I be on my feet again?"

A number of surprising illusions were demonstrated by Blackstone. In one "The Bachelor's Dream," an empty cabinet is shown to the audience. The curtains are closed and when they are opened in a few seconds a completely finished bedroom is shown with a charming girl in negligee attended by her maid. A young girl from the audience was asked to accept a live rabbit. Bunny was wrapped in a newspaper to be taken home and immediately to the amazement of the little lady turned into a box of chocolates.

A handkerchief, borrowed from the audience was made to do amazing things at the command of the magician and a watch that disappeared as it was being placed in a paper cornucopia turned up inside of a cabinet tied around the neck of a white rabbit.

The closing illusion of the programme was one of the best Blackstone hypnotised a girl member of his company who is placed on a divan and covered over with a rug. Her form is apparently seen to rise and float in the air. A committee is called from the audience and two members asked to take hold of the girl and carry her to the front of the stage. They move forward to comply with the request, but there is nothing under the rug and the girl is gone. Where? Ask Blackstone! Last night's audience couldn't tell you.

The magician's performance is beautifully staged. The costumes and accesories are unusually lavish and the whole effect is pleasing.

An entertaining diversion is supplied by Miss Inez Nourse, who is skilled as "the Banjo Fiend," and who gets more out of a banjo than most performers Peterboro has heard. She played a medley of popular airs unaccompanied, gave a good interpretation of Tosti's "Good-Bye," introducing a four-part harmony and wound up with a Sousa march played with splendid vim.

Blackstone appears twice at the Grand to-day in matinee and evening performances. No one who appreciates modern feats of magic, skilfully executed can afford to miss this opportunity.

TOM MOORE PROVES RIGHT TO STARDOM IN "THIRTY A WEEK"

NEWLY POPULAR SCREEN ARTIST GIVES BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE IN HIS LATEST GOLDWYN PICTURE COMING TO GRAND THEATRE

Tom Moore's brilliant performance in "Thirty a Week" gives Goldwyn further proof that; in responding to public clamor and the requests of hundreds of theatre owners throughout the country that the popular young artist be given his rightful place among the famous group of Goldwyn stars, no mistake was made.

Immensely popular as a stage play, Thompson Buchanan's story is a triumph in its picture form. Splendid as Tom Moore was in his first Goldwyn starring vehicle, "Just for Tonight," his delightful acting in "Thirty a Week" and the play's many absorbing situations ensure it even greater success than was accorded the production which introduced Tom Moore as Goldwyn's only man star.

The smiling personality that has endeared Tom Moore to motion picture devotees everywhere and the inimitable artistry that goes with it are afforded wider scope in "Thirty a Week" than in any other picture in which the popular player has been seen. Goldwyn promises a rare treat when Tom Moore is presented in "Thirty a Week" at the Grand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"JACK CANUCK" "IN BERLIN" HERE FOR TWO DAYS

SOMETHING REALLY NEW IN THE SHOW WORLD

Mack Sennett, film comedy king, who introduced Charlie Chaplin to the public, and Sol L. Lesser of San Francisco, whose daring but profitable ventures into the film market in the past two years have made him the greatest individual distributor of special screen super-productions in America have formed a team and brought to the amusement public something extraordinary and entirely unique in shows.

The Grand theater is to have the distinction of presenting this novelty—a conjunction that promises everything from patriotic fervor and hilarious mirth, to thoughtful contemplation and gasps for revealed loveliness chastely enclosed. This resistless attack on susceptible Peterboro will be made at the Grand Theater, Thursday and Friday, October 2 and 3, and will mark the first professional appearance of these Mack Sennett Bathing Beauties outside the California studios of that astute showman and producer of "big" comedy features.

Just what the Kaiser as Mr. Wm. Hohenzollern is really like is shown in "Jack Canuck in Berlin" the latest and greatest of Sennett's screen comedies It is in five reels with all of the stars of Sennett burlesque in martial array. It is in no sense a war-film but an excruciatingly funny story fraught with sharpest satire, illuminated by clever travesty and rendered hilarious by burlesqueries such as only Mack Sennett can fix upon the fleeting vision of the screened play.

"That's the Story," Quoth Mr. Washburn

That's Why "The Way of a Man With a Maid" Was Written. See it at the Allen Theatre To-day.

Sometime ago Bryant Washburn read a splendid story in the "Saturday Evening Post," and it impressed him greatly.

"There's a story I want to do on the screen," said Bryant enthusiastically. "I can just see that character, Arthur McArney, the $21 a week clerk. I want to play him."

The result was that the Famous Players—Lasky Corporation bought the picture rights from Ida M. Evans, the author, and under the title of "The Way of a Man With a Maid" the story will be seen as Washburn's Paramount starring vehicle at the Allen Theatre to-day.

Ida M. Evans, the author, is a widely known writer who lives in Chicago. Several years ago she was engaged in the notions and millinery business in that city, and she was starting to write stories about the clerks and stenographers that she knew so well. The stories were unusual in plot and developement, but more than that, they became popular with a large number of readers.

Ida M. Evans has been compared to O. Henry in her original fresh way of handling story material. But really she has created stories that are distinctly her own and "The Way of a Man With a Maid" is one of her best.

"LITTLE WOMEN"

WRITTEN 50 YEARS AGO—IS SWEET AS EVER

Louisa M. Alcott's Famous Story Will Be Seen Here in Picture Form at the Allen Theatre To-day.

One of the most charming adaptions of well-known stories to the screen is "Little Women," the famous novel written by Louisa M. Alcott fifty years ago, which is now released as a Paramount-Artcraft special picture. It is a delightful photoplay and is shown at the Allen Theatre to-day only. The four famous "little women"—Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy—have been visualized with delightful effect and all who have read the story will find the picture excellent in every way.

The photoplay presents every prominent character of the novel and all will be instantly recognized by Miss Alcott's admirers. Sweet, gentle Jo, whose sacrifice of her wonderful hair, so that her mother might have money for the journey to Washington to see the father lying ill there, is appealingly played by Dorothy Bernard. Meg, who marries John Brooke after she has waited while he fights the battles of the Union, comes to life in the person of Isabel Lamon and Henry Hall as Brooke. Beth and Amy are played by Lillian Hall and Florence Flinn respectively.

The scenes of the story were photographed in and about the Alcott home in Concord, Mass., where "Little Women" was written, and these lend great attractiveness to the picture. The home of Ralph Waldo Emerson also is shown and in this respect, the picture is of great educational value. Harley Knoles, who directed the production, has provided a splendid cast of players to interpret the various roles, so that from this standpoint as well as all others, the photoplay doubtless will attract widespread attention.

Mr. Jay J. Allen Sailing For Europe

IN THE INTERESTS OF GOOD PICTURES

Among the passengers that sailed on the steamship "Acquitania" was Mr. Jay J. Allen, of Toronto, one of the principals of the Allen Theatre Enterprises, which controls some sixty theatres either in actual operation or under construction in Canada. Mr. Allen goes abroad to make a study of motion picture producing conditions in England and other countries, with a view to providing an even improved quality of English and other foreign makes of pictures for showing at his theaters in the Dominion.

"Almost since the beginning of our operations even on a small scale," said Mr. Allen to a New York representative just before he sailed, "we have given special attention to the showing of the very best of English productions in Canada. Many of the pictures which we first showed at our theatres in Canada afterwards scored big successes in the States. In fact, we believe that the activities of our company have been largely responsible for the interest that has been shown by exhibitors in the United States in British production.

"For some time we have maintained in London our own representative whose sole concern is to view English product and to recommend the best to us. Canadians are familiar with many big English productions that we have shown recently and we have now in our Toronto vaults and still to be shown in Canada for the first time, a number of big pictures which we have just bought. These will be a part of our big production policy for the fall and winter season.

"During my stay abroad I will get in close touch with the English producers and explain to them just what is wanted by Canadians in the way of motion pictures. I believe that the British makers of films are giving more attention than ever to the Canadian market and we want to cooperate with them so that they will be able to produce pictures that have the greatest possible interest to our people. One of the results of the Great War has been to bring our people closer together than ever with the mother country, and we believe that the time is here, when there should be the fullest possible business co-operation. The motion picture furnishes the rare opportunity of furnishing this business co-operation, together with the sentimental, as expressed in the cinema.

"I hope to be able to make some announcements on my return that will increase the already great interest in motion pictures in Canada."

One of the big British pictures referred to has recently been shown at the local Allen Theatre in "Sporting Life." Many of the patrons have asked when the Allen will show another of our mother country releases, and the manager expects to be able to make a definite announcement in the near future.

SUPERINTENDENT OF NURSING SCHOOL SAYS INTERNAL BATHING GIVES BEST RESULTS IN CONSTIPATION.

Dr. R. M. Smythe, President and Superintendent, Dominion School of Nursing, Toronto, writes: "I have much pleasure in sending you a letter recommending the J. B. L. Cascade. I shall also be pleased to do so personally or by phone. From personal experience also from my various patients who are using the J. B. L. Cascade I have no hesitation in recommending it to anyone with constipation or any trouble arising therefrom. It benefits in such cases are felt at once, in my own case as well as others that have come directly under my notice. It has certainly been the means of bringing about many wonderful cures of constipation and various other troubles. I have much pleasure in recommending the Cascade."

If you are troubled with headaches, biliousness, bad breath, rheumatism, sallow complexion or any trouble arising from imperfect elimination, we would urge you to try Internal Bathing by means of the J.B.L. Cascade. This wonderful health-giving appliance is shown and explained at The Warne Drug Company.

HARVEST OF WILD RICE IS GOOD FOR THE FIRST TIME IN FIVE YEARS INDIANS ARE CANNY ABOUT PRICE

BEDS AT RICE LAKE HAVE SHRUNK TO SMALL ACREAGE COMPARED WITH OLD DAYS—FISHING AND DUCK SHOOTING SAID TO BE AFFECTED.

A LINK WITH UNRECORDED PAST

The Indians of Hiawatha are harvesting the biggest crop of wild rice that Nature has provided for them in five years. Under the ripening sun of early September the deep green coloring of the beds in Rice Lake gradually dissolved into a soft saffron that rolled above the waves like a pale lambent flame above the blue waters, and when the wind was still, stood out like an ochre patch in an azure field. Behind the beauty of the scene was the Providence that had planted the rice there for the tribes of Indians of whom the remnant on the reserve are the direct descendants.

To the idle stranger on the nearest shore the black dots slowly moving through the yello grain in the distance, the tops of their heads tracing the course of the Indians at work, became under the spell of fancy tiny links between the ultra civilization of the present and the obscure picturesque past of the centuries before the invasion of the white man. Again they multiplied rapidly to the numbers supposedly representative of the aboriginal races that roamed the Trent watershed, when all this country was theirs and living was a simple matter of hunting and fishing, and gathering corn and rice. But absorbing thoughts that wandered at will into the unrecorded times of the redmen were rudely routed by the spirit of profiteering that has seemingly reached even to the Hiawatha men.

Naugon Alive Yet.

One morning Billy Naugon paddling through the Harwood gap in the old railroad, his daughter helping in the bow, scarcely stopped to answer a salutation as he turned eastward toward the rice bed that extended toward Idyl Wild from Tick Island.

"What's the price of rice this year, Bill?" was shouted to him, and in a guttural voice Naugon answered: "Don't know, but goin' to be pretty dear."

Billy was evidently uncertain of the latest quotation on the wild rice market, and was taking no chance of underestimating it. He was as non-committal as the shrewdest business man in these days of quickly fluctuating and generally rising prices of nearly every commodity except those Mr. O'Connor has recently mentioned.

Follow Old Methods.

The rice harvesters are not numerous now, and their methods are unchanged. They paddle slowly through the beds, two persons in a canoe, one propelling it and the other beating the grain into the boat. The drying and winnowing are processes that are performed on shore, and at the close of the harvest they used to hold a festival of their own on Sugar Island. The custom has been interrupted several times during the war and this year it was anticipated by a celebration a short time ago at the Alderville reserve. The old habits seem at times to be lapsing or passing. Rice Lake itself has undergone great changes since the old days when the rice beds were measured in perhaps hundreds of acres. For some cause or other they have shrunk to an almost negligible breadth.

What Some Persons Say.

Nature may have realized that its bounty is no longer necessary to the Indians' existence, but some of the old residents at the Lake declare that the Indians gather the rice before it has fully matured, that the seed is thus lost and reproduction diminished with progressive loss from year to year.

d-invjsxso a g 'a,Msdrh?ne'

If this be the explanation, the Indians should recognize the injury they are bringing to their own affairs. For the rice attracts the wild ducks in late September until November, and the game birds in turn attract the hunters from the city who are willing to pay the Indians to guide them. It is therefore to the interest of the Hiawatha reserve to cultivate the rice beds as much as possible, to protect them, and it would even seem advisable to discontinue the gathering of the annual harvest in order that the seed might the spread as thickly as possible.

Fishing Affected.

The Indians are well paid for guiding not only by the duck hunters, but also by the visitors who come to the lake in the summer for fishing. But the lunge are most plentiful near the rice beds, and it is obvious that more money is to be earned as guides than as harvesters. The rice has not lost its utility, simply diverted it.

A Local Caviar.

Black rice carefully cooked is something of a luxury that brings back the empty plate for a second helping. It used to be sold in some of the local stores, but most of it was exported to the United States, where it brought fancy prices. For several years it has been unobtainable in Peterboro, and the Indians when they had a supply got a nice price for it. It would perhaps sell at 25c a pound, but that is only a conjecture for, like Naugon, Indians are doubtless holding out for the top quotations. If any person is inclined to turn up his nose at the suggestion of black rice as a delicacy he has either never tasted it or never had it served as it should be, cooked in milk with currants and raisins, and otherwise enriched.

There is no doubt that the rice beds have become greatly reduced in acreage and from the opinions recorded above some one should advise the Indians that it is much to their advantage to permit the grain to go to seed in an effort to restore the beds to approximately their former extent.

A Fishing Problem.

Reverting to the lunge fishing it may be stated as a fact that from the decline of the sport this summer the stock has become considerably reduced. Persons living nearby intimate that fishing during the spawning season in May and the first of June is depleting the lake of its gamiest fish. Last spring the Examiner reported that automobiles were bringing fish from Rice Lake to Peterboro. The details could not be proved to the letter, but there is no doubt the law was flagrantly violated. Harwood men said that during that time they could not buy fish at the lake, but that they knew of one instance of a man coming to the city, buying a Rice Lake fish here and taking it home with him.

Here again it is very much in the interests of the Indians that they should demand protection of the spawning fish. They earn good money as guides, but visitors will cease coming to the lake if they pay to be rowed around al lday without making a catch or getting a strike. This matter should be of concern to Peterboro for most tourists are on fishing bent. The subject is only touched upon, and there is not much encouragement in mentioning it at all if there will be as little official notice paid to intimations such as the references to the lunge running last spring.

An Indian Arcadia

With the annuity from the Government, and Nature's provision of high priced muskrats, fish in summer and winter, and black rice the Indians fare well. Some of them work the land but most of them are happiest on the lake which has a congenial attraction for them. Young and old they are expert canoists, and they know the ways of the bass and lunge, the black ducks, whistlers, blue bills and mallards and finally the muskrat, which is becoming so rich a source of revenue that it is in danger of extermination within a few years.

INDUSTRIES ARE COMING OVER

STRIKE TALK HURTS THE STEEL INDUSTRY

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets for week ending Sept. 18, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following comment:

The talk of a strike in the United States steel industry continues to increase, and if there is no good opening found for rescinding the strike order it looks as though September 22 would marke the beginning of another labor war. The Canadian industrial world is interested, particularly in the matter of platex and tubes. There are large tonnages of plate coming across the border now, particularly for boiler and tank contracts. Plate is something that is not stocked extensively, as each job has its own specifications and sizes quite apart from standards and each is sent to the mills for rolling to size. Some of the large Canadian boiler shops have a splendid amount of work on hand, and it would be a serious matter were they not able to send their plate specifications to the mills for quick action. However, it has yet to be demonstrated that it is possible to shut off the rolling capacity by a strike. The situation in sheets, bars, shapes, etc., is better, Canadian mills having a splendid capacity for handling this material.

Machine tool dealers are finding plenty to work on in the new industrial developments that are taking place in several of the centres of Ontario just now. Several orders for new equipment have been placed by firms that are locating branches in this country.

Some idea of the size of the shops that are locating in this country can be gathered from a New York advice which states that General Motors, now building at Walkerville, will spend two and three millions for the necessary equipment.

How to Banish Wrinkles And Crow's Feet Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel—ingredients found in any drugstore. Bathe the face in this, and—presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the saxolite so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful apeparance.

AN OPEN LETTER ADDRESSED TO THE ORDINARY PEOPLE

(BY REV. JOHN GALT)

By Courtesy of the Editor of The Examiner:—

When on an occasion I found myself in the august presence of the late King Edward I confess, that although I considered myself a democrat of the democrats, I did really feel much concerned about my deportment. I felt somehow that an unusual degree of respectful behaviour was called for, but I was not altogether sure that I was successful in delivering the goods. However, I believe that on that occasion there was no harm done, for Edward, of sacred memory, did not seem at all worried either about me or my behaviour. When I make bold to address you, O Sovereign Ordinary People, I am deeply concerned, for you are the August Ruler of this country. We, the Prohibitionists and Anti-Prohibitionists, are out to get as much of our own way as possible, and it may be that we are at times tempted to think that we are the whole business, but manifestly our fate is in your hands for when both parties have said their say, and voted their vote, and fought their fight, and gone their limit they will have to stand to attention too see what you may be pleased to do with them on October the Twentieth, Nineteen Nineteen. Speaking for myself, I would be glad to walk a distance if at the end of it I could find out just what you think and just what you are going to do.

For the purposes of this article "The Ordinary People" may be defined as, all other than Prohibitionists and Anti-Prohibitionists. You are a great host and your dignity and your silence impresses me just as, it may be, our noise amuses you. In your silence you will, between now and the 20th of October, make up your mind as to what you are going to do with us, wets and drys. We (for the purpose of this article we may be defined as the Wets and Drys) can argue the case before you, but yours must be the decision, and for us there is no other court of appeal. If we are not satisfied we must simply come back to you and ask you to hear the case again. We agree about one thing, that being, that our fate is in your hands.

May I suggest to you, with the greatest possible respect, that it will matter to you, O Sovereign Ordinary People, and matter a good deal too, what you do with us. Neither of us can be quite satisfied if you confirm the O. T. A. at the coming Referendum, but both of us are likely to submit if you allow us to grumble a good deal, after the manner of our kind. If, on the other hand, you decide to repeal the Act you will be in for the proverbial peck of troubles. Neither the Wets nor the Drys want the bar back again, if they are telling the truth, and they are honorable men, but repeal will bring it back automatically, and you will have no end of trouble to know what to do with it. The Liberty League may be imagined as crying "take away that bauble" and the Ontario Referendum Committee will certainly rage like the heathen. Wets and Drys will begin the biggest agitation that you have ever suffered from, and you will be called upon to submit your grey matter to great friction, and it will be up to you to give another decision in due course.

There seems to be only one way in which you can secure for yourself a large measure of peace and quiet, in this the Premier Province of our fair Dominion, and that is by giving a dignified and definite refusal to alter the law as it now stands by putting four crosses on the "No" column of the ballot paper.

You know what to expect from us prohibitionists if you decide to repeal the O. T. A., a demand for absolute prohibition: if you are prepared to give it I judge that prohibitionists do not care very much what you do with the O. T. A.—but are you? You do not know what the Liberty League Party will demand of you nor can you guess any more than I can, or they can, so what are you going to do about that?

May I respectfully suggest that it would help some if you took a good look at the parties to the contest. Note who they are, what they have to lose or gain by your decision. Then will you think that others beside may gain or lose?

First of all there is yourself, O Sovereign Ordinary People, your own peace and comfort stand to be considered, not on merely selfish grounds but as a matter of equity, for you are more numerous than all the Schools and Parties and Factions. Things have changed a good deal since the O. T. A. afforded you some mitigation of the drink nuisance. For instance many of you ride in motor cars now and if the bar comes back, even without the hard stuff, the beer, which only a seasoned cask or one who does not know know much about it could possibly call non-intoxicating, will make bumpers necessary in front and behind and on both sides of your travelling contraption, whatever it may be. Of course if you live in the country you can take to the fields and thus give the other fellow free exercise of his personal liberty on the roads without too much risk of having to go to a funeral with a coach all to yourself and no one wanting to ride with you. From this point of view half-drunk would be more danger to you than dead drunk, for in the case of the dead drunk some one else would likely loow after the patient, while the half-drunk would likely be his own caretaker, making it necessary for you to be yours also.

That the beer of the ballot is strong enough to make any car have the wibbly-wobbles when the man driving it has a few drinks is affirmed by Drys and denied by Wets and as they are (for the purpose of this article) all honorable men, it is for you, O Sovereign Ordinary People, to decide. Be pleased to figure it out yourself and you will find that in every eighteen pints of the beer suggested in the ballot there is one pint and one third of a pint of proof spirit, stronger than the straight whiskey usually sold. You will consider this and decide whether or not it will be for your good to vote for this increase in strength.

If there is a decision that you can give that will not rob any little child of the care of its parents; that will not rob any wife of the love and protection of her husband; any family of its unity and happiness; any woman of her purity or any man of his honor, that, O Sovereign People, would be a wise decision to give. If, on the other hand, there is a decision that might do any or all of these things I judge that you would not make it, but you must do the thinking and the deciding.

Next to God I trust the Ordinary People. Your decision is awaited with confidence by Your Servant,

JOHN GALT.

THREE CORNERED CONTEST FOR EAST PETERBOROUGH

LIBERALS MAY NOMINATE CAPT JOHN DEWART

The chief subject of conversation throughout the district now is the coming election to the Provincial Legislation. The latest report is to the effect that East Peterborough Liberals are planning to hold a convention and will enter the contest. The name of Capt. John Dewart, M. C., of Indian River, is mentioned as a candidate. Capt. Dewart is of a well known Dummer family and a graduate of Norwood High school. He was awarded the military cross for conspicuous service overseas, and is at present engaged with his brothers in general farming and live stock operations in Dummer, Douro and Otonabee.

Supporters of the U.F.O. movement are most enthusiastic over the prospects of their candidate, Mr. E. N. McDonald, and speak in no uncertain terms.

Evidence of support to the present member of the Government, Mr. James Thompson, is also very strongly expressed throughout the riding.

The outlook would seem to indicate a very strenuous contest.—Register.

WHO WILL BE MARY-PICKFORD'S LEADING MAN? $2500.00 XX PRIZES! FOR THE BEST ANSWERS.

Do You Know These Five Actors' Names?

1. Plain Rachelich 2. Learn a Lass 3. Jet Black Rig 4. Sell Raw Hip 5. In for a Bad Glass Uk

CANADA'S own and beloved Mary Pickford is about to produce one of the greatest moving picture plays of her career. It is a story abounding in love and humour, pathos and happiness.

Miss Pickford's big problem now is to select a capable actor who will be suitable as her leading man in this great production. She can pick from all the greatest moving picture actors of the world, but her selection is now down to the five favorite movie actors whose pictures are shown above. One of these five will be chosen by her to play the Leading Man's role in this great new movie production.

Do you know the Names of these five Favorite Players?

The object of this contest is to recognize and name these five most prominent movie actors. After you have recognized them, and in order to help you name them correctly, we have put their right names underneath their pictures in jumbled letters. Unscramble these letters, put them into their right order and you will have their names. In case you are not familiar with the names of the most popular moving picture actors today, the names below will help you.

Names of Some of the Favorite Players

Send Your Answers Today!

This great contest is absolutely free of expense and is being conducted by the Continental Publishing Co., Limited, one of the largest and best-known publishing houses in Canada. That is your guarantee that the prizes will be awarded in absolute fairness and squareness to you and every other contestant. Frankly, it is intended to further introduce EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD, Canada's Greatest Magazine. You may enter and win any of the prizes, whether you are a subscriber to EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD or not, and, moreover, you will neither be asked nor expected to take the magazine or spend a single penny of your money to compete. Here is the idea.

EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD is so popular everywhere that it now has the vast circulation of 100,000 copies a month, but our motto is "Everywoman's World in Every Woman's Home." We want more Canadian readers to become acquainted with this famous publication. Therefore, when we acknowledge your entry to this contest, and you know your standing for the prizes, we shall send you a copy of the very latest issue and a review of many of the fine features soon to appear, without any cost to you. We shall also send, free of charge to all qualified contestants, a charming photo of Miss Mary Pickford with reproduction of her autograph in her own handwriting. Then, in order to qualify your entry to be sent on for the judging and awarding of the big prizes, you will be asked to assist us in carrying on this big introduction plan by showing your copy to just four friends or neighbours, who will appreciate this really worth-while Canadian magazine and want it to come to them every month. You will easily fulfill this simple condition in a few minutes of your spare time.

How to Send in Your Solution

Use one side of the paper only, and put your name and address (stating whether Miss, Mrs., Mr. or Master) in the upper right-hand corner. If you wish to write anything but your answers, use a separate sheet of paper.

Miss Mary Pickford, as Honorary Judge and three independent judges, having no connection whatever with this firm, will award the prizes, and the answer gaining 250 points will take first prize.

You will get 20 points for every name solved correctly, and 40 points will be given for general neatness, punctuation and spelling; 10 points for hand writing, and 100 points for fulfilling the conditions of the contest. Contestants must agree to abide by the decision of the judges. The contest will close at 6 p.m., May 31st, 1920, immediately after which the answers will be judged and prizes awarded.

DON'T DELAY! Send your answers to-day. This announcement may not appear again in this paper. Address your entry to:—

54 SALOONS IN PETERBOROUGH!

AN OLD RESIDENT REVEALS A FEW FACTS CONCERNING THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC AS IT EXISTED IN THIS CITY MANY YEARS AGO

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—With your permission I will describe the change that has taken place here during the past 50 years. Then there were 54 places in Peterboro and Ashburnham where liquor was sold and it was a common thing to see "D. D.'s" (dead drunks) laying around lanes and yards, especially after lumber camps broke up in the Spring. Our police force being Mr. Geo. Johnson he alone could not care for all, so they would lay around until they "came too" and as late as ten years ago, to show a wee boy the curse of the traffic, I offered him one cent each for clipping out of the local press items showing up all crimes, accidents, offences and arrests through drink. He soon brought me 25. He got his quarter-dollar. Not long after he came with 25 more and got another 25c. I was surprised when in a few weeks he came in saying, "Grandpa, I got 50 drunks." I paid him his 50 cents and said, "There's too many, I am through." I have these slips now. I found them in my shop three days ago and if the Liberty League wants proof I will let them see them. Now for the change under the O. T. A. Some two weeks ago I read that people were alarmed after midnight, because a "dead man" was laying at the corner of Hunter and Roger Sts., but a man happened along and found it was a case of dead drunk. He was carried home. This proves there is less drunkeness, although it suits some people to say there is more since the O. T. A. passed. I would ask all that would dread the open bar again to vote "No" four times.

Yours,
ED. COURTNEY.

Why EDDY'S Matches are Better

THERE are two big reasons why Eddy's Matches are better than others. The first is wood, and the second is machinery. Matches require soft, smooth-fibred pine. Other wood does not make a perfect product. The House of Eddy can use only perfect blocks for matches because the rest of the wood can be used for paper or indurated fibreware.

The perfect match is the machine-made match. Absolute uniformity can be obtained in no other way. But match-making machinery is expensive to install and to operate. It requires a tremendous output to make its use profitable. No small manufacturer can afford to use it. 70,000,000 matches a day enable the House of Eddy to maintain automatic machines which would be impossible with a small output.

Think of this when you buy matches. Eddy's matches represent no waste—no use of poor material—no variations from standard. In these days when the tax on matches more than doubles their cost to you, it is worth while to consider the subject a little more closely.

When you buy matches see that Eddy's name is on the box. It is your best guarantee of satisfaction.

"BUSINESS IS BUSINESS"

is a hackneyed phrase, showing the lack of true loyalty. It resounds with the echo of "Dollar for Dollar," leaving the pleasure of doing business out of the question and the perfect altruistic idea becomes a dead issue. Miss Margery Hatton, of the Military Hospital, Toronto, is spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hatton.

Misses Muriel and Dorothy Hartsborn left this morning for Toronto, where they will meet Evangelist H. L. Stephens and wife, of Lake George, New York City, and will then proceed to Hanover, where revival meetings will be held for four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. D. McQuaig, 474 Sherbrooke street, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Lottie E., to Mr. M. P. Webb, of Kingston.

A miscellaneous shower was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Bert Watt in honour of Miss Velma Murdiff's approaching marriage. About fifty of her friends attended, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Mrs. R. M. Roy of St. Thomas, is in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roy, 388 Rubidge street.

Miss Lorena Miller leaves this evening for Toronto and Hamilton for an extended visit among friends.

Mr. John F. F. Birnie has severed his connection with Mr. R. F. Hall's law office and taken a lucrative position with one of the leading law firms in Owen Sound. Mr. Birnie has already left for Owen Sound, and Mrs. Birnie will follow.

The many friends of Mrs. J. A. Plouffe have been pleased to see her visiting town for a few days from Rochester, N. Y.

WEDDING BELLS

Fee—Corneil.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, September 10th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fee, Cannington, when their only daughter, Willena M., was married to Roy K. Corneil of Peterboro, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Corneil of Omemee, Rev. Mr. Wrighte of Cannington officiating.

The bride, who was unattended, entered the drawing room, which was beautifully decorated with ferns and asters, on the arm of her father and looked charming in a gown of white satin and georgette with crystal trimming and tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and carrying a shower bouquet of white bridal roses, wearing the groom's gift, a beautiful platinum necklace set with pearls and diamonds. Mrs. C. R. Corneil, of Omemee, sister-in-law of the groom, played the wedding march. After the ceremony a very dainty luncheon was served in the dining room, which was tastefully decorated with pink and white ribbons and pink tea roses.

The happy couple left on the evening train for Muskoka Lake, the bride travelling in a suit of blue broadcloth with black seal trimmings and black hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornell on their return will reside in Peterboro.

TAYLOR—GARROW.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Garrow, 450 Downie Street, the wedding was quietly solemnized of Jessie Margaret Garrow to George Stanley Taylor, at one o'clock to-day. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Pogue. The bride, who was unattended, wore a charming gown of sand coloured charmeuse and sorsage bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left by the 3.20 to spend a honeymoon in the West, Mrs. Taylor travelling in a chic navy blue suit with small blue hat with touches of sand.

BAVARIAN COMMUNISTS EXECUTED

(United Press.)

MUNICH, Sept. 20.—Fritz Joseph Seidel and four other men who took a leading part in causing the executions of hostages during the Communist regime here last March, were sentenced to death by court-martial to-day.

Seven others who particapated in the murders were sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment.

SMARTEST MEN ARE BORN EARLY IN THE YEAR.

LONDON. — Men born between January 1 and March 31 are stronger and taller and superior in intelligence to those wose birthdays fall in other months, according to researches completed by Dr. Marcello Boldimi, one of Italy's greatest scientists.

This view is also borne out by the researches of another Italian scientist, Dr. Deela Rovere, who found that the proportion of children of inferior intelligence is lowest among those born in January and February and highest in August and September.

THEATRICAL BOOM ENDS.

LONDON.—The theatrical boom which made immense fortunes for scores of people, including several Americans, has come to an end. The end is largely attributed to the departure of Colonial and American troops who were at all times ardent patrons of the theatres. The war plays are quite dead and managers will not look at one at any price. They are seeking only sentimental plays over which women can "enjoy a good cry." Evening dress still is remarkable for its scarcity at the theatres.

A BANKER'S HOLIDAY.

LONDON.—Sir Edward Holden, chief of the British bankers, who has just died, had a curious idea of enjoyment. In his spare time at at week-ends he revelled in a strange form of hunting. It was searching for the best sites for new branches of his bank. During recent years the amalgamations he brought about gave a new turn to his hobby by marking down branches for extinction so that one bank would do the business that two had done before.

BATHING BY MOONLIGHT.

It is reported that a certain gentleman left his car on the street here one night. The car disappeared during the evening. The next morning he found his car at the same place, intact, but with a lady's bathing suit in it. Many long tongues now say that the car was taken by someone who had a moonlight excursion and who could not pass the river without a little swimming. Well, ladies, for heaven's sake, don't forget your bathing suits in future.—La Fleche Advocate.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous days's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleasing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real crank on the subject shortly.

REAL GOLF BUGS.

New York.—Golf bugs, resembling the beetle in appearance, are being used on a number of links in the East. The bugs are turned loose by the groundkeepers on the edge of the putting greens. They burrow underneath the sod without making the greens rough and kill the worms, which are the bane of the existence of golfers.

Steel Workers Went On Strike This Morning

THOUSANDS OF STEEL WORKERS OBEYED THE LEADERS OF STRIKE

UNION OFFICIALS APPEAR SATISFIED WITH THE RESULT--BOTH SIDES IN DOUBT AS TO THE NUMBER OF MEN OUT ON STRIKE.

POLICE FORCES ARE READY FOR ANY EMERGENCY THAT MAY ARISE

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The preliminary skirmish in the great industrial struggle which opened to-day between labor unions and the United States Steel Corporation, which directly or indirectly affects half a million wage earners, produced usual conflicting claims by the generals on both sides. In the great strategic centres of struggle, the Chicago and Pittsburg districts, many thousands of workers obeyed the strike order, but early reports stated that comparatively few plants had been compelled to close. Smaller plants reported they were operating as usual. Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, refused to make any comment. Secretary Foster, of the Steel Workers Union, issued a statement expressing satisfaction with the outlook and claiming that reports from outside the Pittsburg district showed that the shut down was general. An important feature of the situation was the announcement by representatives of 35,000 workers employed by the Bethlehem Steel Co., that these men would not now join the strike pending an attempt to obtain conference with the company officials.

(Canadian Press.)

PITTSBURG, Sept. 22.—The struggle between organized labor and employers in the steel industry was in full swing to-day. In the Pittsburg and nearby districts many thousands of men obeyed the orders of their leaders and failed to report when the whistles blew for day shifts to go to work. How many joined in the walkout and with what degree of effectiveness the strike was initiated, was not known definitely by either side in the contest. The early hours of the day found mill guards, borough and city police, mounted Pennsylvania State police, volunteer guards, deputy sheriffs, detectives and other guardians of the law on duty for any emergency.

Nation Wide Strike.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Numbers of workers in the plants of the United States' Steel Corporation at Gary, South Chicago, Joliette and Indiana Harbor, all in Chicago district, at midnight joined the nation-wide strike of the steel workers, call for this morning, but early to-day neither union representatives nor officials of the company were prepared to give figures.

"Agreeably Surprised."

PITTSBURG, Sept. 22.— "We got away in good shape at most of our plants in and about Pittsburg this morning," said a representative of the Carnegie Steel Co., when asked for a statement on the effect of the steel workers' strike, which went into effect to-day. "We are agreeably surprised at the showing made," was the announcement made by William Z. Foster, secretary of the National committee for organizing iron and steel workers, who is in charge of the Pittsburg district.

Draw the Fires.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. — The steel mills at South Chicago of the Illinois Steel Co. closed this morning. Only a few foremen remained in to draw the fires in the furnaces. It was estimated by Union officials that 95 per cent. of four thousand men on the day shift in the plant failed to report for work. No official figures were given out by the company. At the Illinois Steel Company plant in Milwaukee, 800 of the 1,800 day workers failed to report say Union officials.

(Canadian Press.)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 22.— According to officials of the Lake Seaman's Union here, Union sailors at this port this morning quit several steel corporation freighters at the docks, refusing to work on the boats. He would give no estimate of the number of men out.

Failed to Strike.

(Special to The Examiner.)

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22. — Detroit's eight hundred lake seamen and marine firemen remained at work today, failing to strike in sympathy with steel workers.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 22.—Several men had their heads clubbed and two arrests were made to-day in the borough of Clairton, when the Pennsylvania State Police had another brush with the crowds that refused to disperse, several shots were fired by each side.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 22.—There will be no sympathetic strikes by the United Mine Workers of America in behalf of the steel strikers, by which men working under agreement might be called out.

TWO SECEDE FROM NATIONAL COUNCIL

EAST FAILS TO LINK UP WITH THE WEST.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 22.—The Winnipeg Local Council of Women will meet next Friday to decide on steps to take to secede from the National Council, it was announced on Saturday. It is claimed here the east is out of sympathy with the western ideas of women.

CANADA'S PLACE IN EMPIRE THOUGHT

BRITAIN LOOKS FOR HELP FROM YOUNGER COMMUNITIES.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 22. —Mr. Percy Hurd, member of the British House of Commons, known as "Windermere" of the Toronto Star, a special London correspondent, in addressing the Ottawa Canadian Club on "Canada's New Place in British Thought," read a letter written to him by Lord Robert Cecil, who was so largely instrumental in formulating for Great Britain, in co-operation with the Allies, the covenant of the League of Nations.

"A strong House of Commons committee at Ottawa," Lord Cecil wrote, "representing all political sections, as does our committee at Westminster, could not fail to be most helpful in furthering a case which is no less Canada's than our own. The necessity not only for the League itself, but even more for the League spirit in International affairs, becomes daily more apparent. Without it, it is difficult to see how civilization as we know it, can survive. The danger is imminent and calls for the help of all men of good will to avert it. Especially do we look for help from these younger communities whose outlook on International questions is not governed by outworn tradition."

FRANK COCHRANE DIED THIS MORNING

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 22. — Hon. Frank Cochrane, former Minister of Railways and Canals died here at 3.50 o'clock this morning.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.— Hon. Frank Cochrane, M.P. for Temiskaming, died at 8.30 o'clock this morning, after a lingering illness. The flag on the Parliament Buildings is half-masted owing to the death of the former Cabinet Minister. Although a man of quiet habits, who rarely spoke in Parliament, Mr. Cochrane was exceedingly popular with members of Parliament, and their regret because of his death is sincere. In 1917 Mr. Cochrane's health was not of the best and when Sir Robert Borden was forming the Union Government, he placed his resignation in the hands of the Prime Minister in order to make way for a Liberal Unionist. Sir Robert however, anxious to retain his ripe judgment and advice, insisted on his remaining in the Cabinet without portfolio.

Since then, however, his health failed rapidly and those who were most intimate with him say that the early death of his favourite son, who had served overseas, hastened his end. Since his retirement from the Cabinet, Mr. Cochrane has been chairman of the Government Railway Board.

The late Mr. Cochrane was born at Clarenceville, Que., in 1863. He is survived by Mrs. Cochrane. Before coming to Ottawa Mr. Cochrane was prominently identified with Ontario politics, and was a member of the government of the late Sir James Whitney.

OPENING GAME WORLD'S SERIES

(Canadian Press.)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Cincinnati won toss for the opening game of the world's series at the meeting of the National Baseball Commission here to-day. The first 2 games will be played in Cincinnati, the next three in the American League city, then two in Cincinnati if necessary, followed by one in the American League city. The place for the ninth game, if necessary, is to be decided by lot. The first game is scheduled for Wednesday, October 1st.

Balloonist Gave Lindsay Fair Crowd a Thrill When His Gas Bag Burst, Dropping Him 150 Feet

C. C. Bonnette, the balloonist who made daily ascensions at the Peterboro Exhibition, narrowly escaped death at the Lindsay Fair on Saturday afternoon, when he fell 150 feet. In full view of a crowd estimated at 20,000, he had cast off from his moorings and was rapidly mounting into the sky when suddenly the big canvas bag ripped up one side. Immediately the gas began to escape, the balloon's ascent was checked, and in a few moments it began to fall, tangled up with the parachute, and the luckless but daring Bonnette. The thrilling episode held the entire crowd in the grip of intense excitement as the big spread of canvas gathered into a bundle and dropped heavily into a corn field a short distance from the grounds.

Mr. Bonnette was severely shaken up but within two hours he had almost entirely recovered from the effects of his fall. He was given prompt medical attention when hundreds of spectators rushed to help him and were greatly relieved to find that he had come through his latest experience without serious injury. At six o'clock he was able to take supper at his hotel and later in the evening left Lindsay presumably for his next engagement.

RUMOURS WERE GRAVE.

The first reports that reached Peterboro gave Mr. Bonnette little chance for recovery. He was supposed to have sustained a broken back and other fatal hurts, but the Examiner was assured this morning that the gratuitous though unfortunate spectacle had been attended by no serious damage except to the balloon, which was said to be in a bad way with a big rent in its side that would require a lot of sewing to repair it.

AN EVENTFUL WEEK.

If last week's occurrences are ordinary circumstances to Mr. Bonnette he will have few competitors. The best stunts of the screen are tame compared with his performance, including a midnight landing in a swamp a short distance from Peterboro, a guarded retreat from a mad bull, and the long tramp back to the city. Then for variety he provided the Lindsay crowd with the only thrill of a lifetime—falling helplessly before he could loosen his parachute, in broad daylight, and sending the crowds home with the belief that by night Monsieur Bonnette would be soaring through the ethereal regions to the realms of bliss where the swish of wings is supposed to make a great subdued sound and balloons and such devices are altogether unnecessary.

LIGHTNING SETS FIRE TO A BARN

SEASON'S CROP AND STOCK DESTROYED--LOSS HEAVY.

(Special to The Examiner.)

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 22. — During the electric storm Sunday morning the barn of Donald Galbraith, near Ridgeville, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed. The fire burned so quickly that nothing could be got out and all the stock and season's crop was burned. The loss is between five and ten thousand. Insurance unknown.

EXTENDING ZONE OF OCCUPATION

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 22. — Troops under Gabriele D'Annunzio, insurgent Italian commander at Fiume, have begun extending their zone of occupation into Juga Slav territory, according to the Jugo-Slav delegation in Paris. They penetrated seven miles into Jugo-Slavia on Thursday, occupying the heights at Risniak, dominating the surrounding country. The Jugo-Slavia forces did not clash with D'Annunzio's forces executing this movement, the delegation stated.

WELLAND SHIP CANAL STRIKE IS STILL ON

(Special to The Examiner.)

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 22.—The Welland ship canal strike is still on, though it was expected it would be settled by this morning. Organizer Boyd went to the Industrial Congress in Hamilton this morning which looks as if negotiators are off for the present. Strikers held a mass meeting last night and decided to stick out for an eight hour day and 44 hour week.

STRIKE LEADERS ARE RELEASED

ONE WILL BE DEPORTED IMMEDIATELY--COMMISSION ABOLISHED

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 22nd.—Of five foreign strike leaders arrested several weeks ago on deportation charges, three are now entirely free. These are M. Varenzzyl, Solomon Pearl Almagoff and Charitonoff. Sam Achaplere will be deported immediately. Instructions were received on Saturday by Commissioner Gelley to have him sent to the United States.

Abolition of the Immigration Commission, of which R. M. Noble, Provincial Magistrate, was chairman, and which ordered the deportation of several aliens, will be the aim of the campaign to be launched by Radical Labor according to a statement by Thomas Law, Secretary of the Defense League on Sunday.

ADMIRAL KOLCHAK HAS RESIGNED

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian government at Omsk, has informed the Allies that he resigns the title of chief ruler to General Denekine, leader of the anti-Bolshevik forces in Southern Russia, according to a wireless despatch sent out by the Soviet government at Moscow. The message admits the Bolsheviki have abandoned Kursk, after severe fighting against General Denekine's troops.

DOMINION TRADES AND LABOUR CONGRESS OPENS IN HAMILTON

OVER EIGHT HUNDRED DELEGATES PRESENT—"ONE BIG UNION" HANDLED WITHOUT GLOVES—THE ABUSE OF THE STRIKE WEAPON.

(Special to The Examiner.)

HAMILTON, Sept. 22nd.—The Dominion Trades and Labor Congress opened here to-day at the Connaught Hotel, with a list of nearly eight hundred accredited delegates, or almost double the former record of 432 of Quebec convention. Prominent among the delegates is George Armstrong of Winnipeg, of the general strike fame, who is now out on bail pending the conclusion of his trial on a charge of seditious conspiracy. Accompanying this delegate is his wife, Mrs. Helen Armstrong, whose activities on behalf of her husband and his fellow prisoners recently brought her to Toronto.

Fred Bancroft of Toronto has been selected as Chairman of the Resolutions Commission, which has already been in session one full day. The Commission sat all day Sunday at the Connaught Hotel, the Congress Headquarters, to prepare the resolutions for the Convention. To date there are 85 resolutions and a number of others are expected.

Prominent Delegates.

Most of the delegates who attended the National Industrial Conference, which sat at Ottawa all last week, came directly here over the week end, among the more prominent ones from various points throughout the Dominion are: President Tom Moore and Secretary Paddie Draper of Ottawa; J. C. Watters, Former President of the Congress, Nova Scotia; John Munro, President Toronto Trades and Labor Council; I. T. Gunn, James Simpson, John W. Bruce, J. H. Kennedy, A. E. O'Leary, T. Izzard, James Ralph, H. Lewis, R. C. Brown, John Cottam, Toronto; R. A. Rigg, W. J. Winett, W. E. Robinson and George Armstrong, Winnipeg; C. J. McVeity, W. W. Wilkinson and W. R. Trotter, Vancouver; Gus Francis, J. H. Foster and J. McClelland, Montreal; Archie McLennan and John A. Gillies, Sydney, N. S.; John Gorman, Cobalt; A. Farmilo, Edmonton and many others.

To-day's Proceedings.

To-day's proceedings include addresses by Premier Sir William Hearst and Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, who formally opened the Congress.

It is confidently expected on all sides that the findings of the National Industrial Conference will form one of the main items of the discussion and will be torn to shreds.

Bitter criticism is levelled particularly against the findings of the Conference on the eight-hour day and collective bargaining issues.

One of the most contentious questions that will come up during the Congress will be the attitude of the International Labor movement towards the One Big Union. The United Mine Workers of America, who at one time seceded from the International, later to come back to the fold, are expected to form the centre of the Western Radicals which will include in its ranks a number of the Winnipeg delegates.

Armstrong is being boomed as an opposition to Tom Moore for the presidency of the Congress but even the westerners most ardent supporters fear that even should he secure the nomination, Armstrong will not contest the office.

"One Big Union."

(Special to The Examiner.)

Hamilton, Sept. 22.—The Executive Council of the Trades and Labor Congress, in its report to the Hamilton Convention, handle the "One Big Union" without gloves and firmly condemns it. Under the heading "Misuse of the Strike Weapon Causes Workers to Lose in the End" President Tom Moore, Vice-Presidents Arthur Martel, Robert Baxter, and Secretary P. M. Draper say that labor leaders have repeatedly warned against the economic danger of too frequent and wide abuse of the strike weapon and stated that it was inimical to production and the interests of the nation and would ultimately rebound on themselves.

"They have, not, however, been sufficiently warned of the danger they run of spoiling their final and best weapon of defense by its too great use and by attempts to force by its means decisions that such a weapon ought never to be used to obtain," the officers say.

"The strikes that are proposed today by some of the wilder spirits are very different things from the legitimate trade union strike, the cutting off of the supply of labor until the price goes up. They are intended for political purposes, to force the country, by the cutting off of supplies, to agree to political policies which the country does not want and will only accept under compulsion."

President's Report.

(Special to The Examiner.)

HAMILTON, Sept. 22.—President T. Moore in his report to the Annual Convention of the Trades Congress here, deals fully with the Winnipeg Strike and the action of the Congress officials in the matter. It is likely that this report will be the storm center of a hot discussion at the Convention. The President stated that, until the evening after the arrest of Russel, Ivens, Armstrong and others, no communication was received by the Congress relative to the western strike situation. Mr. Moore also refers to the conference of himself with the Premier regarding the legislation in reference to the Winnipeg Strike situation and receiving the assurance that it would not be used in connection with that. Conferences were proceeding when the Winnipeg arrests took place. So far as these were concerned, the Congress would co-operate.

Concluding, a letter to Mr. Robinson, Secretary of the Winnipeg Trade and Labor Council, President Moore summarized the conditions in which assistance would be given, chief of which were repudiation of the "One Big Union" and the renewal of the Winnipeg Council's allegiance with the Trade and Labor Council and its principles. "Repudiation of self-constituted authority turns organized effort into mob rule, and I know you will thoroughly understand our position in demanding the acceptance of the above principles as a basis for future assistance. The first necessary step being to restore confidence with the passing of these resolutions.

(Canadian Press.)

HAMILTON, Sept. 22.— Welcomed by Sir William Hearst, Premier of Ontario, Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labour, and Mayor G. C. Booker, of Hamilton, nearly 800 delegates, representing practically every organized craft in the Dominion, commenced the inaugural session of the thirty-fifth annual Trades and Labour Congress of Canada this morning. All the delegates agreed that this session will be the most important in the history of Canadian organized labour. Matters of vital importance to working men throughout the Dominion are on the programme, and discussions are expected to be protracted. Likely the most important matters on the order paper are an eight hour day, minimum wages and the policy of the Congress on the 'One Big Union.' Questions under consideration at the Industrial Conference will again be taken up by labour delegates. It is expected 60 women delegates will attend the sessions. Ben Tillett, M.P., is attending on behalf of the British Trades Union Congress.

Mayor Booker, in his address of welcome, called attention to great questions delegates would be called upon to consider, urging them to do their utmost to allay the spirit of unrest prevailing at the present time. During the course of his remarks, the Mayor referred to Samuel Gompers, and mention of the President of the American Federation of Labour, evoked cries of "No" from a few members. The storm of applause drowned the cries of those who protested, however.

Paying tribute to the part played by organized labour during the war, Sir William said that he was confident Canadians would develop a country which would be worthy of the blood shed by the manhood of the Dominion.

Nations Disagree Over Use of River

DUTCH AMBASSADOR AT BRUSSELS IS REPORTED TO BE WITHDRAWN--ROW OVER THE SCHELDT.

LONDON, Sept. 22.— An official wireless despatch from Berlin dated Saturday says that the Belgian ambassador at The Hague having been withdrawn, the Dutch Ambassador at Brussels also has been withdrawn.

Several times recently there have been reports that diplomatic relations between Belgium and Holland were badly strained as a result of the demands of Belgium for a revision of the treaty of 1839 between Belgium and Holland, under which Holland annexed the southern bank of the Scheldt River and an elongated strip of Dutch Limburg, lying between Belgium and Germany.

Belgium bases her demands upon the necessity of securing a stronger military frontier and freeing the trade of Antwerp, her great port, from the restrictions now placed upon it by Dutch possession of the lower portion of the Scheldt, and asked for political control of the southern bank of the river and certain guarantees deemed necessary to safeguard Belgium's economic interests in South Limburg.

In return for these concessions the Belgians suggested that Holland receive compensation in the form of certain bits of German territory inhabited by a Dutch-speaking population.

The allies were believed to be favourably inclined toward the principle of the free navigation of the Scheldt, but Holland is understood to have been irrevocably opposed to any renunciation of sovereignty in this connection.

A Commission of the Peace Conference, at last accounts, was considering the situation.

ICE FAMINE IN PETERBORO

MILD WINTER RESPONSIBLE—FEW REMAINING BLOCKS DISTRIBUTED

An ice famine is upon us. There is hardly a cake of ice in the city and the Allan Ice Company have distributed their few remaining blocks among the butchers and other merchants keeping perishable goods. The dearth of ice is due to the indifferent winter. There was very little frost last winter and ice men predicted a famine this year, but it has been kept off until now by careful husbanding on the part of the icemen. Peterboro is the first city to report "no ice" but there will likely be more before the winter sets in again.

Local merchants are now keeping their refrigerators cool with artificial ice made at the Peterborough Milk Products Ltd., and quite a run was made on the supply there this morning.

GROWING BLIND—

Many people are actually growing blid from mere neglect of the eyes. Eye defects, if taken in time, can be corrected, but when abused result in lasting harm. If you are one of those "growing blind" the use of proper glasses will come as a great relief. Why not have us examine your eyes? No charge for examination. Appointments made. Consult W. H. Lacy, Optical Specialist, 410 George Street.

LOCAL MARKETS

The most sensational thing in to-day's market report is the drop of 50c a hundredweight in the price of live hogs. The probings of the Commerce Board caused pork to drop 15c a lb. in Winnipeg to-day, and live pork here will almost without a doubt drop from $17 a hundredweight as it is quoted to-day, to $15 per cwt.

It is quite a topic on the streets, but the average citizen is kept wondering whether the drop in prices will hurt the farmer or the pork packers.

Barley is still $1.25 per bushel but has a tendency to raise; honey is higher and eggs are now firmly fixed at 60c a dozen. Last week's price of 53c advanced to 55c, and then to 60c, and now the local grocers do not expect to see any retrograde movement in the prices of dairy products.

Hides and wool show no changes for the last three weeks. Wheat prices cannot change as they are fixed by the government.

HOLIDAY HOMES FOR DOGS.

London.—The proposal to set up homes in London to which dog owners in the city could take their animals when going on holiday excursions has been rejected. The muzzling order, brought about by the prevalence of rabies, prevents Londoners from taking dogs into certain parts of the country.

A REPRESENTATIVE GATHERING AT THE WARSAW SCHOOL FAIR

THE LIST OF PRIZE-WINNERS—PROCEEDS WILL GO TOWARDS A SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL—VARIETY OF EVENTS.

WARSAW, Sept. 20.—The annual rural school fair of the township of Dummer, held here yesterday, was most successful in every particular. The different sections, viz., home gardens, poultry, nature collections, domestic science and manual training, and the contests, viz., public speaking, tug of war, singing and driving were well represented by competitors, showing the increased interest that is being taken in the event.

The attendance of several hundred parents and friends of the pupils indicated that in many cases not only the pupils but the heads of families are taking this movement of the Ontario Department of Agriculture very much in earnest.

A Concert.

A concert was given by the pupils in the evening, to which there was a full attendance. The proceeds will go towards a soldiers' memorial.

Supper was served by the ladies of the Women's Institute.

The Misses Sandy McIntosh, teachers of Nos. 3 and 5 schools supplemented the financial proceeds of the day with a refreshmest booth on the grounds.

Mr. F. C. McRae, district representative, Norwood, managed the event for the department in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. D. B. Cutcliffe, manager of the Union Bank, represented the Canadian Bankers' Association in their special competition.

THE TRUE SUCCESS.

Not he who stands on fame's far height,
Nor he, who power does possess
By force of arms or dint of might,
Has won the true success.

Not that which glitters in the sun,
Not that which strongly tempts and lures,
Is the most precious to be won,
But that which e'er endures.

Who lives to serve his Lord and King,
Whose deepest joy and highest aim
Is precious souls to him to bring,
And glorify God's name.

Who walking not his way apart,
But on the road where many press,
Meets life with strong, courageous heart,
And scatters happiness.

Who, matters not his name or race,
Or work or station, toils to bless,
And make this world a better place,
Has won the true success.

$5,000.00 CHALLENGE

THE CANADA PERMANENT TRUST COMPANY, TORONTO STREET, TORONTO, ONT.

No. 402 Toronto, September 16th, 1919.

Receipt is hereby acknowledged from the ONTARIO BREWERS' ASSOCIATION of the sum of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS deposited with us under a Challenge agreement made this day to the ONTARIO REFERENDUM COMMITTEE to prove that Beer containing 2.51% alcohol by weight is intoxicating.

A. E. Kemp
Manager, Ontario Branch.

TO THE REFERENDUM COMMITTEE

The Ontario Brewers' Association can no longer disregard the attempts of the Ontario Referendum Committee to mislead the people of this Province in the forthcoming Referendum.

In its campaign literature the Referendum Committee has corrupted the statutory ballot as set out below, and its advertising positively asserts that the light beer to be voted on is intoxicating.

The Referendum Committee is either misinformed or is deliberately misguiding the people for a purpose.

The purpose is to make the voters believe that they are voting for or against intoxicating beer.

Examine carefully the two ballots reproduced below.

GOVERNMENT STATUTORY BALLOT PAPER	REFERENDUM COMMITTEE'S DISTORTION
Question 2. ARE you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government Agencies and amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?	2. ARE you in favor of the SALE OF INTOXICATING BEER in Government Agencies?
Question 3. ARE you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in Standard Hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favor such sale and amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?	3. ARE you in favor of the SALE OF INTOXICATING BEER in Standard Hotels?
Question 4. ARE you in favor of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government Agencies and amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?	4. ARE you in favor of the sale of all kinds of spirituous and malt liquor in Government agencies?

The Government Ballot clearly shows that the public is only to vote for or against the sale of beer containing not more than 2.51 per cent. alcohol by weight.

Beer Containing 2.51 per cent. Alcohol by Weight is Non-intoxicating

To establish that the 2.51 per cent. beer to be voted on is not intoxicating, the Ontario Brewers' Association have deposited $5,000 with the Canada Permanent Trust Company, and they hereby challenge the Ontario Referendum Committee to deposit an equal amount with the same Trust Company to prove that beer containing 2.51 per cent. alcohol by weight is intoxicating, or admit that their literature is deceiving the electorate.

Upon the investigation, the losers are to forfeit their deposit to a charity or charities to be named by the investigating Board. The investigation is to take place before a nominee of the Ontario Referendum Committee, a nominee of the Ontario Brewers' Association, and the third nominee to be named by the two persons so chosen — and if they fail to agree, to be named by the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario.

This Challenge to be answered immediately by the Ontario Referendum Committee.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1919.

MR. BURNHAM'S RESOLUTION.

Our local contemporary in publishing Mr. Burnham's proposed resolution in regard to what he calls "the struggle for existence," remarks that "if Mr. Burnham can get his resolution through Parliament and the Government define some scientific plan for application to the struggle for existence, the path toward that national utopia so many hoped for as a result of the war, will have been considerably broadened and straightened out." Very fine, but unless the member for West Peterborough pays more attention to this particular motion than he has in the past, it has little chance for success. As a matter of fact, according to press despatches, Mr. Burnham was absent from his seat in the House the other day when his resolution was on the order paper, and when the time came there was no one to sponsor the motion. Still it is a resolution with a very impressive sound and if serving no other purpose, will stand Mr. Burnham in good stead in his next round of campaign oratory.

A REMARKABLE CONTRAST.

"Be sure and vote "yes" to Question No. 1 for that will be your guarantee that proper consideration will be given to your vote in Questions 2, 3 and 4. "So reads the latest advertisement of the Citizens' Liberty League whose press agent seems to be getting further away from the facts as the date of the referendum draws near. When the League states that it is necessary for those who may favour one or other of the methods of handling liquor or beer mentioned in the last three questions of the referendum to vote yes on the first question, it is making a statement that it must know is exactly the opposite of that made by Sir William Hearst in announcing the referendum. It must know that the Premier stated clearly and in words that could leave no possible doubt as to their meaning that if the first question was answered in the affirmative the other three would not be considered at all, "for the greater would include the less." Here are his words; contrast them with the statement from the Liberty League advertisement and draw your conclusion:

"Thus if the first question is answered in the affirmative the Ontario Temperance Act will be repealed, and the old License Law as it existed prior to 1916 will be revived. In that event there would be no necessity for further consideration of the answers to the other questions, for the greater would includ the less and liquor would be sold in bars and shops as in years gone by."

A SPLIT INEVITABLE.

A split in the ranks of the returned soldiers over the gratuity question seems to be inevitable. The new organization announced in Toronto on Saturday will atttract to it many of the more radical members of the G. W. V. A., and a large percentage of the returned men who have not as yet allied themselves with any of the existing soldiers' clubs. It is not difficult to secure recruits for any organization or society, the principle object of which is to endeavour to secure $2000 for each of its members, and so it is to be expected that the membership will be large. At the same time, the G.W.V.A. has so conducted itself in connection with the present agitation, and in all its dealings on behalf of the returned men, and the dependents of those who will never return, that a large exodus from its ranks would be a surprising development. The leaders of the new movement have endeavoured to convince the rank and file of the G. W. V. A. that the heads of the latter organization have betrayed them. Those who have followed the growth of the G.W.V.A. and have been able to appreciate just what the Association has accomplished are not likely to put any confidence in such charges, but there is the danger that the more thoughtless among the returned soldiers will be deceived.

The breach in the ranks of Canada's ex-service men will be regretted by all their friends. Divided they cannot hope to carry out what would be easy with a united front. And under the present conditions division seems certain.

COULD THEY AGREE?

A speaker at the Independent Labour meeting the other night made the statement that if the farmers, labour men and returned soldiers united their forces they could elect any man to Parliament they desired. There is no doubt as to the truth of that remark. Electing candidates, however, would be the easy end of the political work of such an organization. The real trouble would come when an effort was made to form a common policy. The labour men, for instance, are hot foot after the government to reduce the cost of food. And when Mr. O'Connor forbids an advance in the price of milk do you find the farmers throwing up their hats and cheering in wild delight? Not much; the farmer representatives in the House are, on the other hand, clamouring for the discharge of the Board of Commerce. There is little chance, therefore, for farmer and labour man to get together on this all important question of the cost of food. And the returned soldier with his $2000 gratuity claim, what about him? You can't imagine the farmers going into ecstacies over a question that would mean a vast addition to the national debt. All down the line there is a striking divergency of policy among the three interests mentioned as possible political partners, differences so great that a lasting union would seem to be utterly impossible. And pooling the voting strength of the three to elect men who would never be able to agree upon a policy would seem neither wise nor necessary.

QUESTIONS FOR DEBATING SOCIETIES

With the falling of the leaves, the village or town or city debating society enters upon its season's work, says the Mail and Empire. What pleasant memories many gray-haired men have of the evenings of long ago, when as youths they met to debate with their companions. In those days there were no moving picture shows at every other street corner, no commercialized sports, no continuous public dancing, and other similar amusements to attract the youth. The young people had to make their own entertainment largely, and the air was hardened to arguments on whether "anticipation is greater than "realization," whether "education has "done more for the human race than "religion," whether "the pen is "mightier than the sword," etc., etc.

If those youthful debating societies of long ago served so good a purpose, what can be said now of opportunities to their present-day successors? How the world has widened, in interest, in action, in problems? What a gigantic expansion of news every day! We are—if newspaper despatches are read—kept tolerably familiar with events and great problems in far-away parts of the world. High school students are asked to write papers on Irish Nationalism for examination purposes, and on other rather complex and distant controversies. The war and its tremendous backwash of new economic, social and political conditions throughout the larger part of the world, has stirred the soul of mankind to new depths. Everyone is talking of some phase of our industrial and social system. The rights of Labour, the control of capital, the regulation of trusts, the prevention of strikes, the apportionment of taxation, partnership by Labour in the profits of industrial production — all these, and a hundred more, call for prolonged discussion and clear understanding. The debating societies and public-speaking clubs of city and town have no longer need to take up abstract propositions, but can choose from a wealth of present questions now agitating the world. Notwithstanding the lure of time-frittering amusements, there has never been a stronger call for serious service on the part of mutual-improvements societies.

The debating societies or public-speaking clubs have a valuable work to perform in cultivating in young Canada habits of thought on public questions, realization of the need of full information and fair judgment, and breadth of view.

OFFERING $80 PER TON FOR CANADIAN GRAPES

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 22.—An American fruit buyer is in the district offering $80 a ton for grapes. It is understood that he wants 200 carlads if he can get them. It is interesting to compare this price with the price of grapes before the war, when they sold freely at from $22 to $25 a ton. Labour, however, costs jus tdouble what it did in those days, and the price of baskets which used to run about $30 a thousand, is now $60.

Those Umpires.

The clubs did not make any stupendous sales to the majors, but during the season the Mint League was not overlooked by the major scouts. Some of the ball playing they were forced to witness, but not to pay for, should last them through the winter, but it is likely that the ball players responsible for causing this pain will in their winter reflections decide to go to work at something else next spring. The umpiring of the deceased circuit will perhaps be the longest memory and most painful, and caused much remorse amnog the fans during the season, who thought of some of the old arbit unjust, harsh things they had said about their work in the past.

Prospects for an all-Canadian circuit never looked so bright taken altogether, and all that is needed to insure success is better organization work.

"Put another shovel in that stove, Joe. Whaddya mean that guy could play ball. Say, if I was running a team I'd pay him to stay away from the park."

ICE-CREAM SUBSTITUTE.

A little boy and his father went for a walk one summer's day, and as they passed an ice-cream vendor, the boy turned beseechingly to his father and said, "I wish you'd buy me some ice-cream, father; I feel so warm."

His father gazed at him in surprised displeasure, and then answered: "No, no, Ikey; no, no; but I will do this. I will tell you some ghost stories that will make your blood run cold."—Wapella Post.

BEWARE OF TENDER, INFLAMED GUMS

Pyorrhea, with a premature loss of teeth, is almost inevitable if you do not properly care for your gums. Here is the explanation:

As you age, the body tissues naturally relax. You see this tissue loosening in the neck. It goes on in your gums, too. As you grow older, your gums shrink below the normal gum line. Through lack of care they become spongy and inflamed. Then you have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. And many under forty, also.

Don't let a tender gum spot develop. These tender spots breed disease germs which enter the system through tiny openings—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments. Immediately get Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. Forhan's tones the gums and hardens them. They in turn keep the teeth healthy. Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans them scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes. All Druggists.

WHIMSICAL THOUGHTS KEEP BARBARA AWAKE

CHAPTER LXXII.

It was with such thoughts that I waited for Neil. My confidence fully restored—so I thought; my heart filled with love. It was long after midnight when he came in.

"I thought you would never come, dear. I so wanted to explain things to you and I have scarcely seen you since you came home," I said after kissing him.

"You will oblige me very much if you will postpone your explanation, or forget it altogether. I am very tired and in no mood for talk."

Of course I said no more. I felt sure something had happened to upset Neil; something unpleasant. Had it been at Blanche Orton's? The thought was upsetting to say the least. I wished it were morning and Mr. Frederick would come. I perhaps then would get at the cause of Neil's abrupt repulse; his refusal to talk.

I was restless and unbidden thoughts, many of them unwelcome filled my mind. I recalled the time I found the imprint of Blanche Orton's check on the blotter in Neil's office. Ever as long ago as that she had been mixed up in his affairs in some way. I seemed to be having a streak of bad luck almost. I had been so happy, then came Lorraine with the tale of Mr. Powers going to her father, and the other things I had heard. Neil was still angry with me, would not listen when I tried to tell him I had not meant anything wrong when I went to his office. Yes, was unlucky just now.

Then with the abruptness with which we turn from one thing to another in the night when lying awake, I recalled seeing a long ladder I had seen a few days previous raised against a building. It was one of the double sort, stretched wide apart for safety. I watched the people as they approached it, recalling the old superstition anent passing under a ladder. Most of those who came along went way out into the street to avoid doing so, but occasionally I noticed someone would deliberately pass under the ladder. Finally quite an elderly woman came along laden with parcels, and she deliberately shifted her load so that she could pass under the ladder. I spoke to her. "Why did you go under the ladder? It is bad luck isn't it?"

"No, Miss. It brings you good luck. Although some folks think the other way."
